1 Pleas before the Honorable W. H. Munger, United States district judge for the district of Nebraska, sitting in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and before the Honorable O. P. Shiras, United States district judge for the southern district of Iowa, assigned to and sitting in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, for the eighth judicial circuit, at the May, 1902, term thereof.

2 Be it remembered, that on the 19th day of April, 1901, amended complaint was filed in said case, which said amended complaint is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JOHN M. SLOAN, ARTEMESIA FROST, and Thomas L. Sloan, Complainants, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Charles P. Mathewson, Megratahe Grant, John Grant, and Charles Grant, Defendants.	No. 174, "T. "Amended Bill of Complaint.

Comes now the complainants and show to the honorable court as follows:

That your orators are the heirs at law of Margaret Sloan, deceased, the original complainant herein, who during her lifetime was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians in the State of Nebraska. That said Margaret Sloan was the daughter of Michael Barada or Michael Berda as he was sometimes designated, a white man and Taegleha Hacienda, an Indian woman of the full blood and a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians. That said Margaret Sloan and her parents maintained their domicile with said Omaha tribe and were fully recognized as members of said tribe by the United States of America and the members of said tribe and was admitted to and participated in the benefits as other members of said tribe.

Further complaining your orators say that on the 16th day of March, A. D. 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between 3 the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof they received their present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including Margaret Sloan and her children. All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large, vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orators refer.

And your orators further show that on the 6th day of March, A. D. 1865 another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large vol. 14 page 667 to which for greater certainty your orators beg to refer.

And further showing your orators say that on the 7th day of August A. D. 1882 an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, and to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section. That all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their 4 minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child.
All of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large, vol. 22, page 341 to which for greater certainty your orators refer.

Your orators further show that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act in December 1884 and at subsequent times since. That said Margaret Sloan made selection of land prior to the passage of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882 and was occupying and farming the N. ½ of N. E. ¼ of section 20, township 24 N. range 8 east of the sixth P. M. in Nebraska, and the S. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼ and the S. E. ¼ of the N. W. ¼ of section 35, township 25 N. range 7 east of the 6th P. M., in Nebraska. That such selection was made as the head of a family and amounted to one hundred and sixty acres that the land at the time of its selection was raw, unbroken, unimproved and unclaimed land. That there was no prior claimant, and all improvements of every character consisting of breaking the land, building houses, barns, fencing, sheds, digging well, have all been done by the labor or cost of said Margaret Sloan. That said improvements have cost more than fifteen hundred dollars. That said lands have not at any time been occupied, improved nor farmed by any person claiming adversely to said Margaret Sloan.

Your orators further state that said Margaret Sloan was a member of the Omaha tribe by blood and descent by recognition as such by both the tribal and governmental authorities, and according to the customs, rules and regulations of the Omaha tribe of 5 Indians. That such relationship and membership was never terminated. That application for the allotment of said land has been refused Margaret Sloan by the Department of the Interior.

That said Margaret Sloan was a resident upon a part of the land at the time of the passage of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 and that said land had been selected by her at the direction of the Indian agent and the councilmen of the tribe. That she was further recognized as a member of the tribe by the payment to her of annuity money, by the use of saw mill, grist mill, shops erected and maintained for the exclusive use and benefit of members of the tribe.

Your orators further say that on the 3rd day of March, A. D. 1893 an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th 1882 providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council further allotment should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd, 1893 but increased allotments were provided from the residue land after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899 and immediately thereafter assignments for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the 6 claimants. That the S. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼ of section 35 was assigned to Poncasa Grant and the S. E. ¼ of N. W. ¼ of section 35 assigned to Megratahe Grant. That trust patents therefor naming the United States as trustee have issued in the names of the parties dated April 11th, 1900. That said Poncasa Grant received an allotment under the act of August 7th 1882 and the present allotment is additional. That said Poncasa Grant died about the year 1895 without issue, and unmarried and her sole heir was her father Frank Grant. That said Frank Grant died May 1900 allottee of 160 acres under the act of 1882 and the heirs to his estate are Megra-ta-he Grant, John Grant and Charles Grant, the last named being a minor. That because of the rights or title acquired by these parties to the land in controversy since the filing of this cause they have become necessary parties.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land and to place in possession the allottee or lessee, and that he threatens to place into possession either the allottees hereinbefore named or their lessees to the great and irreparable damage of the complainants who are now in possession. That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson his claim of authority over the land in controversy and his threats that he will remove your orators from the land make him a necessary party to this suit.

And your orators further show to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was pro-
7 vided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute, or defend any action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305 which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your orator- begs to refer.

Your orators further state that the defendant The United States of America claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th 1865, it was provided that the assignment be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them," and the defendant claims that your 8 orators and their ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your orators admit that they and their ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claim that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation nor the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor their rights to allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th, 1871, contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule referred to; that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent, the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secre-

9 tary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation, but who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since resided away from the reservation.

Your orators further state that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th. 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your orators further state that the defendant The United States claims that the complainants or their ancestors have received allotments of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian office neither the complainants nor Margaret Sloan their ancestors are entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your orators admit that their ancestors received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians that the quantity so assigned was one half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by her nor given to her in consideration of the relinquishment of any other right than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

That numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money, which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United 10 States of all of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66 of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your orators have not in any manner assigned or relinquished their right or claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized these complainants or their ancestors, or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant or any member of this tribe has been accepted or approv*al* by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your orators show to your honors that they are without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honor in this court of equity and they therefore pray the aid of the court in the premises and that said defendants, The United States of America, Megratahe Grant, John Grant and Charles Grant, minor by his next friend Megratahe Grant may answer your orators' bill but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That it be ordered and decreed that the patents issued to Pancasa Grant and Megratahe Grant are null and void and that the selection as made by Margaret Sloan is prior and superior 11 to their claim and is her allotment, and that she and her heirs are entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your orators further pray for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants Charles P. Mathewson. Megratahe Grant, John Grant and Charles Grant enjoining and restraining each of them, their agents and employees from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein described and that at the termination of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orators the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court directed to the United States of America, Megratahe Grant, John Grant and Charles Grant, minor by his next friend Megratahe Grant, therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

THOMAS L. SLOAN,
Solicitor for Complainants.

Endorsed: Filed Apr. 19, 1901, Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

12 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 2nd day of July, 1901, answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to-wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JOHN M. SLOAN, ARTEMESIA FROST, and Thomas L. Sloan, Complainants, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathewson, Megratahe Grant, John Grant, and Charles Grant, Defendants.	No. 174 "T." Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of the United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson, Megratahe Grant, John Grant, and Charles Grant, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of John M. Sloan, Artemesia Frost, and Thomas L. Sloan, complainants.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer, say:

1. These defendants deny that Margaret Sloan, the maternal ancestress of the complainants was a member of the Omaha
13 tribe of Indians, in the State of Nebraska, and further aver that Margaret Sloan's original name was Margaret Barada a supposed daughter of Michael Barada or Michael Berda, who had intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, but these defendants are not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leave the complainants to their proof in that regard. But these defendants do aver that Michael Barada the supposed father of Margaret was a free born white man of French nationality, and a citizen of the United States, and that Margaret Barada took the status of her father and thereby became and was a citizen of the United States and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; and the defendants deny that Margaret Sloan and her parents or either of them ever maintained a domicile with the Omaha tribe of Indians, or were recognized as members of said tribe, either by the said tribe of Omaha Indians or by the United States of America, and deny that they were admitted to or were participants in the benefits of said Omaha tribe of Indians.

2. The said Margaret Barada, the maternal ancestress of the complainants was born in 1811, and lived in the city of St. Louis with her parents until the year 1854. Her father Michael Barada being a Frenchman spoke the French language, and Margaret learned to speak both French and English, but neither of them ever spoke the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

3. On July 15, 1830, a certain treaty was concluded between the United States and certain Indian tribes, including the Omahas (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328) the purpose and object of which was to provide for their mixed blood claimants and to remove said claimants from the tribe, and by the (10) article of which 14 treaty certain lands were set apart for said half breeds, and by which the President of the United States was authorized to assign portions of said lands to said half-breeds to be held by him or them in fee simple, and that subsequently by an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) sec. (5) p. (4) the President was authorized and required to cause the said lands referred to in article (10) of the treaty of 1830 to be surveyed and allotted to the persons entitled to the same in fee simple, in such manner and under such rules and regulations as he might prescribe; that in the meantime Margaret Barada being a half-blood Indian woman intermarried in the city of St. Louis where she still continued to live with Thomas Sloan who was a free born white man of Irish nationality and a citizen of the United States and that said Margaret Sloan and her husband in the year 1857, learning of the allotments of land to be made under the act of 1854 pursuant to article (10) of the treaty of 1830, supra, went upon the said land so reserved under the treaty of 1830, supra, and commonly known as the Nemaha reservation, and claimed an allotment of land; that under the provisions of article (10) of the said treaty of 1830 and the act of Congress of 1854, supra, an allotment was made to Margaret Sloan, and on the 10th day of September, 1860, there was issued to Margaret Sloan patent No. 128 for the south half of section (10) township (3), north range (16) that by the acceptance of the allotment of land and the patent therefor, the birthright claim of Margaret Sloan to any further allotment of land became extinguished, and that it then was and ever since has been a rule of the Department of the Interior that when half-breeds accepted of an allotment of and patent for lands under the provisions of said treaty of 1830 that such persons thereby extin-
15 guished their claims to further allotments of lands, and thereby extinguished their claims to any further allotment or other benefits of the Omaha tribe of Indians. Such has been and is the policy and law of the United States in its government and control of the Indian tribes, and that by reason of the premises Margaret Sloan was not entitled to have or to make a selection of lands or to claim an allotment of lands out of the present Omaha Indian reservation and was not entitled to claim, select or to have allotted to her the lands in the present amended bill of complaint described, and the present complainants are not entitled to make claim thereof as her descendants or heirs at law.

4. That in the year 1857 or '8 and after Margaret Sloan had received the allotment and patent for lands on the Nemaha reservation, the said Margaret Sloan and her husband Thomas Sloan went to the Omaha reservation where the said Thomas Sloan was temporarily employed by the Government to take charge of a mill then and there being constructed, but when the said Government employment terminated the said Thomas Sloan and Margaret Sloan returned to St. Louis and continued to reside there from about the year 1858 to 1879, either in the city of St. Louis or on the lands patented to the said Margaret on the Nemaha reservation.

5. These defendants in addition to the reasons heretofore stated why Margaret Sloan was not entitled to a selection and allotment of lands upon the Omaha reservation, to-wit: that she was not an Omaha Indian but took the status of her father, and that she had not been adopted into the Omaha Indian tribe as a member thereof, and whatever claim, if any she had as of mixed blood, became and was extinguished by the allotment and patent of her lands on 16 the Nemaha reservation, aver and say that Margaret Sloan was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865 or the approval of the act of Congress of 1882; that by the terms of article (4) of the treaty of 1865 (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, page 667) the assignment of lands in severalty to the half or mixed blood relatives are expressly limited to the half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded Margaret Sloan as she was at most but a half blood and was not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5 of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, page 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5 of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said Margaret Sloan was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865 or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved:

That pursuant to article (4) of the treaty of 1865 the Omaha tribe of Indian- co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled 17 to allotments and selections, and which said schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of Margaret Sloan or her descendants, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither Margaret Sloan nor any of her descendants were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

6. These defendants further deny that the Omaha tribe of Indians recognized Margaret Sloan or her descendants as members of the tribe and den*ies* that she was recognized as a member of the tribe by the payment of annuity money or in any other matter or manner whatsoever, and to the contrary the defendants aver that the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States has at all times denied her membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and den*ies* her right to share in the benefits of the tribe; and denied her right to the selection and allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

These defendants further answering say: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters were complainants, and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontanelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, said Margaret Sloan made claim that she was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and made claim that she had received annuity money.

18 It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit, should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court "that the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedents or descendants of said parties so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court and binding upon the parties thereto, including these complainants.

7. These defendants further answering say: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, page 341) the said Margaret Sloan and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands and that the said Margaret Sloan and her descendants did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allot-19 ting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation and that Alice C. Fletcher as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of Margaret Sloan and her descendants to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that Margaret Sloan and her descendants were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians and were not entitled to allottment of lands upon the said reservation, and on April 28, 1884, reported the facts thereon to the Interior Department, and said department under date of May 9, 1884, ruled and determined that Margaret Sloan and her descendants were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allottments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

The defendants further aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Margaret Sloan and her descendants and other descendants of her father Michael Barada, to wit: William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof the Omaha tribe of Indians caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Margaret Sloan from the said reservation, and afterward on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the 20 Interior directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claim under similar state of facts, including the said Margaret Sloan from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865 from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6th, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The 4th article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty.) That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll — 1871. submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of
reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under the treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

9. These defendants further aver that the said Margaret Sloan and the other descendants of her father Michael Barada, in-22 cluding Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including Margaret Sloan to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon the failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters, to leave the said reservation and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force, and under date of October 17, 1890, the United States Indian agent made the following report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs regarding Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan that he did, "on the 14th day of October, 1890 give written notice to Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan to leave the Omaha reservation, under instructions of office order of August 27, 1890.

I would further say in explanation that the Omaha Indians in council on 7th day of October, discussed this matter with the Sloans and it was almost the unanimous opinion and wish that they be removed from the reservation the same as Peters and others. I am unable to find where the Sloans have any more right than the others mentioned, and take them to be of 'like class' as mentioned in yours of the 27th of August."

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington,
23 the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent to furnish military aid to remove from the land of said reservation, said Frank Peters, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included Margaret Sloan as she was of that class.

These defendants further aver that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

10. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of

Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontanelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being
24 members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January, 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein and which said judgment and decree dismissed the complainants' bill and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remain in full force and effect.

11. These defendants further aver that afterward the said Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan endeavored to have themselves adopted into the Omaha tribe of Indians and to have themselves recognized by the Interior Department as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to that end submitted to the department certain petitions purporting to be signed by certain members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that under date of September 6, 1894, the department ruled that the said Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan should not be admitted to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and accordingly so ordered, and in which order and opinion the department held as follows:

"Aside from the general proposition that the question of adopting the Sloans as members of the tribe is one in a measure separate and distinct from their alleged rights as Omaha Indians by blood,
25 and that such alleged right is not necessarily a test for such adoption, there remains the right to admission by the free will and consent of the tribe, if fairly and properly obtained.

Upon their faces, the several petitions presented with your letter seem to be in proper form and to express the desire of a majority of the members of the tribe that the persons in question shall be placed upon the rolls of the tribe, and be admitted to all the rights and privileges of other members thereof.

Besides the opposing petition hereinbefore referred to, the department is in receipt of recent information which shows that of the one hundred and fifty seven persons whose names appear on the six petitions presented with your letter, only seventy now favor the claimants; that eleven others have since assented to their adoption, making eighty-one in all now favorable; that twenty-four of the signatures thereon were not written by the parties whose names are given, nor was the use of their names authorized by them, that fifteen names were signed twice, and that the said petitions bear the names of nine boys and three women—neither of whom have any voice in such matters; that one of the nine members of the council purporting to have signed one of the petitions did not sign nor authorize the use of his name, and, further, that there are about one hundred and eighteen male members of the tribe of lawful age, who oppose the adoption of the Sloans.

Without expressing any opinion of the merits of the petitions in question, the facts presented seem to clearly establish the belief that it is the desire and wish of a majority of the members of the tribe that the Sloans be not admitted to membership and it is so ordered.

26 In reference to that part of your report wherein you state that Thomas L. Sloan has held and improved a tract of land since 1881 or 1882, on the Omaha reservation, it would seem that he is doing so in defiance of any legal authority of occupation."

That after the above order and ruling of the department, the counsel for Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan applied to the department for reconsideration of the adoption case, and the department under date of November 17, 1896, re-affirmed this ruling and among other things therein said:

"It is not denied, nor has it ever been, that the Sloans, mother and son, are of part Omaha Indian blood. The tribe recognized them as such and made provision for them, with others, by the treaty of 1830, and in the opinion of the department, and the Omahas themselves, their claim- as such mixed bloods were extinguished by the lands given them under the terms of the tenth article of the treaty named.

* * * * * * *

The claims of Margaret and her son William E. were extinguished prior to the birth of Thomas L. It is nowhere alleged or claimed that the latter is the offspring of a mother of Indian blood, much more of one of Omaha blood. The presumption is, therefore, that his mother was a white woman.

The claims of Margaret and Thomas L. are based upon their birthright as Omaha Indians and upon their alleged adoption in recent years by the tribe.

The birthright claim of Margaret has been extinguished. Thomas L. never had such a claim. Neither of them have any claim by adoption, never having been regularly, fairly or 27 properly adopted by the tribe, as was shown by department letter of September 6, 1894.

Notwithstanding that Mr. Breckenridge has advised the department by letter dated the 30th ultimo, of his withdrawal as attorney for the claimants, I have caused this review of the case to be made, and adhere to the opinion expressed in department letter of September 6, 1894, that the persons named have no valid, legal claims to membership with the Omaha tribe of Indians."

And defendants aver that the above ruling of the Department of the Interior established the fact that Margaret Sloan and her descendants the plaintiffs herein, then were not and had not theretofore been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and the defendants aver that the said Margaret Sloan and her descendants, the plaintiffs herein, are not and never have been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants further aver that the preference right to select lands for allotment under the act of Congress, August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) is confined by section (5) of said act to persons who had received or were entitled to receive an assignment and certificate of an allotment under the 4th article of the treaty with the Omahas concluding March 6, 1865, and Margaret Sloan had not received and was not entitled to receive an assignment and certificate for lands under said treaty, and by reason whereof, the said Margaret Sloan did not have and could not acquire any such interest in the lands described in the amended petition as would descend to her heirs, to-wit, the present complainants.

These defendants further aver that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, does not contemplate the making of allotments to 28 heirs, or the issue of patents to heirs for lands claimed to have been selected by their ancestors, neither can such allotment be made to or patent issued to the deceased Margaret Sloan; that under the act of 1882, as well as under the act amendatory thereof (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 630) allotments of lands cannot be made to deceased persons but only to living persons, and that the present complainants can only claim allotment to land in their own right, and each of the present complainants have separate suits pending in which they claim for themselves separately the right to an allotment of lands distinct from and separate from the land described in the present amended bill of complaint.

13. These defendants for further answer say, that Margaret Sloan was not head of a family during any of the time she claims to have lived on the reservation, and hence was not entitled to claim by way of allotment, the 160 acres of land described in the amended bill of complaint, but her right to allotment, if any she had, would be limited under the law to 80 acres of land, and on this point the defendants further aver that the complainant, Thomas L. Sloan is a grandson of Margaret Sloan and is a married man, living in the town of Pender, State of Nebraska, and off from the Omaha reservation, and is not and was not at the time of the filing of the original bill herein, in any manner dependent on the said Margaret Sloan for support.

That the complainant John M. Sloan during said time was not living with, nor in any manner dependent on Margaret Sloan for support and did not and does not live on the Omaha reservation; that the other complainant Artemesia Frost is a married woman and has been for some thirty years past, and is not and was not 29 during said period of time living with or in any manner dependent upon Margaret Sloan for support, and that the said Margaret Sloan did not have during said period of time any other children or other person dependent on her for support.

14. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan did not select for allotment, and did not make any improvements upon any of the lands described in the amended bill of complaint, but to the contrary aver that the pretended selection was made by Thomas L. Sloan, complainant, and whatever improvements were put upon any of said lands were so caused to be put thereon by the said Thomas L. Sloan in his own interest and behalf, with the hope and expectation that he might acquire an allotment thereof in the name of Margaret Sloan, but for his own use and benefit, while at the same time, he the said Thomas L. Sloan was claiming a right to an allotment of other and distinct lands in his own name as more particularly appears in the suit of Thomas L. Sloan (doc. T. No. 176) to which reference is hereby and herein made in support of this averment, and these defendants deny that said improvements were of the value of $1,500.

15. These defendants further aver that the lands upon which the improvements were so made by the said Thomas L. Sloan were and are as follows: the N. half of the N. E. quarter of section 20, township 24, north range 8 E., and which said land was reserved by the U. S. allotting agent, and so reserved by the Interior Department, pending this litigation, for the use of Margaret Sloan and her descendants in the event this court should decree and determine that Margaret Sloan or the complainants herein, were and are entitled to receive an allotment of land in behalf of the said Margaret Sloan, but these defendants further aver that the said Margaret 30 Sloan never occupied the said lands in her own right and was not entitled to select the said lands in her own right, and was not and is not entitled to an allotment of the same.

16. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan never lived upon or occupied the following lands in the amended petition described, to-wit: the S. W. quarter of N. E. quarter, and the S. E. quarter of the N. W. quarter of section (35) township (25) north range (7) E. and these defendants further aver that the lands in this paragraph of the answer described, were claimed and selected in 1893, by Frank Grant for his wife and daughter as follows, to-wit: the S. W. quarter of the N. E. quarter of section (35) township (25) north range (7) for daughter Poncasa Grant, and the S. E. quarter of the N. W. quarter of section (35) township (25) north range (7) for his wife, Me-gra-tah-e Grant, and that they had been in possession of the lands since the year 1893, and furnished evidence to the U. S. allotting agent that they were entitled to select and have allotted to them respectively, the said lands, and upon which said proofs the U. S. allotting agent thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, that the said Grants were entitled to have the said lands allotted to them respectively, and which said allotments to the said Grants was approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and subsequently approved by the Secretary of the Interior, and patents therefore were issued to the said Poncasa Grant and Me-gra-tah-e Grant respectively.

And these defendants further aver that the complainants herein did not have any prior or vested right to the land so patented to the said Grants, and that the said allotments to the said Grants and the said patents to the said Grants, were made in all respects in conformity to law.

31 17. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defendants, and these defendants deny that the said complainants are entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded. And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

W. S. SUMMERS,
United States Attorney.

The foregoing selections and allotments are approved, as recommended by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

J. THOMPSON, Secretary.

43 DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE INDIAN AFFAIRS, August 14th, 1860.

Satisfactory testimony having been presented to this office by late Special Commissioners Mott and Crawford, showing that the statements of the chiefs "Smutty Bear" and "The Man who was Struck by the Ree," which induced the suspension of 22 of the cases above specified, were incorrect, and being satisfied from the evidence in regard to the two remaining cases of William E. Sloan and the heirs of Pelagie Ritter, pertaining to a contest respecting a tract of land at the mouth of the Little Nemahaw river, that William E. Sloan is entitled to the land in controversy, I therefore respectfully recommend that the suspensions of the foregoing 24 cases, as particularly specified in the above certificate dated the 14th of March, 1860, may be withdrawn or set aside, and that the locations of land in these cases, reported by late Special Agent Starke may be approved with a view to the emanation of patents in favor of the respective parties.

A. B. GREENWOOD,
Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, August 17th, 1860.

The foregoing suspensions as described in the certificate dated the 14th of March, 1860, are hereby withdrawn and set aside, and the locations to which they refer are approved as recommended by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Under the act entitled "An act making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian Department. * * * &c., &c., approved March 3rd, 1863, (Stat. at Large, vol. 12, p. 792). the sum of $19621.27 was set apart to satisfy the claims of half breeds to proceeds of lands in the Nemaha reserve, under the provisions of the act approved Feb. 28, 1859 (Stat. at Large, vol. 11, p. 401).

It appears from an examination of the vouchers on file in the office of the 2nd auditor at this date, that Superintendent E. B. Taylor paid 72 persons as marked paid in blue ink in this book with date of payment	72	persons.

56 OMAHA AGENCY, NEB., 7th Mo., 18th, 1871.

RESPECTED FRIEND: Herewith I send receipts of the Omaha Indians for the delivery of certificates of title for their several allotments of land on the Omaha Indian reservation.

The chiefs in council have acknowledged the right of certain individuals belonging to the tribe, who are not living on their reservation, to receive their respective allotments of land in severalty, provided they will remove to the reservation and reside permanently amongst them; but object to the delivery of the title papers to such parties until their removal as aforesaid. This may account for the non-delivery to the respective allottees, of a number of the certificates forwarded for distribution by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs under date Mar. 17th, 1871.

Very respectfully,

E. PAINTER,

92 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 21st day of August, 1902, stipulation of facts was filed in said case, which said stipulation is in words and figures following, to-wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JOHN M. SLOAN, ARTEMESIA FROST, Thomas L. Sloan, Complainants,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Charles P. Mathewson, Megratahe Grant, John Grant, and Charles Grant, Defendants.

Doc. "T," No. 174. Stipulation of Facts.

In the above entitled case the parties do hereby stipulate to the following facts, and matters to be true for the purpose of this suit.

First. That Michael Barada was a free born full blood white man, of French descent, and married Tuningletha or Taeglaha Hacienda, a full blood Omaha Indian woman.

Second. That there was born to said Michael Barada and his said wife, a daughter named Margaret Barada, and two named Mary Jane Paul, née Barada, and Popain, mother of John Pilcher, and a son named Antoine Barada. That said Margaret intermarried with Thomas Sloan, as hereinafter mentioned and from whom descended the Sloan and Frost families hereinafter mentioned. That from Antoine Barada descended the Barada and the Peters, Sailor, Mitchell and Kuhn families hereafter mentioned.

Third. That said Margaret was born about 1805 and was educated in the city of St. Louis and could speak the French and English languages.

93 That she continued to live in the city of St. Louis from the year 1811, until her marriage in 1830 and thereafter as appears in subsequent paragraphs of this stipulation until about the year 1855.

Fourth. That said Margaret Barada married Thomas Sloan a free born full blood white man and a citizen of the United States, and of Irish descent, and which said marriage took place in the city of St. Louis about the year 1830 and where both parties at the time resided.

Fifth. That Thomas Sloan and his wife Margaret Sloan continued to maintain their domicile in the city of St. Louis until 1855, but Margaret Sloan had made a visit to Omaha agency, Bellevue, 1854. In 1855 Thomas Sloan became employed as an engineer on a Missouri River steamboat and Margaret Sloan came to Bellevue, Nebraska, the then Omaha agency, and remained about one and a half years, and in 1857 went with her husband and children, hereinafter named, to the Nemaha reservation. That after the selection of land for allotment by Margaret Sloan on the Nemaha reservation, hereinafter more particularly referred to, the said husband, Thomas Sloan was employed by the Government to superintend the construction of a mill on the Omaha Indian reservation, and he and his family removed there and built a home and remained there during 1858 and 1859, when Thomas Sloan with his family returned to the Nemaha reservation and the family resided there or in that vicinity until 1881.

Sixth. That while Thomas Sloan and family continued to reside on the Nemaha reservation, his wife Margaret Sloan under date of Sept. 10, 1860, received a patent No. 128 for 320 acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, said patent being 94 issued under sec. 5 (4) of act of Congress of July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Stats. 332) to carry into effect article 10 of treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Stats. 328).

Seventh. That there was born to the said Thomas Sloan and his wife Margaret two sons William E. Sloan and John M. Sloan, and one daughter Artemesia Frost née Sloan. All born in St. Louis where their parents resided, the dates of their birth being about as follows: William E. Sloan, 1832, John M. Sloan, 1840, Artemesia Sloan 1848.

Eighth. That said William E. Sloan married Catherine Korf a full blood white woman, which marriage took place in the city of St. Louis in the year 1861 where both parties then resided.

Ninth. That to said William E. Sloan and his wife Catherine there was born a son Thomas L. Sloan, who with John M. Sloan and Artemesia Frost make claim as heirs of Margaret Sloan, and who also have separate suits pending in their own separate and individual rights for allotments of land. To-wit: No. 176 "T," No. 462 doc. "T" and No. 579 doc. "T."

Tenth. That William E. Sloan received an allotment No. 274 on the so called Nemaha reservation for land aggregating about 320 acres and received a patent therefor under the act of July 31, 1854, sec. 5, (4) (10 U. S. Stats. 332) and article 10 of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7 U. S. Stats. 328–330).

Eleventh. That John M. Sloan and Artemsia Frost née Sloan, also each received an allotment and patent for 320 acres of land each on the so called Nemaha reservation under said act and treaty, mentioned in the preceding paragraph of this stipulation.

Twelfth. That Margaret Sloan and family continued to reside from 1860 to 1881 on the land allotted to her on the Nemaha reservation and in Nemaha City, Nebraska, and Margaret Sloan 95 moved to the Omaha Indian reservation about the year 1881. That Thomas Sloan, the husband, did not come to the Omaha reservation. He had been in ill health, went East for treatment, and died in Aspen, Colorado, 1893, at the home of John M. Sloan.

Thirteenth. That Thomas L. Sloan was born in the city of St. Louis in 1863, where his parents then resided, and Thomas L. Sloan continued to reside in St. Louis until 1873, when he removed to the Nemaha reservation. His father William E. Sloan died in 1865, and his mother continued to reside in St. Louis and still lives there at the date of the signing of this stipulation. That Thomas L. Sloan, when he went to the Nemaha reservation, lived with his grandmother, Margaret Sloan, until 1877, when Thomas L. Sloan went away from home, visiting various places including Oregon and Washington on the Pacific coast, and a trip to England, Holland and Belgium in Europe, and returned to Nemaha reservation in 1880 and then again met his grandmother, Margaret Sloan, who was then a cook in a hotel at Nemaha City, in Nemaha county, Nebraska, near the Nemaha reservation.

Fourteenth. That Thomas L. Sloan came to the Omaha reservation in April 1881, and took up his residence with Mary Jane Paul, a sister of Margaret Sloan, who then lived on Omaha creek in section 3, T. 25, R. 8. Mary Jane Paul removed to the Indian Territory in 1890 and is now dead. She had married into the Osage tribe, and went to Indian Territory to live with said tribe.

Fifteenth. Margaret Sloan came to the Omaha reservation in July 1881, and Thomas L. Sloan thereafter had his home with Margaret Sloan until 1891, the N. E. ¼ of sec. 20, T. 24, N. R. 8 E. That in 1891 Thomas L. Sloan went to the town of Pender where he has since lived, engaged in the practice of law, except a period of 96 four years when he lived at and was employed as clerk at Omaha and Winnebago agency and is married to a full blood white woman.

Sixteenth. That Thomas L. Sloan primarily made or caused to be made the improvements, such as they are, on said N. E. ¼ of sec. 20, T. 24, R. 8 in the name of Margaret Sloan. That part the time since 1891 Margaret Sloan (until her death in 1898) lived on said land and part of the time lived with her daughter Artemesia Frost, and with John Pilcher, a nephew and with Thomas L. Sloan in the town of Pender.

Seventeenth. John M. Sloan, a son of Margaret Sloan, and her husband, Thomas Sloan, was born in St. Louis in year 1840, and lived in St. Louis, with his parents until 1855, when they moved to Bellevue, Nebraska, and remained there with the family, until 1857, and with the family in 1858 and 1859, while his father had charge of the mill on the Omaha reservation, and then went with the family to the Nemaha reservation, and remained there some 20 years to about 1880, when he removed to Colorado where he has since resided, and his home is at the town of Aspen State of Colorado. He is an engineer by trade and married to a full blood white woman. He never had a residence on the Omaha reservation. His wife came to Pender in 1893 on a visit to Thomas L. Sloan and she and Thomas L. Sloan agreed upon the N. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of sec. 35, T. 25, R. 7, and the N. E. of N. E. and N. E. of S. W. of sec. 34, T. 25, R. 7, as the land which should be claimed for allotment in the name of John M. Sloan.

Eighteenth. That Artemesia Frost née Sloan was born in St. Louis about 1848, and continued to live with her parents Thomas Sloan and Margaret in St. Louis, and at Bellevue and on Nemaha reservation as did John M. Sloan, as set out in preceding paragraph, until 1870, when she married Leonard L. Frost, who was 97 a white man having not more than ¼ Indian blood, but that not being blood of the Omaha Indian tribe. That she and her husband continued to live on the land patented to her on the Nemaha reservation, as set out in paragraph eleventh preceding, until 1874 when she and her family removed to the Omaha reservation, and in 1875 drew annuity money for herself and children and remained about 2 years, and went back to Nemaha reservation and remained about one year and then removed to town of Highland, State of Kansas where they educated their children. They remained in Kansas until 1893 when Artemesia with her children came to Omaha reservation and her husband came in 1894.

Nineteenth. That there was born to Leonard L. Frost and his wife Artemesia the following children, Philemon H. Frost, Sarah F. McCreary, née Frost, Charles Frost, and Leonard Frost, who have suits pending in their personal and individual names, and also two minor children Mary and Frank Frost.

That the dates of the birth of the children is as follows: Philemon H. Frost, 18—, Sarah A. McCreary, née Frost, 18—, Charles Frost, 18—, Mary Frost, 18—, Frank Frost, 18—.

Twentieth. That the Frost family did not make claim to any particular lands for allotment until 1893, when Artemesia Frost made claim for herself and her said children of the lands in their respective petitions described, except in this that Artemesia Frost claims that when she was on the reservation in 1874 and 1875 set out in eighteenth paragraph of this stipulation, she settled upon, broke and improved certain land, but which she abandoned and which was afterward patented to Benjamin Hallowell. Her husband was then and is at this date still living, and the family all living together at this date, including the said children excepting 98 Sarah F. McCreary who is living with her husband and Charles Frost who has lately married, and further excepting in this that the children continued to be educated in Highland, Kansas, and the father maintained a home there during the winter for the use of the children.

Twenty-first. Sarah F. McCreary née Frost married Finley McCreary, a full blood white man, a citizen of United States in the year 1893 at Highland, Kansas, where her husband resided and they continued to reside in Kansas until 1893 when they removed to the Omaha reservation where they still reside. Have no children. That Charles Frost married a full blood white woman in the year 1899 and lives on the reservation. He attended the agency school about 1895 and Indian school at Hampton, Va., 1896.

Twenty-second. That no one of either the Sloan, Barada or Frost families mentioned in this stipulation received or had an assignment or certificate of assignment under article 4, of the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 U. S. Stat. 667). That a schedule of selections of land in severalty in accordance with said fourth article showing the names of those entitled to assignments of lands and their respective tracts, was duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe and certified and submitted by the Omaha Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871. That none of the names of the respective Sloan, Barada or Frost families in this stipulation mentioned appear on said schedule. See stipulation doc. "T." No. 267 on this same point.

Twenty-third. That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas
99 L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, were complainants and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "that the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Wippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors, or any of the immediate antecedents or descendants of said parties so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court. And none of the names of any of the parties plaintiffs in the pending suits appear on said annuity pay rolls. That Margaret Sloan and Antoine Barada and Mitchell Barada received certain annuity payments for themselves and children, between the years 1855 and 1865 as appears in a certified record on file. And Artemesia Frost received a like annuity payment in 1875 as appears by said record. That Antoine Barada and Mu-shu-numpa-shi is one and the same
100 person. That Agent Spencer paid annuity to Margaret and Thomas Sloan in 1891 and that an issue of annuity goods was made to Margaret Sloan in 1885, as per receipt to agent, a copy of which may be filed as explanatory of this annuity. It is agreed that plaintiffs never received any other annuity than above recited appearing of record, but that plaintiffs may introduce evidence of payment of other annuities if they are so advised.

Twenty-fourth. That in 1883 Margaret Sloan made parol application to Alice C. Fletcher, U. S. allotting agent, for allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher as U. S. allotting agent, decided that Margaret Sloan and her descendants were not entitled to allotments under the act of 1882, and under date of April 28, 1884 made her official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs adversely to the right of Margaret Sloan and her descendants, to have allotment of land of the Omaha Indian reservation and which report was approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs under date of May 9, 1884. Said report and order of approval are as follows:

OMAHA AND WINNEBAGO AGENCY, April 28, 1884.

Hon. H. Price, Com'r of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I would respectfully submit the following decision in the case of Mrs. Margaret Sloan for approval.

Margaret Sloan is the daughter of a full blood Omaha woman and Michael Barada, a white man. She was born at Fort Calhoun Nebraska, and taken early in life to St. Louis, Mo., to be 101 educated, where she married Thomas Sloan a white man and afterward lived in St. Louis, Mo., and upon her allotment of land given her as a half breed Omaha in the Nemaha reservation. During her youth and early married life she made a few visits to her relatives living with the Omaha tribe. In 1857, Thomas Sloan was appointed to take charge of the mill then being built on the Omaha reservation and removed thither with his wife Margaret and their three children, William 19 years, John 11 years and Artemesia (now Mrs. Frost) 4 years of age. Mr. Sloan remained at the mill in the Government employ for two or three years. This period constitutes the only residence of Mrs. Sloan upon the Omaha reservation up to 1881, when she returned here with her grandson Thomas Sloan, the only child of her deceased son William who entered upon land and has made considerable improvements on his claim.

Mrs. Sloan claims a right to an allotment under the act of August 7, 1882, as she states that her husband, Thomas Sloan went into the army after he left the mill on the Omaha reservation and was in the army in the year 1865 and that as he entered the army from this place his residence was the Omaha reservation and her constructive residence was that of her husband's.

Her claims have been fully investigated in an open council of the tribe and I have waited two months for further evidence promised by Mrs. Sloan tending to establish her husband's entrance into the army from the reservation but feel it now to be my duty to no longer delay action in her case.

According to evidence given by the Indians, Thomas Sloan and his family left the reserve in 1860, and according to all I can learn, his point of departure into the army can have no bearing on her case. By her own statement and the testimony of other persons, Mrs. Sloan was not living with the Omahas at the time of the 102 treaty, of 1865, but upon her land on the Nemaha reserve, nor do the tribe in any way admit her claim to land here.

Therefore in view of all the evidence I have been able to gather, I am constrained to decide that neither Mrs. Margaret Sloan nor her descendants are legally entitled to allotments of land upon the Omaha reservation under the act of August 7, 1882.

I enclose the sworn statement of Thomas Sloan as to his whereabouts in 1865 which is the only written evidence furnished me by Mrs. Sloan.

Very respectfully,

A. C. FLETCHER,
Special U. S. Indian Agent."

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS, May 9th, 1884.

Miss A. C. Fletcher, U. S. special agent, Omaha and Winnebago agency, Nebraska.

MDLLE: Referring to your letter of April 28, 1884, asking that your decision in the case of Mrs. Margaret Sloan, applicant for an allotment of land on the Omaha reservation, under the act of August 7, 1882, be approved, I have to say that I concur in the views expressed in your letter, and therefore approve your decision "that neither Mrs. Margaret Sloan nor her descendants are legally entitled to allotments of land upon the Omaha reservation under the act of August 7, 1882."

Very respectfully,

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

103 Twenty-fifth. That under date of August 27, 1890, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs instructed in writing Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent for the Omahas, to require Frank A. Peters, a descendant of Antoine Barada, and others of a like class," to remove from the Omaha reservation. Should they fail to comply the agent was instructed to report the fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, "giving the names of the parties and stating all the facts in connection therewith."

That the agent did serve notice on Frank A. Peters and others of like class including Celestine B. Kuhn, William Barada, Luke Sailors, Walter Peters, Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan to leave the Omaha reservation, a copy of one of said notices being that to Celestia Kuhn is herewith inserted and reads as follows:

OMAHA AND WINNEBAGO AGENCY,
NEBR., October 15th, 1883.

Mrs. Celestia Kuhn, Omaha reservation, Nebraska.

MADAM: The honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs by letter of Oct. 5th, 1883, makes a decision in your case against your right to hold land on the reservation.

The points cited are as follows, viz:

1st. That neither Antoine Barada, the father, nor his daughter were living with the Omaha tribe of Indians at the time of the treaty of 1865.

2nd. That Antoine Barada and his family were provided for on the Nemaha half-breed tract under treaty of July 15th, 1830.

3rd. Neither the name of Celestia Kuhn, nor the father, Antoine Barada, appears in the schedule duly certified by the chiefs, 104 showing the names of those who were properly entitled to selections of land under treaty of 1865 and if she was not entitled then, she is not now.

4th. "She has in no manner been" identified with the tribe since" that time; has not been adopted "into the tribe nor lived with them," until the very recent period spoken of." The Hon. Commissioner of Indiam Affairs after citing the above points as the grounds of his adverse decision then issues an order to me as follows:

"I have to direct that "you take immediate steps to remove "them beyond the limits of the" reservation, using your police "force for that purpose if it shall "be found necessary."

You see that the above order is imperative and I have no choice but to obey.

You will therefore please take such steps within a reasonable time, say ten days, as will relieve me of any unpleasant duties in obedience to the above order.

Very respectfully, GEO. W. WILKINSON,
U. S. Indian Agent."

And with reference to the Sloans the agent reported to the department under date of Oct. 17, 1890, as follows:

"I have the honor to report in addition to that given in my letter of September 15th, 1890, in reply to office letter of Aug. 27th, L. 25845–90 'that I did on the 14th day of October, 1890, give written notice to Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan to leave the Omaha reservation under instructions of office letter of August 27th 25845 L. 90." I would say in explanation that the Omaha 105 Indians in council, on 7th day of October discussed this matter with the Sloans, and it was almost the unanimous opinion and wish that they be removed from the reservation the same as Peterson (Peters?) and others. I am unable to find where the Sloans have any more right than the others mentioned, and take them to be of 'like class' as mentioned in yours of the 27th of Aug.

I would also say that Mr. Sloan informed me that he would not leave.

I have understood from Mr. Sloan that he had a better claim than Peterson (Peters?) et al., but in what respect I am not informed and I am unable to find anything on file in this office to give me any information."

Twenty-sixth. That under date of November 14, 1888, acting upon a petition filed by the Omaha Indians, which petition is more particularly set out in the stipulation on file in the suit of Frank A. Peters, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, made his report on the status of Frank A. Peters and other mixed bloods to the Secretary of the Interior and therein authority was requested to remove Frank Peters and others of his class from reservation. This request was granted by the Secretary of the Interior on December 5, 1888, and notice was accordingly served by the agent upon the parties affected by the order and ruling, but they refused to remove. It was recommended by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs that the Secretary of War be requested to place sufficient troops at the disposal of Indian agent to affect the removal of the intruders named in the report, and such others as the agent might designate upon the reservation under similar state of facts to that of Frank Peters. On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of Omahas then in the city of Washington, the department repeated 106 this recommendation of October 2, for military aid in ejecting said intruders. Before any removal could be effected the agent was enjoined from making such removal by a suit brought in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska hereinafter referred to.

Twenty-seventh. On January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, in a letter to Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, directed among other things as follows:

"You will find enclosed with this a copy of a letter addressed by me under date of the 12th inst., to certain Omaha delegates who are now in this city, by which you will observe certain parties therein named who belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and who are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, before referred to, and are not to be enrolled by you or allowed to share in the payment you are about to have made. The names of those specially objected to by the delegates are William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank A Peters, Walter Peters and Mr. Sailors and their families, and you are not to enroll or pay any of them."

Twenty-eighth. That Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian Agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which suit said 107 complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January, 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer and proofs were taken and subsequently on the 2 .th day of April, 1893, a decree of dismissal was entered in said cause as follows:

"Bill Dismissed Pl'ffs for Costs.

It is held that the President is authorized to make such disposition of money and property as he may think advisable for the benefit of the Omaha Indians, and that his authority to do so cannot be restricted by injunction; and on that ground and for these reasons the bill is dismissed.

(S'g'd) ELMER S. DUNDY, Judge."

And which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remains in full force and effect.

Twenty-ninth. Artemesia Frost, a daughter of Margaret Sloan having made claim for allotment of land on the Omaha Indian reservation, the matter was reported to the department which held by ruling under date of June 21, 1897, that Artemesia Frost was not entitled to an allotment of land on the Omaha Indian reservation, and — which ruling the department said as follows:

"By her own admission, Mrs. Frost's birthright claim has been extinguished. To admit her present claim would be an injustice to those of the tribe who have never received allotments and who alone are entitled to participation in the division of the lands in the diminished reserve; would also be against public policy, 108 and a violation of the rules and regulations of the department, which prohibit more than one allotment to an Indian for any reason whatever."

Thirtieth. That no one of the Sloan family, or their ancestors mentioned in this stipulation received or had an assignment or certificate of assignment under article 4, of the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 U. S. Stat. 667). That a schedule of selections of land in severalty in accordance with said fourth article and the prescribed rules and regulations of the Office of Indian Affairs, approved by the Hon. Secretary of the Interior October 26, 1867, showing the names of those entitled to assignments of lands, and their respective tracts was duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe, and certified and submitted by the Omaha Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871. That none of the names of the respective Sloan, Barada, Peters, or Frost families in this stipulation mentioned appear on said schedule.

Thirty-first. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs under date of April 24, 1899, appointed John K. Rankin, U. S. special agent to make allotment of lands to the Omaha tribe of Indians, under the clause of the Indian appropriation act of March 3, 1893, amendatory of the act of August 7, 1882, and said John K. Rankin in May 1899 arrived at the Omaha Indian reservation and continued in the performance of his duty as such special allotting agent, until February 1900, and that the allotments by him made hereinafter referred to, were completed in the month of January, 1900, and the schedule of said allotments were signed by the said John K. Rankin,
U. S. special agent, and transmitted by him to the Commis-

STEPHEN J. SNYDER, a witness produced in behalf of the complainants, being first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. State your name?
A. Stephen J. Snyder.

Q. You may state whether or not you know the lands described as the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter, and the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 35, township 25, range 7, east? Do you know those lands?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you ever employed to do any work upon it?

A. I was.

Q. What year were you so employed?

A. It was in 1893.

131 Q. What was the character of the work you did there?

A. I broke the farm out and put it in a crop.

Q. Was there any breaking, or any marks upon that land at the time you went there?

A. No sir, there were none.

Q. Explain the character of the land at the time you went there?

A. It was a raw piece of land, unbroken.

Q. Was there any plowing on it or around it?

A. There was none.

Q. What was the character of the improvements put upon the place by you under my direction?

A. First we put up a house, and a barn, and a well, and put up sheds.

Q. How much of the land did you break on that particular 80 acres?

A. All but about four or five acres of the 80 acres.

Q. What was the reasonable value of the improvements on that place when you left there including the breaking?

A. About $900.00 or better. Well, I will say a thousand dollars.

Cross-examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Were you hired by Thomas L. Sloan to break this land?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you have a written contract with him?

A. No sir.

Q. Did he pay you for the work, or did you give him a share of the crops for the use of the land?

A. He paid me for it.

Q. In money?

132 A. Yes, sir.

Q. How much?

A. $180.00.

Q. Now, for that $180.00 what did you do?

A. I done general farm work.

Q. Did you raise any crops?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do with the crops?

A. I sold the flax, and the corn I fed to the cows and horses.
Q. Did you deliver any of it to Tom Sloan?
A. No, sir.
Q. You yourself consumed all that you raised?
A. Yes, sir, and for the flax I turned the money over to Mr. Sloan, and the other, it was fed to his stock.
Mr. SLOAN: Whose stock?
A. Your stock.
Q. Thomas L. Sloan's stock?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Where was his stock, on this land?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You went on this land in 1893. You did not live on the land in 1893, did you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. There were no houses there then?
A. I built one in the spring of 1893.
Q. Then you lived in the house that you built there?
A. Yes sir.
133 Q. Then how many years did you continue on this land?
A. I was only there until fall, and then I was away about a year I think, and then I went back again, and I run the place another year.
Q. Under your contract with Thomas L. Sloan, as before?
A. Yes sir.
Q. The year you was away, was your brother on the land?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Then between yourself and your brother you were on the land from 1893 up to about what time, 1897?
A. I have forgotten the date. I forget the date that he left. I think it is about four years that we were there. I could not say positive now.

Re-direct examination.

Questions by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. Do you know who succeeded your brother?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Who was it?
A. Hans Vogt.

Re-cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. From 1893 to 1897 either you or your brother were occupying this 80 acres of ground and cultivating it under a contract with Thomas L. Sloan?

A. A verbal contract I believe. I know that is what I had. I could not say as to my brother, but I think it was verbal.

Q. Whenever you sold any of the crops during any of those years you accounted to Thomas L. Sloan for the proceeds of the sale?

134 A. Yes sir.

Q. No other person lived on this land except you and your brother during those four years?

A. Why, I had another brother that was working there too at the same time; he was there.

Q. No other person lived there except you and your two brothers?

A. Nothing, only of course, we had some extra help some of the time.

Q. White men?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you know whether Hans Vogt lived there after he went into possession after 1897? did he live on that land?

A. I believe he was, yes sir.

Q. In the house that you built?

A. Yes sir.

Q. There was only one house on the land?

A. Yes sir.

Q. When you fix the value of the improvements at the time you lived there, you refer to the year 1897, I believe?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And whatever outbuildings there were?

A. Yes sir, all of those.

Q. And the fencing, if any?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the breaking of the land?

A. Yes sir.

Q. In order to get your idea then of this, how much did you consider the breaking of the land worth?

A. $120.00.

135 Q. And how much the fencing?

A. About $25.00. There wasn't a great deal of fencing on there, only a little pasture, and in the yards.

Q. And how much the dwelling house?

A. About $600.

Q. How much the outbuildings?

A. That is all of them complete?

Q. Yes, sir, the outbuildings?

A. The sheds and the barn, and the corn crib and the grainary, why, about $200. That did not include the well and the tank and anything like that.

Q. Then you might state separately what that well was worth?

A. There was a well, and the tank and the cave there, I should judge was about $50.00.

Q. Was this a log house or a frame house?

A. A frame house.
Q. Plastered or not?
A. Yes, plastered.
Q. And painted?
A. Yes, on the inside and on the outside. It was painted outside too. I helped paint it.
Q. Are you a carpenter?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. A carpenter and farmer both?
A. Jack of all trades.

Q. You may state the size of the house as you best recollect it?
136 A. The part we put up first was 12 by 16 and then an addition about 16 by 24. It was 9 foot posts I believe; yes, nine foot posts. Then there was an addition put on that year 10 by 20. That was after I left there. I could not say exactly. I was there once or twice; I could not say exactly.
Q. There was no room between the two buildings?
A. Yes, a hall, and a kind of a store room.
Q. And then the stable?
A. Yes sir; the stable was 45 feet long and 14 or 16 feet wide.

Q. In the photographic view filed in docket T. number 174 as an exhibit, there are apparently two pictures, each representing the same buildings, the two pictures being taken from a different point of view of the same buildings, is not that correct?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And those buildings are the ones which you have described in your testimony?
A. Yes sir, but not all of them. There were more buildings involved there than that.
Q. The buildings which you refer to, and which do not appear on that photograph were what?
A. Were the grainary, and the cattle shed about 100 feet long.
Q. Do you know whether the grainary and cattle shed are on the ground now or not?
A. I could not say as to that. I have not been there for a year or two.

Witness excused.

It is agreed between the parties that the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

137 ANNA CABANA a witness produced in behalf of the complainants, being first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. State your name?
A. Anna Cabana.
Q. Was you with Mrs. Sloan—Mrs. Margaret Sloan when she died?
A. Yes sir.
Q. At whose house did she die?
A. My house.
Q. Was that on the reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. On whose allotment?
A. It was on our allotment, on Mr. Cabana's allotment.
Q. Where had she been living previous to that?
A. On her claim.
Q. How far from town?
A. Three miles.
Q. On the Omaha reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How long had she been living there?
A. She had been living there since 1881.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. When you speak of Mrs. Sloan's place of living, do you mean on the northeast quarter of section 20, township 24, range 8?
138 A. I do not know the numbers of the land, or the section, or anything like that, but she was on the claim that she claimed. She had her house and building there.

It is agreed between Thomas L. Sloan and John L. Webster that the land referred to by the witness, Mrs. Cabana as being the home of Margaret Sloan, was the northeast quarter of section 20, township 24, range 8 east, being the land reserved for Margaret Sloan.

Q. Margaret Sloan did not live on this land in the winter, did she?
A. Some of the time; some winters she stayed all winter out there, and others she did not; she would be gone over two or three months, gone away.
Q. Where would she be?
A. Sometimes she would be at my house, and sometimes at Mrs. Frost's, and Mrs. Pilcher's. She would go and spend the few coldest months with them.

Q. She at that time was a very old lady?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And she was too old to do any farm work herself?
A. She did not farm; she always had someone living on the place to do it for her. She made a garden and attended her garden herself.
Q. Who did she have living on the place to do the work for her?
A. She had one time. Mr. Martin has been there for years on the place. He is on there yet I guess.

139 In explanation of the place where Margaret Sloan lived, Thomas L. Sloan states that the two photographs on Exhibit Docket T, Number 176, both represent one and the same set of buildings, and that the smaller end of the dwelling house is the dwelling house in which Margaret Sloan lived, and which Thomas L. Sloan occupied during the time that he lived with Margaret L. Sloan, and that the larger part of the dwelling house has been constructed some ten years ago, and was occupied by a tenant or employés.
By the consent of the parties hereto, the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

A. Well, sir, I could not possibly tell you, because I was young and I do not exactly remember; we were there quite a while.

Q. Do you remember the occasion of your living?

A. Yes sir.

Q. State what it was?

A. The day I was three years old my mother's sister and her husband and little child had come to visit us and see us. That was on Sunday. And they started back to the village, back of Bellevue, and they were frightened by the Sioux, and my aunt Angeline was killed by the Sioux Indians, and her little baby also.

Q. How long did you remain there after that?

A. We went then, a day or two after that; we were frightened by the Indians—by the Sioux.

A. To locate our homes; the Fontenelles, and Pauls, and all the rest of the Indians came up here at that time.

Q. How long did you stay here then?

A. I could not tell you exactly how long we stayed. The Omaha mission was being built. I remember when its walls were no higher than that (indicating) and we stayed until it was built, and my brother John went to school at the Omaha mission. I was too little to attend the mission school, but my brother John attended the mission school there at the same time that William Tyndall and those older members of the tribe attended school there.

Q. What was your father doing there at that time?

A. He was running a Government mill for the Indians, sawing up lumber. He was engineer.

Q. Had you taken land on the Nemaha reservation at that time?

A. I could not tell you as to that. I do not remember. I was too young to know anything about it.

Q. You did receive an allotment for yourself on the Nemaha reservation?

Q. When did you move to the Omaha reservation with your family first?

A. In 1875.

A. I did.

Q. How much did you get?

A. My close relative that was doing—acting for me, his name was Eberhambe, he drew my annuity money and gave it to me, $20.00. He gave me $20.00, but it was $19.00 the annuity was and it was part for myself and part for my oldest child, Philemon H. Frost. Ed. Paul could not make the change and so he gave me the $20.

Q. Was that about the time of September 15, 1875?

A. Yes, sir; it was.

Q. And it was paid to you in the name of Artemesia Frost?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who else in the family?

A. To myself and my oldest child, $19.00.

Q. Did you select any land upon the Omaha reservation at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do towards claiming it?

A. I had breaking done, and the house logs cut, and was preparing to make a home on it.

Q. Did you make your home upon it?

144 A. No sir, sickness and death overtook us, and we failed to stay on the place.

Q. What became of the building and land?

A. It was taken by other members of the Omaha tribe.

Q. Do you know to whom that particular tract of land was allotted?

A. It was occupied by Merritt Wheeler; whether it was allotted to his wife or his children, I do not know. I never seen the allotment papers, but it was allotted to some of the Wheeler family, Mrs. Eliza Wheeler being my cousin.

Q. Where did you go to from the reservation at that time when you left it?

A. I went to the half breed tribe—the Nemaha reservation.

Q. Where are you living now?

A. I am living out here on my claim on the Omaha reservation.

Q. During the time you were on the reservation in 1875 what other recognition as an Omaha Indian did you have beside that of annuity payments?

A. I was received by the chiefs in council before the United States Indian agent and acknowledged as a full member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, to have all rights and privileges of any other Omaha Indian. I had the use of the Government cattle; I had the use of the pasture, and had the privilege of going to the timber and getting my fire wood, and had the same privilege of the mills, and all other privileges that any other Omaha Indian had, and was considered one, and was up to the time that Miss Alice Fletcher rejected me. She was the United States Indian allotting agent.

145 Q. You may look at that photograph and state whether it is a picture of the premises you occupy?

A. Yes sir, that is the place; that is where I live.

(Photograph referred to is the one filed in docket "T" number 462 of this court.)

Q. Who made the improvements?

A. I made the improvements, or caused them to be made, and paid for them. The place was nothing but prairie grass when I settled on it.

Q. And has it been broken up since?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Who did the breaking?

A. I hired some of it done, and some of it my husband done.

Q. Who is farming it now?

A. My son. My two sons. My oldest son and my youngest son are doing the farming on it.

Q. And who are living there?

A. My oldest son, and my son Leonard, a cripple, and my youngest son and myself.

Q. For whom did you claim the farm?

A. For myself and my daughter Mary.

Q. There are no adverse claimants to your right?

A. I think not, at least the allotting agent respected my rights.

Q. By whom were you directed to take possession of the premises?

A. By Captain Beck.

Q. What position did he occupy?

146 A. United States Indian agent.

Q. For what tribes?

A. For the Omaha and Winnebago tribe of Indians.

Q. Has he been occupying it since?

A. Excepting the time that I was forcibly removed, and then I went right back.

Q. How long were you absent?
A. About four days.
Q. You were then forcibly taken away without your consent?
A. I was, yes sir, hauled off like a criminal.
Q. By whom?
A. By the Omaha police under the order of Captain Beck.
Q. Indian police, were they?
A. Indian police, yes, sir.
Q. When did Margaret Sloan remove to the reservation, if you know?
A. Removed to the reservation? She came in 1881 I think; it was either in the spring of 1881 or the fall of 1881.
Q. Where did she continue to reside from that time on?
A. On her claim that she selected for her claim, on the Logan about three miles southeast of Bancroft.
Q. Southeast of Bancroft?
A. Northeast.
Q. Was Margaret Sloan in any manner recognized as an Indian member of the tribe?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. State in what particular?
147 A. She has drawn annuity time and again as an Omaha Indian woman, a member of the tribe.
Q. Were you with her at any time when she drew annuity money?
A. I was when I was a little girl. When we lived at Bellevue she went over to, I think it was St. Mary's point, or St. Mary's, or Glenwood, and I do not remember which, where the agent was located—the Indian agent—and she drew her annuity there.
Q. What Indian agent was it, if you know?
A. Well sir, I think it was either Major Robinson, or Major Hepner, and I do not remember which.
Q. Who were the persons that constituted the Sloan family?
A. The Indian part of it?
Q. In 1856?
A. There was Margaret Sloan and William Sloan and John M. Sloan and Artemesia Sloan.
Q. Who were the members of the Sloan family in 1858?
A. There was Margaret Sloan, and William Sloan, and John M. Sloan and Artemesia Sloan.
Q. And in 1859 who constituted the Sloan family?
A. Well, the same people to my recollection.
Q. Was Thomas Sloan the husband of Margaret Sloan?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was he a member of the family at that time?
A. In 1858?
Q. Yes, and in 1859?
A. I do not know whether he was at home or whether he was on the river at that time. But he was a member of the family, of course.

148 Q. And those persons you named constituted the family from 1858 down to 1865?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Were there any other persons in the Omaha tribe that were known by the name of Sloan?

A. No sir, not to my knowledge.

Q. If there had been any such you would have known it, would you?

A. I most certainly would, because I had the rolls, the Omaha rolls. I seen them several times. I never knew of any other Sloan being on the Omaha reservation but this family of Sloans.

Q. Do you know of any other instance in which Margaret Sloan was recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians?

A. None, only by drawing her lands as an Omaha Indian.

Q. What land do you refer to?

A. The Nemaha half breed land; he was recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe at that time. The different tracts were stipulated at the head of the list that they drew.

Q. When did you first select the land that you now occupy?

A. When did I first select it?

Q. Yes?

A. In 1891.

Q. Did you make any other selection of lands at that time?

A. Why, yes, I made selections for my children.

Q. State the names of those for whom you selected?

A. Philemon H. Frost, Mary Frost and Charles Frost and Leonard Frost, and Frank Frost and Eliza also.

149 Q. Is that land which is now claimed by Philemon Frost the same land that you originally selected for him?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you break up any of the land claimed by your son Frank Frost?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What year did you break that land up?

A. I do not remember exactly. I think it was in 1893 or 1894—1895. It was in 1895 I think.

Q. How much did you break?

A. About twelve acres I guess. 12 or 13 acres.

Q. Had there been any breaking on it previous to the time that you broke it up?

A. Nothing visible, there was no breaking on there at all. I did the first breaking that was on the place. I think it was about; well I could not tell you exactly how many acres there was we broke on it, it was quite a piece I know anyway.

Q. Do you remember how the 80 acres run, north and south or east and west?

A. I guess it run east and west.

Q. Is there a contest over the land that you selected for your son Frank?

A. The allotting agent has allotted it——

Q. To some other person?

A. To some other person.

Q. Do you know who those persons are?

A. It is William Tyndal.

150 Q. Or some of William Tyndal'- family?

A. I do not know. I do not know whether it is himself or his children.

Q. Or some of his children?

A. Yes, sir; the allotting agent said that I could not hold it for Frank, because Guy Grace had put in there a statemnt t hat he broke around the land before I had done any breaking. That is what the allotting agent said. Of course I do not know. He rejected my claim anyhow.

Q. Have you sent your children to the Indian schools?

A. Yes sir.

Q. State which of your children have attended the Indian schools?

A. Why, the oldest is Philemon Frost and Charles Frost, and Sarah Frost and Leonard Frost has attended Government school, and the two youngest has attended the Congregational mission school at Santee, Nebraska. They attended there three years. In fact that has been the most of their schooling—has been Indian schools.

Q. What schools have they attended outside that at the Santee agency?

A. My oldest son attended school at Highland, Kansas, at the university; it was to have been an Indian school, and there was provisions made that Indians could go there. And my youngest son is now attending school——

Q. Did your oldest son attend at Haskell?

A. Yes sir, he was down there a while.

Q. And which of the other children were at Haskell?

151 A. Sarah Frost, Sarah Eliza McCreary now, and Charles Frost and Leonard Frost. They attended at Haskell, Kansas.

Q. What other school has Charles Frost attended?

A. Hampton, Virginia, the Government school.

Q. And what other one?

A. The Omaha agency school.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Your father's name was Thomas Sloan?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And your mother was Margaret Sloan?

A. Yes sir; Margaret Barada Sloan.

Q. Your father and mother were married in the city of St. Louis?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Your father was a white man?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And your mother was a half breed woman?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You yourself then claim to be one-fourth Indian blood, and three-fourths white?

A. Yes, I suppose that is the make-up.

Q. In other words you sort of reverse the order of things, and instead of the Indian treating it white blood, it is the white blood treating it Indian?

A. I consider I am an Indian, and they tried to civilize me, therefore I wear citizens' clothes.

Q. Do you know when you were born?

152 A. My parents told me I was born in 1851. I suppose Mr. Peters knows pretty near about that.

Q. You were living in St. Louis at the time of your birth; your family were living there at the time you were born?

A. Yes, sir. My father was an engineer by trade, and run on the rivers, that is the way he made his living.

Q. What year was it when you came to Bellevue with your mother?

A. It was in the spring of 1854 I am pretty positive.

Q. At that time you were about three years of age?

A. Three years of age.

Q. Did your father come with you?

A. No sir, he did not come with us.

Q. If you came to Bellevue in 1854, how long did you stay here, until 1855?

A. Well, I should judge about that time. I do not know exactly, as I tell you I was young, and I did not pay much attention to dates. We came up the first time and we went back, and then the second time we came up we stayed there. It was a very short period between the two times, and we stayed there from that time until the Indians were removed up here on this reservation, and we came up with them. They were removed up here I think about 1855 or 1856, was it not?

Mr. SLOAN: 1857.

A. My mother kept a boarding house in Bellevue a while.

Q. I want to get back at that first visit. It was during your first visit in 1854 and 1855 that you spoke of your mother, Margaret Sloan drawing annuity payments?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it was after that some time that you spoke of the Sioux invasion?

153 A. It was about that time.

Q. Well, was it while you were at Bellevue that one of the family——

A. That my aunt was killed, yes sir; it was while my mother and I were at Aunt Mary Paul's.

Q. That was in 1854 or 1855?

A. I think it was in 1854. I think so.

Q. And that is the time when you speak of having met your relatives that you named?

A. Yes sir, that was the time.

Q. Is it at the same time that you speak of having been received into the Indian council?

A. No sir, that was not the time.

Q. Now, then, you left Bellevue on that visit in the year 1855?

A. Well, as I told you, but I do not know whether it was in 1855 or 1854. It was in 1854 that we went down the first time. We came up and stayed a short time. Cabana, how long did we stay at your mother's?

Mr. CABANA: About four weeks.

A. We went back then, and we came up the next summer, or the same summer.

Mr. CABANA: I think you came up the next summer.

A. The next summer?

Mr. CABANA: Yes.

A. That would be in 1855.

Q. When you say you went back you mean you went back to St. Louis?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you then come back to Bellevue; you think you came back to Bellevue the next summer?

154 A. Yes sir, we moved our things up on the steam boat; moved our household goods and household effects up.

Q. That then was in 1855 or 1856?

A. I think it was in 1855. I am pretty positive it was.

Q. Now how long did you stay at Bellevue at that time?

A. Well, I really could not tell you how long we did stay there. Do you know Cabana? As I tell you I was a child about three years old, and time I could not designate. That man (referring to Mr. Cabana) was a young man at the time, and I was a little girl, and he came up with us. He knows more about the time we were there than I do.

Q. I am trying to get at your personal recollection. After you came up the second time you remained a while, and then did you go back to St. Louis?

A. No sir.

Q. Then did you go from there to the Nemaha reservation?

A. Well, I do not recollect for sure whether we—I think we came up here first before we went down there on the Nemaha reservation.

Q. Were you up on the Omaha reservation with your father and mother the time that your father Thomas Sloan had charge of the mill on the Omaha reservation?

A. I was, yes sir.

Q. Your father you recollect was here in the Government employ to build and operate a mill?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And when he finished that employment he went to the Nemaha reservation, did he not?

155 A. Yes, we did.

Q. And your mother went to the Nemaha reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the children, John M. Sloan, and William A. Sloan and yourself?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Went with the family to the Nemaha reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And that was in 1859, was it not?

A. Yes sir, I think so.

Q. And it was in 1858 and 1859 that your father had charge of the mill on the Omaha reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. After you went to the Nemaha reservation in 1859 you and your father and mother with the family continued to live there up until the time of your marriage?

A. Yes sir, with the exception of my mother's visits back here on the reservation to draw her annuities. She was back several times.

Q. You cannot tell, or can you tell what particular years Margaret Sloan drew annuity after 1859?

A. No sir, I could not mention the years. I know that she came up here. She came up here.

Q. There is a certified record on file which indicates that Margaret Sloan received an annuity October 26th, 1860 and December 2nd, 1862?

A. Does it state what agent? under Major Wilson?

A. No, it does not, but her name is on these rolls.

156 Q. Are those two years I have mentioned likely the time when she came up to the reservation to get annuity?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Your mother continued to live on the Nemaha reservation until 1881?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And your father lived with your mother on the Nemaha reservation up until what time?

A. Until 1875 I think, 1876.

Q. Do you know what time your father died?

A. I do not remember the date. I was at home, but I do not remember the date.

Q. He died about 1881, did he not?

A. In 1893.

Q. Your father did not come to the Omaha reservation in 1881 with your mother?

A. No sir.

Q. Had you personally received your allotment on the Nemaha reservation before your marriage?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And Leonard L. Frost was your husband?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And you married him in the year 1870?

A. 1869.

Q. And where were you married?

A. In Richardson county, Nebraska, at home, my mother's home.

Q. Was that on the reservation, or off the reservation?

157 A. It was on the half breed tract, the reservation, on her allotment of land.

Q. Your husband was not an Omaha Indian?

A. No, sir.

Q. After your marriage with Leonard L. Frost in the year 1870 you continued to live on the allotment which you received on the Nemaha reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you go to the Omaha reservation in the year 1874 or 1875?

A. In the year 1875 I moved here.

Q. How long did you remain here at that time?

A. Something over a year.

Q. Then did you go back to the Nemaha reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. How long did you continue to live on the Nemaha reservation at that time?

A. I think about ten or twelve years, maybe it was longer.

Q. Did you at any time remove to Highland in the State of Kansas?

A. Yes, my husband moved there and I too.

Q. Do you remember about what year it was?

A. I do not; we went there for the purpose of putting our children in the school.

Q. The children you refer to would be Philemon and Sarah, and Charles and Leonard?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did Mary and Frank also go to the Highland school?

A. Yes sir.

158 Q. While you were living at Highland, Kansas you were not living on an Indian reservation?

A. No sir, I did not consider it my home. I was cooking for my family while they went to school. I was only there about two years.

Q. When was it that you finally removed to the Omaha reservation as you think?

A. Well, I improved and settled on the place that I am claiming for my home in 1895, I built my house and settled there; that is, I continued to improve it.

Q. 1895?

A. Yes sir, I claimed it after that.

Q. Can you give the location of the land that you entered upon and improved in the year 1895?

A. I do not know the numbers of it.

Q. Is it the same land that you are living on now?

A. Yes sir; it is the same; it is in section 8 town—I could not give you the numbers at all, because I do not know enough about the numbers to give them to you.

Q. The place where you live then is likely on the northwest quarter of section 9, township 25, range 7, is it not?

A. I think that is it; I think so; I am not positive.

Q. You understand, do you not that that land is land which has been reserved for the Frost family and has not been allotted to anybody else?

A. That is what the allotting agent told me; yes sir.

Q. Now did you the same year—was it at a later date when you made claim for your daughter Mary and for your son Benjamin?

159 A. It was at the same date.

Q. 1895?

A. The allotting agent told me he would respect my claim.

Q. And then the land which you selected for Mary Frost, the south half of the northeast quarter of section 8, township 25 range 7 has also been reserved for the Frost family?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And not allotted to anybody else?

A. No, sir.

Q. The north half of the southeast quarter of section 7, township 25, range 7, containing either acres has been allotted to someone else as you understand, that being the land which you think you selected for your son Benjamin?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now when Miss Fletcher came to the Omaha reservation as special United States allotting agent you made claim to her for allotments of lands?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you talk with her about your claim?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And stated the facts about it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Gave her all the information that you had to give?

A. Yes, sir, I did. I told her that I had been recognized in the Omaha tribe by the chiefs in council, that they had recognized me, and told me to go and make my selections of land for myself and my children, and I told her that that was made a matter of record, and that it ought to be on the rolls in the office, and she told 160 me that the records had been burned up, and that there was no way of finding out if I had been recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe in 1875.

Q. The recognition by the tribe that you refer to was a recognition in 1875?

A. Yes sir. I was received in open council as a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, me and my children, recognized as such.

Q. After she had heard your statement of the facts, do you know whether she told you that she inquired about that recognition in 1875?

A. Yes sir; she said she made inquiry and she could not find anything that would justify her in giving me my rights.

Q. Then you knew the fact that she reported to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs against your right to an allotment?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You knew that fact?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And she told you that she would have to report against you or that she had reported against you?

A. Yes sir; she told me that she wrote to me to that effect that she would have to report against me.

Q. Some time afterward you were notified to leave the reservation were you not?

A. I- was after I came up on the claim. They wanted to make me pay rent the same as a white person, and I refused to pay rent because I considered it my birth-right, and my rights, and I refused to pay rent and they rejected me.

161 Q. And before you were rejected from the reservation you were formerly notified to leave the reservation, were you not?

A. Yes, to leave the place. I was not notified to leave the reservation. I was notified to leave the place that we occupied.

Q. And you refused to go?

A. Yes, I refused to go.

Q. And then you were forcibly removed?

A. Yes sir, I locked my door, and the police burst it open and took me and put me in the wagon and hauled me and my two children off.

Q. Where did they haul you to?

A. To Bancroft.

Q. Was that off the reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Then you went back yourself afterwards?

A. Yes sir, I went back.

Q. Under whose administration as agent was it that you were removed?

A. Captain Beck. He wanted me to——

Q. Was that the same time that the Kuhns and Sloans were notified to leave the reservation?

A. No sir, it was afterwards. He done that in order to compel me to pay rent to Blenkiron.

Q. You knew that the Sloans were notified to leave the reservation?

A. I heard so. I did not personally see it.

162 Q. You knew that the Kuhns were notified to leave the reservation?

A. I did not know it personally. I heard it.

Q. And that the Peters family were notified to leave the reservation?

A. I would say I did not personally know anything about it.

Q. You knew also, did you not, that Miss Fletcher reported against their claims?

A. Yes sir, as far as I know.

Q. Did you ever have any talk with her about it?

A. Yes sir.

Q. She told you so at the time, that she would have to report against them?

A. Yes sir.

Q. At the same time, about the same time she was going to report against your claim?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the matter was talked over between you and Miss Fletcher?

A. Yes sir. Of course I tried to get my rights and she rejected them.

Q. You made the best showing you could as you think, and she reported against you?

A. Yes sir.

Q. As far as you know the Peters, and the Sloans, and the Kuhns, and the Baradas also made the best showing they could?

A. I suppose they did; yes sir; they pursued their rights, or for their rights.

163 Mr. WEBSTER: It appears from the allotment roll that the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 7 has been allotted to Mary Tyndal; and the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 7, township 25, range 7 has been allotted to Agnes Springer Milton, the said lands above described being the lands that Mrs. Frost claims to have selected for her son Benjamin, said allotments having been made by Colonel Rankin, and patents issued therefor.

Q. Before you had been ejected from the reservation did you consult with anyone as to whether you should or should not move from the land you claimed?

A. No sir, I thought it was my birth-right, and my rights, and I had a right there, and I think so yet.

Q. Did you consult with anyone about it before you went back after you had been ejected?

A. No sir.

Q. You acted on your own judgment then in refusing to get off, and acted on your own judgment in going back?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Is your husband still living?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Is he on the reservation, or in Highland, Kansas?
A. He is in Kansas, Highland, Kansas.
Q. You have a home down there?
164 A. My husband has.
Q. When was the last time you ever received any annuity, or did you ever receive any annuity payment?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When was the last time?
A. In 187E.
Q. You never received any annuity since?
A. No sir.
Q. And the members of your family have never received any annuity since that date?
A. Well, they might have, of course I could not positively say, but when I received my annuity, as I stated before, that my relative by the name of Eberhambe drew my annuity and brought it to me, and sent it to me, and whether he drew it after that or not I do not know. But at that time he drew it and gave it to me.
Q. In 1875?
A. Yes sir.
Q. As far as you personally know neither you or your children have ever received any annuity since 1875?
A. No sir; they claim that the records were burned, and that my name was dropped off of the roll; and they would not be accommodating enough to go to Washington and hunt them up. My name and my children's names is on the roll in Washington in the Indian Department, but it seems as though they had a prejudice against me some way or other, and did not care about hunting up those things. I can show you rolls where my name is carried on the roll right along with the balance of the Indians, if you choose to see it.
165 Q. I would like to see it if you can show it to me?
A. I meant in 1875.
Q. In 1875?
A. You do not care about seeing that?
Q. No. I thought from your answer that you meant a later time?
A. As I told you, you did not want to hunt that up; they would not hunt that up; they did not care about hunting it up. It is in Washington though all the same on record.

Questions by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. In answer to one of Mr. Webster's questions I notice that you answered him that you selected this land in 1895; was not that the time you built on it?
A. That is what I told him; the time I built on it.

Q. Your selection was made in 1891?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And the children, Frank and Mary Frost were attendants at the school at Santee agency while Philemon was going to school at Highland, is that right?
A. The first year that Frank and Mary were attending the school at Santee I think that Philemon was having his last year at Highland.
Q. It was prior to your moving down and living there, and having a home there?
A. In Highland, it was after I moved up here; Phil was down there yet at school.

Recross examination.

Questions by JOHN L. WEBSTER:

166 Q. When you say you selected the land, what do you mean by that statement, that you selected it?
A. Just like the Indians do when they select a piece of land, they claim it. They say, this is my land; that is the way they do.
Q. I want to know what you did?
A. I claimed that it was mine.
Q. Who did you claim it to, to whom did you make any such claim?
A. To myself and my daughter.
Q. You did not make such claim to anybody else?
A. No sir.
Q. How do you find the land that you wanted to assert a claim to?
A. Mr. Sloan showed me the numbers.
Q. How did he come to show you the numbers?
A. He was clerking at the agency, and that was his business.
Q. Did you go over and consult Thomas L. Sloan about it?
A. I went over to consult Captain William Beck, Mr. Sloan was clerking there at the time.
Q. Did Thomas L. Sloan go out and show you the land, or did he give you a map of it, or what?
A. No, he told me that it laid north west of a certain man that lived out there in a pasture, and if I would go out there this man would show me the land.
Q. You had not been there before that time?
A. Oh, yes, I had been all over that country before.
Q. Why did Thomas L. Sloan show you this, point out to you this particular piece of land?
167 A. Because Mr. Farley had it for pasture, and he objected to the claimants going in there and selecting their lands, and I had my selection on that land, and Captain Beck, and got permission from Farley for me to go in there and make my selection. And didn't Kuhn take me out to show me the land that I was—out where I was going to locate, the numbers?

Q. You went out and looked at it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you thought it satisfied you, and so you, Mrs. Frost, with yourself, meditated over it, and concluded you would select that land?

A. It was Hobson's choice; it was that or nothing. They had taken my other lands away from me. They jumped us, and Miss Fletcher had forbidden me to live on the land, you know. She rejected me, and of course that land was unclaimed and I took it.

Q. So the time when you made this selection was after you had been informed by Miss Fletcher that you were not entitled to an allotment?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did Thomas L. Sloan advise you to go and make a selection anyhow?

A. No sir.

Q. He did not give you any advice about it?

A. No sir, I do not know that he did. I was like the rest of these half and mixed bloods. They knew that we were Omahas, and they knew we had a right on the Omaha reservation, and they squatted down there, and Miss Fletcher called us squatters 168 and they had just as good a right as any Omaha on the reservation, although we were swindled out of it, and it makes my Indian blood a little hot when I think about it too.

Q. What about white blood, does that get hot too?

A. I guess that gets hot too. There is my cousin, he is my own cousin, and he got his land and I did not get mine. He is pretty well situated. He is an Omaha Indian, and I am an Omaha Indian too.

Q. Do you claim to be a white woman?

A. No sir, no, no. I am not a white woman.

Q. So you are three-fourths white blood which you ignore altogether?.

A. Yes sir, I ignore it. I want to be a full blood Indian.

Q. To that extent you despise the white race?

A. I do not think very much of them. That is the truth of it. I would be willing to put on the blanket and the moccasins to-day. I like my Indians for all they have not treated me right. They have listened to white people, and they have not done exactly right.

By consent of the parties hereto the signature of the above witness to this deposition is hereby waived.

A. Cabanas.
Q. In response to your name what occurred?
A. I went and got my money.
Q. Were the others called on the same occasion?
A. They were called at the same time, all of them.
Q. Did they respond to the call of their names?
A. It appeared so to me for every one went that direction.
Q. Where was the payment being made at that time?
A. At the Omaha agency here.
Q. In an office?
A. Out of doors. It was paid in the office, but we never got to the office. The Indians would bring it out to us. Mine was 173 counted out to me on a log by my Indian relation, my uncles or some of them, they counted it. Curious too, they could count. I recollect getting five or six hundred dollars one time.
Q. Do you know where Margaret Sloan lived since 1881?

Q. Where?
A. She lived out here about a mile or two from the Logan north of the Logan.

A. About four miles.
Q. Three or four?
A. Three or four miles. I know she used to walk it.

A. I do.
Q. Is he an Indian?
A. No sir, not that I know of.
Q. Are his children paid annuity money?
A. I think they have.
Q. Are his children paid annuity money?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you know Swan Olsen?
A. I know him.
Q. Is he a white man?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do his children receive annuity money?

A. At least he has told me that the children were getting money. They are on the roll.

174 Q. Do you know Fred Cayou?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Is he a white man?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do his children receive annuity money?

A. I believe they do.

Q. Do you know Benjamin Phillips?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Is he a white man?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do his children receive annuity money?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you know Brownrigg?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Is he a white man?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do his children receive annuity money?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you know George Lieb?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do his children receive annuity money?

A. Yes sir.

Mr. WEBSTER: The defendants object to, and move to strike out of the deposition all that part relating to the above enumeration of persons who received annuity moneys, for the reason that none of said persons are involved in these litigations.

175 Q. How long have you been familiar with the customs of the Omaha tribe of Indians?

A. About 54 years.

Q. What is the custom or usage in regard to the recognition and enrollment of the children of white men married to Indian women, or Indian women with mixed blood?

Mr. WEBSTER: To which question, and any more that may be asked along that line, or the same lines, the defendants object to as incompetent and improper, as well as irrelevant and immaterial.

Q. Well, they place them on the rolls as soon as they are born. In early days the white men were on the rolls.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Mr. Cabana, is it not true that for the last 13 years that no outside persons have been admitted into the tribe and their names placed upon the rolls?

A. For 13 years. As soon as children were born they are placed on the rolls.

Q. That has been of children whose parents were themselves recognized as members of the tribe, was it not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. But now what I want to get at is, if the parents were not members of the tribe no such names have been put upon the roll for a period of 13 years or more, have they?

A. I do not know of anybody else but the Omahas.

Q. I am speaking of the Omahas?

176 A. Yes, sir, nothing else but Omahas.

Q. You mean Omaha Indians?

A. Yes sir.

Q. When you speak therefore of the former custom of putting on the names of children as soon as they were born, you were referring only to cases where the parents were at that time recognized as members of the tribe?

A. Yes sir.

Q. If the parents were members of the tribe their children would naturally be members of the tribe, would they not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And it was such children that you speak of whose names were put on the rolls when they were born?

A. Yes sir.

Q. These times that you described when you and Margaret Sloan were welcomed by the Indians at Bellevue in 1854, that is now 48 years ago?

A. A good while ago.

Q. And what you have related about that is simply your recollection of what occurred 48 years ago?

A. Yes sir, and my practical experience amongst them since.

Q. I am speaking about what was said to Margaret Sloan?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And they said their relatives were glad to see her?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Mr. Cabana, would you not be glad today to see any relatives you had who would come to see you from some city far off that you had never seen before?

177 A. Yes sir.

Q. Likewise these Indians had that instinctive human nature that they were glad to see a relative who had come to see them who had never seen them before?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And that is the welcome you spoke of when you spoke of what they said to Margaret Sloan?

A. I believe they recognized her to be an Indian. They did me; I have been recognized ever since.

Q. Now, Mr. Cabana in what language did they speak to Margaret Sloan when they said they were glad to see her?

A. They would speak in Indian to her.
Q. That was in the Indian tongue?
A. Yes sir, It was however, it was not a council, it was Indians that met in my mother's house.
Q. Private or social conversation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And at that time did you talk the Omaha Indian language?
A. No sir.
Q. Did Margaret Sloan talk the Omaha Indian language at that time?
A. Very little; she could understand a little, but my mother——
Q. Margaret Sloan at that time talked what language?
A. English language and the French language.
Q. And you talked what language?
A. The French language and the English language.
Q. Now, then, when you heard them say to Margaret that she was welcome, and they were glad to see her, how do you know that that was what they said?
178 A. My mother would interpret it to me and my aunt.
Q. So your testimony now of the conversation that occurred 48 years ago related to statements which the Indians made which you could not understand and you speak of it simply as someone else interpreted it to you?
A. We were altogether, you know, and we could not help it because my mother would say, this is your uncle, and this is your aunt, and this is your great grand mother, and of course we understood that, either in French or English.
Q. You understood what your mother said as interpreter?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You did not understand what the Indians said any more than what I would understand what an Indian chief might undertake to say to me in the Indian language, particularly of the Omaha Indian tongue?
A. I could see their sympathy; that they were glad to see us.
Q. You do not suppose that if one of these Indian chiefs would shake hands with me and say something to me but that I would infer that it was a recognition of greeting?
A. If I would meet an Indian chief I would know today what he meant.
Q. Can you talk the Indian language today?
A. Very little, enough to understand their ways and their customs.
Q. But in 1883 and 1884 you could not talk it at all?
A. Well, yes, I could say some few words. I have not forgotten it, from the age of three or four years, when I knew that my 179 folks would always call me the Omaha in the city of St. Louis where I was raised, and there was lots of those Indians that would keep it up, and white men.

Q. When you talked with Margaret Sloan, what language did you use?

A. I talked French to her, and sometimes I would give—I would say some Indian words to her, and she would to me, something that would catch. I knew I was an Indian ever since I could walk. My father used to be a trader, and he had lost of those French come down. The first thing you know they would introduce some of the Indian words, and I kept a recollection of them, St. Louis was partly filled up with Indians and French. Some of my people denied it.

Questions by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. Mr. Cabana, Mr. Webster asked you if only the children whose parents were members of the tribe were enrolled during the past 13 years? Is it not a fact that during the past 13 years and in fact all the time that you know the Omahas, up to date, that the children of white men, which white men were not members of the tribe, but the mothers were, of such children, that such children were enrolled and recognized as members of the tribe?

A. Yes, I said Omahas. My wife had been put on the rolls during that time I guess, but I thought you adopted Omaha.

Q. Those white men to whom I referred, namely George Lamson, Ben Phillips, Lew Brownrigg, Fred Cayou, George Lieb, John Wickersham, Fred Essex, Adolph Hanicke, Swan Olsen, are all white men who are not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians?

180 A. They are not members.

Q. And they each of them have children which had been placed upon the roll within the past 13 years, have they not?

A. Yes sir; I meant the Omahas. The children of the Omaha women were all placed on the roll.

Q. How late is the last one of these enrollments of the class of children, that you know of?

A. Three years.

Q. Who was that?

A. That was Paul Cabana.

Q. Did you know the children of Pearl Campbell, and Fred Essex being enrolled during the past year?

A. Yes sir, but they are children of the Omaha women.

Q. Excuse me. Mr. Webster used the term, parents, which would mean both father and mother?

A. I did not understand it in that way, Mr. Sloan. Their mother was an Omaha. They were placed on the roll prior to that time too. I want to be honest about it. I did not take in the white men, because I think these children were born of Omaha parents.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. These children you spoke of in your re-direct examination they were children that were born on the reservation and whose mothers were Indians, Omaha Indians?

A. Some of these children were born as far west as California and they are placed on the roll, away off, some part of the east and some parts of the south.

181 Q. I have not quite gotten through with my question. Mr. Cabana you did not wait until I finished my question, so your answer came a little too quickly. To meet your answer I will subdivide it. You give me the name of the children from California, or the child who has been put on the roll?

A. Mr. T. C. Cabana has a couple children that were born in California and placed on this roll.

Q. Where was the father and mother at the time when their names were placed on the roll?

A. In California I think.

Q. Now the father and the mother had been on the roll of the Omaha Indian tribe before they went to California, had they not?

A. Let us see; I do not recollect whether they were enrolled here; yes sir; they certainly must have been.

Q. So the case you speak of then is a case where the parents had theretofore been recognized as members of the Omaha Indian tribe, and that is why their children were enrolled, is not that true?

A. They were on the roll before they went there.

Q. And how long had the names of the parents been on the roll as members of the Omaha Indian tribe before they went to California and before these children were born that you have spoken of?

A. How long before?

Q. Yes sir, how many years?

A. Tom Cabana has been placed on its roll ever since 1863.

182 Q. And Tom Cabana was the father of these children?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Well, now, don't that apply—that same principle apply to every other case that you have in mind, and that you have spoken of?

A. Really I do not understand what you are coming at.

Q. I mean that in every other case where you spoke of the child being enrolled that was not born on the reservation was not the father and mother both on the rolls of the Omaha Indian tribe and recognized as members of the tribe?

A. They would have to be.

Q. Now, can you tell me of an instance where a child that was not born elsewhere, but born on the reservation whose name went on the roll, unless either the father or the mother had theretofore been enrolled and were members of the Omaha tribe of Indians?

A. I could not answer that.

Q. Is it not true, Mr. Cabana, that the names of new persons can not get on the roll without the approval of the agent and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?

A. I never knew that they had to go—I thought the Indians had a perfect right to recognize their people.

Q. You thought that?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Have you had occasion lately to inquire about that?

A. Well, I know that the Indians had a right to adopt and deny any who they pleased, and then the Government—the agent should sanction it.

183 Q. And is it not true that if the tribe should adopt, that that adoption requires the approval of the Commissioner?

A. I never knew that. I think they can adopt them without; that is my theory about it.

Q. Do you know of any case where there has been a contest over the matter lately from which you can form an opinion?

A. No, just in our case. My wife's case and my sisters down in the Osages, they were adopted and received into membership.

Q. By what tribe?

A. By the Osages.

Q. As far as you know the Commissioner of Indian Affairs approved of that adoption?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. Well, did you not know that a question of that kind arose on this reservation when Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan sought adoption into the tribe that the matter was submitted to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and there disapproved?

A. Yes, but if they had complied with the Indian request at the time they could have done as I did.

Q. Don't you know the fact that the matter went to the Commismissioner of Indian Affairs, and that he finally acted upon the matter?

A. No, I do not know that.

Q. Have you not so heard that and understood it?

A. I understood this rejection and these things, but I thought that the Indians could receive and adopt who they pleased. That has been my theory all the time. These people all have been invited when I was received in Major Paynter's time.

184 All these people had been invited here. All these Omahas here that is in this house today had been called for.

Q. Name those that you refer to?

A. Antoine Barada, Margaret Sloan, Michael Barada, Mrs. Peters, and in fact they are too numerous to mention, in the years I came up here.

Q. Since you have given out new matter I will have to ask you a few more questions. Mr. Cabana, did you see any letter of invitation to Margaret Sloan to come to the reservation?

A. I did not see any letters.

Q. Did you see any letter to Peters, or any one of those persons you have named to come to the Omaha reservation?

A. I saw no letters, but privately. I was instructed privately by the agent and the Indians.

Q. Will you please tell me the name of the agent that privately said to you to ask either Sloan, or Peters to come to the reservation?

A. Major Paynter.

Q. Major Paynter was the agent?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Now where was Major Paynter when he privately said to you to ask these people to come to the reservation?

A. What I mean privately is personal standing in the council.

Q. I am asking you, where was this?

A. At the agency, at the Omaha agency.

Q. When?

A. About 1859 I guess.

185 Q. About 1859 or earlier than that? What particular person did Paynter ask you privately to have come to the reservation in 1859?

A. Major Paynter did not know the people; but the Indian leaders told me that he wanted all their people here, and told me to tell them to come.

Q. You think it was Paynter?

A. The agent also sanctioned. These Indians now today I can prove it by them.

Q. When Paynter told you that in 1859 did you go and tell these people that you have named, in 1859 what Paynter said to you?

A. I did.

Q. But they did not come, did they?

A. They could not come, some of them.

Q. They did not come?

A. Some came.

Q. Well, now, just a moment. Who came in 1859 on your invitation?

A. I do not know; they came years afterwards.

Q. Which one of those persons, and you name them; which one of those persons came on an invitation that Paynter gave you in 1859, give the name of the Indian that came?

A. They did not come in 1859, they could not, but they came soon afterwards.

Q. It is the name of the Indian that I asked you about, did you tell them before they came?

A. All my sisters came afterwards.

186 Q. Name one of these Indians that are here. You are speaking of these here. Now, name them, of one of them that you went to and told them what Paynter said?

A. Mike Barada came, and William Ed. Sloan came.

Q. Now wait a minute. When did you go and tell Mike Barada what Paynter said to you?

A. Mike Barada knew it as well as I did.

Q. You got the invitation as I understood from Paynter privately to tell it?

A. I did not privately. I told you that the Indian council was there when they agreed on it.

Q. You told Mike Barada, when and where did you tell him?

A. I went back to Richardson county to tell him, to tell them all.

Q. Did Mike Barada come when you told him that?

A. Yes sir, Mike was here.

Q. When did Mike Barada come?

A. I guess he came, Mrs. Barada.

Q. I am talking about Mike.

A. Mike Barada was here in 1861 or 1862. He was here backward and forward, we thought nothing of it.

Q. Now did you ever tell William Ed Sloan what Paynter told you?

A. Yes sir.

Q. When and where did you tell William Ed Sloan about that?

A. I told him in Richardson county.

Q. Did William Ed Sloan go to the reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. When?

A. Shortly after that. They came up in 1862.

187 Q. Is it not true that William Ed Sloan never had an allotment on the Omaha reservation in his life time?

A. I did not say he had.

Q. He never was received by the Omaha Indian tribes and placed on the annuity roll or received an allotment of lands?

A. I do not know that he did.

Q. Did Mike Barada ever receive an allotment on the Omaha reservation?

A. No.

Q. Well, now then these two persons that you have named that you say that you invited to come on the invitation from Paynter, it transpires that neither of these persons were ever received by the Omaha tribe as members thereof, and they never received an allotment of land?

A. I did not say that Major Paynter himself privately, but I said the Indian council and the agent. I came up on that myself. I am one of them that came up.

Q. Is it not true that not one of the persons who are involved in these lawsuits ever came here and received an allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation on account of any invitation of Paynter, of the Omaha council, or of anybody else?

A. Mr. Barada came here, the old gentleman, and they offered him land, but he was mad and returned home, old man Barada did.

Q. What did he come here for if he got mad?

A. He thought he would come here, and he thought they thought more of him than that; they used to recognize him in going backward and forward; the Omahas would stop there and feast with them.

188 Q. What did he get mad about?

A. I could not tell you.

Q. He would not stay here?

A. No; they offered him land and he would not take it.

Q. Then as a matter of fact he never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians?

A. No.

Q. Then it required something more than what Paynter said to you to make these people members of the Omaha tribe and entitle them to allotments of land, was it not?

A. I think we belonged to the tribe from the time we were born.

Q. You thought you was?

A. Yes sir, I think they were too. They have aunts and uncles that knew more about it than I did.

Q. Your idea was that everybody belonged to the Indian tribe if they had any Indian blood in their veins at all?

A. No sir. I knew the difference between the white man and the Iowa Indian or the Otoe Indian, or the Omaha. I knew we had to prove who we were.

Q. You had to go to the tribe and prove to the tribe that you had Indian blood before you were received or recognized?

A. My dear sir, they knew me better than I did them.

Q. Why did you say you had to prove up?

A. I proved up in Richardson county under the treaty of 1830.

Q. You had to prove up your right?

A. That we were Omahas.

Q. You had to prove that you were mixed blood before you could get an allotment on the Omaha reservation?

A. Yes sir. We gained from that time on.

189 Q. You mean simply that you were of the mixed blood Omahas?

A. Yes, sir, but we had to be of Omaha blood and Iowa blood and Otoe blood and Santee band of Sioux blood; we knew that.

Q. You knew at the same time, did you not that the law entitled you to an allotment on the Nemaha reservation if you were of the mixed blood Omaha?

A. Yes sir; I was to prove that. There is intrigues in everything. In 1849 to 1859 these Indians were nice people, they were good and generous.

Q. Their degeneration has come since you people got a lot of white blood mixed in with them?

A. They are so now that they are as mean as anybody. I never had trouble with the Omahas.

Q. Do you live on the reservation?

A. I live in the town, but my farm is right next to town. I have lived there. I left there in March and went to town. I am going back again to the reservation.

Q. Will you tell me the names of some of the Indians that were at that council at the time when you say Paynter told you to ask these people that you have named to come to the reservation?

A. I do not believe I can, I do not believe. Fontenelle might if he was living. Lieb, I do not know as to Lieb, whether he would either, I know we were all there. Some of the old blanket fellows might know. I do not believe they were old enough. I do not know but White Horse would, but I could not name whether they were there or not?

Q. You cannot now tell the name of any Indian that was at that council that heard the conversation that you speak of?

190 A. Oh, I guess I could.

Q. Tell me some Indian that was there? Was Wajapa there?

A. I do not know. He might have.

Q. Was White Horse there?

A. I did not know him at that time.

Q. Was Sinta Haha there?

A. I do not think so; he might have been somewhere around, playing around the agency.

Q. Is it your idea then that all the men that were likely at that council, or had this conversation with you are now dead?

A. No, I do not have that idea, but I know there is some of them living, but I could not name them. I am not very well acquainted with them by names you know, and they know me better than I know them. I do not mix in with them much only I bid them the time of the day.

Q. You think a good deal of the Omaha Indians?

A. I do.

Q. Did anybody authorize you to say you did not know them and cannot call their names?

A. I did not say I did not know them, but I cannot tell their names. I know some few of them. They know me better than I know them.

Q. The truth is, Cabana, that you are for all practical purposes, a white man and you have a white wife, and you associate with the white people, and you do not know anything about these Indians except you have an allotment on the reservation and draw an annuity?

191 A. That is my privilege. I know them, and I do not suppose I got an enemy amongst them.

Re-direct examination.

Questions by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. From whom did you take your blood—I mean your Indian blood, your father or your mother?

A. My mother, a pretty good old woman she was too.

Q. Who was the agent that placed the names of your son, Tom Cabana and his wife upon the annuity roll?

A. I cannot tell that now; I do not recollect. I was away pretty near most of the time you know.

Q. Don't you remember that it was Spencer that did it?

A. Spencer done some of it.

Q. Where was your son Tom at the time the allotment was made by Miss Fletcher? Was he not in California at that time?

A. I believe he was.

Q. And it was not until after the allotment was made that his name was placed on the annuity pay-roll, was it—

A. It was shortly after that.

Q. Was there a delegation of Omaha Indians that came to the Nemaha reservation and gave notice that the mixed bloods should come to the reservation and take allotments under the treaty of 1865?

A. Nemaha reservation, was it not? They came there.

Q. They came there and told them to come up here and take their allotments?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did any such delegation of Indians come to you?

192 A. Yes sir; they came to me.

Q. Did they give you notice to come up and take allotments?

A. They notified us all. They went to Baradas and Sloans and there they killed them a beef and hogs, and visited them, and they would recognize us when they passed through the country going down to the Iowas, and going down to the Osages, and all them southern Indians, and make it their business to stop.

Q. After you got that notice did you come up and make a selection of land?

A. I made it before that. There is some Indian agent. Paynter said that I could make my selection.

Recross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Mr. Cabana, are you a relative of the Sloans and the Peters?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And of course you have quite a friendly interest in having them succeed?

A. I believe they are perfectly entitled to it. I would not say it if they were not. I cannot help but feel for my aunts and uncles, that would be natural.

Q. And you know at the same time the tribe have me appointed to resist their claims?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And are denying their rights in this litigation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. So in that respect, Mr. Cabana, an Omaha Indian as you say, you are standing up here and fighting your tribe, are you not?

A. No sir.

193 Q. You are trying to do justice?

A. They came to me this way. Fontenelle asked me for money, says I, Henry, is it advisable, would it be practical for me to give you money to fight my brother, your aunt or uncle? I would not listen to them. I think they are just as much entitled to this land as I am.

Q. You cannot get into a quarrel with me on that proposition?

A. I am sorry this thing has taken place.

Witness excused.

By consent of the parties hereto, the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

202 Q. Mr. Springer, in all of these instances that you have mentioned the mother was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the mother was so recognized by the tribe before the birth of these children?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Then in no one instance that your attention has been called to was the case of the adoption into the tribe of a child where neither one of the parents were members of the Omaha tribe of Indians?

A. No sir.

Q. Then the fact is that no child is put upon the roll unless one of the parents was theretofore and at the time a member of the tribe?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And is it not true that even in that case that I have mentioned where one of the parents was a member of the tribe, that the question of whether or not the child shall be accepted into the tribe and its name go upon the annuity roll, is a question to be submitted to the Indian agent or the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?

A. That is true.

Mr. SLOAN: What is true?

Q. By that do you mean that it must have the approval of the agent and the Commissioner?

A. Where the mother or the father is a recognized member of the tribe and the child—if a child is born to them, the child is recognized as a member of the tribe without reference to either the agent or the Commissioner.

203 Q. Can the name go upon the roll without the approval of the agent?

A. I think it can.

Q. How?

A. I think so, yes sir.

Q. Does not the agent make up the annuity roll?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Can anybody put a name on the annuity roll other than the agent?

A. No sir.

Q. Then if a name goes on the annuity roll it is first submitted to the agent and by him approved before it is entered upon the roll?

A. Yes sir.

By Mr. SLOAN:

Q. Is it not the duty of the agent to enter up the name of such child whether he cares to approve of it or not under the custom?

A. Well, I do not know to that extent, but I know that where a parent, either mother or father is a member of the tribe and has a child born to them, that it has been a custom to put that child upon the roll as a recognized member of the tribe.

Q. And when it is reported to the agent it is his duty to do so?

A. Well, it always has been to my knowledge.

By Mr. WEBSTER:

Q. Don't you know it to be a fact that the agent does not do so without getting the approval of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?

A. I presume that is true.

204 Q. Then it is not true that the name cannot go upon the roll without having the approval of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?

Mr. SLOAN: Let me interject there as a matter of explanation and thus save me putting on other witnesses:

Are the annuity rolls before they are ever paid sent to the Commissioner for approval, or are they not made up and immediately paid? Does the roll ever go forward to be approved before payment?

A. No sir, they are made up here and then paid before they are sent to the Commissioner.

By Mr. WEBSTER:

Q. Then is it not true that the name cannot go upon the roll without having the approval of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?

A. I do not know.

Q. Let me see whether these children you refer to are not children that have been born upon and lived upon the Indian reservation as other children on the Indian reservation are brought up. For illustration. I will call your attention to some of the names you mention. The child of Clara S. Hogan or rather the children of Clara S. Hogan, four in number; Clara S. Hogan is a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Now the four children were born upon and brought up on the reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And live there now?
205 A. Yes sir.
Q. Take the case of Edward Farley, there were 8 children that were born on the Indian reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And live on the Indian reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. On lands allotted to their mother?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Is that true of the Hogan family, that they were born, and live on lands allotted to their mother on the Omaha Indian reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. We will take next the Lamson family, nine children, were they born on the Indian reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And brought up on the Indian reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And live on the Omaha Indian reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Then, Mr. Springer, without going through the entire list, is it not true that substantially all the children that you have named in response to the questions of Mr. Sloan, were cases where the children were born upon the reservation, lived upon the reservation, and upon lands which had been allotted to their parents on the Indian reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. So that to all intents and purposes the children referred to in your answers to Mr. Sloan were Indian children which had 206 been born, educated and brought up on the Omaha Indian reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And upon land which had been allotted to their parents?
A. Yes sir.

Redirect examination.

Questions by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. In respect to Josephine Lamson, was she born on the Omaha Indian reservation?
A. I do not know.
Q. Is it not true that she was born upon her father's homestead down in Burt county?
A. I do not know.
Q. You do not know that she was born on the Indian reservation?
A. No sir.

Q. Do you know where Phillis Hull was born?
A. I do not.
Q. You do not know that she was born on the reservation?
A. No sir.
Q. Do you know the fact that Guy N. Lambert was born off of the reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And Fred Essex' child?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How about the children of Mary Cabana and William Lewis, were they born on the reservation?
A. I do not know.
Q. Is it not a fact that they were born in Bancroft?
A. I do not know.
207 Q. Well, here is a case you possibly know about. Eliza Campbell, is it not a fact that she was born down in Richardson county?
A. I do not know.
Q. Do you know the fact that she was a grown girl when the family moved to the reservation?
A. I knew that they came over there quite small.
Q. But all of them were children and had been born, that is namely, Eliza Campbell, Ida Campbell, William Campbell, Pearly Campbell, that they were all children that were not born on the Omaha reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And that their father was a white man?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And that they were not on the annuity rolls until after they moved up here?
A. Well, as to that I do not know.
Q. Well, now then, take the children of Swan Olsen, do you know whether they were born on the reservation or not?
A. I know that the girl was born on the reservation.
Q. The other one was born on a farm down in Cuming county, was it not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Then as a matter of fact the hurried questions which Mr. Webster put to you, show in some instances as you have stated in answer to my questions, that there are exceptions then from the general answer to his questions?
A. Practically the bulk of them were born upon the reservation.
208 Q. The larger part?
A. Yes sir.
Q. But there are exceptions that were not, those that have been mentioned?
A. Excepting those that have been mentioned.

Q. Now, do you know where the children of Josephine Von Felden were born?

A. I do not.

Q. Is it not a fact that she has two or three children that were born away from this reservation? The last annuity roll shows three children? Guy, Garry and Roy?

A. It strikes me that the two oldest ones were born on the reservation.

Q. And how about the other?

A. I do not know that they had not been.

Q. You know that they were absent from the reservation three or four years?

A. Yes sir.

Q. In regard to the child of the youngest child of Lizzie Wickersham?

A. If they had a young child, I did not know it.

Q. If there has been a child born to the Wickershams within the past two years, it has been born on the Indian reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the father is a white man?

A. Yes sir.

Witness excused.

By consent of the parties hereto, the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

209 CHARLES P. MATHEWSON, a witness, produced on behalf of the complainants, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. How long have you been familiar with the official business and customs of the Omaha tribe of Indians?

A. Twelve years.

Q. During the past twelve years what has been the custom in regard to the enrollment of those children born of Indian women of full blood, or part Indian blood being issued by white men?

A. They have been placed upon the rolls.

Q. Upon what representation, to you, or through agents during that period of time?

A. The same as other members of the tribe, the information is given to us generally when we are taking a census for the purpose of making annuity payment, the council is present, and it is reported that there has been a birth in the family, the name is given and then placed on the roll.

Q. For instance where mixed blood Indian women, like Mrs. Von Felden, whose husband is a white man, residing in Wisconsin, what notice do you require of her for the enrollment of her children where they were born?

A. In her case; in one instance in my mind, she has written us giving the name and date and birth of the child. I think her brother has confirmed the statement orally, informed me of the birth.

210 Q. Has the right of such children, when born been recognized as a right under the general usages and customs of the Omaha tribe during the past twelve years?

A. I think it has.

Q. Do you know?

A. So far as my knowledge, it has. I have not been there all the time in the twelve years, but so far as I know that is the case.

Q. During the eight years of your actual experience that has been the custom, has it?

A. It has.

Q. Has it at any time been required that such enrollments be submitted to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for approval before the payment of annuity money?

A. It is not. It has not.

Q. Has there ever been any objection made to the enrollment of children of mixed blood — Omaha Indian women because of the fact that the father was a white man and not a member of the tribe?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. If such objection had been made during the eight years of which you were actively in charge of the work, would you have known it.

A. I think I should.

Q. Were there a number of such children enrolled during the time that you had charge of that work?

A. There was.

Q. Does the fact of whether or not such child or children had been off the reservation make any difference in regard to their enrollment?

211 A. No.

Cross examination

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. The case you refer to, or rather the cases you refer to are where one of the parents was a recognized member of the tribe?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You never enroll an Indian child unless one of the parents is a recognized member of the tribe, do you?

A. No sir, we do not.

Q. Where the tribal relation has been disputed as to both parents such enrollment is never made?

A. It is not.

Q. And under that rule you speak of you could not enroll any of the children of any of the plaintiffs in these suits?

A. No, sir.

Questions by Mr. SLOAN:

Q. Why not?

A. We have no authority to place them on the roll.

Q. Weren't you directed by the Commissioner not to enroll any of the allotments, or any of the descendants?

A. There was something of the kind in the Ashley administration, but I cannot recall just what it was. I think there was some communication of that kind.

Q. And that was the basis of the order as you have carried — into effect since, has it not?

A. Not only in this case but any—we have no authority to place any one on the roll whether we have allotments or not without authority from the Commissioner except from those in families that are on the rolls.

212 Q. Where some one of the parents are?

A. Yes sir. We have no authority to place anyone on the roll except from those in families that are on the rolls.

Q. You have however in your capacity as agent received authority from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to enroll persons who have removed to the reservation and have been off the rolls for some time, have you not?

A. I think so in the case of the Winnebagos.

By Mr. WEBSTER:

Q. You never received any such instruction with reference to the Omahas?

A. I think there has been no case of that kind.

Q. So that during the 12 years of your knowledge of the Omaha tribe, no child has ever been enrolled unless the parents were recognized members of the tribe?

A. One member—one of the parents was a recognized member of the tribe?

Q. The mere fact that the child had Indian blood in its veins would not entitle it to go on the rolls?

A. Not on any authority that the agent would have.

Q. And you have never known a case have you, where a child even though it had Indian blood in its veins was enrolled, unless the parents, one or the other, were recognized members of the tribe?

A. Not when I have been acting in any official capacity there.

Q. You know of no custom or usage by which a child under such circumstances could be enrolled unless that child was adopted into the tribe and the adoption was approved by the Commissioner?

A. No, I do not.

213 Q. You do know, do you not, that where there is a question as to whether a person is a member of the tribe or not, that that question must be submitted to the approval of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?

A. That is correct.

Q. The agent would not have any right to decide that question and admit a person into the tribe, or recognize the admission of the person into the tribe without the matter first being submitted to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and having his approval?

A. That is as I understand it.

Witness excused.

By consent of the parties here, the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

214 EMILY CAMPBELL, a witness, produced in behalf of the complainants, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. You knew Mrs. Teresa Fuller, did you?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What degree of Indian blood was she, if you know?

A. I think she was a quarter.

Q. Was her husband a white man or an Indian?

A. A white man.

Q. Did she have an allotment of land on the Nemaha reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did she make her home there?

A. Yes sir.

Mr. WEBSTER: The defendants object to the testimony relating to the Fullers, for the reason that they are not parties plaintiff in any of the present suits.

Q. Did Teresa Fuller and her family ever have a residence or home on the present Omaha reservation?

A. I do not think they did.

Q. When they removed from the Nemaha reservation where did they go?

A. What?

Q. I say when they removed from the Nemaha reservation where did they go?

A. They went down to the Osages.

Q. In Indian Territory?

215 A. Yes sir.

Q. She has an allotment on this reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And has never lived on it?

A. No sir.

Cross-examination waived.

By consent of the parties hereto, the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

216 I do hereby certify that the above named witnesses, Stephen J. Snyder, Anna Cabana, Mrs. Artemesia Frost, Antoine Cabana, William F. Springer, Charles P. Mathewson and Emily Campbell were first duly sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, that their depositions were reduced to writing in the presence of the witnesses respectively, and by me type-written, and that their signatures to said depositions were waived. That said depositions were taken pursuant to the agreement of parties at Pender, Nebraska, on the 22nd day of August, 1902, that both complainants and defendants were present by counsel at the taking of said depositions.

14153–1883. UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
OMAHA AND WINNEBAGO AGENCY, July 28″, 1883.

Hon. H. Price, Comm'r of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following typical case, and ask the approval of my decision:

Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of 7 children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis. Euphrasia, some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man by whom she had several children.

All the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to 80 acres and this is now mortgaged. After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter and did service at St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the late war. He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

According to the letter from the Secretary of the Interior dated June 1st, 1883, and enclosed in one from the Indian Bureau, I am instructed to carry out the allotments as "the law directs."

After a careful consideration of just what that may mean, I have concluded that it means in accordance with art. 4 of the 219 treaty of 1865, of which the act of August 7, 1882, is supplementary. Art. 4 of the treaty of 1866, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them." This art. therefore excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters, from sharing in the present division of the land, moreover, the Indians through their counselmen inclined to insist upon a strict construction of this art. 4. Since my arrival a full counsel has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the counselmen and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers and for members of the tribe living here. This objection is a serious one and I know it to be well taken by my personal field observations.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best land.

Therefore, in view of art. 4 of the treaty of 1866, and of the unanimous wish of the tribe expressed in open counsel, I decide that Mrs. Ephrasia Peters, is not entitled to an allotment of land on the Omaha reserve.

Very respectfully,

A. C. FLETCHER,
Special U. S. Ind. Agent.

UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
OMAHA AND WINNEBAGO AGENCY, Sept. 4, 1883.

Hon. H. Price, Comm'r of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Your letter of July 30 marked L. 13664–83, in reference to the claim of Celestia Kuhn, to an allotment of land on the Omaha reserve, and enclosing copy of her letter to Judge Dundy of Omaha, Neb. craving his influence with the department, in her behalf, is received.

The facts of the case are as follows:

Celestia Kuhn is one of the seven living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed. She was born of a white mother, (French) in St. Louis and has lived all her life away from the Omaha tribe. She has at the present time land on the Nemaha half-breed reserve. This last spring she came to the Omaha reserve with her husband, a white man, and their children to claim relationship with the Omaha Indians and to secure, if possible, allotments of land.

221 According to the letter of instructions received from the department, under date of June 1st, enclosing a letter from the Secretary of the Interior, directing me to allot the land as "the law directs," and that law being art. 4, of the treaty of 1866, of which the bill approved Aug. 7" 1882, is supplementary, and art. 4, distinctly stating that only the mixed bloods residing at the time with the Omahas shall be entitled to allotments of land, and as neither Antoine Barada or any of his children, including Celestia Kuhn, were at the time living with the Omahas, but residing on lands they had received by virtue of their mixed blood, on the Nemaha half-breed reserve, I submit the following decision for approval:

That Celestia Kuhn, daughter of Antoine Barada, is not entitled to an allotment of land on the Omaha reserve.

In this connection, I would call attention to my letter to the department under date of July 28", stating the case of Eu-phrasia Peters, sister to Celestia Kuhn, and to your reply "A. 14153–83, Aug. 9, containing your decision in that case.

Very respectfully, A. C. FLETCHER,
Special U. S. Ind. Agent.

WINNEBAGO IND. AGENCY, NEBR., Aug. 28, 1883.

Maj. Larrabee.

DEAR SIR: Your kind letter came duly & was welcome. Thanks for the interest & care you take in my work. I hope that it will be successful & I think it will. The Indians are learning a great deal, and they are gaining in larger ideas of life and duty.

There were two important letters that reached Washington just after you had left. I wish you would acquaint yourself with 222 their contents. They were typical & test cases. One of Euphrasia Peters, & one, John Provost. Mrs. Peters belongs to a set of mixed bloods who have lands in Nemaha, Richardson Co. Nebr. and have come up here on a land speculation. She is the daughter of Antoine Barada a half-breed by a white woman (French). His children were born & raised away from the Omahas and only claimed relationship to draw money, years ago—& when that ceased to be issued no more was heard of them until the present bill was in existence. These people are only the forerunners of swarms of people who have no right here at all.

You will see my letters. The Commissioner has approved my decisions—there is however one thing I would like for my own safety, & that is the confirmation of his approval by the Sec'y of the Interior, for this reason—the Kuhns, Mrs. Kuhn is sister to Mrs. Peters, (the men are white men) are trying to use political influence to get in on this reserve. They have got Judge Dundy to write a letter in their behalf and what is more, in spite of my direct order, enforced by the agent, they have selected their allotment, built a house & declare they will stay "anyhow." Now it is because of these people, who defy authority, who have no claim whatever to the land, who are doing harm daily to the Indians by their actions—that I would like the confirmation of the Hon. Commissioner's decision by the Sec'y.—The Indians in a large open council forbade these people to stay, & according to law they have no possible right here. I will send on the Kuhn case in a few days. What shall I do about it? Will you explain it to the Commissioner? If these people work up some political influence & succeed in getting the Sec'y's consent, it will do great harm to the Indians here. The Omahas cling to the art. 4 of their treaty & will not consent to these intruders remaining.

223 I know you will be sorry to hear that the great exposures of camping in the terrible weather of the past summer have brought on an attack of inflammatory rheumatism & all my vacation has been spent in bed—I write lying down so you will excuse—

I hope soon to get on crutches. This is my first & I hope last attack. I've lost over 30 lbs. the Dr. says.

Give my cordial greeting to the Hon. Com'r to Miss Cook & the others of the office, & believe me, Gratefully & sincerely y'rs, A. C. FLETCHER.

L. 16623–1883.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
WASHINGTON, Sept. 13th, 1883.

Miss A. C. Fletcher, U. S. special agent, Omaha and Winnebago agency, Nebraska.

MDLLE.: I am in receipt of your report dated September 4, made in compliance with office instructions of July 30, last, relative to the claim of Celestia Kuhn (née Barada) to an allotment of land on the Omaha reservation, under the provisions of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 Stats., 341).

After reciting the facts in the case, you express the opinion that the said Celestia Kuhn is not entitled to an allotment and you ask that your decision in the case be approved.

It appears that the applicant is one of seven living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a 224 white mother (French) in St. Louis, Mo. and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation, with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which the allotments to the Omahas are being made relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stat. 667), which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned "to members of the tribe, including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them."

I find in the files of this office, a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe, showing the names of those who were properly entitled to selections of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections. Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the Superintendent of Indian Affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 21, 1871, was approved by the Secretary of the Interior,—January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada, (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn, formerly Barada, appears on said schedule and it is proper to conclude therefore, that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant was not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty, or more 225 recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made, were intended as a general invitation to all persons everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or two of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment, manifestly, such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough on the entire reservation to go around in that way. Besides, the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians.

Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation.

Very respectfully, H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

LARRABEE.

Hon. H. Price, Comm'r of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter dated September 13" No. 16623–83 relative to Celestia Kuhn.

The Kuhn family are disposed to test their rights here.

Although they had been told by the agent and myself that they could not select land and enter upon it until word had been received from the department as to their application for allotments, they have settled upon claims, built a house and propose to 226 remain. They depend upon political influence to push their claim.

According to the treaty which is the law governing these allotments the Kuhn family have no right here, the whole matter is set forth in my letter of the 4th inst. and in the answer received from the department confirming my decision.

In view of the situation and to forestall and preclude any further trouble and contention I would respectfully ask the Hon. Commissioner if it would be possible to have his decision contained in letter No. 16623, dated September 13", 1883, confirmed by the Secretary of the Interior, that there may be no possible appeal left these people who are breeding much trouble among the Indians.

The tribe are unanimous against these mixed bloods remaining on the reservation. A council was held today in which the councilmen urged the Government to free them at once from these people who are trying to "eat up the land."

Very respectfully,

A. C. FLETCHER,
Special U. S. Ind. Agent.

MADAM: Referring to your letter of the 25th ultimo, regarding the Kuhn family, who declare to you their intention to 227 remain on the reservation and test their rights, in defiance of the authority of this office, I have to say that I have by letter of this date directed Agent Wilkinson to take immediate steps to remove said family beyond the limits of the reservation.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
WASHINGTON, October 5th, 1883.

Geo. W. Wilkinson, Esq., U. S. Indian agent, Omaha and Winnebago agency, Nebraska.

SIR: Miss A. C. Fletcher, U. S. special agent, reports to this office, under date of September 25, 1883, that a family by the name of Kuhn have taken up lands and built a house on the Omaha reservation, announcing their intention to remain there in defiance of the recent decision and directions of this office in their case.

It appears that this family removed to the reservation, in the spring of the present year, with a view to securing an allotment of land under the provisions of section 5 of the act of August 7, 1882, (22 Stat. 341) by virtue of the relationship they claim to the Omaha Indians.

228 The facts of the case as reported by Miss Fletcher in letter of September 4th last, are substantially as follows:

Celestia Kuhn is one of seven living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed, she was born of a white mother (French) in St. Louis, and has never lived with the Omaha tribe. She has a white husband, and children who accompanied her to the reservation on her removal there in the spring. Neither Antoine Barada (her father) nor any of his children were living with the Omahas at the date of the treaty of 1865. (14 Stat., 667) but were living upon lands secured to them by the provisions of a former treaty article X treaty July 15, 1830. Stat. vol. 7 p. 330.

Accordingly Miss Fletcher decided that Celestia Kuhn was not entitled to an allotment and asked for the approval of her decision by this office.

By letter of Sept. 13, 1883, Miss Fletcher was advised that her decision was approved, and at the same time directed to notify Mrs. Kuhn and family to remove from the reservation.

That the law under which the allotments to the Omahas are being made relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, there can be no question. That treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned "to members of the tribe, including their half or mixed "blood relatives now residing with them." I believe it is not contended and it seems perfectly clear that the present claimant was not living with the tribe at the date of said treaty. Manifestly then she was not a beneficiary under said treaty in respect of the allotments therein provided; for only those half or mixed blood relatives then residing with them could be so entitled.

The Omahas had already by a former treaty (July 15, 1830) provided for such of their half-breed brethren as were not residing with them at the date of the treaty aforesaid, and it was 229 undoubtedly by reason of such prior beneficial provision that the restriction was made in the treaty of 1865, limiting the allotments to "the half or mixed bloods relatives then residing with them."

This very Barada family has thus been provided for, and I find that 320 acres of land were allotted and patented to Celestine Barada, individually, within the Nemaha half-breed reserve, where it appears she and her father were living when the treaty of 1865 was concluded.

In the records of this office there is a schedule duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe, showing the names of those who were properly entitled to selections of land under the treaty of 1865 aforesaid.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of Celestia Barada, or Kuhn, appears thereon, and it is proper to conclude that they were not recognized either as members of the tribe or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them. If Mrs. Kuhn was not entitled to an allotment then, she certainly is not entitled now. The conditions remain the same. She has in no manner been identified with the tribe since that time; has not been adopted into the tribe, nor lived with them until the very recent period spoken of.

As was remarked to Miss Fletcher, it would be absurd to contend that the treaty of 1865 or the more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made, were intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to repair to the reservation and select an allotment. Manifestly such was not the intention, nor will any such construction be admitted in making the allotments.

230 It is not at all likely in the first place, that there would be land enough on the entire reservation to go around in that way, and it is clear from the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn to remain on the reservation, that the Indians would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and the language of the act shows that it was not the intention of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians.

It appears from Miss Fletcher's report of the 25th September, to which reference has been made, that the Omahas are unanimously opposed to permitting Mrs. Kuhn and family to remain on the reservation, and that their presence there is breeding trouble. In a council held on the above date they urged that the Government take steps to relive them of the burden of these people.

In view of the decision made in their case by Miss Fletcher and approved by this office, and holding that they have no right to remain on the reservation, I have to direct that you take immediate steps to remove them beyond the limits of the reservation, using your police force for that purpose if it shall be found necessary.

Very respectfully, H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land. There is a man named Frank Peters who although he has Omaha blood in him

231 is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1866 from taking land on this reservation. Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told. We knew that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago, and that they had a chance to state their case, and the tribe told their side, and that the case was sent on to Washington and was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away. They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24 range 8 and broke forty acres. We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said he would not go until the Government should come and take him off. We have asked to have him sent away but nothing has been done. This winter other members of this family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law what we should do to save our land. We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land. The law under which our land was allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and that the land patented to the tribe shall be held just as safe as our individual land. If this man Peters or any other person is permitted to settle on tribal land and the Government does not by its law take the man away, we can not feel sure that our own farms will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and our tribal land. The law says that our children born during the twenty-five years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land. These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted land.

232 Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted, they thought they could not live away from the timber, out on the prairie but they see their mistake now, their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there, but these intruders are keeping us off good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land. Frank Peters will soon put in his crops and we do not want him allowed to do so. If this man is permitted to stay, there are a hundred who will make the same claim, and we be defrauded of our property.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
WASHINGTON, July 15, 1901.

I, W. A. Jones, Commissioner of Indian Affairs do hereby certify that the papers hereto attached are true copies of the originals as the same appear on file or of record in this office.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto subscribed my [SEAL.] name and caused the seal of this office to be affixed, on the day and year first above written.

W. A. JONES,
Commissioner.

236 8524–1884. UNITED STATES INDIAN SERVICE,
OMAHA AND WINNEBAGO AGENCY, April 26", 1884.

Hon. H. Price, Comm'r Indian Affairs.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter No. 1370 dated February 21, 1884, referring to me a letter addressed to the Hon. Commissioner by one Mrs. Artemesia F. S. Frost who claims to be an Omaha mixed blood, asking to be advised as to whether her and her children's claims on the Omaha reservation are still good, and for examination and such investigation of the case as I may be able to make.

In reply I have to say that in compliance with the above instructions I gathered what evidence I could pertaining to the case of Mrs. A. F. S. Frost, from both the Omahas and Mr. Frost, the latter representing Mrs. Frost, she being unable to be present at the investigation made in open council of the tribe, but failed to find any evidence to show that Mrs. Frost had lived with the Omahas in the year 1865 or that she was ever formally adopted into the tribe of Omahas and given any right to any of the land although given permission to draw annuities.

The enclosed affidavit of Mr. Frost was read before the open council but could not be corroborated by any of the old councilmen and soldiers through whom the Government transacted business with the tribe at the time mentioned by said Mr. Frost. The fact that Mr. Frost came upon the reservation and did some breaking in the Logan valley is not denied, but from the evidence given me by the Indians he was not invited to come on the reservation to take lands and do breaking thereon as was stated in the evidence given 237 by Mr. Frost. As no record of any kind has been kept of the council spoken of in Mr. Frost's affidavit wherein he says: "The chiefs, then and there instructed Agent Gillingham that my wife and all of her children be placed on the roll as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, with all the rights and all the privileges belonging to members of the tribe. That I should select the claims for my wife and children out of any land that was not taken;" and as neither the ex-U. S. interpreter Mr. Saunsoci, nor the old chiefs and soldiers could substantiate the above statement, I could obtain no official or other evidence to prove Mr. Frost's assertion.

In view of the evidence I would respectfully request that my decision that Mrs. Frost is not entitled to an allotment of land under the act of August 7, 1882 be approved.

Very respectfully,

A. C. FLETCHER,
Special U. S. Indian Agent.

Hon. H. Price, Comm'r of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I would respectfully submit the following decision in the case of Mrs. Margaret Sloan for approval.

Margaret Sloan is the daughter of a full blood Omaha woman and Michel Barada, a white man. She was born at Fort Calhoun, Nebraska, and taken early in life to St. Louis, Mo., to be educated, where she married Thomas Sloan a white man and afterward lived in St. Louis, Mo.; and upon her allotment of land given her as a half-breed Omaha in the Nemaha reservation. During her youth and early married life she made a few visits to her relatives living with the Omaha tribe. In 1857, Thomas Sloan was appointed to take charge of the mill then being built on the Omaha reservation and removed thither with his wife Margaret and their three children, William 19 years, John 11 years and Artemesia (now Mrs. Frost) 4 years of age. Mr. Sloan remained at the mill in the Government employ for two or three years. This period constitutes the only residence of Mrs. Sloan upon the Omaha reservation up to 1881, when she returned here with her grandson Thomas Sloan, the only child of her deceased son William who entered upon land and has made considerable improvements on his claim.

Mrs. Sloan claims a right to an allotment under the act of August 7, 1882, as she states that her husband, Thomas Sloan went into the army after he left the mill on the Omaha reservation and was in the army in the year 1865 and that as he entered the army from 239 this place his residence was the Omaha reservation and her constructive residence was that of her husband's.

Her claims have been fully investigated in an open council of the tribe and I have waited two months for further evidence promised by Mrs. Sloan tending to establish her husband's entrance into the army from the reservation but feel it now to be my duty to no longer delay action in her case.

According to the evidence given by the Indians Thomas Sloan and his family left the reserve in 1860, and according to all I can learn, his point of departure into the army can have no bearing on her case. By her own statement and the testimony of other persons, Mrs.

Sloan was not living with the Omahas at the time of the treaty of 1865, but upon her land on the Nemaha reserve, nor do the tribe in any way admit her claim to land here.

Therefore in view of all the evidence I have been able to gather I am constrained to decide that neither Mrs. Margaret Sloan nor her descendants are legally entitled to allotments of land upon the Omaha reservation under the act of August 7, 1882.

I enclose the sworn statement of Thomas Sloan as to his whereabouts in 1865 which is the only written evidence furnished me by Mrs. Sloan.

Very respectfully,

A. C. FLETCHER,
Special U. S. Indian Agent.

SIR: The enclosed statement of Mrs. Margaret Sloan, which I had the honor to submit under date of April 28, 1884.

Upon consideration of her statement, I find in it no new facts bearing upon her claim to receive an allotment. Her explanation of her absence from the tribe in the year 1865, being caused by her husband's placing her elsewhere to live during his employment in the U. S. service does not alter the fact that she was not here and consequently cut off from the provision of art. 4 in the treaty of March 6, 1865 concerning mixed-blood relatives to which treaty the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, refers back.

Very respectfully,

——— ———,

This is to certify that I was born among the Omaha Indians, on their lands near Calhoun, Nebraska of an Indian woman a sister of one of the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, Nois by name and it has been acknowledged by the Indians in open council at the Omaha agency the 24th day of March, 1884.

I have lived with the Omahas at Bellevue, Nebraska for a year or more and was there when they moved north. From 1857 until 1860 or 1861 my husband was employed at the Omaha mill as engineer with my oldest son as assistant during this time I was living with my family on the reservation.

About 1860 or 1861 my husband determine- to move to the southern part of the State so as to give his children the advantage of schooling, and provide for his family during his absence as he intended going into the U. S. service.

During the winter of 1862 and 1863 I was living on the reserve looking after the interests of myself and children, and left the reserve with the intention of coming back, on getting back to my family I found that my husband had made arrangements for going in the United States service and it was necessary for me to remain there, my husband went to St. Louis Mo., and was employed on the U. S. gun boats setting machinery and on vessels in the U. S. service as engineer during 1863, 1864, 1865.

During a portion of the years 1863 and 1864 while my husband was away in the U. S. service my son John was living on the reserve looking after the safety of property belonging to the family on the reserve at that time on his return he was sent to school in Philadelphia, Penn., and was at school during the year 1865.

244 During the absence of my husband most all of my property was stolen from me, horses, cattle, sheep, hog, farming implements and grain and I do declare that I have regarded the Omaha reserve as my home and being away particularly during 1865 was caused by circumstances beyond my control. The above is a true and correct statement to the best of my recollection and belief.

L. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, J. F. A.
8064–1888. OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS, E. S. W.
WASHINGTON, November 14, 1888.

To the honorable the Secretary of the Interior.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following quoted petition from Indians of the Omaha reservation, in Nebraska, relative to one

Frank Peters, with a statement of the action heretofore taken by this office in similar cases:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty we were told.

We knew that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

247 They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8, and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away; but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up, and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and that the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted land.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber, 248 out on the prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay a hundred others will make the same claim, and we will be defrauded of our property."

The foregoing petition is signed by 65 Indians of the Omaha reservation.

The allotment of land on the Omaha reservation was made under the provisions of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882 (22 Stat. 341); and the said act expressly stipulates and provides that the said allotments "shall be deemed and held to be in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty with the Omahas, concluded March 6, 1865, and for whom, for the most part certificates in the names of individual Indians to whom tracts have been assigned, have been issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, as in said article provided."

The fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, therein referred to (Stat. 14, 668) extended the benefits conferred thereby, in respect to allotments, to such only of their half or mixed relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty, the language of the said article being "including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them."

It will be observed that the Indians of the Omaha reser-
249 vation in their complaint to this office, charge that Frank Peters is not entitled to land on their reservation; that they admit that he has Omaha blood in his veins being of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by them on the Nemaha reservation; that the mixed bloods were excluded by the Omahas in their treaty of 1865, from taking lands on their reservation; that the Peters family tried four years ago when allotments were being made to the Omahas, to obtain allotments; that they, the Peters family, and other mixed bloods, were denied the right to allotments by the Omahas, and they ask for the removal of Frank Peters from their reservation.

It may be remarked here that as soon as the law became known, (I refer to the act of August 7, 1882, providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of lands in severalty to the members of the tribe), a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law.

Some of them were not born among the Omahas and none of them had been with the tribe for years—some 10 and others 20 or 30 years.

The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to this office by the special agent charged with the work of allotting the lands, for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotments.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding the cases of these absentee half, or mixed bloods, the following is quoted 250 from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother (French) in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to the members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selections of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office, January 21, 1871, was approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore, that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

251 If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons everywhere, who by hook or crook, might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around in that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians.

Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the half or mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe not admitted to their reservation by their consent, and not residing with them at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, I refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters and the action of this office thereon.

252 The last mentioned case was reported to this office by Miss Fletcher under date July 28, 1883, as a test case.

The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman, and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she has several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to 80 acres, and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister, Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character and so has his wife.

Article 4 of the treaty of 1865 defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed-blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover the Indians through their councilmen incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, 253 at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living here.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observations.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

In pursuance of article 4 of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and the una-imous wish of the Indians in open council, Miss Fletcher decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment of land on the Omaha reservation.

By letter of August 9, 1883, Miss Fletcher was advised that her decision in the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was approved by this office.

From the foregoing, it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, by this office, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

The party, Frank Peters, against whom complaint is made, is a mixed blood Omaha. He is not adopted by the tribe on the Omaha reservation; he was not residing with them when the treaty of March 6, 1865 was made; his name is not borne upon the duly cer-
254 tified roll of 1871, submitted by the Omaha council, disclosing the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation.

It would appear, therefore, that the said Peters is not entitled to allotment of lands on the Omaha reservation, under the treaty of March 6, 1865, and the provisions of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority.

It will be observed from the foregoing that this office as well as the Omaha tribe, takes the ground that none of the half breeds or mixed blood Omahas, living at the date of the treaty of 1865, who were not residing with the Omahas at that time, nor the descendants of such, are entitled to allotments on the Omaha reservation by reason of their relationship to the Omahas.

It appears from the records of this office, that there were some 70 half-breed Omahas who received patents for lands on the Great Nemaha reservation, and it is very important that the question of their rights or the rights of their descendants to land on the present Omaha reservation be determined.

A decision in the present case will settle the whole question. If you concur in the opinion above expressed, I have the honor to request authority to remove the said Peters and all others of a like class from the reservation.

Very respectfully,

JNO. H. OBERLY,
Commissioner.

255 R. V. B. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, J. C. C.
Authority 18975. WASHINGTON, Dec. 5, 1888.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th instant, upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation, in Nebraska relative to one Frank Peters, whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now has settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters, though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe on the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Stats. 668) was made, (the 4th article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments, to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty); that his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871; submitted by the Omaha council, which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation, which was approved by the department January 26, 1871; that upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of lands in severalty to the members of the tribe, a 256 number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation,—and among them the Peters family—came to the Omaha reservation, in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them, your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements, and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotment of lands on the Omaha reservation under the treaty of March 6, 1865, and the provisions of the acts of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully, WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

257 W. C. P. 34406. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, WASHINGTON, September 6, 1894. J. T. B.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 10th of July last, transmitting one from Captain Wm. H. Beck, U. S. A., acting Indian agent at the Omaha and Winnebago agency, Neb., with enclosures of six petitions by Omaha Indians asking that the names of Mrs. Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan be placed upon the rolls as members of that tribe—these petitions bearing the names of some one hundred and sixty persons, including those of nine of the eleven members of the tribal council. The acting agent states that these petitions were made after due deliberation in several open councils, in which the claims of the Sloans were presented, discussed and decided upon, with the result that the council and many other members of the tribe desire the adoption of the persons named, and that the signers took such action, believing that Thomas L. Sloan would be of benefit to them in the near future, as he would identify himself with the tribe, and from his ability and character, and knowledge of the tribe, be able to aid them in handling their lands. He further adds that the Omahas are divided into factions, and refers to one led by Henry Fontenelle and Silas Wood, ex-interpreter, who obtained a petition many months ago, secretly, and forwarded it to the department, representing that the Omahas did not desire Mr. Sloan to become a member of the tribe, which petition, the agent says, was signed largely without the authority of the signers.

This latter petition contained about 95 names, and anticipated
258 the action of the members of the council and other Indians of the tribe in the matter of adopting the Sloans as members, and embraced a statement or argument against the adoption of the said parties into the tribe—among other things, that about three years ago William L. Sloan, having met with no success before the department with his claim, resorted to the U. S. courts, and the tribe was asked to show cause why Sloan and many other part-blood Omahas, should not share in the annuities and lands of that tribe; that the oldest and best informed Indians of the tribe gave their testimony in that case, which cost the tribe nearly $3,000, with the result that the U. S. court, like the department, decided the case against Sloan and his co-petitioners, and that he is now seeking to gain by adoption into the tribe what he failed to secure before the department and the U. S. court; further, that it is not the wish of the tribe to have Sloan become a member of it, and adds that without stopping to say how many reasons there are why Mr. Sloan should not be admitted, they do say there is no reason for his adoption that could not be given for the adoption of any other white man.

pate in the use and enjoyment of the tribal properties, have been frequently before your office during the past eleven years, either independently or in connection with the claims of other Omaha half-breed claimants whose status is similar to that of the Sloans, and refer to a report of Miss Alice C. Fletcher, of April 28, 1884, who was then making allotments to the Omahas, in which she stated that Mrs. Sloan (who was the daughter of an Omaha woman and Michael Barada, a white man, and who holds an allotment on the Nemaha reserve as an Omaha half-breed) never lived upon the Omaha reservation until in 1857, when her husband, Thomas Sloan, a white 259 man, was appointed to take charge of the mill then being built on that reservation, where he remained in Government employ for two or three years, which period constitutes her only residence there up to 1881, when she returned thereto with her grandson, Thomas L., the only child of her deceased son William; that Mrs. Sloan and her grandson claimed the right to allotments on the Omaha reserve under the act of August 7, 1882, although section 5 of that act provided that such allotments shall be in lieu of those provided for in the 4th article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, with the Omahas, which said article provided for allotments in severalty to the Omaha Indians, "including their half or mixed blood relations now (then) residing with them;" that the schedule of selections of land in severalty under the said 4th article duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe, and certified and submitted by their agent to your office on December 30, 1870, which was approved by the department on January 26, 1871, embraces neither the name of Mrs. Sloan nor of her descendants; that her claims were fully investigated in an open council of the tribe and that the tribe does not in any way admit Mrs. Sloan's claim to land, and you say that Miss Fletcher accordingly decided that Mrs. Sloan and her descendants are not legally entitled to allotments under the said act of August 7, 1882, and that her decision was sustained by your office on May 9, 1884.

After reciting other facts in relation to the claims of the persons herein referred to, and the general status of the Omaha half-breed question at this time, and the opinions and decisions of your office and the department in these cases, which opinions and decisions have been uniformly adverse to the mixed-bloods, you state 260 that your office knows of no reason either for changing such decisions or for making an exception of the case now before it, and submit the question of the adoption of Mrs. Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereto, for the consideration and decision of the department.

The status of these claimants seems to be that they have failed to establish any rights to recognition as members of the Omaha tribe, and that they now seek to establish such rights through the petitions presented with your letter, which contain the names of certain members of that tribe, who apparently assent to their adoption, with all the rights and privileges as such members.

Aside from the general proposition that the question of adopting the Sloans as members of the tribe is one in a measure separate and distinct from their alleged rights as Omaha Indians by blood, and that such alleged right is not necessarily a test for such adoption, there remains the right to admission by the free will and consent of the tribe, if fairly and properly obtained.

Upon their faces, the several petitions presented with your letter seem to be in proper form and to express the desire of a majority of the members of the tribe that the persons in question shall be placed upon the rolls of the tribe, and be admitted to all the rights and privileges of the other members thereof.

Besides the opposing petition heretofore referred to, the department is in receipt of recent information which shows that of the one hundred and fifty-seven persons whose names appear on the six petitions presented with your letter, only seventy now favor the claimants; that eleven others have since assented to their adoption, making eighty-one in all now favorable; that twenty four of 261 the signatures thereon were not written by the parties whose names are given, nor was the use of their names authorized by them; that fifteen names were signed twice, and that the said petitions bear the names of nine boys and three women—neither of whom have any voice in such matters; that one of the nine members of the council purporting to have signed one of the petitions, did not so sign nor authorize the use of his name, and further, that there are one hundred and eighteen male members of the tribe of lawful age, who oppose the adoption of the Sloans.

Without expressing any opinion of the merits of the petitions in question, the facts presented seem to clearly establish the belief that it is the desire and wish of a majority of the members of the tribe that the Sloans be not admitted to membership and it is so ordered.

In reference to that part of your report wherein you state that Thomas L. Sloan has held and improved a tract of land since 1881 or 1882, on the Omaha reservation, it would seem that he is doing so in defiance of any legal authority of occupation.

The enclosures of your letter are returned herewith.

Very respectfully,

WM. H. SIMS,
Acting Secretary.

WASHINGTON, August 27, 1890.

Robert H. Ashley, Esq., U. S. Indian agent, Omaha & Winnebago agency, Winnebago, Nebraska.

SIR: I herewith enclose a copy of a letter of even date herewith addressed by this office to Rev. Thomas L. Sexton, giving a history of the claim of Mr. F. A. Peters to an allotment of land on the Omaha reservation, the rejection thereof by the department, and of the authority granted by the same for his removal, with others of a like class from the reservation. I also transmit a letter from Rev. Thomas L. Sexton, dated August 19, 1890, and a communication therewith enclosed from Mr. Peters of the 6th instant, asking to be enrolled as a member of the Omaha tribe and transmitting a copy of a communication bearing on the subject from R. W. Furnas, Esq., to Hon. C. H. Van Wyck.

You are instructed to require Mr. Peters and others of a like class to remove from the Omaha reservation. Should they fail to comply within a reasonable time, you will so report to this office giving the names of the parties and stating all facts in connection therewith. If any of the parties occupy individual allotments of other Indians, you will so report giving a description by legal subdivisions of the lands so occupied, with names of the allottees.

You will ascertain and report whether the allegation made by Mr. Peters in his said communication that many others who were given lands on the old Nemaha recervation, now hold allot-263 ments on the Omaha reserve, is correct, and if so, whether the Omahas consented to their admission to tribal rights.

You will return Mr. Sexton's letter with its enclosures with your report.

Very respectfully, T. J. MORGAN,
Commissioner.

L. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, F. A.
25845–1890. OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS, E. S. W.
WASHINGTON, August 27, 1890.

Rev. Thomas L. Sexton, Seward, Nebraska.

SIR: I have received your letter of August 19, 1890, transmitting with favorable mention one from Mr. F. A. Peters, dated Omaha agency, Nebraska, the 6th instant, claiming to have rights in the Omaha tribe, and asking to be enrolled as a member thereof, and given an allotment of land, &c., and enclosing a copy of a communication bearing on the subject, from Robert W. Furnas, Esq., to Hon. C. H. Van Wyck.

In reply I have to say, that the allotment of land on the Omaha reservation was made under the provisions of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 Stats. 341) which expressly stipulates and provides that such allotments shall be deemed and held to be in lieu of "the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty with the Omahas, concluded March 6th, 1865, and for whom for the most part certificates in the names of individual Indians to whom tracts have been assigned, have been issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs as in said article provided."

264 The fourth article of the treaty referred to (14 Stats. 668) extended the benefits conferred thereby, in respect to allotments, to such only of their half or mixed relatives, as were residing with them at the date of the treaty, the language of the article being "including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them."

As soon as the act of August 7, 1882, providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation and the allotments of lands in severalty to the members of the tribe became known a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law. The Indians of the Omaha reservation manifested the most determined opposition to such persons being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land. The instructions given by this office to the special agent making allotments on the Omaha reservation, concerning the class of claimants referred to were to the effect that none but members of the Omaha tribe and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865 whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871 of the Omahas—which was approved by the department—showing the names of those who were entitled to selections of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, or the descendants of those so enrolled, and such others as might have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

Under date of March 19, 1888, sixty-five Indians of the Omaha reservation addressed a communication to this office protesting against giving an allotment to Mr. Peters who was alleged to belong to one of the mixed blood families, provided with land 265 on the Nemaha reservation by the Omaha tribe by the 10th article of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7 Stats. 328).

This office submitted a report on the subject to the department under date of November 14, 1888, reciting the foregoing facts, and conclusions, and stating that Mr. Peters was not adopted by said tribe, was not residing with them when the treaty of March 6, 1865 was made, that his name is not borne upon said roll of those entitled to lands upon the Omaha reserve, that he was upon the reservation without authority, and recommending that authority be granted for his removal therefrom with all others of a like class.

The Secretary of the Interior, under date of December 5, 1888, granted authority as recommended for the removal of Mr. Peters and all others of a similar class from the reservation, and on the 15th of that month the agent at the Omaha and Winnebago agency was instructed to remove Mr. Peters and the others from the reservation. The agent reported April 3, that Mr. Peters refused to remove and he was again instructed May 10, 1889, to remove him, but it appears that this has not been done.

This office does not deem it advisable to take steps with a view to obtaining a reversal of the decision of the department against Mr. Peters.

Very respectfully, T. J. MORGAN,
Commissioner.

To the Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington.

SIR: In reply to office letter of Aug. 27th, 1890 "L" 25845–90" in relation to one F. A. Peters and others, I have the honor to report that I did on the 13th of September serve written notice on F. A. Peters, Walter Peters, William Barada and Luke Sailor to remove from the reservation, they all however inform me that they will not remove, until they are compelled to do so by process of law or force.

In regard to others who had land on the old Nemaha reservation holding allotments on the Omaha reservation, I find that such is the fact, but from the best information I can obtain, the Omahas consented to their admission to tribal rights. Letter and enclosures of Mr. Sexton said to be forwarded in your letter were not received.

Very respectfully, ROBERT H. ASHLEY,

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, C. F. L.
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2, 1890.

The honorable the Secretary of the Interior.

SIR: Referring to office report dated November 14, 1888 (copy herewith) requesting authority to remove one Frank Peters and all others of a like class from the Omaha reservation, in Nebraska, and to the reply of the department dated December 5, 1888 (copy enclosed) authorizing the removal of said Peters and any other persons who might be upon said reservation under a similar state of facts, and to office report of June 1st, 1889—copy enclosed—stating that said Peters had refused to comply with the requirement of this department to remove from the reservation, &c., I have to say that Robert H. Ashley, Esq., agent at Omaha and Winnebago agency, Nebraska, by letters dated respectively June 27 and August 26, 1890, reported that the Omaha Indians earnestly desired the removal of said Peters also Walter Peters, Wm. Barada and—(Luke) Sailor—designated as of the same class as said Frank Peters—from the unallotted lands of said reservation.

This office by letter dated August 27, 1890, instructed the agent to require said Frank Peters and others similar to him, intruding upon the unallotted lands of the Omaha reservation, to remove therefrom, to which he replied on September 15, 1890, stating that he had given the parties above named written notice to remove from the reservation, and that they all informed him that they would not remove until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

268 Said Frank Peters is clearly excluded from rights on the Omaha reserve by the 4th article of the treaty of March 6th, 1865 with the Omahas (14 Stats. 668) which extends the benefits thereby conferred as to allotments to such only of their half or mixed relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty, and the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) under which the allotment of lands was made on the Omaha reserve provides that such allotments shall be in lieu of the allotments provided for in said article 4.

It appears that the other persons above named also belong to the class excluded from allotments on the Omaha reserve.

There is no claim that the parties referred to have been adopted by the Omaha tribe since the date of said treaty.

The Omahas having received allotments are U. S. citizens, but it is provided in the 8th section of said act that the unallotted lands of said reservation shall be patented to the Omaha tribe of Indians, which patent shall be of the legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land thus patented for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of said tribe &c., hence section 2149 of the Revised Statutes authorizing the removal of persons from tribal reservations is applicable thereto.

It is evident that the intruders above named do not intend to remove from the reservation, and that force will be requisite for that purpose, and in view of the defiant attitude of the parties, I believe that such force should be sent to eject them as will be likely to prevent any attempt at resistance.

I therefore respectfully recommend that the matter be submitted to the honorable Secretary of War, with the request that 269 he will cause the commander of the nearest military post to said reservation, to furnish, upon the application of Agent Ashley, proper military aid to eject from the unallotted lands of the same said Frank Peters, and such other persons including said Walter Peters, Wm. Barada, and Luke Sailor as the agent may designate, as unlawfully upon the reservation, under a state of facts similar to those existing in the case of said Frank Peters.

Copies of the letters referred to from Agent Ashley are herewith enclosed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. V. BELT,
Acting Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
WASHINGTON, January 12, 1891.

E. S. W.

The honorable the Secretary of the Interior.

SIR: A delegation of Omaha Indians, duly accredited, is now in this city urging among other things the removal of intruders from their reservation, that is from the unallotted lands of the reservation. They say "You told us that you would hold our land in trust for 25 years, and we think these people are not only opposing us but you also, and we look to you to decide this matter at once and do what is right. If they have rights here we want to know it; if they have no rights we expect you to put them off."

270 At their earnest appeal for prompt action looking to the removal of these intruders, I promised to renew my recommendation of October 2, 1890, that the matter be laid before the Secretary of War with request for military aid to eject said parties from the reservation.

I therefore respectfully invite your attention to office letter of October 2, 1890, and previous report of November 14, 1888, and renew my recommendation that the matter be submitted to the honorable Secretary of War with the request that he cause the commanding officer of the nearest military post to the Omaha reservation, to furnish, upon the application of Agent Ashley, proper military aid to eject from the unallotted lands of the Omaha reservation the intruders therein referred to.

The Omahas feel aggrieved that these people have not been removed. They claim that they are breaking large quantities of land and cutting and selling grass, without right and without paying for it. They say that if they are allowed to remain until spring they will make further improvements, and as they fear get a stronger foothold on the reservation.

Very respectfully your obedient servant,

T. J. MORGAN,
Commissioner.

Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Omaha & Winnebago agency, Nebr.

SIR: The act of August 19, 1890, 26 Stats. 329, requires that 271 the interest which has accumulated on the deferred payments for Omaha lands under act of August 7, 1882—22 Stats. 341—be now paid pro rata (per capita) to the Omahas.

This interest has been accumulating since October 1, 1884, the first payment thereof into the United States Treasury, until on the date of the act first above named, it amounts to $82,408.25 and it is decided to have the payment made by you, at as early a date as practicable.

As your official bond is not large enough to authorize the placing of the entire amount to your official credit at one time, it will be divided into three remittances, viz:

1st remittance	$30,000.00
2nd remittance	30,000.00
3rd remittance	22,408.35
Total	$82,408.35

Steps will be taken today to have the first thirty thousand placed to your credit in the Sioux national bank, Sioux City, Iowa, and as it is desirable that all three payments be completed on or before the 31st of March next, it will be necessary for you to use expedition, and with this object in view, you will, on receipt of this, call upon Special Agent Spencer for a copy of the pay roll, on which he has just completed a payment to the Omahas, and prepare a new pay roll with its assistance.

Although the money is to be sent you at three different times, and so disbursed by you, you will make but one pay roll, in the same manner as if the entire amount of the $82,408.35 was to your credit at one time, and before commencing to pay, set off on the pay roll the full per capita share due to each, and every one on the roll, which will be ascertained by dividing the total amount, $82,408.35, by the entire number of names of those entitled.

272 You will then proceed to pay to such a number as may be necessary, commencing with No. 1 on the pay roll, the full amount due to each, until the first $30,000 is exhausted.

As soon as the first payment is completed, you will notify me by telegraph, that the second instalment may be placed to your credit, to be paid in like manner, that is: the full amounts of as many per capita shares as it will cover, when you will again notify me, that the final instalment may be sent to you, to be paid in a similar manner.

As you have had a good many per capita payments to Indians to make, I do not think it necessary to instruct you in detail in regard to the general rules to be followed, and the customs and usages which experience has shown to be most advisable, but will inclose with this a copy of a letter, addressed by me, under date of 12th instant, to certain Omaha delegates, who are now in this city, by which you will observe that certain parties therein named who belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and who are not entitled to lands, or other benefits, under the act of August 7, 1882, above referred to, are not to be enrolled by you, or allowed any share in the payment, you are about to make.

The names of those specially objected to by the delegates are—William Barada, Thomas Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, and Mrs. Sailor, and their families, and you will not enroll or pay any of them.

If any one who was properly entitled to enrollment has died since Mr. Spencer completed his enrollment, you will pay the share of the deceased to the proper heirs or legal representatives of the deceased, on certificate from the chiefs and head men, in manner similar to annuity payments, as some of the Omahas have expressed a 273 wish that the established rule of paying one share in such payments after death to the surviving relatives be followed in this case, and I am of the opinion that this will be fair and just, as it would be impracticable to ascertain exactly to whom the payments should be restricted, if an effort were made to commence with the first instalment of interest received in 1884, by the Treasury Department.

If you require more blanks or further instructions, please let me know without delay.

Respectfully,

T. J. MORGAN,
Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, J. T. B.
WASHINGTON, November 17, 1896.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 10th instant, with its enclosures, reporting upon the cases of Mrs. Margaret and Thomas L. Sloan, applicants for admission to membership with the Omaha tribe of Indians, presented by their attorney, Mr. Ralph W. Breckenridge, of Omaha, Nebraska, who appeals by letter dated October 1st last, from the conclusions reached by your office on September 28th last, in declining to reconsider the cases of the persons named.

This case was before the department, with your letter of July 10, 1894. After due consideration of all the facts then presented, the department decided adversely to the claimants, for the reasons set out in its letter to your office, dated September 6, 1894.
274 No evidence of fact or law is now presented that was not then known to and considered by the department.

The only facts now offered that can be considered in the light of new evidence, is the "decision of the Spencer case," tried May 16, 1896, in the United States court for Nebraska on behalf of the Government to recover an amount improperly disbursed.

Mr. John T. Spencer was appointed by the department in 1890, to make a payment of certain moneys to the Omahas.

When his accounts were received and examined by your office, it was found that he had enrolled and paid annuities to Margaret and Thomas L. Sloan (the present claimants) as members of the Omaha tribe.

Having no authority to enroll or pay annuities to these persons, and making no satisfactory explanation of the reasons for his action, exceptions to his accounts were noted, and suit brought against his bond for the recovery of the amount so paid, with the result that the jury found in favor of the defendant.

The testimony in the case, which is quite lengthy, clearly discloses the probability that the attorney who represented the Government was not in possession of the decision of the department against the Sloans and other mixed-bloods of a like class, or the reasons therefor, nor that he was aware of their true status. It also discloses that important evidence was withheld from the jury that in all probability would, had it been properly placed before the court, have resulted in a different charge to the jury and a different verdict by that body.

Instead it appears that the jury were led to believe that the 275 objections of the department to admitting these people to share with the Omahas must be found either in a misapprehension of their lineage, "or else in the caprice of some subordinate of the department" (vide brief of Mr. Breckenridge, p. 10).

The question of the tribal rights of these persons was not before the court. The issue was whether they were properly enrolled by Mr. Spencer.

The last instruction of the court to the jury was as follows:

"To charge Spencer with payments that were made to parties who were not members of the tribe, it must appear they were not members of the tribe and not entitled to share and he had no good and reasonable ground to believe they were not members of the tribe at the time he made the payments to them."

No evidence was offered by the prosecution to show that these persons were not legal members of the tribe, although it was within the knowledge of at least one of the Government's witnesses, who had been officially informed of the status of the case and why the department refused to authorize the enrollment of the Sloans with the Omahas; and nowhere in the record of the testimony before the court in the case are the reasons shown why, and upon what legal grounds, the department declined allotments to the claimants.

Hence the favorable verdict of the jury for the defendant.

Mrs. Margaret Sloan received an allotment of three hundred and twenty acres of land, as a half-breed Omaha Indian, under the provisions of article ten of the treaty of July 15, 1830, with the Omahas and other tribes (7 Statutes 328–330)—provisions being made therein that the parties to the treaty "might be permitted to make some provision for their half breeds, and particularly that they might bestow upon them the tract of country within the following limits," etc.

276 This tract of country was known as the Nemaha (half-breed) reserve.

Patent No. 128 for her allotment therein was issued to Margaret Sloan September 10, 1860, under the provisions of section 5 (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854 (10 Statutes, 332) which directed that the stipulations of the tenth article of the treaty of 1830 be fulfilled by causing the reserved tracts to be surveyed and allotted to the persons entitled thereto.

About the same time her son, William E., the father of Thomas L., one of the claimants, who is the grandson of Margaret, received an allotment (No. 274) of three hundred and twenty acres on the Nemaha reserve, for which a patent was subsequently issued to him.

Thomas L. was born in St. Louis in 1863, and lived on the Nemaha reserve with his grandmother from some time in the 70's until 1880, when they went to the present Omaha reservation.

It is not denied, nor has it ever been, that the Sloans, mother and son, are of part Omaha Indian blood. The tribe recognized them as such and made provision for them, with others, by the treaty of 1830, and in the opinion of the department, and the Omahas themselves, their claims as such mixed-bloods were extinguished by the lands given them under the terms of the tenth article of the treaty named.

As showing that the Omahas so regarded this provision, they provided in their treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Statutes, 667, article 4), that allotments of land in their reservation in Nebraska should be given to their "half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them," and when many of the mixed bloods from the Nemaha reserve went to the Omaha reservation to secure more land, after the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Statutes, 341), which 277 provided for the sale of a part of the latter reservation and allotment of land in severalty, the Omahas strenuously objected and called upon the department to remove these half-breeds from their reservation. They so objected to the Sloans.

The claims of Margaret and her son William E. were extinguished prior to the birth of Thomas L.

It is nowhere alleged or claimed that the latter is the offspring of a mother having Indian blood, much more of one of Omaha blood. The presumption is, therefore, that his mother was a white woman.

The claims of Margaret and Thomas L. are based upon their birthright as Omaha Indians and upon their alleged adoption in recent years by the tribe.

The birthright claim of Margaret has been extinguished. Thomas L. never had such a claim. Neither of them have any claim by adoption, never having been regularly, fairly or properly adopted by the tribe, as was shown by department letter of September 6, 1894.

Notwithstanding that Mr. Breckenridge has advised the department, by letter dated the 30th ultimo, of his withdrawal as attorney for the claimants, I have caused this review of the case to be made, and adhere to the opinion expressed in department letter of September 6, 1894, that the persons named have no valid, legal claims to membership with the Omaha tribe of Indians.

The papers transmitted with your letter are returned herewith.

Very respectfully, D. R. FRANCIS, Secretary.

278 E. E. W. 25062–1897. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, WASHINGTON, June 21, 1897. J. T. B.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of 16th instant, transmitting for departmental consideration certain papers in the case of Artemesia Frost, a quarter blood Omaha woman, who applies by petition an din person (being present in the city) for membership in the tribe named, with all the benefits, rights and privileges pertaining thereto.

Among the papers submitted are letters from Senators Allen and Thurston of Nebraska, the former of whom asks that a patient hearing be given Mrs. Frost's case, and the latter that her case be reconsidered and sent for further investigation to Lieut. W. A. Mercer, U. S. A., the newly detailed agent at the Omaha and Winnebago agency, Nebraska, on the ground that great favoritism has been shown by the late agent, Captain Wm. H. Beck.

Mrs. Frost is the daughter of Margaret Sloan, a mixed-blood Omaha woman, whose case was decided adversely by the department on November 17, 1896, on the ground that her "birthright" claim had been extinguished under the provisions of article ten (10) of the treaty of July 15, 1830, with the Omaha and other tribes, (7 Statutes, 328–330).

Mrs. Frost's claim is an exact counterpart of that of her mother, who also claimed recognition as a member of the tribe, with the right to participate in the tribal annuities, &c., and to receive an allotment of land.

An examination of Mrs. Sloan's case shows that she re-
279 ceived an allotment of three hundred and twenty acres of land, as a half-breed Omaha, under the provisions of the treaty of 1830, in the tract of country known as the "Nemaha reserve," especially set apart by the said treaty for the purpose of bestowing upon their half-breed relations some provision for their support.

There is nothing in the papers in Mrs. Frost's case to show that she was an allottee in the Nemaha reserve, although it is stated in your letter that she orally admitted having received lands in that reserve. She has also stated to the department, in the course of an interview in regard to her case, that she received an allotment in the said reserve as an Omaha half-breed. Her rights therefore, seem to have been recognized and she seems also to have been compensated in the manner provided by the treaty in cases of that character.

As showing that the Omahas regarded that the claim of such mixed-bloods were extinguished by the lands given them under the provisions of the treaty cited, the following provision was made in article four (4) of the treaty with them of March 6, 1865, (14 Statutes, 667–668)—

"The Omaha Indians being desirous of promoting settled habits of industry and enterprise among themselves by abolishing the tenure in common by which they now hold their lands, and by assigning limited quantities thereof in severalty to the members of the tribe, including their half or mixed-blood relatives now residing with them," * * *

When many of the mixed-bloods from the Nemaha reserve went to the new reservation to acquire more land, after the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Statutes, 341) which provided for the 280 sale of a portion of the latter reservation and allotment of land in severalty, the Omahas strenuously objected and called upon the department to remove these half breeds from their reservation.

By her own admission, Mrs. Frost's birthright claim has been extinguished. To admit her present claim would be an injustice to those of the tribe who have never received allotments, and who alone are entitled to participate in the division of the lands in the diminished reserve; would also be against public policy, and a violation of the rules and regulations of the department, which prohibit more than one allotment to an Indian, for any reason whatever.

The papers in the case are herewith returned.

Very respectfully, C. N. BLISS, Secretary.

E. E. W. WASHINGTON, November 10, 1897.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I ack-owledge the receipt of your communication of June 25, 1894, in the matter of the applications of Joseph O'Pelt and nine others of his family for enrollment as members of the Otoe tribe of Indians in Oklahoma, and to be given allotments as such.

It is shown by your letter that this family, or such of them as were in being at that time, enjoyed the benefits of the act of July

31, 1854, and received allotments on the Great Nemaha half breed reservation, and also that their applications for enrollment
281 as members of the Otoe tribe of Indians have twice been rejected by the Otoes in council.

You submit whether the application of the O'Pelt family be again submitted to the Indians for their action in open council; and, in the event of the adoption of said applicants by the tribe, for the purpose of giving them allotments on the Otoe reservation, ask whether the department will authorize the making of such allotments to them.

In view of all the circumstances, I see no reason for again submitting the application of this family to the Indians for their action in open council; they seem to have enjoyed the benefits of allotments as mixed bloods on the Great Nemaha half breed reservation, Nebraska, and are not entitled to further allotment on the Otoe reservation, Oklahoma.

The papers submitted with your letter are herewith returned.

Very respectfully, C. N. BLISS, Secretary.

297 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 19th day of September, 1902, deposition of L. L. Frost was filed in said case, which said deposition is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JOHN M. SLOAN, ARTEMESIA FROST, and Thomas L. Sloan, Complainants,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES E. Mathewson, Magratahe Grant, John Grant, and Charles Grant, Defendants.

Docket "T," No. 174. Depositions.

Testimony taken in behalf of the complainants, by consent of parties hereto, before William S. Heller, a stenographer and notary public, at the office of John L. Webster, Esq., 826 New York Life Insurance building, Omaha, Nebraska, on this 10th day of September, 1902, the complainants being represented by Thomas L. Sloan, Esq., and Charles E. Clapp, Esq., and the defendants being represented by John L. Webster, Esq.

L. L. FROST, produced as a witness in behalf of the complainants, and after being first duly sworn on his oath, deposes and says, as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. Are you the husband of Artemesia Frost?
A. Yes sir.
Q. She has a case pending in this court for an allotment?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you with Mrs. Frost and your family remove to the Omaha reservation in 1875?
A. Yes sir.
298 Q. Do you remember about the enrollment of your wife and son?
A. I do.
Q. Were you present at the council meeting when the matter was considered?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Tell us, state the circumstances in reference to it?
A. All of the circumstances?
Q. Yes sir?
A. It was in August, 1875, we were living at the Omaha agency, Mrs. Frost, myself and this child that Mr. Sloan has just spoken of. The council were in session, and Major Gillingham sent a runner or messenger, an Indian, telling Mrs. Frost that the council wished her to come to the council house. Mrs. Frost replied that her child was very sick and she would be unable to come. The runner returned back to the counci house, and came again saying that Major Gillingham and the chiefs said that if you cannot come send your husband up. I went up to the council house, and they asked me if we had come home to stay. I told them that we had. The chiefs then instructed Major Gillingham through Louis Saunsoci, the Government interpreter that Mrs. Frost should be recognized, and her family, as members of the tribe, and should draw their allotments of land, that her name and the oldest child should be put upon the payment roll, or the tribal roll, and at the next annual payment all of the children should be placed upon the roll and draw their payments. I thanked them and returned to my home.

Q. Did you receive that annuity payment, or your wife?

A. Mrs. Frost and the oldest boy did, yes sir.

299 Q. Did you and your family have the benefit and use of the tribal pasture?

A. Yes sir, we did, we had our horses and teams in there, and some cattle, four head I think.

Q. Did you have the use of the blacksmith shop and the carpenter shop?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the grist mill?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the saw mill?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the use of the oxen that were there?

A. Yes sir, the teams whenever they were not used, and we wished them.

Q. Did you make a selection of land at that time?

A. I did.

Q. Did you make any improvements on it?

A. I did.

Q. State what they were?

A. They were breaking, and I got out a log house—logs for a log house, but I never got to move them over on the claim. They were stolen from me.

Q. Why did you leave the reservation?

A. On account of sickness in the family.

Q. Were you at the Omaha agency during the spring of 1884?

A. I was, yes sir.

Q. Were you present at any of the councils?

A. I was.

300 Q. Do you remember what interest had you at that council?

A. My family's interest only.

Q. Were they being considered there at that time?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Was there any other person's claims being considered at that time?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Who were they?

A. Mrs. Monett, Louis Neal, and perhaps John Pilcher. I will not be positive about that, but there were three or perhaps four parties whose interests were being considered.

Q. Was there any decision reached in the matter of Mrs. Fuller's claim at that time?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What was it?

A. Mrs. Fuller—that refreshes my memory, and if I am allowed, perhaps it would not be proper, but I might state that Mrs. Fuller's case was also considered in the council. I recollect about it now.

Q. What decision was reached in regard to Mrs. Fuller at that time?

A. A favorable decision. She was allowed her allotments, and her children were allowed theirs.

Q. In regard to the Monett matter, what was the report in regard to that?

A. It was favorable in regard to Mrs. Monett.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

301 Q. You are a full blood white man?

A. I suppose so; that is what I have always been told.

Q. You married Artemesia Sloan?

A. I did.

Q. And she was a sister of Thomas L. Sloan's father?

A. That is correct.

Q. So you are a relative of Thomas L. Sloan?

A. A connection.

Q. Do you talk the Omaha Indian language?

A. I do not.

Q. You do not understand it at all?

A. Very few words in it.

Q. You cannot converse in it?

A. Not properly.

Q. Now this council meeting that you attended was when, in 1884?

A. In 1884.

Q. That was held in the Indian language?

A. It was held in the Indian language, so far as the chiefs—their talk was concerned.

Q. So your knowledge then of what was decided at that council meeting was derived by what some one told you?

A. What I heard and saw, yes sir.

Q. Do you know who was at that council meeting?

A. I know quite a number.

Q. Tell their names?

A. There was Louis Saunsoci, the United States interpreter, there was Miss A. C. Fletcher, there was Mr. Frank La Flesche; there were a number of the La Flesche family; there was old 302 Sinta Haba; White Horse; Henry Fontenelle; Duba Monie?

Q. Wajapa?
A. Yes, he was there.
Mr. SLOAN: And Prairie Chicken?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was Sloan there?
A. Yes sir. And Maha Ninga was there and Doctor Wilkinson was there and Louis Neal was there, and Frank Murphy was there, and Baylis was there, and Atkinson was there, their wives and their children some of them, and there was dozens of others, if you give me time I can give you a string as long as your arm.
Q. These people were not members of the council?
A. Some were.
Q. These general names you are speaking about, the Murphys, and the Neals, and all them, were claimants?
A. I understood you, Mr. Webster, to ask me if I knew the names of the people who were there, is that the question?
Q. Weren't we speaking of the council?
A. I think not. I think you asked me the question if I knew the people who were there, and how many of them I knew.
Q. Will you answer my question were those people you mention members of the Omaha council or not?
A. Some were and some were not.
Q. Thomas L. Sloan, was he there?
A. He was there.
Q. He was not one of the council?
A. No sir.
Q. Murphy was not a member of the council?
A. He was not.
303 Q. The Neals were not members of the council?
A. No sir; their case was in suspense at that time.
Q. Now, Mr. Frost, when was this other occurrence you speak of, was it 1875 when you were up there?
A. When I first went up there or subsequently—I have been on the Omaha reservation a great many times.
Q. You spoke of one time when you was there with Mrs. Frost before her name was placed on the roll?
A. That was 1875, August.
Q. How long did they stay on the rolls?
A. I have been told they were carried for years on the roll.
Q. I do not care about what you were told, I ask you how long they stayed on the rolls, and if you do not know, say that?
A. I know that they stayed on the rolls for one year, I know that.
Q. That ended your receiving annuities, did it?
A. It did, so far as we were concerned.
Q. And you have never received annuities since that time?
A. No, sir.
Q. Since 1875?

A. Not to my knowledge.
Q. As a matter of fact, Mr. Frost, you live down in Kansas, don't you?
A. That is my residence.
Q. You have a family of your own down there?
A. Yes, I have property there.
Q. At this council which met in 1884 that you attended, you did not get any allotments for your family?
A. No sir.
304 Q. You did not get an allotment for your family?
A. No sir.

Redirect examination.

Questions by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. Has your wife a home and residence on the Omaha reservation?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Money for what?
A. For grass land and pasture land, tribal land.
Q. Now when this money was collected who disbursed it, your commission?
A. I am one of them.
Q. The men who collected the money disbursed it, is that it? The commission that collected the money paid it out?
A. Yes sir. We told the tribe we got so much for this grass and pasture,—the leading men, the councilmen, and they told us to pick out the man to fix up—a clerk; so we appointed Mr. Sloan to make up the pay rolls.
Q. So Thomas L. Sloan was the fellow that made out the pay roll for you?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You made the payment on the pay roll that Thomas L. Sloan made out?
A. Yes sir, we did.
Q. And Thomas L. Sloan put his grandmother's name and his own name on that pay roll, is that it?
A. No.
Q. Didn't Thomas L. Sloan write his grandmother's name and his own name on that pay roll?
A. I guess he did. Everybody was willing.
Q. And then you paid a part of that grass money to Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan?
313 A. What was coming to them.
Q. Answer my question. You paid to Margaret Sloan and to Thomas L. Sloan a part of that grass money?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did you pay all the money to Thomas L. Sloan, or did you go and see Margaret and pay any part of it to her? Is it not a fact that you paid it all to Thomas L. Sloan?
A. I have not seen the old woman, but we paid it to Sloan.
Q. You paid it to Thomas L. Sloan?
A. Yes sir.

Q. So, as a matter of fact, Thomas L. Sloan was your clerk; he made out the pay roll; he put on his grand-mother's name, and his own name, and he himself took the money for both of them, is not that right?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Now do you know how much money you gave Thomas L. Sloan?

A. About three dollars a head. About $6.00.

Q. What became of that pay roll?

A. Well, that is all I know. I did not know anything about it afterwards.

Q. Who took the pay roll after you made the payment, who retained it?

A. I could not tell you, Mr. Webster.

Q. Did Thomas L. Sloan keep that pay roll?

A. I could not tell you.

Q. Was it filed in the office of the agency?

A. I could not tell you.

Q. Well, the Indian agent did not have anything to do with making up this pay roll?

314 A. We had no agent at that time.

Q. Did not have any agent in 1890?

A. No.

Q. What?

A. No.

Q. Are you sure about it?

A. The first agent we had was Mr. Ashley. I have forgotten if he made a payment in 1891.

Q How much money did you collect all told for the grass land for that year 1890?

A. I could not tell you how much. I forget, you know. I know they gave three dollars and some cents to every head. I could not tell you how much.

Q. Did that include the children?

A. Yes, everybody.

Re-direct examination.

Questions by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. Was not Richard Ashley agent at the time you was grass commissioner at the Winnebago agency?

A. I think he was agent at the Winnebago; but he had nothing to do with our business

Q. As grass commissioner?

A. Yes sir.

Dr. E. Painter, U. S. Indian ag't of Omaha.

D'R SIR: I will again drop you a line in regard to the allotment of the Omaha land and the possibility of my wife and boy getting their share of it. I have used my greatest exertion to put my affairs in a shape to come up to the reserve and settle on the land which my wife and boy are entitled to this spring, but find that I cannot go up now without great loss; after I lay aside my corn crop I will undoubtedly come up and commence to improve the land which we are entitled to. That will be about the first of July. Will 321 you be so kind as to send me a copy of the treaty regarding this allotment as there is several of the tribe here that desire to see it. I trust that the first of next July will not be too late for us to go on our land to hold it, but if it should will you please to locate and allot to Francis Artemecia Frost and Philemon H. Frost her son their respective portions. Please let me hear from you in regard to this matter soon.

Yours truly,

LEONARD L. FROST,
Aspinwall, Nemaha Co., Nebraska.

Dr. Painter.

JOHN M. SLOAN, ARTEMESIA FROST, and Thomas L. Sloan, Complainants,
vs.

Docket "T." No. 174. Depositions.

Testimony taken in behalf of the complainants, by consent of the parties hereto, before William S. Heller, a stenographer and notary public, at the office of John L. Webster, Esq., 826 New York Life Insurance building, Omaha, Nebraska, on this 20th day of September, 1902, the complainants being represented by Messrs. Thomas L. Sloan and Charles E. Clapp and the defendants being represented by John L. Webster, Esq.

JOHN T. SPENCER, produced as a witness in behalf of the complainants, and after being first duly sworn on his oath, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. State your name?
A. John T. Spencer.
Q. Where do you reside?
A. At Dakota City, Nebraska.
Q. Did you ever hold any official position among the Omaha Indians?
A. Yes, sir.
327 Q. What positions if any did you hold?
A. I was the disbursing agent for the Omahas in the year 1890.
Q. Did you ever hold any other position with them?
A. Not with the Omahas. I was superintendent of the industrial school at the Winnebago agency for two years before that.
Q. As disbursing agent what was you doing, what were your duties and what did you do?
A. Under instructions from the Indian office I was to prepare a roll of the Omaha Indians, and also to investigate how the money had been spent and the prior payment of the same annuity which had been paid by Judge Crawford, and after the roll was prepared I was to pay the Indians per capita.
Q. What did you actually do yourself; what is the first thing you did?

A. I repaired to the Omaha agency, and I had already prepared a roll from the old rolls and proceeded to investigate the matter.

Q. Did you call the Indians together in any way?

A. They were called together. I did not call them myself. I left the agent do that. I announced we would be there a certain day and he attended to having them notified.

Q. Were they there at a certain day?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Was the council there also?

A. There was a body of men there who called themselves the council and were recognized as being the council.

Q. What did you then do?

A. I proceeded to investigate. I took the roll. The roll is made alphabetical, and as far as I could I investigated how they 328 spent their money, and also to see whether the roll had been correctly prepared.

Q. Did the names of Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan appear upon that roll?

A. No sir, it was not on the roll that was prepared at first.

Q. Were their names mentioned at that time?

A. Yes sir, their names were mentioned; at least Tom Sloan's name was mentioned, and I think his grandmother's name was too. As we would go over the list there was someone made an application or mentioned the fact that some certain one ought to be on the roll or ought not; I cannot tell which. There was an objection made by some Indian, and he said that Tom Sloan had a better right to be on the roll than this party, whoever he was.

Q. Did you hear anything further said about that, or did a number of the council speak about it?

A. I asked the question if there was any objection to Mr. Sloan going on the roll, and this party, if I remember correctly, stated that he thought he had a better right than the one indicated that they were discussing, and then I think that one--some member, I think he was a member of the council, said he was a relative of the Sloans, and he thought they ought to be on. That was all that was said at the time. In fact I remember that I reserved the right to investigate at the time, because their names were not on the roll.

Q. State whether or not you did make investigation as to their right to be on the roll?

329 A. Yes sir, I made investigations along as I could, as I had opportunity, and finally at the last I made up my mind that they ought to be put on the roll, and so put them on.

Q. Did you have them put on?

A. Yes sir, and I paid them. There was about the same action taken in their case as in the others as far as that was concerned.

Q. Was there an old Indian woman named Tachawe put on the roll at the same time?

A. Yes sir; it was put on anyhow during the time we were investigating and preparing the roll. You mean the Ponca woman?

Q. Yes, sir, the Ponca woman?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Was she paid?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How much were each of those persons paid at the time?
A. It seems to me it was $27.41 if I remember correctly.
Q. How long have you known the Omaha Indian tribe or been familiar with their habits and customs?
A. I knew them some for the last thirty years; more of course since that time, that time, I had known some of them when I was superintendent of the industrial school with the Winnebagos.
Q. Do you know what the custom is as to the enrollment of the children of white fathers and Indian mothers?
A. They were enrolled; that was the custom at that time and had been for some time previous, I do not know how long. Perhaps always as far as I know.
330 Q. They were enrolled at that time, were they not?
A. Yes sir; if there were any children born after the previous roll had been made we placed them on the list, and if any had died we took them off of the list providing they died prior to the year before as I remember.
Q. You are the same John T. Spencer against whom the United States brought an action to recover certain sums that the Treasury Department would not allow in your report, are you not?
A. Yes sir, I am the same one.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Mr. Spencer, you had Thomas L. Sloan employed as your clerk did you not when you was acting as disbursing agent?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And as your clerk, Thomas L. Sloan was the man who made up the list of the Indians, or census report of the Indians, was he not?
A. He took the census before. You did not have reference to that? You mean the census I made.
Q. I mean the census you made of the tribe?
A. He was my clerk. He did the clerical work. He copied the names.
Q. And he wrote down the names, did he not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. On paper?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And in the course of that work he wrote down his own name?
331 A. Not until I told him to.
Q. Are you sure of that Mr. Spencer?

A. Yes, I know all about that.

Q. He wrote down the name of his grandmother, Margaret Sloan, did he not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Now, did I understand you correctly to say that there was a meeting of the Indians, called council otherwise, about whether or not Thomas L. Sloan should put down his own name and that of his grandmother, Margaret Sloan?

A. There was no such meeting as that; there was no such meeting as that.

Q. As a matter of fact, Mr. Spencer, is it not true that there was not any council meeting of the tribe that authorized either you or Thomas L. Sloan to put his name or that of his grandmother on that roll?

A. I shall have to answer in this way. I presume from my direction that I was the official arbiter on those matters, and finally I would have to decide; but I would have to say that as far as that is concerned I do not know. There was just as much council over his as any of them. We had a meeting there to investigate how they spent their money. That was the object that I had in my mine, and also for them to indicate whether there was any other names that ought to be put on there.

Q. Is it not a fact that you did not have such meeting before you put those names on the roll?

A. That I did what?

332 Q. Is it not a fact that you did not have a meeting with the Indians prior to putting the name of Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan on the roll?

A. We had a meeting of course as I stated. Their names did not do on the roll without some action. Their names did not go on the roll until about the time I was ready to make a payment.

Q. You are the same John T. Spencer who testified in a suit pending in the United States court wherein Margaret Sloan and others were plaintiffs and members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were defendants involving the question of the Sloans and the Frosts to allotments of land on the Omaha Indian reservation?

A. I remember testifying in your office in some case in which their rights were involved.

Q. Now did you not testify at that time in my office in that case that there was no consultation of the Indians by you with reference to Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan going upon that roll until after the date when you had paid the money?

A. I do not see how I could testify to anything like that, Mr. Webster?

Q. I am asking you the fact?

A. It is a long time ago. I do not know what I might have testified to then, but I could not have testified anything of that character, I answered your questions. I suppose I told the truth.

Q. Was anyone present at the time when you and Thomas L.

Sloan put the name of Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan on that roll?

333 A. I could not tell you as to that, because the most of the clerical work was done in the office by ourselves.

Q. Did you have any consultation with Mr. Ashley the Indian agent at that time as to whether or not you should put the name of Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan on the roll?

A. I had conversations, perhaps more than one with Mr. Ashley, and he was of the opinion, so he expressed to me, that they ought not to be on the roll.

Q. That they ought not to be?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You knew at that time, did you not, Mr. Spencer, that Ashley was the Indian agent and acting under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And he told you or advised you that Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan should not go upon that roll?

A. I would hardly put it as strong as that. I think that he advised against it, that in his opinion they ought not to go upon the roll.

Q. And you of your own volition put them on contrary to the advice or instruction of the Indian agent?

A. Yes, that is the fact if I may be permitted to explain. The matter was my own; he hadn't anything to do with it. It was a matter of courtesy that I consulted with him, or he with me.

Q. After you had this advice from the Indian agent Mr. Ashley did you yourself consult the members of the tribe as to whether Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan should go upon the roll?

334 A. Yes, I think I did. I presume it was after a conversation I had with him. I do not wish to be understood that I did that, to call the council for the purpose, but individually those I could see that I thought knew the circumstance.

Q. Did you in your former testimony given in this office in the former suit pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska testify as follows, to-wit: "Did you ever consult the Omaha tribe when you put Tom Sloan's name on the roll?" and did you not answer to that question, "No, sir, but I afterwards investigated, talked to different persons in relationship to Thomas Sloan, and his grandmother and a number of others, but not to the Indians?"

A. Read that question again?

Q. Question repeated to the witness. "Did you ever consult the Omaha tribe when you put Tom Sloan's name on the roll," that is the question. "A. No sir, but we afterwards investigated, talked to different persons in relationship to Thomas Sloan and his grandmother and a number of others, but not to the Indians?"

A. What was the question before that. There seems to be something left out there.

Q. I will be fair with you. I will let you read it.

Q. Read that question again.

—. (Witness perusing record.) I see that that answer is there. Yes, in the former testimony that has been shown me.

335 Q. At that examination was you not asked the following question, to-wit: "Did you ask the permission of the tribe to put Tom Sloan's name on the roll?" and did you not answer: "A. No, sir, I did not."

A. Yes sir; that is there.

Q. At that time was you not asked the following question: "Q. You never notified the tribe that you had put Tom Sloan's name on the roll either?" to which did you not answer, "A. No sir, I did not, I did not ask the tribe for permission to put any one on the roll."

A. Yes sir, that is correct. That is a fact too.

Q. At that time was you not asked the following question, to-wit: "Q. And you did not take Tom Sloan's name from any prepared roll," to which did you not answer: "No, sir I had but one roll, and that was the one prepared by Judge Crawford, and his name was not on that roll."

A. That would be the fact. I do not remember as to the answer.

Q. Do you not further know, or were you not informed, that at or about the time that you made the payment you have referred to and make up the roll that you have referred to, that the Omaha tribe of Indians had held a council meeting for the purpose of petitioning the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to have Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan and other of the mixed bloods removed from the Omaha Indian reservation?

A. No sir, there was no such council held; there had been no such council held, or none talked of when the Sloans were paid. To explain further, that was after the payments were made, and the rolls closed, except in a few instances that were held over for 336 further investigation, and I was informed by someone that Mr. Ashley the agent called a meeting or someone called a meeting, and they sent me word to come, but I was through with my business; I thought it was none of my business. I made my investigations and made my decisions. I could not have made any diferent because my work was done, that is a fact.

Q. Your information was that that council meeting related to the removal of Thomas L. Sloan and others of that class from the reservation?

A. I think it was half breeds. My information was if I remember correctly, I was not prepared, and word came to me, but the word came to me at my home at Dakota City, that there was going to be a council in relation to the half breeds. I think they said half breeds. I do not know whether Sloans' names were mentioned at that time or not. I could not remember, but there was something came to me, some word came to me that there was to be a meeting, and I think perhaps the same word said, like to have me present if I desired. It is a good while ago and I cannot remember positive. The council was through as far as I was concerned, if there was a council.

Q. In your former testimony in a preceding litigation, was not this question put to you, to-wit: "But you was informed that there was such a council," and to which question did you not answer: "A. Yes, after the payment was made I heard there was such a council held, but that was after the roll was prepared."

337 A. I might have answered in that way, but the facts were—I cannot remember what I answered, if the record shows that. The facts were that the payment had been made.

Q. Your former answer said, after the payment was made?

A. I understood you to say after the roll was prepared. It is after the payment was made. That is in the answer. It is not inconsistent.

Q. Now, Mr. Spencer, your former testimony to which I called your attention in cross examination was given some ten years ago and within a period of one or two years after the transactions and occurrences to which they related?

A. It was some years ago, I presume, I presume it was ten years ago.

Q. And the roll that you prepared was in the year 1890?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the testimony to which I called your attention appears to have been taken on the 29th day of June, 1891? I show you the certificate here, and ask you to refresh your memory?

A. We will have to take it for granted that that was correct. I presume it was in 1891.

Q. So, hence, the matters to which I called your attention in your former testimony were matters which you testified to within about one year after the circumstance of making the roll occurred?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And your present testimony is given some twelve years after the occurrences?

A. About 11 years.

338 Q. 12 years after the occurrences?

A. Yes sir; I was thinking of 11 years after this testimony.

Questions by Mr. CHARLES E. CLAPP:

Q. You say you did not inquire of the tribe. Did you inquire of the individual members of the tribe as to whether or not, in making your investigations, as to whether or not Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan should be placed upon the roll?

A. Yes sir, I inquired of individual Indians there.

Q. Of whom did you inquire?

A. I remember of inquiring of Mrs. Bayliss. Mrs. Baylis was an Indian half breed woman who was a relative of the Sloans. She was on the roll.

Q. Had she been on the roll for sometime?

A. As far as I know. As far as my information goes she was always.

Q. What relation was she to Margaret Sloan?

A. She was a niece of Margaret Sloan.

Q. Who else did you inquire of?

A. I think I talked with some of the La Flesche family.

Q. Did you talk to Mary Jane Paul?

A. No sir, I think I did not talk with her. She was a very old lady. She is a sister of Mrs. Sloan. She was on the roll; she was on the roll.

Q. On the roll handed to you?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Who else?

339 A. I also talked with Mr. Cabana who was a member of the same family and on the roll. And I also talked with Mr. Pilcher who was a member of the same family and on the roll.

Q. What relation was Mr. Pilcher to Mrs. Sloan?

A. Mr. Pilcher was a nephew of Mrs. Sloan. I talked with those that claimed relationship and that were on the roll, and Mrs. Sloan was a relative and member of the same family. It struck me as if she had a right to be on the roll too.

Q. Did you talk with Judge Crawford at all?

A. No sir, not during the pendency of this proceeding. I understood it from others that he had decided that they ought to be put on the roll. And I think I saw a letter from him either to the Indian Department or someone else to that effect.

Q. You had no personal conversation?

A. No sir; I had no opportunity of a conversation. Judge Crawford was out at West Point, and I was on the reservation. He had been the disbursing agent of the first thirty-five thousand dollars.

Q. Mr. Spencer do you know whether or not it has been the custom of the Omaha Indians to allot mixed bloods who had received lands upon the Nemaha reservation?

A. My investigation. I found that several of them had had land on the Nemaha reservation, or in Richardson county. I think the Nemaha reservation is in Richardson county, and I found further by conversing with these people who were acquainted that Mrs. Sloan occupied the same position as to having land allotted that they did.

340 Q. And these persons who had land in the Nemaha reservation or in Richardson county, as you speak of, also received allotments of land on the Omaha reservation?

A. Yes sir; that was the case with Mr. Pilcher and Mr. Cabana I remember, and I think also of the Paul people, and I do not know but the Campbell family. That I am not quite so positive about.

Q. If the mother was an Indian woman and the father a white man, the children as I understood you a while ago to say were placed upon the roll, that was the custom?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What was the custom, if there was any, as to the children of Indian men married to white women?

A. They were put on the roll.

Q. Was the white woman also put on the roll?

A. The white woman also was put on the roll.

Recross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. What Indians are you speaking of when you speak of the custom?

A. I am speaking of the Omaha Indians and the Winnebago Indians; that is all I am acquainted with.

Q. Within what period of time is it that you are confining your knowledge of that subject to the Omaha Indians?

A. I am confining it more particularly to the time that I was connected with it.

Q. Since what time?

A. 1890 and previous to that time.

Q. How long had you been agent of the Omaha Indians, if at any time, give the year.

341 A. I never was agent of the Omaha Indians, but I was disbursing agent during the year 1890, and I was surintendent of the industrial school at the Winnebago agency during 1879 and 1880.

Q. The Winnebagos are a different tribe?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And were they at a different agency?

A. No sir; they had the same agent ever since I have had any connection with them. Prior to that time, two or three years prior to 1889, or a few years, I do not remember just exactly, 1879, they had two agencies, but they were joined, and when I went there they were under one agent.

Q. Had separate reservations?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And have always had?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And have today?

A. Yes sir.

Q. This Winnebago industrial school you speak of was on the Winnebago reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. But not on the Omaha reservation?

A. No sir.

Q. So then your actual connection with the Omahas was simply as disbursing agent for the year 1890?

A. Yes, that was my official connection.

Q. And that kept you on the reservation how long?

A. Oh, a few months.

342 Q. That was the extent of your official knowledge of these men that you testified about?

A. Well, I would not hardly want to answer that in that way, because I had other means of knowing and consulting the rolls and talking about what the custom was, but that was the extent of my official knowledge—actual official knowledge.

Q. That is what I asked you. In making up this roll as disbursing agent, that was to disburse what—annuity money?

A. Yes sir, the balance that they had.

Q. That came from the Treasury of the United States?

A. They had $70,000, and they desired to have that made in two payments, and Congress passed an act——

Q. I do not care for that. So that as disbursing agent you had nothing to do with the allotment of lands?

A. No sir.

Q. And you therefore had no occasion to investigate by what right or title any Indian had received an allotment of land on the Omaha reservation?

A. I had no occasion to investigate why any Indian received an allotment of land. I did investigate though as to who had land.

Q. You had no occasion to pass judgment upon the question whether such an allotment had been properly or improperly made?

A. No sir. The most of my investigation was as to who had allotments and what the name was, so that our roll name and the allotment name would be the same.

Q. When you came to Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret you departed from that rule and put on two persons who had not received allotments, did you not?

343 A. Yes sir.

Q. You said you talked with Cabana about it. Who suggested to you to consult Cabana as to whether Thomas L. Sloan's name should go on that?

A. I do not think anybody did. I am not sure, We did not have to have anybody.

Q. How did you happen to go to Cabana?

A. Cabana was an intelligent Indian, and he was a friend of mine in whom I had confidence, and of course he had opportunities of knowing the relationship of Mrs. Sloan to the rest of them generally.

Q. Didn't you know that he was a relative of the Sloans before you went to him?

A. Yes sir, and I know as a lawyer that when we wish to consult or decide on the genealogy of a family we go to the relatives.

Q. So it happened that you went to the Pilchers, and they were also related?

A. Yes sir.

Q. So, as a matter of fact, Mr. Spencer, the only persons that you can remember that you talked with as to whether you should put Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan on the roll or not were relatives of the Sloan family?

A. I would not say that. I remember distictly Flowing Woods. I probably talked with others.

Q. And when you was doing that Thomas L. Sloan was here a clerk, making up the roll to see who this money should be paid to?

A. Yes sir. I would like to add to the answer that we had no influence as far as putting him on the roll was concerned. In fact it had the opposite if any.

344 Redirect examination.

Questions by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. Had the old Indian woman who had been living among the Poncas and married to a Ponca an allotment of land?

A. No sir, I think not. I think there were several Indians that had not allotments of land yet; none of the children that I put on the roll had allotments of land, or white women that were married to Indian men had allotments of land,—many of the Indians subsequent to the allotment of lands.

Q. There were several of such besides the Sloans?

A. Yes sir; I did find out by investigation that the land that the Sloans claimed were recognized in a measure, and were not allowed to be taken by any other Indians.

Questions by Mr. C. E. CLAPP:

Q. Did your duties as the superintendent of the industrial school while you were in that capacity, did you have occasion to investigate the records of the Omaha tribe of Indians?

A. No sir, not of the Omahas, part.

Q. Were you called to the office of the Omaha reservation to assist in the office work?

A. No sir, not in particular.

Q. Along at any time prior to that?

A. No sir.

Sloan, Esq., and the defendants by John L. Webster, Esq.

ROBERT W. FURNAS, called as a witness in behalf of the complainants, and after being first duly sworn on his oath, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. Where do you reside?
A. I reside here, in Brownville, Nebraska.
Q. How old are you?
A. I am in my 79th year.
Q. You were the first governor of this State?

A. No, I was not.

Q. Sir?

347 A. No, Mr. Butler was the first governor.

Q. You succeeded him?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What official position did you hold, and do you hold now?

A. I do not know as I hold any that you would call a public office.

Q. Are you the secretary of the State Fair Association?

A. I am secretary of the State board of agriculture.

Q. Were you United States Indian agent for the Omaha tribe of Indians?

A. I was.

Q. Do you remember the years?

A. 1864 to 1867, I think along there, somewhere.

Q. About four years?

A. No, not quite four years. Andrew Johnson disposed of me before my four years were up.

Q. Where did you reside during the time you were Indian agent?

A. On the reservation.

Q. Among the Indians at the agency?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Were you connected with the making of the treaty of March 6th, 1865?

A. I was of the treaty, and I think that is the date of it. I have a copy of it; that was about the date. I can give it exactly by looking at the date. It was concluded, it says it was concluded March 6th, 1865. (Witness referring to document.)

Q. In what capacity were you acting in the negotiating of that treaty?

348 A. I was one of the commissioners that was called.

Q. Commissioner of the United States?

A. Clarke W. Thompson and myself were the commissioners.

Q. On behalf of the United States?

A. I do not know as to that; I do not know whether it would be characterized as commissioner on the part of the United States or of the Indians.

Q. "Treaty by and between Clarke W. Thompson and Robert W. Furnas, commissioners on the part of the United States?"

A. That would be it then.

Q. Were you present at the council of the chiefs in the discussing of that treaty?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What was the intention there expressed in regard to the rights of their mixed bloods and half breeds on the Nemaha reservation participating in that treaty?

Mr. WEBSTER: Objected to as incompetent, and as secondary evidence.

A. It was my understanding then and now that they were to be equal participants with the other Indians; that they would be cared for in like manner as the Indians themselves.

Q. Who if you remember was the spokesman expressing that on behalf of the chiefs?

A. They all participated in the discussion more or less. There was one of the oldest chiefs Noise, or Muttering Thunder, who was the oldest chief that was present, and I think now, I remember, that he perhaps had more to say in consultation than any other one, while they all participated in the discussions and questions.

349 Noise perhaps had more to say in regard to it, from the fact that he had some relatives on this half breed reservation here that he was desirous of having protected and cared for as did others; but it was the general understanding as I recollect now that the half breed Indians from the women, where white men had married into the family—married into the tribe—and the women, that their children should be equal participants, with the Indians themselves.

Q. Were any persons mentioned at that time of mixed blood who were designated as being entitled under the treaty?

A. Yes, I think I call to mind some, and perhaps not all that was called—there was called the Sloan family and the Barada, and I do not know that I can now call to mind—I remember those names were talked of.

Q. Do you remember the Louis Neal family?

A. Yes sir. The Neal family, two, yes sir; Louis Neal I think himself was a full blood Indian, was he not? I am not so sure about that. I know he was here.

Q. He was a half breed, part Otoe and part Omaha?

A. Yes sir, I think so, but he was called an Indian. I do not think he was classed as a half breed, although he might have been part Otoe and part Omaha.

Q. Did you know at that time what was the custom of the Omaha tribe in regard to recognizing Indians, those children born of Indian women, or mixed blood Indian women married to white fathers?

A. Yes, I think the understanding that the Indians were, the children went with the women, the Indian women; and I know this, that some of these what we called half breeds and who 350 were not on the reservation direct, but on this half breed reservation here, and one family particularly, if you will allow me to go on with the narration—one family in particular that had gone off of the reservation at the Omaha reservation, had gone outside of it and taken land, Government land, a timber claim, or some sort of a claim at that time, and I know that the half breeds were—when payments were made both from this reservation, and that family I remember, and I think the old pay rolls of which I have copies will show that, that they were there enjoying their portion of the payments.

Q. In what light did the Indians regard the half breeds residing on the Nemaha reservation, as being with the tribe?

A. I think that was all considered the same, whether they resided here or on the reservation, and I repeat what this man Pilcher said that had married an Indian woman and had gone off of the reservation, when they left and had taken up Government land; while he was really off of the reservation he was substantially with them there as neighbors as much so perhaps as many of those that were on the reservation direct.

Q. Was it not a fact that at that time many of the Indian families remained away from the reservation for months and often for periods of a year or more in locations convenient for hunting and fishing for their best advantage?

A. I hardly think their hunts were away that long; they were off of the reservation for quite a time sometimes. I know a good deal of difficulty we had of keeping them on the Nebraska side of the river. They were off on the Iowa side a good 351 deal, and a good deal of complaint was made of them; they committed depredations on the other side of the river, and I do not think now that in so far as hunting was concerned that they were off—they had their two seasons of hunting, one in the winter and one along about this time or earlier than this perhaps; and they might have been off on these hunts for a month, and even more, but I cannot say. I cannot now determine what length of time they were off. They were generally off and stayed as long as they had success and were enjoying themselves, and then they came home.

Q. Were there any of the full blood Indians who visited back and forth between the Omaha and Nemaha reservation remaining on visits for extended lengths of time among their relatives on the Nemaha reservation?

A. What do you mean by the Nemaha reservation I do not understand it?

Q. The half breed reservation?

A. Yes sir, they have been passing since I have been here. Since I have been home from the reservation, and they had their visits before, but perhaps I do not know as much before as I did afterwards, because they always called on me when they went to or from their home, going down to the folks on the reservation—the Sac and Fox Indians; their reservation was partly in Nebraska and partly in Kansas, right on the line; they would make generally visits when they were through here; they generally stopped here a day or two to get a little feast from me.

Q. Do you know the Frost, the Sloan and the Barada families during the time you were agent?

352 A. The names were familiar to me, but I could not do more than just simply say that I remember the names of the Frosts and the Baradas and the Sloans.

Q. They were then known to you as members of the Omaha tribe, were they not?
A. The Sloans and the Frosts?
Q. Yes sir?
A. Yes, I think they were regarded as half breeds and entitled to share in the rights equally with the Omaha. I met some of them since, but I cannot call to mind now their names at that time.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Mr. Furnas, the half breed reservation that you speak of is located in what particular county, or in what part of Nebraska?
A. In the southeast part here; the lines commence at the mouth of the two Nemahas was the original line, and going up each stream 20 miles I think was the old line defining going up the Big Nemaha and the Little Nemaha, and then striking some geographical line across.
Q. That area of territory lies within what counties at the present time?
A. Richardson and Nemaha counties.
Q. But the half breed reservation was described as commonly known as the Nemaha reservation?
A. Well, we have always—I do not know as I ever heard the term Nemaha mentioned; it was called the half breed reservation at the time. The Indians were just located on that when I came 353 here in 1856; but we understood they always called it the half breed reservation, and I do not know as I ever heard the name Nemaha applied before.
Q. On that half breed reservation that you have described, there were members, or half breeds of what different tribes of Indians?
A. I cannot say, except the Otoes and the Nemahas were, and it seems to me that that was the result of the old treaty of the Prairie du Chien treaty, and I do not remember the details of that, but it seems to me that there were other Indians besides the Otoes and the Omahas entitled to rights on the reservation.
Q. Were not some of the Iowas there?
A. I could not say, before I read the treaty, but it seems to me there were other Indians, but I am not sure about it.
Q. As far as you know there were on the reservation—the half breed reservation the Indians of all the different tribes that you mentioned in the treaty of 1830?
A. The Prairie du Chien treaty?
Q. Yes sir?
A. No, I do not remember of knowing other than the Omaha, and there may have been, but I do not now remember others than the half breeds of the Otoes and the Omahas occupying that under that treaty on this half breed reservation, but yet it seems to me other Indians were entitled but whether they availed themselves of their rights there I do not know.

Q. Now, the Omaha reservation that you spoke of is located within the boundaries of what counties in the State of Nebraska?

A. I think it is in Thurston county now, the old Indian reservation.

354 Q. And that is in the northeastern part of this State, is it not?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the half breed reservation is in the southeastern part of the State?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And the distance from one to the other is more than one hundred miles, or more than one hundred and fifty miles?

A. I should think it was. I do not know; it would be a guess. It would be guess work without looking over the map to ascertain it.

Q. I will put it in another way. The half breed reservation is how many miles south of Omaha?

A. We used to when we traveled to Omaha before the days of the railroad call it 85 miles. The members of the legislature obtained 85 miles mileage from here to Omaha when the legislature met in Omaha from this county here.

Q. And Thurston county is about 80 miles north from Omaha, is it not?

A. I should think, about the same distance; I should think it is about as far from the Omaha reservation to Omaha as from this reservation to Omaha.

Q. When you were agent of the Omahas your agency was located on the Omaha reservation up in the northeastern part of the State?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And was there an agency on the half breed reservation?

A. No, I think not; in fact there never was an agency there, that is my recollection. The old agency used to be further south in what is now Kansas.

355 Q. The half breeds on the half breed reservation did not have an Indian agent?

A. No, I think not.

Q. And after they got their patents for lands on the half breed reservation they lived on their lands just as the white people in the State of Nebraska occupy their land, in their own individual landed estates?

A. As far as I know, the same that would govern the reservation, and the same regulation that would govern the land outside.

Q. You knew that those patents on the half breed reservation were patents in fee simple?

A. I do not know anything about the patents.

Q. You know nothing about that at all?

A. No sir.

Q. Then they were patents in fee simple, as far as you know?

A. I think they were, because I know that I—in years ago had occasion to deal in some of those lands, and it was a patent from the General Government. On reflection I remembered that, in fact I had some deal with the land.

Q. Their patents were in fee simple?

A. I judge so. I do not remember now what the patents were, but they were Government patents. I think I have got one or two in my possession now.

Q. As a commissioner in negotiating the treaty in 1865 you reduced the treaty to writing while you were on the Omaha reservation?

A. It was drawn up; the treaty was drawn up in Washington really.

Q. And sent out?

356 A. Sent out by a delegation of Indians that I had taken there for that purpose. I took a delegation of Omahas and Winnebagos both for that purpose.

Q. To Washington city?

A. Yes sir, and the Winnebagos as you all know became afterwards owners of part of the original Omaha reservation up there.

Q. Then the treaty that was signed was prepared in Washington city while you were there and while the Indians were there with you?

A. The delegation of them were there; there were not all the chiefs there, and it was brought back for ratification by the Indians on the reservation. The final ratification was on the Omaha reservation. That is my remembrance. Whether we had to go again to Washington I do not now remember. The treaty was agreed upon, and all the stipulations agreed upon in Washington, but it had to be ratified by all the chiefs and men of authority in the Omaha reservation which was done after we got back. Whether we had to go again to Washington with that treaty I do not now remember. I think not.

Q. Ratified in open council and by the signatures of the chiefs?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And before it was ratified its terms were made known to the chiefs and discussed?

A. Yes sir, they were all there; pretty nearly the whole tribe when it was finally consummated were present.

Q. You knew did you not, Mr. Furnas that after that treaty was ratified that the Indians agreed upon the selections or allotments of land?

357 A. It was what was called an allotment of lands and made, and each so far as I know accepted his allotment, but I do not remember in detail now how it was done. All of the Indians, every member of the tribe was familiar with every foot of land on the reservation, and whether that was done by making an examination of the lands to be allotted or not, I cannot now say.

Q. It was reduced to writing to show the name of the Indian to whom lands were to be allotted, and the description of the land?

A. I think it was; yes sir.

Q. And that allotment was certified to by the chiefs of the tribe?

A. I do not remember now what the stipulations were in regard to the allotment of the land, but that was the object of the treaty, was to allot the lands and get them out of their village relations and old conditions on to their own little farms, that was the object.

Q. You have no personal recollection whether that was reduced to writing or certified to by the chiefs as being correct?

A. No, I cannot call to mind as to the certainty of it, and yet that is my remembrance now that the lands were allotted. It seems there was some of the land held in abeyance for something, but I cannot call to mind now what, nor what was given to each. The records I think, in fact I know if the records are still preserved they would show what was done in that.

Q. Did you yourself have anything to do with making these allotments?

358 A. I do not think the agent had anything to do with the allotments. He might as a kind of a supervisor, supervising something about it, but officially my remembrance now is that I had nothing to do with it officially.

Q. Is it not a fact that that allotment was concluded by your successor and certified to by him?

A. Possibly it might. I do not remember what his name was now.

Q. Was it not Mr. Painter?

A. No, that was not the name. I cannot call to mind his name. He was a young man.

Q. Was it Major Patrick?

A. I do not think so.

Mr. SLOAN: Was it W. P. Callon?

A. I think that is it.

Q. The man that succeeded you was Callon?

A. I think that it was.

Q. And the next man was Painter?

A. I do not know about the next.

Q. At this time, and ever since you came to Nebraska you have lived in Nemaha county, have you not?

A. With the exception of when I was away on official duties at that agency and in the army.

Q. But your residence was always here?

A. My residence has always been in this county; in this town.

Q. In close proximity to the half breed reservation?

A. Yes, it is within eight miles I think of this town; the northern boundary of the reservation is. It may come closer to that in some part of it. It followed the meanderings of the Little Nemaha.

359 Q. When you speak of the Frosts; the Frosts that you refer to were the Frosts that lived on the half breed reservation?

A. I think they did. I simply remember the names of the Frosts and Sloan and Barada and a few others as connected with the Omaha Indians who were residing on the half breed reservation. I do not know that, and I do not know—when the payments were taking place they were on the reservation, and I think they were generally always there. I am not so sure about that, but I would not have known any of them, and I cannot fix any of them in my mind now only by name and since I have met them here within the last few years, and know them now when I meet them, but would not have known them then.

Q. Is it your impression that their names were on the annuity pay rolls?

A. I think they were. I think I have some of those pay rolls today somewheres. I do not know where to go and look for them; but I think I have them; I have a lot of old papers connected with my service there.

Q. Suppose it should transpire as a fact that the Frosts' name does not appear on any of the pay-rolls——

A. Suppose they don't?

Q. Suppose it is a fact that their names do not appear on any of the pay rolls then you would be mistaken in your recollection?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And if it should appear that none of the Sloans or Baradas appear upon the pay rolls then you would be mistaken?

A. I do not know; the best of my impression now is that they were, and yet I would not state positively that they were.

360 Q. Now, of course you understand——

A. I know these half breeds—the half breeds down on this reservation were always I think present when the payments were made on the reservation.

Q. That means nothing more or less then they may have been solicitous about getting payments?

A. Yes sir.

Q. But as a matter of fact, whether they got the payments you do not know?

A. No, I only speak especially of what was the understanding, what was my understanding and what I know, it is old Chief Noise particularly spoke of at the time the treaty was made, and I think that these half breeds of which he speaks, and which we name now were relatives of his, and he was taking an active interest; there was no objection I remember. It was the understanding I think, and it was the general understanding of the Indian chiefs who were present there when the treaty was drawn up, and it was afterwards ratified; it was the general understanding that the children, the half breeds went with the women side, with the Indians, and were regarded as Indians. That was the general understanding.

Q. Do you mean by that that that was your understanding?

A. It was theirs too. And it was brought up by them and not by me. It was a question that was brought up by themselves.

Q. You did not understand the Omaha Indian language at that time?

A. No, not enough to know it, but it was done through interpreters; the business was done through interpreters. I never undertook to learn the language.

361 Q. Your knowledge would be limited to what some interpreter said to you?

A. Yes sir, they were official interpreters that transacted that business.

Q. They were the same interpreters who interpreted for the actual negotiations of the treaty of 1865?

A. At Washington?

Q. Yes sir?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Who were they?

A. Louis Saunsoci, and the other—he was one of the interpreters I forget.

Q. Was Henry Fontenelle and Hiram Chase?

A. Yes sir; Henry came on afterwards. Saunsoci and Fontenelle and Chase went on with me when I went. It is just Saunsoci. They seemed to be the only interpreters; Chase and Saunsoci. Henry don't seem to be on that (indicating). There were other witnesses Balcombe and Nels Patrick.

Q. I observe in this treaty that you just handed me, the words "including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them" is underscored by a lead pencil. Who did that?

A. I do not remember.

Q. I show it to you (handing witness treaty)

A. I do not know.

Q. How did you come by that document?

A. Mr. Sloan gave me this document. I asked him for a copy of it.

Q. Thomas L. Sloan handed it to you?

A. Yes sir.

362 Q. Then it must have been so underlined or marked when it was handed to you by Mr. Thomas L. Sloan.

—. I did not notice it before. I did not notice it even when I read it. It was not made by me.

Q. When did he hand this to you?

A. At the time he was down here before. I asked him if he had a copy of the treaty. I had forgotten really who the other of the commissioners was. Clarke Thompson was commissioner, but I forgot who the other commissioner was, and I asked him to let me have it. I would like to keep it.

Q. Was Thomas L. Sloan down here about a week ago talking with you about negotiations for that treaty?

A. More than a week ago, a week or ten days ago. He came down here and took my affidavit of this matter substantially what I am doing now.

Q. At that time you and he had a consultation over these matters?

A. Well, no, I do not know that you would call it a consultation. We had a conversation in regard to the matter, and he was asking me a lot of questions the same as you are doing. I remember I was very busy when he was down here. I was very busy, and could not spend much time with him. I merely made the affidavit that I did at that time.

Q. It is now 37 years since the circumstance of the negotiating of that treaty, and these matters you have spoken of transpired?

A. Yes sir, since 1865; I think that is about it.

Redirect examination.

Questions by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

363 Q. The half breeds residing upon the half breed reservation were frequently back and forth to the Omaha reservation during your administration?

A. Yes sir, visit to and fro, those that were there. Louis Neal was called on a visit back there.

Q. Louis Neal killed Fontenelle?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. He was one of the half breeds that you remember being back and forth who had a residence down on the half breed reservation?

A. Louis Neal?

Q. Yes sir?

A. Yes, he owned quite a farm there on the half breed land down here, quite a farm.

Q. Then it was a general custom and practice at that time for them to be back and forth for their annuity moneys?

A. They were there; I repeat what I said a while ago that I think they were there always when payments were made; that I said to Mr. Webster I was not sure whether—but my impression was that their folks were there, and they were there to receive their portion of the annuity, but if their names were not there, as Mr. Webster says, I should feel that I was mistaken of their being participants.

Q. Do you remember that there was a practice at that time for some of the chiefs, particularly those who were the leaders and chiefs of a particular band, to obtain annuity money for some of their absent relatives by their being added to their family?

A. How is that?

364 Q. Do you remember that it was at that time a custom or practice for the chief of a band to receive and receipt for the annuity moneys of absent Indians belonging to his band, they being counted in as members of his family?

A. No. I do not call to mind any such action as that. We were particular about that, to have the signature of every man that drew a portion of the annuity, to make his own signature. There was a good deal of division of moneys there most always. The Indians were pretty liberal when they got their money, and sometimes there was only one or two in a family, and I have known them before the annuities were paid, one man had a good many children and another one hadn't any, just himself and wife, and in order to help them out a little the one with the large family would give the one with the small family some children in order that they might get more. They were very liberal. If a family did not have but a little then we gave them more. The chiefs used a little politics about it and would distribute the funds around a little among the others.

Q. And you say that was the custom?

A. Yes sir, as I would observe it.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JOHN M. SLOAN ET AL., Complainant-,
vs.
U. S. OF AMERICA ET AL., Defendant-. } Doc. "T," No. 174.

It is hereby stipulated and agreed by and between the parties hereto that the following statement of facts is true and may be introduced in evidence in the above entitled cause.

John T. Spencer was duly appointed by the President of the United States as special disbursing agent to pay the second installment of $35,000 to the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska. That John T. Spencer paid to Thomas L. Sloan, $27.41 to Margaret Sloan $27.41, to Tacheawe $27.41 and to Nancy Cabany $27.41, being the sum respectively paid to each of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

The Treasury Department, under the advice of the Indian office, objected to the payment of these several items for the reason the Indian office claiming these persons were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians and therefore not entitled to participate in the distribution.

That on July 23d, 1894, the United States brought an action at law against John T. Spencer and his bondsmen in the district court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, doc. 364 "K," to recover these items and other items which the Treasury De-367 partment did not allow Spencer. Issues were made up, the case fully tried to a court and jury a verdict and judgment rendered for the defendant which verdict and judgment stand unreserved, unmodified and unappealed from and of binding force and effect upon the United States of America.

It is further stipulated that in said case the Hon. O. P. Shiras, judge, instructed the jury in part as follows:

"As I understand the matter, the question turns upon whom the Omahas recognize as members of their tribe and entitled to participate (in their) money. * * * Now you have heard the facts in regard to each one of these parties and in regard to the payments made to them and you will have to determine it under the evidence. The question really is, first, were they really members and recognized as such by the members of the Omaha tribe. If the evidence satisfies you that it was up to this time the custom and rule of the tribe to recognize white women who married Indians, as members of the tribe and to recognize also those who might be only partially Indian blood and that they still kept up, and they recognized them keeping up, their connection with the tribe, that would justify you in finding that any persons who came within this definition would be and could be recognized as members of the tribe so as to entitle them to their proper share of the division that was to be made at that time.

In regard to the case of Mrs. Sloan whom it appears had been absent for quite a time living in St. Louis, I do not know that any different rule, as I understand it, should be applied to her case. This is the only thing that affects us. Was she of Omaha blood and recognized by the Omaha tribe as a member of that tribe at the time this payment was made. This is the real issue that you come down to.

368 In the gradual transition that is taking place, of tribal absorption taking place, with most of the people of the United States, you can see—and especially those who are only of partial (Indian) blood—leaving their reservation, and leaving the places where the Indian tribes remain and going into other part- of the country; but that mere fact does not necessarily terminate their membership with the tribe. It is a question of whether they are recognized as members of the tribe, and that is to be determined by the facts in each case."

Testimony taken in behalf of the complainants, by consent of the parties hereto, before William S. Heller, a stenographer and notary public, at the office of John L. THOMAS L. SLOAN, being first duly sworn on his oath, and producing himself as a witness, testified as follows:

During the year 1890 at a general council of the tribe where a selection was made of what was called grass commissioners, it was necessary for their work, to have a clerk, at which time I was selected and appointed as such clerk. That after the moneys had been collected by the grass commissioners a general council was held and census taken for the preparation of the annuity roll, at which time the council of the tribe were present and super-370 vised the taking of the census that was for the purpose of determining those who should be enrolled and paid their per capita there with that money. At that time the council directed that Margaret Sloan and Thomas Sloan be permitted to take their share the same as the others—their share of the money, I refer to the grass money, and accordingly I put their names on, and they were paid.

Mr. CLAPP: What year was that?

A. 1890.

No. 174, Docket T. Depositions.

Testimony taken in behalf of the complainants, by consent of the parties hereto, before William S. Heller, a stenographer and notary public, at the office of John L. Webster, Esq., 826 New York Life building, Omaha, Nebraska, on this 27th day of September, 1902, the complainants being represented by Messrs. Thomas L. Sloan and Charles E. Clapp, and the defendants by John L. Webster, Esq.

CHARLES P. MATHEWSON called as a witness in behalf of the complainants, and after being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. Are these extracts from your official records? (Handing witness court file in this case.)

A. Well, those on the second and third pages are copies of annuity pay roll.

Q. And is that one of the official records of your office?

372 A. Yes sir.

Q. And the other descriptions and names are they from the official tract books in your possession?

A. Those on the first page are a list of names of lands allotted to them, which are a copy of the tract book, which is a part of the records of the office.

Q. And upon the succeeding pages are those extracts from your official records as well?

A. The next page is partially, that is, I don't know as you would say that down to the names and descriptions of land allotted certain parties, that is part of our official records.

Q. And the second is a list of names of the allottees and the number of the allotments as well?

A. Yes sir, that is correct.

Q. And those certificates following each of those lists were prepared by you after examination?

A. Yes sir.

Mr. SLOAN: We offer in evidence this document marked Exhibit 1, same being the document just referred to by the witness and is one of the files in this case, hence is not copied into this record.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. After the allotments had been made by Fletcher under the act of 1882, and the allotments of Rankin under the amendatory act of 1893, what quantity of lands have been left unallotted?

A. My impression is about six thousand acres.

Q. Does that six thousand acres include the lands which have been set apart pending these litigations for the complainants?

A. It does.

Q. Now, deducting from the six thousand acres the amount reserved as aforesaid, what quantity of lands if any remain unallotted on the reservation?

373 A. There are about in my—this is my impression—I would not say exact; my impression is that there is about two thousand acres, and that two thousand acres includes certain lands along the Missouri river which do not now exist. That is, the survey was made in 1867; I think that is the date of the Government survey, which was in 1867, and of course since that time there is a good deal of these lands have washed away that bordered along the river. So that there is not two thousand acres now.

Q. And does not that also include 640 acres set apart for the mission school?

A. 320 acres—one-half section is reserved for that purpose. Yes sir, I think that includes that too.

Q. So of the land that is unallotted, whatever there is of it, after you deduct the amount for the school and the amount that has been washed away by the Missouri river, what number of acres all told do you think remains?

A. Oh, there would not be; I should think about 1500 acres would be a large estimate.

Q. And that land is situated where, and what is its character?

A. Oh, it is just a forty acre tract here, and a forty there. I do not know that there is any place that there is more than forty acres. There may be some places; there might be a eighty possibly. But I think not; they are fractions, and the odd tracts along bordering the river.

Q. What is the character of the land?

A. The character of the land is of course, the very poorest on the reservation because nobody would take it, outside of the little that is reserved for the school, it most naturally would be the poorest land that there would be on the reservation. They have been picking it out all these years, and this is the little residue that 374 remains.

Re-direct examination.

Questions by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. Were you present at the council of the Omaha tribe of Indians when they consented to carrying into effect of the act of March 3, 1893?
A. I was.
Q. Were you present in an official capacity?
A. Yes sir.
Q. In what year did that take place?
A. I am uncertain whether it is 1898 or 1899. 1899 I think.
Q. In 1899?
A. I think so.
Q. In what month?
A. It was in May, late in May, or early in June, is my recollection. It was 1899, that is correct.

Witness excused.
By consent of the parties hereto the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

THOMAS L. SLOAN, called as a witness in behalf of the complainants, and after being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. CHARLES E. CLAPP:

Q. Calling your attention to the grass roll, Mr. Sloan, I believe you have already stated you were the clerk of the grass commission?
A. Yes sir.
Q. You may state whether or not the names upon the grass roll in the year 1890 were read by you to the council?
A. They were.
Q. Did you read the names of Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan from that roll?
A. I did.
375 Q. Calling your attention to Exhibit 1, state whether or not the facts stated in that exhibit are true and correct? (Hand-witness Exhibit 1.)
A. They are.

Mr. CLAPP: We offer in evidence Exhibit 1.
Exhibit 1 reads as follows:
"The following is a list of children of white fathers and mixed blood Indian women who have been alloted land, which children were born off the reservation, and at the time of their birth neither parent was borne upon the tribal rolls:

Elsie Fuller	George T. Scott	Eliza Campbell
Susan E. Fuller	Wesley Scott	Ida Campbell
Louis Fuller		Wm. H. Campbell
Anna L. Fuller		Pearly Campbell
George T. Fuller		Florence Campbell
Charles E. Fuller		Julia Campbell
Isabel Fuller

List of children born to white women and mixed blood Indian fathers living off the reservation at the time and when neither parent was carried upon the tribal rolls:

Josephine Filson	Charles Pilcher	Mary Cabana
	Mary V. Pilcher	Francis Cabana
		Reuben Cabana."

Cross examination of witness waived.

Witness excused.

By consent of the parties hereto, the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

CHARLES P. MATHEWSON, called as a witness in behalf of the complainant, and after being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. You may state what quantity of land was allotted by Miss Fletcher?

376 A. To the best of my recollection it was about seventy thousand acres. I guess I could tell it more exactly.

Q. About what quantity of unallotted land was there remaining after that allotment?

A. My impression was that there was about fifty thousand acres.

Q. Since the Rankin allotment aside from that reserved for the litigants in these various cases, what quantity of land still remains unallotted?

A. My impression is that there is about two thousand acres. That includes all of the land along the river, a good deal of which does not exist at this time; but on the reservation on our plat book showing the original survey I think about 2000 acres.

Q. Do you know what quantity of land was sold under the provisions of the act of 1882?

A. No, I do not; never had any occasion to look that up.

Cross examination waived.

Witness excused.

By consent of the parties hereto the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

PRAIRIE CHICKEN, produced as a witness in behalf of the complainant-, and after being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Silas Woods was sworn as interpreter.

Direct examination by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. Do you know Jajow Crawford the old man from West Point who made the Omaha's annuity payment?

A. He said, I presume I know him. but if I saw him now I would not recognize him.

377 Q. Were you a councilman when he made the Omahas the payment?

A. Yes sir, I was there.

Q. Do you remember his asking the council whether or not he should enroll Margaret Sloan, and her grandson?

A. He said at the pay roll when his name was mentioned, that I got up and told them, he says; if he has got any blood or Omaha blood in him why he ought to be on the roll, and now, he says, all of you thought we ought to give him and allot to him, and the head of a family, and now the tribe got up as though they would switch me and whip me out; he says, I am the only one that said in favor of him having an allotment. If there was six or seven that was heads of families he favor him having the allotment. That concludes the whole thing; allotting the heads of the family 160 acres to the family; he says for the reason that I said so in order to give them 160 acres to each head of the family because I know that is going to be a long fight to try to get them out. That is what I had it in my mind, he said; we are fighting them yet.

Q. At the payment at the time that Crawford asked about it, were not the only ones who objected, Two Crow and Wajapa?

A. He said all of them; he says, I am the only one that said anything, or a small piece of my word, and all of them hated me he says, for me in favoring him.

Q. Which time is that that they speak about; at the time that they speak about the allotment, or at the time of the payments?

A. He says both times; he says it is in both times, and all of them told me to shut up and not say a word again in favor of him; he says, I know personally that when the first fight was commenced, he says, I collected the money myself to fight this case, and 378 he says, when I fight this case, he says, I had the money myself; I collected the money from the tribe and kept it myself, and then when I got through collecting, and then I took it to Thomas McCauley, the treasurer to fight this case, the first commencement. He did not want to have anything to do with it any more. He says, when I got through collecting I went to work and put it in the hands of the treasurer and I quit it entirely. I did not want to have any fighting one way or the other. He says, I hear Bill Springer, he got up and tried to collect some from me against this fight. He says, well, I will not pay him nothing. He says, I do not want to have any blood fighting at all, and that is the reason, he says, I stepped off to one side and let them fight it out. That is all; that is the way I stand.

Q. Was you at the Winnebago agency when the Omaha council were up there in regard to signing and holding a council in regard to Margaret Sloan and Thomas Sloan?

A. I was there.

Q. What was done at that time?

A. He says, now, there is one day they called us up to the Winnebago agency, and we were up there pretty early in the morning; they wanted us up there to be in pretty early in the morning and so we went up there, and now, they told us, in here, while we are against this case, he says, now all these young fellows, probably there was 150 siding in favor, and now, here your councilmen will be bind. He says, these young fellows will lead you. And then says he, now you ought to be in ahead, but these young fellows are leading you in favor, and now, says he, that is what Mercer told us that we ought to be on the head of all this leading business. He says, now, that is the first thing they have done. Now, the second, 379 all the Omahas, when the parties that was in favor of him such as High Chase and Simeon Hallowell, when they are against him, why then the tribe right with them too. And then they went to work and tried to collect a note from them to fight these half-breed cases. They too was right against him, men in their favor. And now, here is Will Springer, was the one that got up this note business, he says from every head of a family, he said, to fight this case. Now from that on it is still the same thing, complaints all times.

Q. How many of the council at the Winnebago agency were in favor of Margaret and Thomas Sloan?

A. He says when we were up there that Mercer has tried to force us to sign because there is so much young fellows in favor that you have to sign. That is what the agent has told us; it is to compel us to sign our names he said. That is all I know, he said.

Q. Are you related to Mary Jane Paul?

A. It is pretty small. I am related to her on account of her and I are born in the same band; in the same band that they were born; it is considered they are related in that way.

Q. You knew Margaret Sloan?

A. I saw her.

Testimony taken in behalf of the defendants, by consent of the parties hereto, before William S. Heller, a stenographer and notary public, at the office of John L. CHARLES P. MATHEWSON called as a witness in behalf of the defendants, and after being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Are you at present the Indian agent for the Omahas and Winnebagos?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you know John T. Spencer?

A. I do.

382 Q. Did you know him in 1890?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you know of the time when he made—when he acted as special disbursing agent for the payment in the year 1890 to the Omaha Indians?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you at that time have any position at the agency, and if so, what was it?

A. I was chief clerk at the Omaha and Winnebago agencies at the time.

Q. Who was the agent?

A. Ira H. Ashley.

Q. Do you know of any conversation between Ashley, yourself and John T. Spencer on the point as to whether Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan should be put on the roll for payment by the said Spencer at that time?

A. I heard a conversation between Agent Ashley and Mr. Spencer about the matter. It was in my presence in the agency office in which the matter was discussed.

Q. You may state what was said between the parties at that time?

A. I cannot give the exact words. I can give the substance of the conversation. That would be the best I can do.

Q. State it as you best recollect it?

A. Spencer made the statement that he was going to put Mr. Sloan and Mrs. Margaret Sloan on the rolls, and Ashley brought up the matter that they had not been on the previous rolls, and that there had been some correspondence between the department and the office in relation to enrolling those people, and Ash-

383 ley was decidedly—he understood that the rulings of the department, and decision of the department were against enrolling them, and he took issue with Mr. Spencer on the matter. Spencer said that he was going to enroll those, and Ashley was very much opposed to it, and they had quite a conversation about the matter. And during the conversation Mr. Spencer admitted I think that he had not any direct authority to enroll them, but that he was going to put them on and take his chances. That was my recollection of the conversation.

Q. Did he tell you any reason why he was going to put Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan on the roll for that payment?

A. I think that he looked the matter up and he thought that they were entitled to be on, and I expect that he had a friendly relation to Mr. Sloan.

Mr. CLAPP: Do not state what you expect: state what you know.

A. I do not know. I do not know why; I cannot say that positively.

Q. What was the actual relation between Thomas L. Sloan and John T. Spencer at that time?

A. Mr. Sloan was acting as his clerk in making these payments.

Q. What did he say, if anything about his friendly relation to Thomas L. Sloan?

A. I do not know as I can give that. I can only give my impressions of what I gathered from the conversation. I could not give his exact words. I can give the impression that I gathered from the conversation if that is what you want.

Q. You may state it?

384 A. That he felt friendly to Mr. Sloan, and that from what he looked at the matter he thought he ought to be on the roll, and he was going to take his chances and put him on the roll.

Q. At that time did not Spencer know that Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan were not on the annuity pay rolls?

A. He couldn't help but know that, because he had a copy of the previous roll in which they were not on.

Q. Their names did not appear on the subsequent pay rolls?

A. No sir, they did not.

Q. Was it not almost immediately thereafter that Thomas Sloan and Margaret Sloan and others brought their suit in the United States circuit court against the members of the tribe endeavoring to assert their rights to allotments of lands?

A. I think it was that year or early in the following year. I think it was sometime during that same year if it was not early in the following year.

Q. In that their rights to membership in the tribe and to allotment was resisted by the tribe?

A. It was; an attorney was employed to litigate the case.

Q. And at that time did you know that the tribe employed John L. Webster to resist the claims of the Sloans and others?

A. I do; yes sir; that was the fact, that the tribe employed an attorney, and Mr. Webster was that attorney to take charge of their case.

Cross-examination.

Questions by Mr. CHARLES E. CLAPP:

Q. You spoke of the suit, what suit do you refer to?

A. I refer to the original suit to which this is the——

Q. What was it?

385 A. The suit of Thomas L. Sloan and others that was instituted.

Q. Against whom?

A. I cannot tell you technically. I think it was instituted against the Omaha Indians; but then whether it was the agent or——

Q. Do you think that that was a suit for an allotment of land?

A. Yes, as I understood it; it was a suit for land and to be admitted as members of the tribe and share not only in land, but all other benefits that would come to the tribe.

Q. That is your recollection?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Your understanding of that suit?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Don't you know as a matter of fact it was an injunction suit against the agent, and had not anything to do with allotments of land?

A. No, I do not recollect that it was that. I know that it had. It referred to the rights as Omaha Indians other than allotments of land, because I know that the agent—that in annuity payments, that it referred to them and these tribal moneys that was standing to the credit of the Omahas.

Q. What land were they seeking to have allotted to them in that suit?

A. I could not say what land. I suppose it was to establish their rights if they had them as Omahas, and that would carry the allotments. I do not know as it mentioned any specific lands or anything of that kind.

386 Q. Did Spencer tell you that he looked the matter up and thought that Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan ought to be on the rolls?

A. I do not think he said those words. He said he had inquired into the matter I think; spoke of it in that way. I suppose you could say that he looked the matter up.

Q. Did he say of whom he made inquiry?

A. No, I do not recollect. There was a great deal of conversation that I heard about it at that time, and it was a good many years ago.

Q. You cannot repeat any of that conversation?

A. No, I could not now, positively. It was in a general way that I heard this discussion between Agent Ashley and Mr. Spencer.

Q. Were you there all the time during this conversation?

A. Yes, I think so. It was in the office. We only had one office.

Q. Were you listening to that conversation, or were you engaged in other duties?

A. I expect I was engaged in the work at the desk more or less, part or all of the time. I heard the conversation as a person naturally would.

Q. Has your memory been refreshed in that conversation lately?

A. No, I do not think it has.

Q. When have you first thought of that conversation since it occurred?

A. Mr. Webster asked me this morning if I knew anything about that, and I said that I heard this conversation between Ashley—I had not thought of it before today.

387 Q. And what you have testified here today is simply an impression; you cannot repeat any of the conversation?

A. No, not absolutely. It was a matter that I was greatly interested in.

L. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
WASHINGTON, D. C., December 14th, 1874.

SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 2d instant, by reference from B. Rush Roberts, relative to the desire of Henry Fontenelle, an Omaha half breed, to become a citizen of the United States and to receive his pro rata share of the moneys of the tribe, and a patent in fee simple for his allotment of land.

You are advised that there is no general law of the United States making provision whereby Indians can elect to dissolve their tribal relations and become citizens of the United States. Neither is there any general authority of law for paying those who so desire it, their pro rata share of the funds of the tribe, or for issuing a patent in fee simple to allottees for the lands allotted to them.

All or either of these things can only be authorized by act of Congress making provision therefor. But if ample authority were provided, it would not be in any way desirable to allow a half-breed or any other member of the tribe to receive his pro rata share of the funds and a patent for his allotment of lands. Whatever is done on a reservation for the Indians belonging to it must be done for all at the same time. If the half-breed desires to go elsewhere 389 and procure his share of the funds during the continuance of their disbursement to the tribe, such an arrangement may be desirable if existing legislation would allow it. It is not improbable that legislation will be procured to cover this object during the present session of Congress.

Very respectfully, your ob't servant,

H. R. CLUM,
Acting Commissioner.

I, W. A. Jones, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, do hereby certify that the papers hereto attached are true copies of the originals as the same appear on file or of record in this office.

391 WEST POINT, NEB., Feb'y 14th, 1889.

Hon. Jno. H. Oberly, Washington, D. C.

MY DEAR SIR: Referring to your letter of instructions of Jan. 25, '89, "A" 1514–'89, wherein I am directed to pay to the legal representatives for those who have died, allow me to call your attention to the fact that in many cases it is difficult to determine who the legal representatives are, and it is also a question whether I should be governed by our laws upon the subject, or by the custom that has prevailed for at least many years, with the tribe. If governed by our laws, orphans will have to be represented by guardians duly appointed. If governed by the prevailing custom of the tribe then the leading men decide all doubtful cases and determine who shall receive the money for minors. This is also true of other special cases—for instance one man left his wife and three children without any ceremoney and took another. Afterwards he, in order to get the children's money went to his first wife and took the children. At the enrollment the tribe with one voice demanded that the children be enrolled with the mother as a matter of justice, to which I heartily agree. It was finally determined with the consent of the husband and father that he have the oldest boy enrolled with him, and that the other two be enrolled with the mother which was accordingly done. If I done wrong in this, I will thank you to set me right. There are other similar cases where minors reside with their grand parent and even with strangers, with whom they are enrolled.

Again, the agent and tribe understand that a female is a minor until she is 21 years old and have so treated her, while under 392 our laws she ceases to be a minor at 18. They submitted the question for my decision. I am inclined to hold that all such should be enrolled for themselves. Either way will be entirely satisfactory to the tribe. They seem to agree very readily and peaceably upon every point. The leading men think the woman Sloan is entitled to enrollment and would like to see her enrolled. She is said to be a very respectable old lady, but very poor. She did not lay her claim before me.

Some are absent at school and other places and their relatives think they ought to be allowed to receive and receipt for the absent ones inasmuch as payment is made by checks which could be sent to absentees without risk or expense. What say you to this and also the right of parties to be represented by attorney in fact?

The question is also raised whether an Omaha woman who has married a Ponca and left the agency is entitled to annuities.

I find the Omahas largely in debt contracted largely in anticipation of getting this money. They have purchased horses, cattle, lumber, agricultural implements, etc. Under the law and my instructions, I am to instruct the Indians as to how they shall or more properly for what purposes they shall use this money. Now I am certain to be asked whether it is proper for them to pay their liabilities out of this money, and I desire very much to know what if any answer I shall make other or in addition to the general instructions I am to give them as directed in your letter. This is liable to be the most serious matter that I will have to contend with as creditors will be plentiful on pay day. Of course this is a matter I will have nothing to do with unless the Indians submit the question to me.

393 Agent Warner kindly assisted and will still further assist me in the performance of my duties.

Very respectfully, your ob't servant,

JAMES C. CRAWFORD.

Refer in reply to the following:

"A." 4638–'89. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23, 1889.

James C. Crawford, special agent, &c., West Point, Nebraska.

SIR: In reply to your inquiries of 14th instant, you are informed that it is thought best that you return the shares of all deceased persons, and of all orphan minors, to the U. S. Treasury, there to await the claim of legal representatives, and coming of age of the minors.

The original certificate of deposit for all shares returned for any reason, must be forwarded to the Treasurer of the United States, accompanied with a list showing the names of the persons the money was set aside for, and the amount due to each, and the duplicate certificate you will send to this office, accompanied by similar list.

In the case of the family, father, mother and three children; the father having deserted his family sometime ago, and is living with another woman as his wife. I think it would have been clearly allowable for you to have paid the shares of all the children 394 to the mother, but since you report that it has been decided to pay to her the shares of the two youngest children, and to the father that of one child, you may do so, provided he agrees to support and properly care for this one, and you will inform him that in case he does not, the share of this child in the second payment, will certainly be paid to the mother.

In the case of minors residing with others than their parents, you will return their money to the Treasury.

If it is the law of the State of Nebraska that all females attain their majority at eighteen years of age, all such should be allowed to receive and receipt for their own shares.

You may allow the tribal authorities to decide whether or not, you are to enroll the Sloan woman, spoken of in a previous letter.

The shares of all minors who are absent at school, you will pay to their parents, but the shares of all absentees who are of age, should be returned to the Treasury.

Do not pay to attorneys.

An Omaha woman duly entitled to enrollment, and to a share in their annuities, does not forfeit that right by having married a Ponca, who does not reside on the Omaha reservation.

In reference to the question as to your duty in compliance with that part of the act which requires you to direct and advise the expenditure of this money by the Omahas in the manner most conducive to their present welfare, in view of the fact that they have incurred many debts in the expectancy of this money, which they will desire to pay, you are instructed that all cases where such debts were incurred for objects in harmony with the evidence pur-395 pose of the act, viz: in making improvements on their homesteads, and in the purchase of stock, cattle, agricultural implements, and other necessary articles, or in the purchase of forage for their stock, or even for food for such of themselves as were suffering for want of it, you will approve their previous action and allow them to pay all such debts, except in cases where you find that the Indian has been wronged by having promised to pay an exorbitant price, or was cheated into buying something worthless; but where you find a bill presented for any purchase which did not clearly tend to enable the purchaser to further improve his or her condition, or which could not in any way have conduced to their present welfare, you will direct and advise that the claim be not paid from this money, but that it be expended in pursuance of the purposes of the act.

Respectfully,

(Signed) JNO. H. OBERLY,
Commissioner.

WEST POINT, NEBRASKA, May 20th, 1889. (E. L. G.)

To the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith duplicate certificate of deposit No. 368 for the sum of $1144.92, issued by the First National Bank of Omaha. The cause of the delay in forwarding this was on account of errors in statement of my account furnished me by the bank and which did not agree with my account and caused me to go over my entire pay-roll and accounts many 396 times in quest of the errors which I supposed were my own because of my strong impression that banks were so little liable to err. And since according to the statement furnished me there were no less than a dozen errors, showing about that number of checks and amounts paid twice, which would of course leave that many checks outstanding and unpaid. Being unable to discover any error in my account I went to the bank with my statement only to find that the clerk who had copied the statement from the books of the bank made all of the errors. I have this day transmitted to your office my report in duplicate. The Indians have made excellent use of the money, better in fact than the same number of white men would have done. The Sloan woman was not put on the roll first because I did not get your letter until the roll was completed. Secondly, at the time of payment the leading men of the tribe seemed to be divided upon the question. I am of opinion she should receive her portion, there being sufficient funds left she can still be paid if you so direct. There is still another Omaha woman who has been dropped from the rolls some years ago, having lived with the Poncas, who now asks for her proportion, to which I will refer in a future letter. The council were unanimous in directing me to request that the other payment be made during the first quarter of the next fiscal year. I have no doubt it would do them more good now than at any future time, while they are opening and stocking their farms.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully your obedient servant,

(Signed) JAMES C. CRAWFORD,
Special Indian and Special Disbursing Agent.

397 The descendants of Michael Barada and Tuingletha Hacienda, an Omaha Indian woman, are above set forth. The oldest was Margaret who married Thomas Sloan, Antoine Barada next in age, then Mary Jane Paul and then the mother of John Pilcher. All those who were living at the time of the allotment of the Nemaha reservation received land as half-breed members of the Omaha tribe of Indians and are marked thus # left of name. All of the above named underlined in red ink are allotted land under the provisions of the act of Congress of Aug. 7, 1882 and amendment and are recognized as members of the tribe by payment of annuities.

Those names marked thus # and underlined in red ink are persons who have allotments under both the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and the act of Congress of August 7, 1882.

400 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 3rd day of October, 1903, memorandum opinion was filed in said case, which said memorandum opinion is in words and figures following, to-wit:—

401 In United States Circuit Court, District of Nebraska.

vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

This case with twenty-four others, in favor of different plaintiffs, were submitted to the court at the same time and are all disposed of in the following opinion.

Thomas L. Sloan, Charles E. Clapp, H. C. Brome, Anderson & Keefe, for plaintiffs.

John L. Webster, W. S. Summers, U. S. district att'y, for defendants.

SHIRAS, District Judge:

These several suits, The United States being the defendant, are brought under the provisions of the act of Congress approved February 6, 1901, 31 Statutes at Large 760, which enacts:

"That all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to an allotment of land under any law of Congress, or who claim to be so entitled to land under any allotment act or under any grant made by Congress, or who claim to have been unlawfully denied or excluded from any allotment or any parcel of land to which they claim to be lawfully entitled by virtue of any act of Congress, may commence and prosecute or defend any action, suit or proceeding in relation to their right thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States; and said circuit courts are hereby given jurisdiction to try and determine any action, 402 suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdictions involving the right of any person, in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty, and in said suit the parties thereto shall be the claimant as plaintiff and The United States as party defendant."

The plaintiffs in the several cases aver in substance that they are in part of Indian blood, being members of the Omaha tribe, and are therefore entitled to allotments of land in the reservation of that tribe, situated in Thurston county in the State of Nebraska; that their applications for allotments have been unlawfully denied them by the officers and agents of the United States, charged with the duty of allotting the lands of that tribe in severalty, and therefore they invoke the jurisdiction conferred upon the court by the act of Congress just cited for the ascertainment and enforcement of their rights.

On behalf of the Government it is contended that the provisions of the act of Congress of February 6, 1901, above cited do not confer upon the courts jurisdiction to review or vacate the decisions rendered by the Interior Department, upon the applications of the several plaintiffs herein, nor to hear and determine whether the plaintiffs are members of the Omaha tribe in such sense that they are entitled to allotments in severalty of portions of the tribal reservation.

This construction of the act practically defeats the evident purpose of the enactment, which is to provide a method for enabling parties, whose claims to allotments have been denied by the department, to obtain an adjudication upon their rights in the proper courts.

While due weight must be given to the rulings and decisions of the department as affecting the merits of the cases, yet it can-403 not be held, in view of the express terms of the act of Congress, that the rendition of a decision in a given case, adverse to the claim of a particular person, prevents the proper court from taking jurisdiction over a suit brought by such person to establish the right or claim denied to him by the action of the department.

Sloan vs. United States 95 Fed. 193.
Smith vs. He-Ya-Tse-Mil-Kin, 110 Fed. 60

When the case of Sloan vs. United States was before the court upon demurrer to the bill, it was held in substance that the act of 1882 (22 Stat. 341) was intended to take the place of the previous acts and treaties providing for the allotment in severalty of the lands forming the Omaha reservation, and I see no sufficient reason for departing from that conclusion, and therefore the fundamental question to be solved is as to the persons, who under the terms of that act, are entitled to claim allotments in severalty.

Section 5 of the act provides as follows: "That with the consent of said Indians as aforesaid, the Secretary of the Interior be and he is hereby authorized, either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he may designate to allot the lands lying east of the right of way granted to the Sioux City and Nebraska Railroad Company, under the agreement of April 19th, 1880, approved by the acting Secretary of the Interior, July 27th, 1880, in severalty to the Indians of said tribe in quantity as follows: To each head of a family, one-quarter of a section, to each single person over eighteen years of age, one-eighth of a section; to each orphan child, under eighteen years of age, one-eighth of a section; and to each other person under eighteen years of age, one-sixteenth of a section; which allotment shall be deemed and held to be in lieu of the allotments or assignments, provided for in the fourth article of the treaty with the Omahas, concluded March 6, 1865, and for which, for the most part certificates in the names of individual Indians to whom tracts have been assigned, have been issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, as in said article provided; provided, that any Indian to whom a tract of land has been assigned, and certificate issued, or who was entitled to receive the same, under the provisions of said fourth article, and who has made valuable improvements thereon, and any Indian who being entitled to an assignment and certificate under said article, has settled and made valuable improvements upon a tract assigned to any Indian who has never occupied or improved such tract, shall have a preference right to select the 404 tract upon which his improvements are situated, for allotment under the provisions of this section; provided, further, that all allotments made under the provisions of this section shall be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children, and the agent shall select for each orphan child; after which the certificates issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs as aforesaid, shall be deemed and held to be null and void."

Counsel for the United States earnestly contend that this section must be read in connection with the limitations found in article 4, of the treaty of 1865 (14 Stat. at Large 667) which declares that:

"The Omaha Indians being desirous of promoting settled habits of industry and enterprise amongst themselves by abolishing the tenure in common by which they now hold their lands, and by assigning limited quantities thereof in severalty to the members of the tribe, including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them, to be cultivated and improved for their own use and benefit; it is hereby agreed and stipulated that the remaining portion of their present reservation shall be set apart for said purpose," and that so reading it, allotments under the act of 1882 can be made only to the mixed blood relatives who were on the reservation when the treaty of 1865 was adopted.

I can see no good reason for adopting this view of these statutes. The treaty of 1865 made provision for the allotment in severalty to "members of the tribe" it being declared that the half or mixed blood relatives then residing on the reservation should be deemed to be members of the tribe. The treaty does not recognize the mixed bloods as a separate and distinct class and does not confer any rights upon them by reason of their being mixed bloods, but the declaration of the treaty in substance is, that the mixed bloods residing on the reservation shall be deemed to be members of the Omaha tribe, and as such, to be entitled to the right of allotment.

The act of 1882 makes provision for the allotment of the lands of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and in determining who are to be included within this designation, weight can be given to 405 fact that in the treaty of 1865, mixed bloods residing on the reservation were declared to be members of the tribe, but it cannot be held that the right of allotment under the terms of the act of 1882 can only be exercised by those who could assert such right under the terms of the treaty of 1865. When, in section 5 of the act of 1882, it is declared that with the consent of the Indians, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized "To allot in severalty to the Indians of said tribe in quantity as follows: to each head of a family, one-quarter of a section, to each single person over eighteen years of age, one-eighth of a section and to each other person under eighteen years of age one-sixteenth of a section," it was certainly not intended to limit this right to an allotment to the members of the tribe who were such in 1865. Many of the members of the tribe now upon the reservation, have been born since 1865, yet their right to an allotment, if living upon the reservation, when the act of 1882 was adopted, is not and cannot be questioned, and by the provisions of the amendment contained in the Indian appropriation act of March 3, 1893, (27 Stat. at Large 630) it is enacted, "That the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, be and the same is hereby amended so as to authorize the Secretary of the Interior, with the consent of the Indians of that tribe, to allot in severalty, through an allotting agent of the Interior Department, to each Indian woman and child of said tribe born since allotments of lands were made in severalty to the members thereon under the provisions of said act, and now living, one-eighth of a section of the residue lands held by that tribe in common, instead of one-sixteenth of a section as therein provided."

Taking into consideration the express provisions of the act of 1882 and of the amendatory act of 1893, it is clear that it was 406 not the intent of Congress to limit the right to allotments in the Omaha reservation to such persons only as could have asserted the right under the terms of the treaty of 1865. If such had been the legislative intent, apt words of limitation to that end would undoubtedly have been incorporated in these acts, but none of that import are to be found therein.

The act of 1882 in the first section thereof declares, "That with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, expressed in open council, the Secretary of the Interior be and hereby is authorized to cause to be surveyed &c., &c." and in section 5 it is declared, "That with the consent of said Indians as aforesaid, the Secretary of the Interior be and is hereby authorized, to allot the lands &c."

The tribe whose consent was to be obtained was the Omaha tribe, as it existed in 1882, and not the tribe of 1865. The allotment in severalty was not to be made to the members of the tribe living in 1865, but to the members living in 1882. The purpose of the Government, in inducing the Indians to take allotments in severalty, was to provide for the breaking up of the tribal relation and to place the several members of the tribe in such condition that they would be enabled to gain a support for themselves and their families by the cultivation and use of the allotments. Unquestionably the parties entitled to allotments under the act of 1882 were the members of the tribe as it then existed, and the question to be determined is whether the several claimants, who are the plaintiffs in the cases now before the court were in fact members of the tribe when the act of 1882 took effect.

Counsel for the Government contend that in determining the status of the plaintiffs the rule of the common law must be applied, that children of free born parents take the legal status of the 407 father and therefore in these cases, children of a white father and Indian mother must be held to be whites, and as such to be disqualified from sharing in the tribal property belonging to the Indians. In the several treaties entered into between the United States and the Omahas, frequent reference is made to half bloods and mixed bloods, but in none is there a distinction made between those deriving their Indian blood from the mother and those deriving it from the father. It is not to be supposed that the Indians, when called upon to agree to an allotment of their lands under the provisions of the treaty of 1865 and the act of 1882, had knowledge of the artificial rule of the common law, which, if it was applied in these cases, would require the ruling that a half blood, residing with the tribe, the child of white father and an Indian mother, could not be deemed to be of mixed Indian blood, whereas a child of an Indian father and a white mother would be held to be of Indian blood, and therefore entitled to share in the tribal property.

As ordinarily understood by white people, a person of white and Indian parentage is deemed to be a mixed blood, without regard to the source of the Indian blood.

In other words, in common parlance the child of a white father and an Indian mother, as well as a child of an Indian father and a white mother are equally of mixed blood, and therefore, when in a convention with the Indian-, half or mixed bloods are included, no distinction can be drawn between those who derive the Indian blood from the mother and those who derive it from the father.

Thus in Jones vs. Meehan, 175 U. S., 1, it is said by the Supreme Court:

408 "In construing any treaty between the United States and an Indian tribe * * * the treaty must therefore be construed, not according to the technical meaning of its words to learned lawyers, but in the sense in which they would naturally be understood by the Indians."

As further evidence that it is not the intent of Congress, in determining the status of mixed bloods, that the technical rule of the common law should govern, reference may be made to the general Indian appropriation act of June 7, 1897 (30 Statutes at Large 90) wherein it is declared: "That all children, born of a marriage heretofore solemnized between a white man and an Indian woman by blood and not by adoption, where said Indian woman is at this time, or was at the time of her death recognized by the tribe shall have the same rights and privileges to the property of the tribe to which the mother belong-, or belonged at the time of her death, by blood, as any other member of the tribe, and no prior act of Congress shall be construed as to debar such child of such right."

As I construe the act of 1882, it was the intent thereof to establish by the terms of that act, the rules to be followed in allotting the lands of the Omaha tribe. In the treaty of 1865, provision had been made for allotments in severalty and for the issuance of certificates by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to the allottees, it being provided that to each head of a family there should be assigned not to exceed 160 acres and to each male person of eighteen years or upwards without a family, a tract not exceeding forty acres. It does not appear that much progress in making allotments had been made under this treaty and in 1882, Congress again dealt with the situation by the adoption of the act of June 7 of that 409 year. The act provides that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to allot the lands lying east of the right of way granted to the Sioux City and Nebraska Railroad Company, "in severalty to the Indians of said tribe in quantity as follows; to each head of a family one-quarter of a section, to each single person over eighteen years of age, one-eighth of a section; to each orphan child, under eighteen years of age, one eighth of a section; which allotments shall be deemed to be in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty with the Omahas, concluded March 6, 1865" it being further provided that any Indian who had made improvements upon any tract assigned under the treaty of 1865, should have the preference right to select such tract for allotment under the act of 1882, and that when the allotments had been made, the certificates issued by the Commissioner should be null and void, provision being made for the issuance of patents to the allottees.

It thus appears that based upon the consent of the Omaha tribe, the provisions of the treaty of 1865 with respect to the allotment of the lands in severalty are superseded by the provisions of the new agreement or convention evidenced by the act of 1882, and therefore the rights of the plaintiffs to allotments must be adjudged according to the true intent and meaning of that act, and the right to an allotment of a person coming within the terms of that act cannot be rightfully denied him, simply because he could not bring himself within the terms of the treaty of 1865.

Under that treaty no woman, unless she was the head of a family, and no child under the age of eighteen was entitled to an,
410 allotment, whereas under the act of 1882 each single person regardless of sex, over eighteen is entitled to one-eighth of a section, and each orphan child under eighteen, is entitled to a like amount and each other person under eighteen is entitled to one-sixteenth of a section.

These radical changes in the terms of the act of 1882, as well as the provisions therein contained, that the certificates issued by the Commissioner under the provisions of the treaty of 1865 are to be deemed to be null and void, clearly justifies the conclusion that recourse must be had to the act of 1882 in determining who are entitled to allotments in severalty on the reservation belonging to the Omaha Indians, and that limitations found in previous acts or treaties, but not repeated in the latter act cannot be read into it, in order to defeat the rights of one who fairly comes within the terms of the latest convention between the Indians and the Government, as evidenced by the act of 1882. Thus we reach the question of the construction to be given to the terms used in that act, whereby provision is made for the allotment in severalty to the Indians of the tribe of portions of the reservation occupied by them.

Counsel for the Government strongly contend that the court is practically bound to follow the rulings and decisions of the Department of the Interior in these cases upon two grounds; First, that the construction given by the department, charged with the duty of supervising the affairs of the Indians, to the statutes and treaties dealing therewith are entitled to great weight and in doubtful cases should control the judgment of the court, and second; that the rights of the claimants present cases of mixed questions of 411 law and fact which prevents the court from considering the same under the recognized rule that courts will not re-examine questions of fact decided by the department in the disposition of the lands placed in its charge, but are limited to a consideration only of questions of law.

When Congress adopted the act of August 15, 1894, and amended it by the act of Feb. 6, 1901 conferring upon the circuit courts of the United States "jurisdiction to try and determine any action, suit or proceedings arising within their respective jurisdictions involving the right of any person, in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty" and further provided that any one, in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, who claimed "to have been unlawfully denied or excluded from any allotment or parcel of land," might bring suit in the proper circuit court for the enforcement of his rights, it certainly must have been the legislative intent to confer upon the courts full authority and right to hear and determine every question arising in any suit brought by a claimant to an allotment. These acts were adopted by Congress because it was brought to its attention that many persons, claiming allotments, had been denied that right by the department, and it was sought to make provision for a method whereby such persons could re-assert their claims before a judicial tribunal.

The real purpose of the acts, conferring jurisdiction upon the courts in this class of cases, would be practically nullified if the contention of counsel should be sustained, to the effect that in all cases wherein the department had ruled against the claimant, the courts are bound to follow the decision of the department. The 412 remedial intent of the legislation in question must be given fair and full force, and this imposes upon the court the duty of hearing and deciding all questions of law and fact necessary to the full consideration and determination of the rights of the several claimants.

The first question presented for consideration is the construction to be given to the act of 1882, in ascertaining the class of persons entitled to allotments under its provisions. As already stated, I cannot concur in the view that only those entitled to allotments under the provisions of the treaty of 1865 can claim the right under the act of 1882.

The latter act was intended to deal with the situation as it existed at the time of its passage. At that time there was in existence the Omaha tribe of Indians, inhabiting their reservation in Thurston county, Nebraska. The earnest desire of the Government was to bring about the abolition of the tribal system and community of property, and to that end provision was made for the allotment of the tribal lands in severalty among the Indians constituting the tribe.

If such a construction should be put upon the act, that a portion of the persons of Indian blood residing on the reservation in the tribal relation should be excluded from the right to an allotment, it would follow that these persons would be deprived of the benefit they enjoyed as members of the tribe, without receiving any share in the tribal land, an unjust result which certainly cannot be defended upon the words of the act, or upon a fair construction of its real purpose.

It certainly was not the purpose of the Government, in seeking to bring about the severance of the tribal relation, through the allotment of the lands in severalty, to sever such relation in any case without awarding compensation through an allotment in severalty.

413 It was certainly well known to Congress, when that act was adopted, that the Omaha tribe was not composed alone of Indians of the full blood, but that there were then upon the reservation, living with the tribe, many half or mixed bloods. The reasons for awarding to these persons lands in severalty in order to sever the tribal relation, were just as strong as in case of the full bloods, and there is nothing in the language of the act that necessarily restricts the right to an allotment to the full bloods alone. Indeed counsel for the Government admit that there are mixed bloods who are entitled to an allotment, but their contention is, that only those mixed bloods who were on the reservation in 1865 are entitled to allotments.

Under the treaty of 1865, the mixed blood members of the tribe were entitled to allotment, and I can see no sufficient reason for holding that Congress intended to exclude such members, when enacting the act of 1882.

As already said, that act was intended to deal with the situation as it then existed, and to provide for allotment to the members of the tribe, who would otherwise be deprived of their existing tribal rights.

As I construe the act of 1882, it was not intended to make a distinction, with respect to the right to an allotment, between Indians of the full blood, and of mixed blood residing on the reservation in the tribal relation, with one exception to be hereafter noticed, but I am further of the opinion that this right is not possessed by the mixed bloods, who were not living on the reservation as members of the tribe, when the act of 1882 was adopted. As was well 414 said by Commissioner Price in a letter of instructions issued under date of October 5, 1883, "It would be absurd to contend that the treaty of 1865, or the more recent act of Congress, under which the allotments are being made, were intended as a general invitation to all persons everywhere who might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Indian blood in their veins, to repair to the reservation and select an allotment. Manifestly, such was not the intention nor will any such construction be admitted in making the allotments."

It may be that in some exceptional cases, persons might be recognized to be members of the tribe and as such to be entitled to allotments, although not upon the reservation when the act of 1882 took effect, but such recognition should be limited to those persons, if any, whom the tribe clearly deemed to be members.

It must be kept in mind that in the adoption of the act of 1882½ the Congress was not granting or donating the property of the United States, which would justify the application of a strict rule of construction in favor of the United States.

The act of 1882, as well as the treaty of 1865, is a convention between the Omaha tribe and the Government, whereby with a view to encourage the Indians in the habits of civilized life, provision was made for breaking up the tribal relation, through the allotment of portions of the reservation in severalty. Therefore, it seems to me that the department would be justified in making allotments, not only to the actual resident members of the tribe, but to such others, as the tribe, acting in open council, or the equivalent, should declare to be members of the tribe, and entitled to share in the allotment of the tribal land.

Such allotments, however, would be matters of favor, depending upon the action of the tribe, and not upon the rights created 415 by the act of 1882, and therefore claimants, who cannot bring themselves within the provisions of the act of 1882, by showing that when that act took effect, they were residing on the reservation in the tribal relation, but who claim that as a matter of fact they were recognized by the tribe to be members thereof, cannot rightfully expect that the courts will refuse to accept and follow the ruling of the department upon the question of such recognition. The agents, charged with the duty of making the allotments, who visit the tribe have a much better knowledge of the action taken by the tribe than can be gained by the court, and their decision upon a fact of this nature, especially when duly affirmed by the officers of the Interior Department, should ordinarily be accepted as conclusive. In the numerous reports of the allotting agents, introduced in evidence in these cases, it is reported that none of the several claimants are recognized by the tribe as members entitled to allotments and these findings of fact have been approved by the Secretary of the Interior, and they will for the reasons stated, be accepted as final by this court, in the further consideration of these suits.

It is further contended on behalf of plaintiffs that the act of 1882 did not take effect until the consent of the tribe was obtained thereto, and therefore all mixed bloods who had returned to the reservation at that date are to be deemed to be within its terms, the same as though they were residents on the reservation in 1882.

It is shown in the evidence that a special agent, to make the allotment, was sent to the reservation in the early part of 1883, 416 and the assent of the tribe to the provisions of the act had evidently been had by that time. Even if it should not be properly held that the rights of the parties are to be determined by the actual situation, as it existed on the 7th day of August 1882, being the date of the adoption by Congress, of the act in question, yet it cannot be held that a mixed blood, who was not at that date an actual resident of the reservation, could make himself a member of the tribe in such sense as to entitle him to the rights created by the act of 1882, by simply coming upon the reservation, it not being known that his action was approved by the tribe acting thereon. If the tribe had recognized and approved the application of a particular Indian, their action would have resulted in his application being recognized by the allotting agent, but in the absence of such recognition, it must be held that a mixed blood who was not a resident, in the tribal relation, of the reservation, when the act of 1882 was adopted by Congress could not force the tribe to recognize him as a member, entitled to share in the allotment, by coming upon the reservation, even though he did so by invitation of his relatives in the tribe.

A further question necessary to be considered is the effect to be given to an allotment made under the terms of the treaty of 1830, whereby what is known as the Nemaha reservation was assigned for the use and occupancy of the half breeds of the tribe, it being therein provided that "The President of the United States may hereafter assign to any of the said half breeds, to be held by him or them in fee simple, any portion of said tract not exceeding a section of six hundred and forty acres to each individual."

It cannot be held that it was the intent and purpose of this section of the cited treaty to confer upon the half breeds of the tribe a greater interest or right than was possessed by the full bloods, and yet that would be the practical result, if it should be ruled 417 that a half breed, after reaping the benefit of an allotment in the Nemaha reservation, should also be entitled to a further allotment in the present reservation, and without further elaboration of the reasons for so ruling, I hold that all mixed bloods who have secured allotments in the Nemaha reservation are debarred from an allotment in the Thurston County reservation.

Where, however, a mixed blood was living in the tribal relation upon the present reservation when the act of 1882 took effect, his right to an allotment, as a member of the Omaha tribe, would not be defeated because his parents or either of them had secured an allotment in the Nemaha reservation.

Being of the mixed blood and being in fact an actual resident in the tribal relation upon the reservation, he must be deemed to be an Indian of the Omaha tribe, and as he had not received an allotment under the treaty of 1865, his rights under the act of 1882 cannot be defeated because his parents may have reaped the benefit of an allotment. Thus under the express terms of the act of 1882, the heads of a family are entitled to an allotment and so also are their children.

In other words, under the act of 1882, the fact that an allotment under that act has been made to the parent does not defeat the right of the child to a person- allotment. This right of the child is not derived from the allotment right of the parent, nor is it property inherited from the parent, but it is a personal right conferred upon the individual because he is in fact an Indian of the Omaha tribe.

If an allotment under the act of 1882 to the parent, will not defeat the right of the child to a personal allotment, I can see no good reason for holding that an allotment to the parent under any previous act should be given that effect.

As the act of 1882 and the amendatory act of 1893, give to the heads of families one-quarter of a section and to all others one-eighth the question arises whether the quantity to be allotted in a given case, is to be determined by the status of the claimant at the date of the act or at the time when the allotment is made.

By section 5 of the act of 1882 it is provided that the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to allot the lands in severalty.
418 It is not declared that there is hereby granted or allotted to each head of a family or other person so much land, which language, if used, might possibly be construed to be an allotment then taking effect, but the provision is that the Secretary of the Interior, through agents to be by him selected, is to make an allotment in the future, and the fair construction of this provision is that the status of the parties, when the allotment is made or claimed, determines the quantity to be assigned. This I understand is the rule followed by the agents of the department in making allotments from time to time, and is the rule that will be adopted in dealing with the cases now before the court.

Having thus considered the questions of law pertaining to the cases in general, it will be necessary to determine in each case from the facts thereof, the rights of the claimant under the construction given to the treaties and acts governing the situation as hereinbefore outlined, each suit being indicated by the name of the plaintiff therein.

THOMAS L. SLOAN.

Claimant is a mixed blood, one-eighth Indian. Is the grandson of Margaret Sloan, the daughter of Michael Barada, a full blood white man, and Taeglaha Haciendo, a full blood Indian woman of the Omaha tribe. Margaret married one Thomas Sloan, a white man in St. Louis, and in 1857 with her husband and children came to the Nemaha reservation and was allotted 320 acres therefrom. In 1881 Margaret Sloan with her grandson Thomas L. Sloan, came to the present reservation and they were residents thereof when the act of 1882 was adopted. Thomas L. was educated by the United States Government at the school at Hampton, Virginia, and 419 while the evidence shows that he is by habit, mode of life and education a white man, that fact does not deprive him of the right to claim an allotment under the act of 1882, as he was at the date of its adoption, living on the reservation, and is in fact of mixed blood. Being a married man, he is entitled to an allotment of 160 acres.

No. 174. JOHN M. SLOAN, ARTEMESIA FROST, and THOMAS L. SLOAN.

In this case, plaintiffs claim as the heirs at law of Margaret Sloan, averring that during her lifetime and while residing on the present reservation she selected the land in the bill described for allotment purposes, and that upon her death in 1898, the plaintiffs, as her heirs, succeeded to her rights. The evidence shows that Margaret Sloan received an allotment of 320 acres in the Nemaha reservation, which debarred her from claiming a further allotment.

Furthermore, Margaret Sloan never obtained a patent, or certificate conveying to her a title to a specific piece of land. Even though it might be true that she had, as a member of the Omaha tribe an interest in the tribal land, that interest did not confer upon her heirs, the right to demand the conveyance to them of this specific tract. In section 6 of the act of 1882, it is declared that the law with respect to descent in force in the State of Nebraska shall apply to the lands after patents therefore have been executed and delivered. Until a patent, confirming a previous selection has been executed and delivered, the lands included therein would remain part of the tribal property, so far as the right of inheritance is concerned, and as I view the situation, Margaret Sloan, at the date of her death, was not vested with the title to the land she was occupying, in such sense that her death devolved or vested any title thereto in her heirs, but the land remained part of the tribal property.

420 Under these circumstances plaintiffs have failed to show a right to or title in the land claimed by them and their bill must be dismissed on the merits and at their cost.

No. 175. GARRY P. MYERS.

Being of mixed blood, and a resident of the reservation in 1882, Myers is entitled to an allotment and his right thereto is not seriously questioned by the department, but the debateable point in the case is, as to the amount to which he is entitled. It is averred in the answer in this case that Myers claimed to have selected the land for allotment in 1892, he being then a single man, of about eighteen years of age and therefore he is entitled to 80 acres only.

The stipulation of facts in the case shows that Myers, by marriage, became the head of a family on March 5, 1893, and that he entered upon the occupancy of the quarter section claimed by him in the spring of 1894. I do not find in the record any evidence to sustain the averment in the answer that Myers made his selection in 1892, and under the facts stated in the stipulation it must be held that he made his selection in the spring of 1894, at which time he was the head of a family and entitled to an allotment of 160 acres. The evidence further shows that Myers had occupied and improved the 160 acres by him selected in such sense that under the provisions of section 5 of the act, he is entitled to be preferred over any other claimant and the allotment of 80 acres of the land in question to Taeupa Webster was therefore an error on part of the agent, Myers being entitled to the whole quarter section.

A decree in this case will therefore be entered establishing Myers' right to the 160 acres described in the bill.

In all the other cases submitted to the court, being Nos.
421 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 362, 363, 364, 365, 460, 461, 462, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 574, and 579, docket "T," the several plaintiffs therein have failed to show themselves entitled to the benefit of the allotment provisions of the act of 1882, as construed in the foregoing opinion, and therefore in each case a decree will be entered dismissing the bill on its merits, at the cost of the plaintiff therein.

423 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 13th day of October, 1903, an assignment of errors was filed in said case, which said assignment of errors is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JOHN M. SLOAN, ARTEMESIA FROST, and Thomas Sloan, Complainants,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathewson, Megratahe Grant, John Grant, and Charles Grant, Defendants.

Docket T, No. 174. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainants in the above entitled cause and assign the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in finding and determining that Margaret Sloan received an allotment of land in the Nemaha reservation and was for that reason debarred from claiming a further allotment upon the Omaha reservation.

Second. The court erred in construing the treaty between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians, made July 15, 1830, a- meaning and intending that the taking of an allotment of land by a member of such tribe pursuant to article 10 of said treaty thereby extinguished the claim of such Indian to further allotment of land or further allotments or benefits in the tribal property as a member of such tribe.

424 Third. The court erred in construing the treaty between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians, of u · 15, 1830. as meaning and intending that half-breed members of the tribe who secured allotments of land in severalty in the Nemaha reservation under the terms of said treaty are not entitled to a second allotment under the act of 1882, although at the time of its passage they were residing on the reservation in the tribal relation.

Fourth. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Fifth. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Sixth. The court erred in holding that the complainants were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Seventh. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

425 Eighth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Ninth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Tenth. The court erred in adjudging and determining that Margaret Sloan at the date of her death was not vested with the title to the land she was occupying in such sense that her death devolved or vested any title thereto in her heirs.

Eleventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Margaret Sloan at the time of her *h*eath was not entitled to claim and have allotted to her the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: the south-west quarter of the north-east quarter, and the south-east quarter of the north-west quarter of section thirty-five (35), township twenty-five (25) north of range seven (7) east, and the north half of the north-east quarter of section twenty (20) township twenty-four (24) north of range eight (8) east and that such described property did not vest in complainants, the heirs at law of said Margaret Sloan, at the time of her death.

Twelfth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainants.

426 Thirteenth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainants.

Wherefore, complainants pray that said decree be reversed and that complainants be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

Comes now the complainant- in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant- alleges, grievous injury to this complainant-, and complainants conceived themselves to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainants further show to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

428 Wherefore complainants pray for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

431 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 10th day of May 1901, amended complaint was filed in said case, which said amended complaint is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States within and for the District of Nebraska.

JOSEPHINE MITCHELL, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Charles P. Mathewson, Nellie Reese, Minor; Nungthae Thae Reese, Defendants.	No. 265, T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of the said court:

Josephine Mitchel brings this her bill of complaint against the United States of America, and thereupon your oratrix complains and states that she is a member of what is, or until recently was known, as the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omahas in the various statutes of the United States, and in the treaties hereinafter set forth. That she is of what is known as mixed blood and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada who intermarried with one Taegleha Haceineda, an Indian woman of the said tribe. That your oratrix and her ancestors back to said Michael Barada and his said wife, have continually maintained their domicile with the said tribe and maintained tribal relation- therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by the said tribe, and has participated in the property and other rights of the said tribe, and been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of the said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

432 And further complaining your oratrix says: That on the 16th day of March A. D., 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof they received their present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rate to the individual members of the tribe including Euphrasia Peters. All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large vol. 10 page 1043 to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

And your oratrix further says that on the 6th day of March A. D., 1865 another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large vol. 14 page 667 to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

And further showing your oratrix says; that on the 7th day of August A. D., 1882 an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one-quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one-eighth of a section, to each orphan child one-eighth of a section, to each other person under eigh-
433 teen years of age one-sixteenth of a section. That all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large vol. 22 page 341 to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

Your oratrix further shows that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act on December 1884 and at subsequent times since.

Your oratrix further shows that on the 3rd day of March, A. D., 1893 an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th, 1882 providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council further allotment should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882, were not superceded by the act of March 3rd 1893, but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899 and immediately thereafter assignments for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, that the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimants.

And your oratrix further shows that she is a daughter of 434 Euphrasia Peters who is a daughter of Antoine Barada, who in turn was a son of Michael Barada and Taegleha Haceineda who was as hereinbefore set forth, an Omaha Indian woman and a member of said tribe, that ever since the year 1885 she has continuously resided upon the Omaha reservation. That your oratrix first selected land in the year 1887 and was upon the reservation at the time the Omahas consented to accept the act of 1882.

That your oratrix selected as the head of a family the following described lands, to-wit: The S. ½ of S. W. ¼ of section 35 and the S. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼ and the S. E. ¼ of N. W. ¼ of section 34 township 25 N. range 7 east of the 6th P. M. in Nebraska. That your oratrix has improved and is farming said land having made valuable improvements there to the value of $2090.00 at least. That the land when selected by your oratrix was wild, unimproved and unclaimed land. That your oratrix is a member of the Omaha tribe by blood and descent and accordingly to the law, customs and rules of the Omaha tribe. That such membership has not been terminated and your oratrix has been refused an allotment.

That since the commencement of this action under authority of the act of 1893, March 3rd to which the Omaha tribe consented in May 1899 a part of the land of your oratrix has been assigned. The S. W. of N. E. ¼ section 34 to Nellie Reese a minor and the S. E. of N. W. ¼ section 34 to Nungthae Thae Reese, and for which trust patents in the name of the United States have issued April 11, 1900.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land to place in possession the allottee or lessee and "that he 435 threatens to place into possession either the allottees hereinbefore named or their lessees to the great and irreparable damage of the complainant who is now in possession. That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson his claim of authority over the land on controversy and his threats that he will remove your oratrix from the land make him a necessary party to this suit. And your oratrix further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress, or who claims to be so entitled under any allotment act or any grant made by Congress, may commence prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor or any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305 which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

Your oratrix further states, that the defendant The United States of America claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty
436 of March 6th, 1865, it was provided that the assignment — be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them," and the defendant claims that your oratrix and her ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your oratrix admits that she and her ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time but claims that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation nor the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor their rights to allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art., of the treaty of March 6th, 1865 as certified to by the chiefs and headmen of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th 1871, and contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th 1865 nor at the time of making the schedule referred to; that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882 who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of 437 March 6th 1865 nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent, the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resides on the reservation but who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th 1865 and ever since resided -way from the reservation.

Your oratrix further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art., of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your oratrix further states that the defendant, The United States claims that the complainant or her ancestor has received allotments of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art., thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian office neither the complainant nor Euphrasia Peters her ancestor are entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your oratrix admits that her ancestors received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art., of the treaty of July 15th, 1830 as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians that the quantity so assigned was one-half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by her 438 nor given to her in consideration of the relinquishment of any other right than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

That numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art., of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money, which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66, of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art., of the act of the 6th of March 1865 and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your oratrix has not in any manner assigned or relinquished her right or claim to the benefit under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized this complainant or her ancestors or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complain-t or any member of her tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your oratrix shows to your honors that she is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honor in this court of equity and they therefore pray- the aid of the court in the premises and that said defendants, The United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson, Nellie Reese by her 439 next friend Thomas Reese and Nungthae Thae Reese may answer your oratrixs' bill, but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That it be ordered and decreed that the patents issued to Nellie Reese and Nungthae Thae Reese are null and void and that the selection as made by Josephine Mitchell for herself is prior and superior to their claim and is her allotment and that she is entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your oratrix further prays for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants Charles P. Mathewson, Nellie Reese and Nungthae Thae Reese enjoining and restraining each of them, their agents and employees from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein described and that at the termination of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your oratrix the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court direct to the United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson, Nungthae Thae Reese and Nellie Reese by her next friend Thomas Reese therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

THOMAS L. SLOAN,
Solicitor for Complainant.

CHAS. E. CLAPP, Of Counsel.

440 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 2nd day of July, 1901, answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to-wit:

JOSEPHINE MITCHELL, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathewson, Nellie Reese, Minor; Nungthae Thae Reese, Defendants.	No. 265, Doc. T. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of the United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson, Nellie Reese, and Nungthae Thae Reese, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Josephine Mitchell, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer, say:

1. These defendants deny that Josephine Mitchell is an Omaha Indian, and deny that Josephine Mitchell is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary these defendants aver that the said Josephine Mitchell is a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and that her ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and 441 that her said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and these defendants deny that Josephine Mitchell or her ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and deny that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer aver that Josephine Mitchell, complainant, claims to trace her lineage back to Michael Barada, who had intermarried with an Indian woman by the name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but these defendants are not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe and therefore leaves the complainant to her proof in that regard.

That there was born to said Michael Barada and his wife, in the year —, a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Lous with his parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

That the said Anotoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vien, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife 442 Josephine Vien continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years, until some time after the approval act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a daughter named Euphrasia (the mother of this complainant), and the said Euphrasia was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and lived in the city of St. Louis, and was never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Euphrasia Barada, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a white man named Fulton Peters, a white man of German nationality and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said Fulton Peters and his wife Euphrasia, a daughter named Josephine, who is the complainant herein, and the said Josephine, being such white person and citizen of the United States taking the status of her father, continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when she came to the Omaha reservation with her parents, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. These defendants for further answer aver that Josephine did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865,
443 (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty only included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded Josephine being only one-sixteenth Indian blood and she not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said Josephine Mitchell was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which 444 said schedule did not contain the names of Josephine or her ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither Josephine nor any of her ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. These defendants further answering say; that in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontanelle and others, being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, that made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainant- in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886 and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887 February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "that the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemisia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors, or any of the immediate antecedants or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names," 445 and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including these complainants. That the said Antoine Barada was the grandfather of this complainant, and the said Euphrasia Peters and Fulton Peters were the parents of this complainant, and Frank Peters and Walter Peters and Mary Sailors were brothers and sisters of complainant.

4. These defendants further answering say; that after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Peters family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts of the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Peters family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. "The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with 446 the work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding the cases of the ansentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family:

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half breed; that she was born of a white mother (French) in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selections of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections. Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Juhn (formerly Barada) appears on said 447 schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around in that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians.

Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, the mother of complainant and the action of the department thereon.

448 The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case. The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas. Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis. Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled down to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war. He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4 of the treaty of 1865 defines those entitled to lands to be 'the members of the tribe including their half breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilmen incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article. 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the 449 council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there. This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation. The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation, and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendant-, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. This defendant further avers that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others including this plaintiff persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

450 SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land. There is a man named Frank Peters, who, although he has Indian blood in him is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We knew that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8 and broke 40 acres. We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off. We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done. This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land. We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and that the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

451 If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands. Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted. They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now; their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so. If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterward on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

452 Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6th, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. The 4th article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood 453 relation- residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. This defendant further avers that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters and complainant, failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was 454 to report such facts to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters. to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Frank Peters, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as he was of that class.

This defendant further avers that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, and Mrs. Sailors and their families belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to land or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not 455 be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontanelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th, of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. These defendants for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5 (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854 (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to Euphrasia Peters for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of Euphrasia Peters and her descendants including Josephine Mitchell, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

456 These defendants for further answer deny that Josephone Mitchell the complainant, is the head of a family and denies that she is entitled to an allotment of 160 acres of land, and denies that Josephine Mitchell ever occupied or improved any of the land in section 24, township 25, north range 7, E., described in her amended bill of complaint, and the defendants aver that the lands occupied by the Mitchell family is confined to the S. half of the S. W. quarter of section 35 and these defendants aver that the U. S. allotting agent has reserved for Josephine Mitchell pending this litigation, the S. half of the S. W. quarter of section 35, township 25, range 7 E., being eighty acres of the land described in her amended petition, and which said reservation has been noted upon the surveyed maps in the office of Commissioner of Indian Affairs, awaiting the final determination of this suit. These defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections and to make allotments of land, ascertained and found as a fact that Josephine Mitchell was not head of a family on the date of the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, under which the complainant claims the right to an allotment, and did not at said date, nor at any other time, occupy the lands described in section 34, township 25, north range 7 E., and further found that the said Josephine Mitchell was not entitled to an allotment of any lands whatsoever, and which said finding and report has been approved by the Interior Department.

That said United States allotting agent did find upon investigation that Nellie Reese had selected and had a superior right and claim to an allotment of the S. W. quarter of the N. E. quarter of said section 4, and that Nungthae Thae Reese had selected 457–460 and had a better and superior claim to the S. E. quarter of the N. W. quarter of said section 34, township 25, north range 7 E., and the said United States allotting agent did make to the said Nellie Reese and Nungthae Thae Reese respectively, an allotment thereof and thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs; that the said Nellie Reese and the said Nungthae Thae Reese were entitled to the lands so allotted to them respectively above described and which said allotments were subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and by the Secretary of the Interior, and patents therefore had been issued to the said Nellie Reese and Nungthae Thae Reese respectively, under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotments were made and the said patents issued in the regular and due course of business.

And these defendants further aver that the complainant herein did not have any prior or superior or vested right to the lands so patented to Nellie Reese and Nungthae Thae Reese, and that the said allotments to them, and the said patents to them were made in all respects in conformity to law.

10. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defendants and these defendants deny that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded. And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

W. S. SUMMERS,
United States Attorney.

461 Thereupon, afterwards, to-wit: on the 21st day of August 1902 stipulation of facts was filed in said case, which said stipulation is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JOSEPHINE MITCHELL, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathewson, Nellie Reese, Minor; Nungthae Thae Reese, Defendants.

Doc. T, No. 265.
Stipulation of Facts.

It is hereby stipulated that the following named persons will testify in behalf of the complainant, to the facts set down after the names respectively, and it is hereby further stipulated and agreed that said statements may be received in evidence with like force and effect, as if the deposition of the respective parties to the said facts had been formerly taken.

Walter Mitchell, the husband of Josephine Mitchell, will testify that Josephine Mitchell first made claim in the year 1894, to the S. W. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ of section 34 (allotted to Nellie Reese) and the S. E. ¼ of the N. W. ¼ of section 34, township 25, range 7 (allotted to Nungthae Thae Reese). The claim was made by cutting hay on the land. Thomas L. Sloan made the record of the claim at the agency in 1895. At that time there was a fence around the land which had been built by Thomas L. Sloan. Thomas L. Sloan subsequently sold the fence. There is no fencing on the land now, nor any improvements excepting the growing crops of corn and flax. About one-half of said land is in cultivation, perhaps a little more.

462 Walter Mitchell will further testify that he was married to Josephine in Richardson county, State of Nebraska in the year 1891. That Josephine had come to the Omaha reservation in the year 1883, and had gone back same year to Richardson county Nebraska, with her father and mother (1883).

That Walter Mitchell and Josephine Mitchell (husband and wife) came to the Omaha Indian reservation to live in the year 1892, and have lived on the reservation since that time.

Thomas L. Sloan will testify that when he fenced the land for pasture there were no marks by plowing. That he and Walter Peters surveyed it in 1890 as a claim for the Peters children, they being Jacob Peters, Josephine Peters and Walter Peters. That Sloan was county surveyor at the time. That no plowing was made on this land until the late summer of 1893. That it was plowed by many claimants. That the first person to plow around it was Walter Morris.

Stipulation of Facts.

463 William Springer will testify that the lands which have been allotted to Nungthae Reese and Nellie Reese in section 34, township 25, range 7, claimed to have been selected by Josephine Mitchell in 1895, had been plowed around before that date and the furrow marks were then plainly visible, but that he does not know personally who had marked out the land by plowing around it.

Thomas Reese will testify that he is the father of Nellie Reese and Nungthae Thae Reese, and that Nellie Reese is living and that Nungthae Thae Reese died about four years ago.

That he (Thomas Reese) made claim for his children, 13 years ago, to the land allotted to Nungthae Thae Reese (being the S. E. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of section 34), and to the land allotted to Nellie Reese, being the S. W. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ of section 34, township 25, range 7 (being part of the land claimed by Josephine Mitchell in her amended bill of comlaint).

And that he plowed around the land at that time (13 years ago) but made no other improvements upon the land. He cannot state what year it was he plowed around the land, but thinks it was about 13 years ago. He leased the land to Mr. Hutchens, one year ago this spring (being the spring of 1900).

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JOSEPHINE MITCHELL, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Nellie Reese, Nung Thae Thae Reese, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.
Docket T, No. 265. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

467 Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Josephine Mitchsell was not entitled to claim and have allotted to her the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The south half of the south west quarter of section thirty-five (35), the south west quarter of the north east quarter, and the south east quarter of the north west quarter of section thirty-four (34) all in township twenty-five (25), north of range seven (7), east.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

468 Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore, complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

JOSEPHINE MITCHELL, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Nellie Rees-, Nung Thae Thae Reese, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	Docket T, No. 265. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November. 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives herself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

470 Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

474 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 28th day of November 1898, an amended bill was filed in said case, which said bill is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States within and for the District of Nebraska.

To the honorable the judges of the said court:

Emiel Peters, brings this his bill of complaint against The United States of America, and thereupon your oratrix complains and says that the matter in dispute herein exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum or value of two thousand dollars, and arises under the Constitution and laws of the United States and under certain treaties made under their authority as hereinafter more specifically set forth.

Further your orator says that he is a member of what is or until recently was known, as the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omahas in the various statutes of the United States, and in the treaties hereinafter set forth. That he is of what is known as mixed blood and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada who intermarried with one Taegleha Hacieneda, an Indian woman of the said tribe. That your oratrix and his ancestors back to said Michael Barada and his said wife, have continually maintained their domicile with the said tribe and maintained tribal relations therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by the said tribe, and has participated in the said property and other rights of the said tribe and been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of the said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

475 Further complaining your oratrix says that on the 16th day of March, 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians wherein and whereby the said tribe ceded unto the United States certain land situated in what is now known as the State of Nebraska, south of what has recently been known as the Omaha reservation, and in consideration of the session of the said land, the United States agreed to pay and did pay unto the said Omaha tribe of Indians certain annuities for a certain period of years as set forth in said treaty, and agreed to perform in addition thereto certain covenants all of which is more fully set forth in the said treaty in the words and figures following, to-wit:

Article 1. The Omaha Indians cede to the United States all their lands west of the Missouri river, and south of a line drawn due west from a point in the centre of the main channel of said Missouri river due east of where the Aoway river disembogues out of the bluffs, to the western boundary of the Omaha country, and for ever relinquish all right and title to the country south of said line.

Article 3. The Omahas relinquish to the United States all claims for money or other thing, under former treaties, and likewise all claims which they may have heretofore, at any time, set up, to any land on the east side of the Missouri river, provided, the Omahas shall still be entitled to and receive from the Government, the unpaid balance of the twenty-five thousand dollars appropriated for their use, by the act of thirtieth of August, 1851.

Article 4. In consideration of and payment for the country herein ceded, and the relinquishments herein made, the United States agree to pay to the Omaha Indians, the several sums of money following to-wit:

476 1st. Forty thousand dollars per annum, for the term of three years commencing on the first day of January, eighteen hundred and fifty five.

2nd. Thirty thousand dollars per annum, for the term of ten years next succeeding the three years.

3rd. Twenty thousand dollars per annum for the term of fifteen years next succeeding the ten years.

4th. Ten thousand dollars per annum, for the term of twelve years next succeeding the fifteen years.

All which several sums of money shall be paid to the Omahas, or expended for their use and benefit, under the direction of the President of the United States, who may from time to time determine at his discretion, what proportion of the annual payments, in this article provided for, if any, shall be paid to them in money, and what proportion shall be applied to and expended for their moral improvement and education.

In addition to the foregoing covenants and agreements others are set forth in said treaty.

And your orator further says that among other things in said treaty set forth, it was provided by article six as follows:

Article 6. The President, may from time to time at his discretion, cause the whole of such portion of the land hereby reserved, as he may think proper, or of such land as may be selected in lieu thereof, as provided for in article first, to be surveyed into lots, and to assign to such Indian or Indians of said tribe as are willing to avail of the privilege, and who will locate on the same as a permanent home, if a single person over twenty-one years of age, one-eighth of a section; to each family of two, one quarter section; to each family of three and not exceeding five, one-half section; to each family of six, not exceeding ten, one section; and to each family over ten in 477 number one quarter section for each additional five members. And he may prescribe such rules and regulations as will ensure to the family, in case of the death of the head thereof, the possession and enjoyment of such permanent home and the improvements thereon. And the President may at any time in his discretion, after such person or family has made a location on the land assigned for a permanent home, issue a patent to such person or family for such assigned land, conditioned that the tract shall not be aliened or leased for a longer term than two years; and shall be exempt from levy, sale or forfeiture.

All of which matters and things, together with other matters and things, more fully and at large appear in the said treaty as published under authority of the United States in the Statutes at Large, vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator herein begs leave to refer.

And your orat*rix* further says that on the sixth day of March, 1865, the said United States made and entered into a further treaty with said tribe wherein and whereby, among other matters and things the following matters and things were in said treaty set forth in the words and figures following, to-wit:

Article 1st.

The Omaha tribe of Indians do hereby sell, cede and convey to the United States a tract of land from the north side of their present reservation, defined and bounded as follows—commencing at a point on the Missouri river four miles due south from the north boundary line of said reservation, thence west ten miles, thence south four miles, thence west to the western boundary line of the reservation, thence north to the northern boundary line, thence east to 478 the Missouri river, and thence south along the river to the place of beginning; and that said Omaha tribe of Indians will vacate and give possession of the lands ceded by this treaty immediately after its ratification.

Article 2nd.

In consideration of the foregoing cession the United States agree to pay to the said Omaha tribe of Indians the sum of fifty thousand dollars, to be paid upon the ratification of this treaty, and to be expended by their agent, under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for goods, provisions, cattle, horses, construction of buildings, farming implements, breaking up lands, and other improvements on their reservation.

In addition to the foregoing covenants and agreements other covenants and agreements are set forth in said treaty.

And your oratrix says that among other things in said treaty set forth, it was provided by article fourth, as follows:

Article 4th.

The Omaha Indians being desirous of promoting settled habits of industry and enterprise amongst themselves by abolishing the tenure in common by which they now hold their lands, and by assigning limited quantities thereof in severalty to the members of the tribe, including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them, to be cultivated and improved for their own individual use and benefit, it is hereby agreed and stipulated that the remaining portion of their present reservation shall be set apart for such purposes; and that out of the same there shall be assigned to each head of a family not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres, and to each male person, eighteen years of age and upwards without family, not exceeding forty acres of land—to include in every case as far as practica-
479 ble, a reasonable proportion of timber, six hundred and forty acres of said lands, embracing and surrounding the present agency improvements, shall also be set apart and appropriated to the occupancy and use of the agency for said Indians. The lands to be so assigned, including those for the use of the agency, shall be in as regular and compact a body as possible, and so as to admit of a well defined and distinct exterior boundary. The whole of the lands, assigned, or unassigned, in severalty, shall constitute and be known as the Omaha reservation within and over which all laws passed or which may be passed by Congress regulating trade and intercourse with the Indian tribes shall have full force and effect, and no white person, except such as shall be in the employ of the United States, shall be allowed to reside or go upon any portion of said reservation without the written permission of the superintendent of Indian affairs or the agent for the tribe. Said division and assignment of the lands to the Omahas in severalty shall be made under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, and when approved by him, shall be final and conclusive. Certificates shall be issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for the tracts so assigned, specifying the name of the individuals to whom they have been assigned respectively, and that they are for the exclusive use and benefit of themselves, their heirs and descendants; and said tracts shall not be aliened in fee, leased or otherwise disposed of, except to the United States, or to other members of the tribe, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, and they shall be exempt from taxation, levy, sale or forfeiture, until otherwise provided for by Congress.

All of which matters and things together with other matters
480 and things, more fully and at large appear in the said treaty as published under the authority of the United States in the Statutes at Large, in vol. 14, at page 667, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer.

And your orator further says that by act of Congress, approved the 7th day of August, 1882, entitled "An act to provide for the sale of a part of the reservation of the Omaha tribe of Indians in the State of Nebraska, and for other purposes" it was among other things provided as follows:

That with the consent of said tribe expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should be authorized to cause to be surveyed if necessary, and sold, all that portion of the said Omaha reservation lying west of a certain right of way theretofore granted to the Sioux City and Nebraska Railroad Company in 1880; that said lands be appraised in tracts of forty acres each by three competent commissioners; that thereupon the Secretary of the Interior was authorized to issue a proclamation to the effect that the unallotted lands are open for settlement under such rules and regulations as he should fix; that within one year after the date of such proclamation each bona fide settler complying with the requirements set forth in said act, and having made valuable improvements thereon should be entitled to purchase not to exceed one hundred and sixty acres of said land according to the survey and appraised value; that said sale was for cash or three cash payments in one, two and three years, in no case to be less than two dollars and fifty cents per acre.

Section three. That the proceeds of such sale, after paying all expenses incident to and necessary for the carrying out of said 481 act, including such clerk hire as the Secretary of the Interior may deem necessary, shall be placed to the credit of the said Indians in the Treasury of the United States, and shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, which income shall be annually expended for the benefit of said Indians, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior.

Said act further provides for the issuing of patents by the United States to those who have complied with the provisions of said act.

Section five. That with the consent of said Indians as aforesaid the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized, either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he may designate to allot the lands lying east of the right of way granted to the Sioux City and Nebraska Railroad Company, under the agreement of April nineteenth, eighteen hundred and eighty, approved by the acting Secretary of the Interior, July twenty-seventh eighteen hundred and eighty, in severalty to the Indians of said tribe, in quantity as follows: To each head of a family, one quarter of a section; to each single person over eighteen years of age, one eighth of a section; to each orphan child under eighteen years of age one eighth of a section; and to each person under eighteen years of age, otherwise, one sixteenth of a section; which allotments shall be deemed and held to be in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty with the Omahas concluded March sixth, eighteen hundred and sixty-five, and for which for the most part, certificates in the names of individual Indians to whom tracts have been assigned, have been issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, as in said article provided: Provided, that any Indian to whom a tract of land has 482 been assigned and certificates issued, or who was entitled to receive the same, under the provisions of said fourth article, and who has made valuable improvements thereon, and any Indian who being entitled to an assignment and certificate under said article, has settled and made valuable improvements upon a tract assigned to any Indian who has never occupied or improved such tract, shall have a preference right to select the tract upon which his improvements are situated for allotment under the provisions of this section; provided further, that all allotments made under the provisions of this section shall be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children, and the agent shall select for each orphan child; after which the certificates issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs aforesaid shall be deemed and held to be null and void.

Section six. That upon the approval of the allotments provided for in the preceding section by the Secretary of the Interior, he shall cause patents to issue therefore in the name- of the allottees, which patents shall be of the legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land thus allotted for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the Indians to whom such allotment shall have been made, or in case of his decease, of his heirs according to the laws of the State of Nebraska, and that at the expiration of said period the United States will convey the same by patent to said Indian or his heirs as aforesaid, in fee discharged of said trust and free of all charge or encumbrance whatsoever. And if any conveyance shall be made of any of the lands set apart and allotted as herein provided or any contract made touching the same before the expiration of the time 483 above mentioned, such conveyance or contract shall be absolutely null and void; provided, that the law of descent and partition in force in the said State shall apply thereto after patents therefore have been executed and delivered.

Section seven. That upon the completion of said allotments and the patenting of the lands to said allottees, each and every member of said tribe of Indian- shall have the benefit of and be subject to the laws both civil and criminal of the State of Nebraska; and said State shall not pass or enforce any law denying any Indian of said tribe the equal protection of the law.

Section eight. That the residue of lands lying east of the said right of way of the Sioux City and Nebraska railroad, after all allotments have been made, as in the fifth section of this act provided, shall be patented to the said tribe of Omaha Indians, which patent shall be of the legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the said land thus patented for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the said Omaha tribe of Indians, and that at the expiration of said period, the United States will convey the same by patent to said Omaha tribe of Indians, in fee discharged of said trust and free of all charge or incumbrance whatsoever; provided, that from the residue of the lands thus patented to the tribe in common, allotments shall be made and patented to each Omaha child who may be born prior to the expiration of the time during which it is provided that said lands shall be held in trust by the United States, in quantity and upon the same conditions, restrictions and limitations as are provided in section six of this act, touching patents to allottees therein mentioned.

But such conditions, restrictions and limitations shall not ex-
484 tend beyond the expiration of the time expressed in the patent herein authorized to be issued to the tribe in common; and provided further, that these patents when issued shall overried the patent authorized to be issued to the tribe aforesaid, and shall separate the individual allotment from the lands held in common, which proviso shall be incorporated in the patent issued to the tribe: Provided that said Indians or any part of them may if they shall so elect, select the land which shall be allotted to them in severalty, in any part of said reservation either east or west of said right of way mentioned in the first section of this act.

All of which matters and things, together with other matters and things, more fully and at large appear in said act, published by the authority of the United States in vol. 22 page 341 of the Statutes at Large to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer. Your orator further shows that he is the son of Euphrasia Peters, who is the daughter of Antoine Barada, who in turn was the son of Michel Barada and Taegleha Haceineda, who was as hereinbefore set forth, an Omaha Indian woman, and member of the said tribe; that ever since the year 1894 he has continuously resided upon the reservation of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that in the year 1888, your orator took possession of a tract of land on the Omaha reservation, as hereinafter described, having during the year 1888, marked and plowed said tract, and has evdr since taken possession of said tract occupied and cultivated it without objection on the part of the said tribe, and as such member of the tribe under and by virtue of the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress hereinabove described and set forth, occupying and has been occupying ever since the year 1894, the following described lands within and a part of the said reservation, situated in the county of Thurston, and State of 485 Nebraska and within the jurisdiction of this court, to-wit:

The west half of the south-east quarter (W. ½ S. E. ¼) of section thirty-five (35) of township twenty-five (25) north of range seven (7) east of the 6th P. M.; that such last described property is a part of the lands referred to in the treaties and acts of Congress hereinabove set forth, and has been surveyed in accordance with the said treaties and acts of Congress; that your orator has placed valuable and lasting improvements upon the above described premises consisting of fencing, planting of fruit and forest trees, and has broken and improved the said land from wild prairie, untilled land to a first class condition suitable for agriculture.

And your orator further shows unto your honors, that no other person claims or has claimed the right to said lands so selected and occupied by your orator; that no selection of such land has been made by any other person than your orator and that no certificate of such selection has been issued to any person for said land, nor has any allotment thereof been made by the defendant The United States of America to any person whomsoever, nor has any patent so issued and that the defendant The United States of America, has not opposed and does not oppose the claims of your orator to the said land by reason of such land having been selected or claimed by any other person or having been allotted to any other person.

And your orator further shows that notwithstanding the facts hereinabove set forth, and notwithstanding that he is within and under the provisions of the laws referred to herein, entitled to an allotment of eighty acres of land, for himself, he being a single person over eighteen years of age, the defendant The United States of America, by and through its officers and agents, refuses and neglects to make to your orator the allotment of land to which he 486 is entitled, and that notwithstanding the rights of your orator to such allotments he is now, and has been unlawfully denied the allotment and parcel of land to which he is and claims to be lawfully by virtue of the said treaties and acts of Congress, and in that behalf your orator shows that the said defendant The United States of America notwithstanding the selection of the above described pieces of land by your orator for himself, refuses through the Department of the Interior to approve such selection of land so made by your orator, although your orator has notified the defendant The United States of America, notwithstanding through its proper officers and agents, that he has made such selection as was his right under the said treaties and acts of Congress and that the defendant The United States of America, notwithstanding such selection and notification refused and still refuses to cause the patent to issue for such allotments and selections in the names of and to your orator.

Plaintiff further states that the defendant claims that under and by virtue of the 4th article of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, it was provided that assignments — be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof, was confined to the members of said tribe of the full blood, "including their half and mixed blood relatives now residing with them." And the defendant claims that plaintiff's ancestor Euphrasia B. Peters was not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore is not entitled to land under the 4th article of the tresty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Plaintiff admits that she was temporarily absent from the reservation at that time but claims that such absence did not deprive her of her residence on the reservation and rights to allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor her rights under the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States 487 who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaties and law into effect; that the schedule allotments or assignments made under the 4th article of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted to and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26th, 1871, contained the names of numerous half and mixed blood relatives and members of the Omaha tribe of Indians who were not residing upon the reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule just referred to; that under the provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, many half and mixed blood relatives or members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received allotments who were not residing on the reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule in the years 1870, and 1871, and also many half and mixed blood relatives or members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received allotments who were not on the reservation at the times just mentioned and whose names do not appear upon the schedule approved by the Secretary of the Interior June 26th, 1871.

Plaintiff further claims that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignment of lands provided for by the 4th article of said treaty of March 6th, 1865, had already been authorized by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and to which right of assignment all the individual members of said Omaha tribe of Indians were entitled without exception.

Plaintiff further states that the defendant claims that the plaintiff's ancestor Euphrasia B. Peters has received an allotment 488 of land under and by virtue of the 10th article of the treaty of July, 15th, 1830, and that by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian office, the plaintiff is not entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians. Plaintiff admits that he received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th article of the treaty of July 15th, 1830; as a half-breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the quantity so assigned to him was one half of the amount provided for by said treaty, and that said allotment was not accepted by him nor given to him in consideration of the relinqushment of any other rights than those to which he was entitled upon the Nemaha half breed reservation; that numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th article of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, sums of money which sums of money were accepted in consideration of all relinquishment to the United States of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provision of the act of Congress, section 6, chapter 66, of the 3rd session of the 35th Congress, 1895. That most of the half breeds who received allotments upon the Nemaha half breed reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments have received assignments of lands on the present reservation under the 4th article of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that this plaintiff has not in any manner assigned or relinquished her right or claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians; neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enact-489 ment of any law authorized this plaintiff or any of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of any such tribal rights by this plaintiff or any member of said tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Plaintiff further states that at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, he was a minor and if the requirement as claimed by the defendant as to residence was necessary, it was inapplicable to him because of such fact.

Your orator further shows that in accordance with the laws of the United States the defendant The United States of America had detailed and appointed to the said Omaha tribe of Indians and as agent of the United States of America, over what is known as the Omaha reservation, as hereinabove described, Captain William Mercer, 8th infantry, U. S. A. the regular army of the United States, who is now in charge of the said lands of the Omaha reservation, including those in controversy herein now claimed by your orator, and that the said Captain William A. Mercer is now the person designated by the laws of the United States to superintend and supervise and make allotments of lands to those members or former members of the Omaha tribe of Indians entitled to such allotments under the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress. And that the said Capt. William A. Mercer, and the Secretary of the Interior of the United States, as representing the defendant, refuse and neglect to make to your orator the allotment of land to which he is entitled, and that notwithstanding the rights of your orator in the premises, he is now and has been unlawfully denied the allotment to him, of the said parcels of land which he now claims, and that the defendant refuses to make unto him such allotments and refuses to issue to him a cer-
490 tificate and patent therefore to which he is entitled under the laws and treaties of the United States, notwithstanding the fact that under the said laws and treaties and the practice heretofore prevailing in the allotment of said lands as adopted and pursued by the defendant, it is the duty of the agent assigned to the said tribe, to issue to each member thereof whether of mixed or full blood, a certificate showing the location of the land selected by such Indian and that thereupon it becomes and is the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to issue to such members a patent for the lands so selected under the laws hereinabove set forth and that notwithstanding the fact that your orator has in all respects complied with the requirements, rules and regulations adopted and prescribed by the defendant, The United States of America, relating to the election and allotment of said lands.

And your orator further shows unto your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided as follows:

That all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to an allotment of land under any law — Congress or who claim to be so entitled to land under any allotment act or under any grant made by Congress, or who claim to be unlawfully denied or excluded from any allotment or parcel of land to which they claim to have been lawfully entitled by virtue of any act of Congress may commence any prosecute or defend any action, suit or proceeding in relation to their right thereto, in the proper circuit court of the United States. And said circuit courts are hereby given jurisdiction to try and determine any actions, suit, or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdictions, in-491 volving the right of any person, in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment on land under any law or treaty. And the judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land shall have the same affect, when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior, as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; provided that the right of appeal shall be allowed to either party as in other cases.

All of which together with other matters and things will more fully appear in vol. 26, page 305, of the Statutes at Large, published by the authority of the United States, for which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer and as amended by act of Feb. 6th, 1901.

Wherefore your orator shows unto your honors that he is without adequate remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity and he therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises, and that the said defendant may appear and answer this your orator's bill, but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That it be ordered and decreed that your orator is entitled to have allotted to him the lands described as being selected more particularly in this your orator's bill of complaint, and that the defendant The United States of America be ordered and required to make and issue to your orator the patent contemplated and provided by the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress and to recognize in all respects the rights of your orator to and upon the lands so now by him occupied, and that his rights thereto under and by virtue of the said laws of the United States and treaties be forever established and that your orator may have such other and further relief as may be 492 agreeable to equity and good conscience. And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orator the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court to be directed to the United States of America, therein and thereby commanding it on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand and to abide and to perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

EMIEL PETERS, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.
} Doc. T, No. 266. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The Answer of The United States of America, Defendant, to the Amended Bill of Complaint of Emiel Peters, Complainant.

This defendant now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto *him*self respectively all benefits and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as this defendant is advised is or are material or necessary for him to make answer unto this defendant for his joint and several answer-, say-:

1. This defendant denies that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and denies that complainant is or ever was member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary, this defendant avers that the said complainant is a white man, and a citizen of the United States, and that his ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that his said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska and this defendant denies that complainant or his ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and denies that they ever participated 494 in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and denies that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant claims to trace his lineage back to Michael Barada, who intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but this defendant is not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore, leaves the complainant to his proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife, in the year — a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a free born white person, and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with his parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha tribe.

That the said Antoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vien, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife Josephine Vien continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years, 495 until some time after the approval act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, 431), hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a daughter named Euphrasia (the mother of this complainant) and the said Euphrasia was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman, and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis and was never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Euphrasia Barada, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a white man named Fulton Peters, a white man of German nationality, and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said Fulton Peters and his wife Euphrasia, a son named Emiel Peters, who is the complainant herein, and the said Emiel Peters being such white person and citizen of the United States, taking the status of his father continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when he came to the Omaha reservation with his parents, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under the said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667,) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded Emiel 496 Peters, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and he not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interiors Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or his ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Depart-
497 ment, that neither the complainant nor any of his ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. This defendant further answering says: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Ma-garet Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Ma-garet Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedants or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their name-," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties 498 thereto, including this complainant. That the said Antoine Barada was the grandfather of this complainant, and the said Euphrasia Peters and Fulton Peters were the parents of this complainant, and Mary Peters and Frank Peters and Mary Sailors were brothers and sisters of complainant.

4. This defendant further answering says: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Peters family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Peters family did not then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special alloting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the 499 work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant is descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible. allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned "to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them."

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selections of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

500 Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore, that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not — all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation." In order that the department may further understand the views entertained 501 by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, the mother of complainant and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case.

The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

502 This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land: moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation, and by latter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were born upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. These defendants further aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said
503 Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit: William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others including this plaintiff, persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about our intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We know that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8, and broke 40 acres.

504 We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and that the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistako now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

505 Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters thought a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article 506 of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotment of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1765, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

507 5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. This defendant further avers that the said Ma-garet Sloan Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and complainant, failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent, to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Walter ——, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, and such others as were intruders 508 thereon, under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as he was of that class.

This defendant further avers that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. This defendant further avers that Maragret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein, from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently 509 in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. This defendant for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to Euphrasia Peters for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of Euphrasia Peters and her descendants including complainant were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further allotment of land.

This defendant for further answer denies that the complainant is entitled to an allotment of 160 acres of land, as the head of a family, and denies that the complainant is a head of a family, and avers that the complainant at the date of the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, being the act under which complainant claims the right of an allotment of land, was then a single person, but — years of age, and that the complainant was such a single person at the date of the amendatory act of March 3, 1893, and as such single person would not be entitled to have in any event more than 80 acres of land.

This defendant further avers that the United States allotting agent has reserved for the complainant pending this litigation, the W. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 35, township 25, north range 7 E., being 80 acres of land and which said reservation has been 510 noted upon the surveyed maps in the office of Commissioner of Indian Affairs awaiting the final determination of this suit; and that the land so reserved is the land and the only land occupied by the complainant; and this defendant denies that the said complainant either selected or occupied any of said lands at or prior to the date of the approval of the said act of Congress of August 7, 1882, but aver- to the contrary that at said time the said complainant did not live upon the said reservation, but moved on the reservation since the year 1888, and then for the first time made claim to the lands above described.

This defendant further avers that the United States allotting agent, appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections and make allotments of lands, investigated, ascertained and found as a fact, that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of any of the lands claimed by him, and reported his said findings to the Interior Department, and which said findings and report have been approved by the said department.

10. And this defendant says that if there is any other matter, cause, or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint, contained material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, is not true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant, and this defendant denies that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complainant demanded.

And this defendant prays leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

513 Thereupon afterwards to-wit: on the 13th day of October, 1903, an assignment of errors was filed in said case, which said assignment is in the words and figures following, to wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

EMIEL PETERS, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant. } Docket T, No. 266. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

514 Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Emeil Peters was not entitled to claim and have allotted to him the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The west half of the south east quarter of section thirty-five (35), in township twenty-five (25), north, of range seven (7), east of the sixth principal meridian.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the 515 complainant.

Wherefore, complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

Docket T, No. 266. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

521 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 18th day of May, 1901, amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill is in words and figures following, to-wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States within and for the District of Nebraska.

FRANK A. PETERS, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathewson, Mabel Reese, Defendants.

267, T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of the said court:

Frank A. Peters, brings this his bill of complaint against The United States of America, and thereupon your orator complains and states that he is a member of what is, or until recently was known, as the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omahas in the various statutes of the United States, and in the treaties hereinafter set forth. That he is of what is known as mixed blood and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada who intermarried with one Taegleha Hacienda, an Indian woman of the said tribe. That your orator and his ancestors back to said Michael Barada and his said wife, have continually maintained their domicile with the said tribe and maintained tribal relation- therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by the said tribe and has participated in the property and other rights of the said tribe and been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of the said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

And further complaining your orator says that on the 16th day of March, A. D. 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of Amer-
522 ica wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof they received their present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including Margaret Sloan and her children. All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large, vol. 10 page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

And your orator further says that on the 6th day of March, A. D. 1865 another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large, vol. 14 page 667 to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

And further showing your orator says that on the 7th day of August, A. D. 1882 an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Seceretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section. That all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All 523 of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large vol. 22 page 341 to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

Your orator further shows that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act on December 1884 and at subsequent times since.

Your orator further shows that on the 3rd day of March, A. D. 1893, an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th 1882 providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council further allotment should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd 1893 but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899 and immediately thereafter assignments for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimants.

And your orator further shows that he is a son of Euphrasia Peters who is a daughter of Antoine Barada, who in turn was a son of Michael Barada and Taegleha Hacienda who was as herein before set forth, an Omaha Indian woman, and a member of said tribe that ever since the year 1885 he has continuously resided 524 upon the Omaha reservation. That your orator first selected land in the year 1887 and was upon the reservation at the time the Omahas consented to accept the act of 1882.

That your orator selected for himself the lots No. 1 and 2 and W. ½ of N. E. ¼ of section 17, township 24 N. range 8 east and for his four minor children who are entitled to land, the lots numbered 2, 3, 4 in section 8 and 3 and 4 in section 20 and lots 1 and 2 in section 29 all in township 24 N., range 8 east. That the lands described were selected for his children as named to-wit:—Fulton, Ernest, Banjamin and Frank. That the last named is the youngest and was born Feb. 7, 1891 and all are living. That your orator made his first selection in the year 1880 and that he moved with his family upon the reservation in the spring of 1883 and — living upon the reservation at the time the tribe — their consent to allotment and sale of the land as provided by the act of Aug. 7, 1882. That your orator has occupied and improved the land since 1885 and has continuously farmed it since said date and is farming it at the present time. That when your orator selected the lands they were unclaimed, unoccupied, wild and unimproved lands. That he has by his labor and the expenditure of money made a comfortable home and reduced the land — excellent farm land. That he has built a house, barn, graineries, sheds, fencing, dug a well, put — a wind mill, planted fruit and forest trees and shrubbery in all of the value of about $3000. or more. That your orator was encouraged by the agent of the tribe to make a home and improve the — he occupied and claimed. That your orator is a member of the Omaha tribe by blood and descent, by recognition, and in accordance with the rules, regulations and customs of said tribe. That the ancestors of your orator were members of the Omaha tribe and neither they or your oratorhave dissolved or terminated their relationship 525 or membership to the Omaha tribe of Indians. That your orator has been refused an allotment.

That lot 2 of section 8, township 24 N. range 8 E. which your orator selected in 1885 and which he broke and has continuously farm- since has been during the past year allotted and a patent issued therefor to Mabel Reese. That said Mabel Reese claims said land under and by virtue of the act of Congress of March 3rd, 1893. That long before she made any claim to the land and before the passage of the act authorizing allotments your orator had claimed, improved and occupied said land. That because of the issuing of said patent and the claim of the patentee under it all of which has occurred since the commencement of this action has made said Mabel a necessary party to this action.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioners of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land to place in possession the allottee or lessee, and that he threatens to place into possession either the allottees hereinbefore named or their lessees to the great and irreparable damage of the complainants who are now in possession. That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson his claim of authority over the land on controversy and his threats that he will remove your orator from the land make him a necessary party to this suit. And your orator further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their 526 rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty, and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305 which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

Your orator further states that the defendant The United States of America claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, it was provided that the assignment — be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them," and the defendant claims that your orator and his ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your orator admits that he and his ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claim that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation nor the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor their rights to allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 527 1882, that it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th, 1871, contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule referred to; that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th 1865 nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent, the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation but who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865 and ever since resided away from the reservation.

Your orator further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

528 Your orator further states that the defendant, The United States claims that the complainant or his ancestor has received allotment of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian office neither the complainant nor Euphrasia Peters his ancestor are entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your orator admits that his ancestor received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830 as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians that the quantity so assigned was one half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by her nor given to her in consideration of the relinquishment of any other right than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

That numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money, which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interests in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66, of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your orator has not in any manner assigned or relinquished his right or claim to the benefit under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians neither 529 has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized this complainant or his ancestors or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant or any member of his tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your orator shows to your honors that he is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honor in this court of equity and they therefore pray- the aid of the court in the premises and that said defendants, The United States of America, and Charles P. Mathewson and Mabel Reese may answer your orator's bill but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That it be ordered and decreed that the patents issued to Mabel Reese is null and void and that the selection- as made by Frank A. Peters for himself and minor children are prior and superior to her claim and is his allotment and his children's allotments and that they are entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your orator further prays for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants Charles P. Mathewson and Mabel Reese enjoining and restraining each of them, their agents and employés from in any manner interferring with the possession of the land herein described and that at the termination of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orator the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court directed to the United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson and Mabel Reese, therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be lim-
530 ited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

Solicitor for Complainant.

531 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 2nd day of July, 1901, an answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to-wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

FRANK A. PETERS, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Charles P. Mathewson, Mabel Reese, Defendants.

Doc. T, No. 267. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson, Mabel Reese, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Frank A. Peters, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer say:

1. These defendants deny that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and deny that complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary, these defendants aver that the said complainant is a white man, and a citizen of the United States, and that his ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that his said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and these defendants deny that complainant or 532 his ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and deny that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant claims to trace his lineage back to Michael Barada, who intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but these defendants are not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe and therefore leaves the complainant to her proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife, in the year —, a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with his parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

That the said Antoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vien, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife Josephine Vien continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or 533 in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years, until some time after the approval — act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a daughter named Euphrasia (the mother of this complainant) and the said Euphrasia was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis, and was never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Euphrasia Barada, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a white man named Fulton Peters, a white man of German nationality and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said Fulton Peters and his wife Euphrasia, a son named Frank A. Peters, who is the complainant herein, and the said Frank A. Peters, being such white person and citizen of the United States taking the status of his father continued to reside in the city of St. Louis and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when he came to the Omaha reservation with his parents with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty
534 included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded Frank A. Peters, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and he not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to wit:—March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882 to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians, co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or his ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the In-535 terior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of his ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. These defendants further answering say: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontanelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Asnley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886 and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedents or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant. That the said Antoine Barada was 536 the grandfather of this complainant, and the said Euphrasia Peters and Fulton Peters were the parents of this complainant, and Mary Peters and Walter Peters and Mary Sailors were brothers and sisters of complainant.

4. These defendants further answering say: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large p. 341) the said Peters family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Peters family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. "The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding 537 the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a memberof the Barada family from which complainant is descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring, when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that the lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

538 If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, the mother of complainant and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case.

The case was stated as follows:

539 "Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here. Mr. Peters is a carpenter and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character and so has his wife.

Article 4 of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

540 This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation, and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendant-, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. These defendants further aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father, Michael Barada, to-wit:—William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others including this plaintiff, persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit :—

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short,
541 we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We knew that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8, and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and that the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

542 If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons inciuding the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterward, on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

543 DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6th, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed 544 blood relation residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. These defendants further aver that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters and complainant, failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report
545 such fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Frank Peters, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as he was of that class.

These defendants further aver that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose 546 and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants, and in which said suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January, 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. These defendants for further answer aver that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to Euphrasia Peters for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of Euphrasia Peters and her descendants including Frank A. Peters, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

547 These defendants for further answer deny that the complainant is entitled to select land for his children and aver that all the children of the complainant have been born since the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, being the act under which complainant claims the right to an allotment of land, and the defendants further aver that two of the children of the complainant have been born since the amendatory act of March 3, 1893.

These defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent has reserved for the complainant pending this litigation, substantially all the land in the last amended bill of complaint described, to-wit: Lots (3) and (4) in section 8. township 24, north range 8. Lots (1) and (2) W. half of the N. E. ¼ of section 17, township 24, north range 8, and lot (1) in section 29, township 24, north range 8, and which said reservation has been noted upon the surveyed maps in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, awaiting the final determination of this suit; that these defendants deny that the said complainant either selected or occupied any of said lands, at or prior to the date of the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, but aver to the contrary that at said time the said complainant did not live upon the said reservation but moved on to the reservation in the year 1887, and then for the first time made claim to the lands above described.

And these defendants deny that the complainant made upon any of said lands improvements of the value of $3000., and denies each of and singular of the averments in the amended bill of complaint relating to the said improvements.

And these defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections, to make allotments of land, investigated, ascertained and 548 found as a fact that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of any of the lands claimed by him, and reported his said findings to the Interior Department, and which said findings and report has been approved by the Interior Department.

That said United States allotting agent did find upon investigation, that Mable Reese made claim to said lot (2), in said section 8, and that she had a superior right and claim to an allotment of said lot (2), in said section 8, township 24, north range 8, E., and the said United States allotting agent did make to said Mable Reese an allotment thereof, and thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, that the said Mable Reese was entitled to the land allotted to her as above described, and which said allotment was subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and by the Secretary of the Interior, and a patent therefor has been issued to the said Mable Reese under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotment was made and the said patent issued in the regular and due course of business.

And these defendants further aver that the complainant herein did not have any prior or superior or vested right to the land so patented to Mable Reese, and that the said allotment to her and the said patent to her, were made in all respects in conformity to law.

These defendants further aver that the said complainant was advised of the said allotments to the said Mable Reese and acquiesced therein, and in lieu thereof, made claim to lot (2), in section 29, and lots (3) and (4), in section 20, in his last amended bill of complaint described, but which said lots last above mentioned, said complainant had not theretofore made claim to.

10. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint
549 contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defendants, and these defendants deny that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded. And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

W. S. SUMMERS,
United States Attorney.

He married a full blood white woman in Richardson county Nebraska, and came to Omaha reservation 1892 and lives on the reservation at this date.

Twenty-fourth. That no one of either the Barada, Sloan, Peters, or Frost families mentioned in this stipulation, received or had an assignment or certificate of assignment under article 4, of the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 U. S. Stat. 667.) That a schedule of selections of land in severalty in accordance with said fourth article and the prescribed rules and regulations of the Office of Indian Affairs, approved by the Hon. Secretary of the Interior, October 26, 1867, showing the names of those entitled to assignments of lands and their respective tracts duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe, and certified and submitted by the Omaha Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26, 1871.
559 That none of the names of the respective families in this stipulation mentioned appear on said schedule. Neither do the following names appear on said schedule. John Pilcher, Mary La Flesche, Lewis Neal, Susan Neal, Emily Campbell, Florence Campbell, Julia Campbell, Amy Murphy, Josephine Filson, Charles Pilcher, Julia Provo née Barada, Josephine Barnaby. That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters were complainants, and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents; it was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedents or descendants of said parties so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and none of the names of any of the 560 parties plaintiffs in the pending suits appear on said annuity pay rolls. See stipulation in 174 Doc. T on same subject of annuities.

Twenty-sixth. Celestine Kuhn née Barada, a sister of Euphrasia Peters made application to Alice C. Fletcher, special U. S. Indian agent, for allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and said Fletcher, special U. S. Indian agent, reported adversely to the right of Celestine Kuhn to an allotment of land, and which finding and report of said Alice C. Fletcher, special U. S. Indian agent was approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs under date of September 13, 1883, and the ruling of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs thereon was and is as follows:

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view of securing, if possible, allotments of land.

"The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

"The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

"I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

"Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent 561 of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

"Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestine Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

"If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

"It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

"Manifestly such was not the intention for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

"Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

(Signed) H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

Twenty-seventh. Euphrasia Peters, the wife of Fulton 562 Peters and the mother of the Peters family, also made application to Alice C. Fletcher, special U. S. Indian agent, for an allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and said Alice C. Fletcher made her official report adversely to the claim of Euphrasia Peters to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs under date of July 28, 1883, and which said report contained the following:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

"Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

"Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

"All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

"After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

"Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

"He had excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

"Article 4 of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be 'the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them.'

"This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the lands;
563 moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

"Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

"It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

"This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

"The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Under date of August 7, 1883, the report and ruling of Alice C. Fletcher special U. S. Indian agent, adversely to the claim of Euphrasia Peters was approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

28. Under date of March 19, 1888, a petition signed by 65 members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, was transmitted to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and which said petition is as follows:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

564 Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We knew that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8, and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and that the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall 565 have their allotments on the tribal land. These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

29. On November 14, 1888, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, transmitted said petition to the Secretary of the Interior, and in his report thereon among other things said as follows:

"The allotment of land on the Omaha reservation was made under the provisions of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882 (22 Stat. 341); and the said act expressly stipulates and provides that the said allotments "shall be deemed and held to be in lieu of "the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article "of the treaty with the Omahas, concluded March 6, 1865, and for "whom, for the most part certificates in the names of individual "Indians to whom tracts have been assigned, have been issued by "the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, as in said article provided."

"The fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, therein referred to (Stat. 14 668) extended the benefits conferred thereby, in 566 respect to allotments, to such only of their half or mixed — relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty, the language of the said article being "including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them."

"It will be observed that the Indians of the Omaha reservation in their complaint to this office, charge that Frank Peters is not entitled to land on their reservation; that they admit that he has Omaha blood in his veins, being of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by them on the Nemaha reservation; that the mixed bloods were excluded by the Omahas in their treaty of 1865, from taking lands on their reservation; that the Peters family tried four years ago when allotments were being made to the Omahas, to obtain allotments; that they, the Peters family, and other mixed bloods, were denied the right to allotments by the Omahas, and they ask for the removal of Frank Peters from their reservation.

"It may be remarked here that as soon as the law became known, I refer to the act of August 7, 1882, providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of lands in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law.

"Some of them were not born among the Omahas and none of them had been with the tribe for years—some 10 and others 20 or 30 years.

"The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to this office by the special agent charged with the work of 567 allotting the lands, for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotments.

"The party, Frank Peters, against whom complaint is made, is a mixed blood Omaha. He is not adopted by the tribe on the Omaha reservation; he was not residing with them when the treaty of March 6, 1865, was made; his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871, submitted by the Omaha council, disclosing the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation.

"It would appear therefore, that the said Peters is not entitled to allotment of lands on the Omaha reservation, under the treaty of March 6, 1865, and the provisions of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority.

"It will be observed from the foregoing that this office as well as the Omaha tribe, takes the ground that none of the half or mixed blood Omahas, living at the date of the treaty of 1865, who were not residing with the Omahas at that time, nor the descendants of such, are entitled to allotments on the Omaha reservation by reason of their relationship to the Omahas.

"It appears from the records of this office, that there were some 70 half-breed Omahas who received patents for lands on the Great Nemaha reservation, and it is very important that the question of their rights or the rights of their descendants to land on the present Omaha reservation be determined.

"A decision in the present case will settle the whole question. If you concur in the opinion above expressed, I have the honor to request authority to remove the said Peters and all others of a like class from the reservation.

Very respectfully, JNO. H. OBERLY,
Commissioner."

568 30. That in response to the report of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of November 14, 1888, recited in the proceeding paragraph, the Secretary of the Interior ruled under date of December 5, 1888 as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6th, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871, submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stat. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family came to the Omaha reservation in the hope 569 of securing allotments under the new law and that this was denied them, your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relation- residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

31. Under date of August 27, 1890, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs issued a letter of instruction- to the Indian agent as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.
WASHINGTON, August 27, 1890.

Robert H. Ashley, Esq., U. S. Indian agent, Omaha & Winnebago agency, Winnebago, Nebraska.

SIR: I herewith enclose a copy of a letter of even date 570 herewith addressed by this office to Rev. Thomas L. Sexton, giving a history of the claim of Mr. F. A. Peters to an allotment of land on the Omaha reservation, the rejection thereof by the department, and of the authority granted by the same for his removal, with others of a like class from the reservation. I also transmit a letter from Rev. Thomas L. Sexton, dated August 19, 1890, and a communication therewith enclosed from Mr. Peters of the 6th inst., asking to be enrolled as a member of the Omaha tribe and transmitting a copy of a communication bearing on the subject from R. W. Furnas, Esq., to Hon. C. H. Van Wyck.

You are instructed to require Mr. Peters and others of a like class to remove from the Omaha reservation. Should they fail to comply within a reasonable time, you will so report to this office giving the names of the parties and stating all facts in connection therewith. If any of the parties occupy individual allotments of other Indians, you will so report giving a description by legal subdivisions of the lands so occupied, with names of the allottees.

You will ascertain and report whether the allegations made by Mr. Peters in his said communication that many others who were given lands on the old Nemaha reservation, now hold allotments on the Omaha reserve, is correct, and if so, whether the Omahas consented to their admission to tribal rights.

You will return Mr. Sexton's letter with its enclosures with your report.

Very respectfully, T. J. MORGAN,
Commissioner.

32. The letter to Rev. Thos. L. Sexton in answer to his letter in behalf of Frank Peters, a copy of which was enclosed to the Indian agent is a part of his instructions under the letter of August 571 27, 1890 is as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
WASHINGTON, August 27, 1890.

Rev. Thomas L. Sexton, Seward, Nebr.

SIR: I have received your letter of August 19, 1890, transmitting with favorable mention, one from Mr. F. A. Peters, dated Omaha agency Nebraska, the 6th instant, claiming to have rights in the Omaha tribe, and asking to be enrolled as a member thereof, and given an allotment of land &c., and enclosing a copy of a communication bearing on the subject, from Robert W. Furnas, Esq., to Hon. C. H. Van Wyck.

In reply I have to say, that the allotment of land on the Omaha reservation was made under provisions of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 Stats., 341) which expressly stipulates and provides that such allotments shall be deemed and held to be in lieu of "the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty with the Omahas, concluded March 6, 1865, and for whom for the most part certificates in the names of individual Indians to whom tracts have been assigned, have been issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs as in said article provided."

The fourth article of the treaty referred to (14 Stats., 668), extended the benefits conferred thereby, in respect to allotments, to such only of their half or mixed — relatives, as were residing with them at the date of the treaty, the language of the article being "including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them."

572 As soon as the act of August 7, 1882, providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation and the allotments of lands in severalty to the members of the tribe became known a number of mixed bloods from the Old Nemaha reservation came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law. The Indians of the Omaha reservation manifested the most determined opposition to such persons being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land. The instructions given by this office to the special agent making allotments on the Omaha reservation, concerning the class of claimants referred to, were to the effect that none but members of the Omaha tribe, and their—or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871 of the Omahas, which was approved by the department, showing the names of those who were entitled to selections of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, or the descendants of those so enrolled, and such others as might have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

Under date of March 19, 1888, sixty-five Indians of the Omaha reservation addressed a communication to this office, protesting against giving an allotment to Mr. Peters who was alleged to belong to one of the mixed blood families, provided with land on the Nemaha reservation, by the Omaha tribe by the 10th article of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7 Stats. 328).

This office submitted a report on the subject to the department under date of November 14, 1888, reciting the foregoing facts and conclusions, and stating that Mr. Peters was not adopted by said tribe, was not residing with them when the treaty of March 6, 1865, was made, that his name is not borne upon the said roll of those entitled to lands upon the Omaha reserve, that he was upon 573 the reservation without authority and recommending that authority be granted for his removal therefrom with all others of a like class.

The Secretary of the Interior, under date of December 5, 1888, granted authority as recommended for the removal of Mr. Peters, and all others of a similar class from the reservation, and on the 15th of that month, the agent at the Omaha and Winnebago agency was instructed to remove Mr. Peters and the others from the reservation. The agent reported April 3, that Mr. Peters refused to remove, and he was again instructed May 10, 1889, to remove him, but it appears that this has not been done.

This office does not deem it advisable to take steps with a view to obtaining a reversal of the decision of the department against Mr. Peters.

Very respectfully,

T. J. MORGAN,
Commissioner.

33. Pursuant to instruction in letter of August 27, 1890, set out in paragraph No. 31 of this stipulation, Robert H. Ashley U. S. Indian agent on the 13th day of September 1890, served written notice on Frank A. Peters and others of like class, Walter Peters, William Barada, Lot Sailors and Celestine B. Kuhn to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation, and reported said fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs by communication under date of September 13th, 1890.

That subsequently Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent also served written notice upon Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan to leave the Omaha reservation.

That in 1883 Margaret Sloan made parol application to Alice C. Fletcher, U. S. allotting agent, for allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher as U. S. allotting 574 agent decided that Margaret Sloan and her descendants were not entitled to allotments under the act of 1882, and under date of April 28, 1884, made her official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs adversely to the right of Margaret Sloan and her descendants, to have allotment of land on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which report was approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs under date of May 9, 1884.

That under date of August 27, 1890, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs instructed in writing Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent for the Omahas, to require Frank A. Peters, a descendant of Antoine Barada, and "others of a like class" to remove from the Omaha reservation. Should they fail to comply, the agent was instructed to report the fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, "giving the names of the parties and stating all the facts in connection therewith."

That the agent did serve notice on Frank A. Peters and others of like class including Celestine B. Kuhn, William Barada, Luke Sailors, Walter Peters, Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan, to leave the Omaha reservation, and with reference to the Sloans the agent reported to the department under date of Oct. 17, 1890, as follows:

"I have the honor to report in addition to that given in my letter of September 15th, 1890, in reply to office letter of August 27th, L. 25845–90, 'that I did on the 14th day of October 1890, give written notice to Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan to leave the Omaha reservation under instruction of office letter of August 27th, 25845 L. 90." I would say in explanation that the Omaha Indians in council, on 7th day of October discussed this matter with the Sloans, and it was almost the unanimous opinion and wish that they be removed from the reservation the same as Peterson (Peters?) and others. I am unable to find where the Sloans have any more 575 right than the others mentioned, and take them to be of 'like class' as mentioned in yours of the 27th of Aug.

I would also say that Mr. Sloan informed me that he would not leave.

I have understood from Mr. Sloan that he had a better claim than Peterson (Peters?) et al., but in what respect I am not informed and I am unable to find anything on file in this office to give me any information."

34. Under date of October 2, 1890, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs transmitted the following to the Secretary of the Interior.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2, 1890.

The honorable the Secretary of the Interior.

SIR: Referring to office report dated November 14, 1888, (copy herewith) requesting authority to remove one Frank Peters and all others of a like class from the Omaha reservation, in Nebraska, and to the reply of the department dated December 5, 1888 (copy enclosed) authorizing the removal of said Peters and any other persons who might be upon said reservation under a similar state of facts, and to office report of June 1st, 1889—copy enclosed—stating that said Peters had refused to comply with the requirement of this department to remove from the reservation, &c., I have to say that Robert H. Ashley, Esq., agent at Omaha and Winnebago agency, Nebraska, by letters dated respectively June 27, and August 26, 1890, reported that the Omaha Indians earnestly desired the removal of said Peters also Walter Peters, Wm. Barada and—(Luke) 576 Sailor—designated as of the same class as said Frank Peters—from the unallotted lands of said reservation.

This office by letter dated August 27, 1890, instructed the agent to require said Frank Peters and others similar to him, intruding upon the unallotted lands of the Omaha reservation, to remove therefrom, to which he replied on September 15, 1890, stating that he had given the parties above named written notice to remove from the reservation, and that they all informed him that they would not remove until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

Said Frank Peters is clearly excluded from rights on the Omaha reserve by the 4th article of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, with the Omahas (14 Stats. 668) which extends the benefits thereby conferred as to allotments to such only of their half or mixed — relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty, and the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) under which the allotment of lands was made on the Omaha reserve provides that such allotments shall be in lieu of the allotments provided for in said article 4.

It appears that the other persons above named also belong to the class excluded from allotments on the Omaha reserve.

There is no claim that the parties referred to have been adopted by the Omaha tribe since the date of said treaty.

The Omahas having received allotments are U. S. citizens, but it is provided in the 8th section of said act that the unallotted lands of said reservation shall be patented to the Omaha tribe of Indians which patent shall be of the legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land thus patented for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of said tribe, &c., hence section 2149 of the Revised Statutes authorizing the 577 removal of persons from tribal reservations is applicable thereto.

It is evident that the intruders above named do not intend to remove from the reservation, and that force will be requisite for that purpose, and in view of the defiant attitude of the parties, I believe that such force should be sent to eject them as will be likely to prevent any attempt at resistance.

I therefore respectfully recommend that the matter be submitted to the honorable Secretary of War, with the request that he will cause the commander of the nearest military post to said reservation, to furnish, upon the application of Agent Ashley, proper military aid to eject from the unallotted lands of the same, said Frank Peters, and such other persons including said Walter Peters, Wm. Barada, and Luke Sailors as the agent may designate, as unlawfully upon the reservation, under a state of facts similar to those existing in the case of said Frank Peters.

Copies of the letters referred to from Agent Ashley are herewith enclosed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. V. BELT,
Acting Commissioner.

35. Under date of January 12, 1891, the Honorable T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, transmitted the following to the Secretary of the Interior.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
WASHINGTON, January 12, 1891.

The honorable the Secretary of the Interior.

SIR: A delegation of Omaha Indians, duly accredited, is 578 now in this city urging among other things the removal of intruders from their reservation, that is, from the unallotted lands of the reservation. They say "You told us that you would hold our land in trust for 25 years, and we think these people are not only opposing us but you also, and we look to you to decide this matter at once and do what is right. If they have rights here we want to know it; if they have no rights we expect you to put them off."

At their earnest appeal for prompt action looking to the removal of these intruders, I promised to renew my recommendation of October 2, 1890, that the matter be laid before the Secretary of War with request for military aid to eject said parties from the reservation.

I therefore respectfully invite your attention to office letter of October 2, 1890, and previous report of November 14, 1888, and renew my recommendation that the matter be submitted to the honorable Secretary of War with the request that he cause the commanding officer of the nearest military post to the Omaha reservation, to furnish, upon the application of Agent Ashley, proper military aid to eject from the unallotted lands of the Omaha reservation the intruders therein referred to.

The Omahas feel aggrieved that these people have not been removed. They claim that they are breaking large quantities of land and cutting and selling grass, without right and without paying for it. They say that if they are allowed to remain until spring they will make further improvements, and as they fear get a stronger foothold on the reservation.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

T. J. MORGAN,
Commissioner.

579 36. Under date of January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, in a communication direct to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, which contained the following:

"As you have had a good many per capita payments to Indians to make, I do not think it necessary to instruct you in detail in regard to the general rules to be followed, and the customs and usages which experience has shown to be most advisable, but will inclose with this a copy of a letter, addressed by me, under date of 12th, instant, to certain Omaha delegates, who are now in this city, by which you will observe that certain parties therein named who belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and who are not entitled to lands, or other benefits, under the act of August 7, 1882, above referred to, are not to be enrolled by you, or allowed any share in the payment, you are about to make.

The names of those specially objected to by the delegates are—William Barada, Thomas Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters and Mrs. Sailors, and their families, and you will not enroll or pay any of them."

37. That Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they would not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which suit said complainants

580 claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January, 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently on the 25th day of April a decree of dismissal was entered in said cause as follows:

Bill Dismissed Pl'ffs for Cost.

"It is held that the President is authorized to make such disposition of money and property as he may think advisable for the benefits of the Omaha Indians, and that his authority to do so cannot be restricted by injunction; and on that ground and for these reasons the bill is dismissed."

In which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect:

A. I am a brother to his mother. He is a nephew of mine.

Q. Who was his mother?
A. Euphrasia Barada Peters.

A. Yes, sir.
Q. What relation was he to you?
A. He was my father.
Q. Did you know of his having received annuity moneys
605 from the Omaha tribe of Indians?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Where was he when he received these annuity payments?
A. The first time he received them he was in St. Louis.
Q. Where the next time?
A. The next payment was, he lived on the Omaha reservation.
Q. Who delivered the annuity payment to him at the Omaha reservation?
A. I could not say; some of his relation- though.
Q. How often did that occur?
A. Once a year. Generally in the fall; sometimes in the spring.
Q. Do you remember any of the persons who delivered to him his annuity money?
A. My oldest brother did once, and Henry Fontenelle another time.
Q. And do you know the amount that was delivered to him on each of those occasions?
A. No, I cannot remember the amount.
Q. Do you know for whom that money was paid?
A. It was for the whole family at that time; it was drawn for the whole family.
Q. Did you know Margaret Sloan during her life time?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What relation is she to you?
A. She was an aunt of mine; my father's sister.
Q. Were you with her at the Omaha agency in attendance in the councils at any time?
A. I was once, yes, sir; I took her down and stayed with her while she was there.
Q. From where did you take her?
A. From where?
Q. Yes, sir.
A. From her place where she lived near Bancroft. I was 606 living on the place at the time.
Q. Were you present during the council?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did anything come up with reference to Margaret Sloan at that time?
A. Yes, sir, she asked to be put on the roll to draw payments.
Q. Who did she ask?
A. Well, she had, I think Prairie Chicken got up first; and several different ones got up and made a talk for her.

Q. Was that interpreted to the agent?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Was you present to hear that interpretation?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. State what was said?
A. John Pilcher was the interpreter. He told them that the old lady asked to be put on the roll, and she was getting old, that she was an Omaha, and she wanted to draw annuity, and the council gave their consent, so Pilcher interpreted back to the agent to put her on the roll. Frank Warner was the agent at the time. After they got through he told the council that he would refer the matter to Washington, and he said he could not put her on the roll himself unless the authorities at Washington would agree to it. He said he would refer the matter to Washington, and as soon as he heard from them he would act.
Q. About when was that?
A. I think it was in 1888, the fall of 1888. I am pretty certain it was.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. She was not put on the pay roll?
607 A. She was not at that time; no, sir, I understood she was put on afterwards.
Q. The fact is she was not?
A. She drew payments.
Q. You mean the payment made by Spencer?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you talk the Indian language?
A. No, sir.
Q. You spoke of your father getting annuity when in St. Louis?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When was that?
A. 1855.
Q. And how did you come to know that he got annuity money in 1855?
A. Well, I was pretty near big enough to know then. I was five or six years old, and he was very poor, and that helped us come to the Nemaha after the next year.
Q. Let us keep back to this St. Louis matter. Is your only knowledge of that payment based on the fact that you was five or six years old, and therefore old enough to know?
A. I remembered my father coming up here, that he came up the Missouri river and came back, and bringing back some money.
Q. How do you know that was annuity money that he brought back?
A. I know from what he said.

Q. Your knowledge of that is limited to the fact of what your father said at a time when you was five or six years old?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now you speak of a time when he got annuity money when on the Nemaha reservation?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When was that?
608 A. 1856, the fall of 1856 he came up from there and hired a horse and rode up.
Q. 1855 and 1856?
A. 1856.
Q. Did you come up with him?
A. No, sir.
Q. You did not see him receive the annuity money at that time?
A. No, sir, I never was up here with him.
Q. Your knowledge of that is based on what you heard said about it in the family?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. How old are you now?
A. I am 53 or 54.

610 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 13th day of October, 1903, assignment of errors was filed in said case, which said assignment is in words and figures following, to-wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

FRANK A. PETERS, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA and MABEL Reese, Defendants.
Docket T, No. 267. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Third. The court erred in holding that the complainants were not — members of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

611 Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Frank A. Peters and children were not entitled to claim and have allotted to them the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: Lots two (2), three (3) and four (4) of section eight (8); lots one (1) and two (2), and the west half of the north east quarter of section seventeen (17); lots one (1) and two (2) of section twenty (20), and lots one (1), and two (2) of section twenty-nine (29) all in township twenty-four (24) north, of range eight (8) east of the 6th P. M.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainants.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore, complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason 612 thereof.

Complainant,

Endorsed: Filed Oct. 13, 1903 Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

613 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 13th day of October, 1903, petition for appeal was filed in said case, which said petition for appeal is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

FRANK A. PETERS, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA and MABEL Reese, Defendants.

Docket T, No. 267. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives himself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for an allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

614 And now on this 13th day of October, 1903, it is ordered that the appeal be allowed as prayed. Bond for costs fixed at $100.00.

W. H. MUNGER, Judge.

And thereupon, to-wit: on the said 13th day of October, 1903, bond on appeal was filed in said case, which said bond is in words and figures following, to-wit:

615 267, T.

618 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 10th day of May 1901, an amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said bill of complaint is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

WALTER PETERS, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Thomas Webster, Charles Grant, Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	No. 268, Doc. T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of the said court:

Walter Peters brings this, his bill of complaint, against the United States of America, and thereupon your orator complains and states that he is a member of what is, or until recently was known as the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omahas in the various statutes of the United States, and in the treaties hereinafter set forth. That he is of what is known as mixed blood and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada who intermarried with one Taegleha Haceinda, an Indian woman of the same tribe. That your orator and his ancestors back to said Michael Barada and his said wife, have continually maintained their domicile with the said tribe and maintained tribal relation, therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by the said tribe, and has participated in the property and other rights of the said tribe and been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of the said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

619 And further complaining your orator says that on the 16th day of March A. D. 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof they received their present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including Euphrasia Peters. All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

And your orator further says that on the 6th day of March A. D. 1865, another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large, vol. 14, page 667, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

And further showing your orator says that on the 7th day of August A. D. 1882, an act was approved that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation, either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section. That all allotments should be selected by the Indians. Heads of families selecting for 620 their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large vol. 22, page 341, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

Your orator further shows that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act on December, 1884, and at subsequent times since.

Your orator further shows that on the 3rd day of March A. D. 1893, an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th, 1882, providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, expressed in open council, further allotment should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd, 1893, but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council, May 1899, and immediately thereafter assignments for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice of the claimants.

And your orator further shows that he is a son of Euphrasia Peters who is a daughter of Antoine Barada, who in turn was a son of Michael Barada and Taegleha Haceineda who was as herein
621 before set forth, an Omaha Indian woman and a member of said tribe, that ever since the year 1885 has continuously resided upon the Omaha reservation. That your orator first selected land in the year 1887, and was upon the reservation at the time the Omahas consented to accept the act of 1882.

That your orator selected for himself the E. ½ of S. E. ¼ of section 35, township 25 N. range 7 east, and the N. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼ and N. E. ¼ of N. W. ¼ of section 34, township 25 N. range 7 east. Amounting to 160 acres, as a head of a family.

That your orator is a member of the tribe by blood and descent and in accordance with the laws and customs of the Omaha tribe.

That your orator has been refused an allotment by the Department of the Interior.

That since the commencement of this suit assignments have been made of a part of the land to Thomas Webster the N. E. ¼ N. W. ¼ of section 34 and the N. W. ¼ of N. E ¼ of section 34 to Charles Grant,—Thomas Webster having received an allotment under the act of August 7th, 1882, — that because of their claims thereunder to the lands in litigation they have become necessary parties.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land to place into possession the allottee or lessee, and that he threatens to place into possession either the allottees hereinbefore named or their lessees to the great and irreparable damage of the complainant who is now in possession. That because of the position of said
622 Charles P. Mathewson his claim of authority over the land in controversy and his threats that he will remove your orator from the land make him a necessary party to this suit. And your orator further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit court jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large, on page 305, which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

Your orator further states that the defendant, The United States of America, claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, it was provided that the assignment — be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to 623 the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood, "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them;" and the defendant claims that your orator and his ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your orator admits that he and his ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claim that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation nor the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor the rights of allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26, 1871, contained the names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, not at the time of the making the schedule referred to; that under the provisions of the act of August 7th 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, not at the 624 time of the approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation but who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since resided away from the reservation.

Your orator further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had been already provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your orator further states that the defendant, The United States claims that the complainant or his ancestor has received allotments of lands under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian office neither the complainant nor Euphrasia Peters his ancestor are entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians. Your orator admits that his ancestor received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed of the Omaha tribe of Indians, that the quantity so assigned was one half of the amount provided by said treaty, and that the said allotment was not accepted by her nor given to her in consideration of the relinquishment of any right than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

That numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 625 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66, of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your orator has not in any manner assigned or relinquished his right or claim to the benefit under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians, neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized this complainant or his ancestors or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant or any member of his tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your orator shows to your honors that he is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity, and he therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises, and that said defendants, The United States of America, Thomas Webster, Charles Grant and Charles P. Mathewson may answer your orator's bill without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That it be ordered and decreed that the patents issued to Thomas Webster and Charles Grant, by his next friend Megratahe Grant, are null and void, and that the selection as made by Walter Peters for himself is prior and 626 superior to their claim and is his allotment and that he is entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your orator further prays for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendant- Thomas Webster, Charles Grant, by his next friend Megratahe Grant and Charles P. Mathewson, enjoining and restraining each of them, their agents and employés from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein described and that at the termination of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orator the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court direct to the United States of America, Thomas Webster, Charles Grant by his next friend Megratahe Grant, and Charles P. Mathewson, therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

THOMAS L. SLOAN,
Solicitor for Complainant.

CHARLES E. CLAPP, Of Counsel.

Endorsed: Filed May 10 1901, Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

627 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 2nd day of July, 1901, an answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

WALTER PETERS, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Thomas Webster, Charles Grant, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.

Doc. T, No. 268. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, Thomas Webster, Charles Grant, a minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Walter Peters, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer, say:

1. These defendants deny that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and deny that the complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary these defendants aver that the said complainant is a white man, and a citizen of the United States, and that his ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that his said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe 628 of Indians of Nebraska; and these defendants deny that the complainant or his ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and deny that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant claims to trace his lineage back to Michael Barada, who intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but these defendants are not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe and therefore leaves the complainant to his proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife, in the year —, a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with his parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

That the said Antoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vien, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife Josephine Vien continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Rich-
629 ardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years, until some time after the approval act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to. That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a daughter named Euphrasia (the mother of this complainant) and the said Euphrasia was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis, and never was on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Euphrasia Barada, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a white man named Fulton Peters, a white man of German nationality and a citizen of the United States.

There was born to the said Fulton Peters and his wife Euphrasia, a son named Frank A. Peters, who is the complainant herein, and the said Frank A. Peters, being such white person and citizen of the United States, taking the status of his father continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when he came to the Omaha reservation with his parents, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under the said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty
630 included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded Frank A. Peters, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and he not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or his ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved 631 by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of his ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. These defendants further answering say: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontanelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "that the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walters ——, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedants or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant.

632 That the said Antoine Barada was the grandfather of this complainant, and the said Euphrasia Peters and Fulton Peters were the parents of this complainant, and Mary Peters and Frank Peters and Mary Sailors were brothers and sisters of complainant.

4. These defendants further answering say: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Peters family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Peters family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and form time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the 633 work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant is descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

634 Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore, that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not 635 residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, the mother of complainant and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case.

The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; more-
636 over, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation, and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendant-, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. These defendants further aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters,
Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others including this plain-637 tiff, persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We knew that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago: that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters — had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8, and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations
638 have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and that the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

639 And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The — article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name 640 is not born- upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotment of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relation- residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

641 5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation,
7. These defendants further aver that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and complainant, failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation and upon their failure so to remove said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of 642 Frank Peters and which included complainant as he was of that class.

These defendants further aver that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontanelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the 643 defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. These defendants for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to Euphrasia Peters for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of Euphrasia Peters and her descendants including complainant, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

These defendants for further answer deny that the complainant is entitled to an allotment of 160 acres as the head of a family, and avers that the complainant at the date of the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, being the act under which complainant claims the right of an allotment of land, was then a single person, but 15 years of age, and that the complainant was such single person at the date of the amendatory act of March 3, 1893, and as such single person would not be entitled to have in any event more than 80 acres of land.

These defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent has reserved for the complainant pending this litigation, the E. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 35, township 25, north range 644 7 E., being 80 acres of land and which said reservation has been noted upon the surveyed maps in the office of Commissioner of Indian Affairs, awaiting the final determination of this suit; and that the land so reserved is the land and the only land occupied by the complainant; and these defendants deny that the said complainant either selected or occupied any of said lands at or prior to the date of the approval of the said act of Congress of August 7, 1882, but aver to the contrary that at said time the said complainant did not live upon the said reservation, but moved on to the reservation in the year 1888, and then for the first time made claim to the lands above described.

These defendants further aver that the United States allot-ing agent, appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections and make allotments of lands, investigated, ascertained and found as a fact, that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of any of the lands claimed by him, and reported his said findings to the Interior Department, and which said findings and report have been approved by the said department.

That the said United States allot-ing agent did find upon investigation that the N. W. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ of section 34, township 25, north range 7, E., had been selected by Frank Grant for his son Charles Grant, and the said United States allotting agent did make to the said Charles Grant an allotment thereof, and said United States allotting agent did make an allotment to Thomas Webster, of the N. E. ¼ of the N. W. ¼ of section 34, township 25, north range 7, E., and thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of said allotments respectively, and that the said Charles Grant and Thomas Webster were entitled to the lands allotted to them respectively as above described, and which 645 said allotments were subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and by the Secretary of the Interior, and patents therefore have been issued to the said Charles Grant and the said Thomas Webster respectively, under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotments were made and the said patents issued in the regular and do course of business.

These defendants further aver that the complainant herein, did not have any prior or superior or vested right to the land so patented to the said Charles Grant and to the said Thomas Webster, and that the said allotments to them and the said patents to them were made in all respects and conformity to law.

10. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defendants, and these defendants deny that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complain*ant* demanded. And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

WALTER PETERS, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, THOMAS Webster, Charles Grant, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.
Doc. T, No. 268.
Stipulation of Facts.

It is hereby stipulated that the following named persons will testify in behalf of the defendants, to the facts set down after the names respectively, and it is hereby further stipulated and agreed that said statements may be received in evidence with like force and effect, as if the deposition of the respective parties to the said facts had been formerly taken.

Dan Webster will testify that in the year 1893, he was looking around for land to which he might make claim for Thomas Webster, and found that Frank Grant (he was the husband of Me-gra-ta-he Grant and the father of Charles Grant, John Grant and Poncasa Grant) was breaking around the N. E. ¼ of the N. W. ¼ of section 34, township 25, range 7, (being land allotted to Thomas Webster) and that he said to Frank Grant that he would like to have that 40 acres of land, and that he then gave Grank Grant $10.00 for the claim. He will further testify that at that time (being the year 1893) Frank Grant made claim for his son Charles Grant, N. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 34, township 25, range 7, and marked out the land by plowing around it; and will further testify that Charles Grant is 647 now dead, and thinks that Charles Grant died in 1893.
William Springer says he thinks the pay rolls will show that Chas. Grant died in 1893.

Thomas L. Sloan will testify for complainant; that in 1893 Thomas L. Sloan enclosed by fence for pasture the N. ½ of S. E. ¼ and N. E. ¼ and E. ½ of N. W. ¼ and N. E. ¼ of S. 650 Thereupon afterwards to-wit:—on the 13th day of October, 1903, assignment of errors was filed in said case, which said assignment of errors is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

WALTER V. PETERS, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Thomas Webster, and Charles Grant, Defendants.	Docket T, No. 268. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled vause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construcing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

651 Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Walter V. Peters was not entitled to claim and have allotted to him the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The east half of the south east quarter of section thirty-five; the north west quarter of the north east quarter, and the north east quarter of the north west quarter of section thirty-four (34) all in section twenty-five (25), north of range seven (7), east.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore, complainant prays that said decree be reversed, and that complainant by restored to all things lost by reason 652 thereof.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

WALTER V. PETERS, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Thomas Webster, and Charles Grant, Defendants.	Docket T, No. 268. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives himself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

658 Thereupon afterwards, to wit:—on the 10th day of May, 1901, an amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill of complaint is in words and figures following, to wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States within and for the District of Nebraska.

JACOB PETERS, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathewson, Stella Hallowell, and Joseph B. Hallowell, Defendants.

269, T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of the said court:—

Jacob Peters brings this his bill of complaint against the United States of America, and thereupon your orator complains and states that he is a member of what is, or until recently was known, as the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omahas in the various statutes of the United States, and in the treaties hereinafter set forth. That he is of what is known as mixed blood and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada who intermarried with one Taegleha Haceinda, an Indian woman of the said tribe. That your orator and his ancestors back to said Michael Barada and his said wife, have continually maintained their domicile with the said tribe and maintained tribal relations therewith so long and so far — any tribal relations have been maintained by the said tribe, and has participated in the property and other rights of the said tribe and been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of the said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

659 And further complaining your orator says that on the 16th day of March A. D. 1854 a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America where and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof they received their present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including Euphrasia Peters. All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large, vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

And your orator further says that on the 6th day of March, A. D. 1865, another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large vol. 14 page 667 to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

And further showing your orator says that on the 7th day of August A. D. 1882, an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation, either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one-quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one-eighth of a section; to each orphan child one-eighth of a section, to each other person under eighteen years of age one-sixteenth of a section. That all allotments
660 should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large vol. 22 page 341 to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

Your orator further shows that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act on December 1884 and at subsequent times since.

Your orator further shows that on the 3rd day of March A. D. 1893 an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th 1882 providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council further allotment should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd 1893 but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899 and immediately thereafter assignments for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimants.

And your orator further shows that he is a son of Euphrasia Peters who is a daughter of Antoine Barada, who in turn was a son of Michael Barada and Taegleha Haceineda who was as herein-
661 before set forth, an Omaha Indian woman and a member of said tribe that ever since the year 1885 he has continuously resided upon the Omaha reservation. That your orator first selected land in the year 1887 and was upon the reservation at the time the Omahas consented to accept the act of 1882.

That your orator selected for himself the N. ½ of S.W. ¼ of section 35, township 25 N. range 7 east and the N. ½ of S. E. ¼ section 34, township 25 N. range 7 east. amounting to 160 acres as a head of a family. That your orator is a member of the tribe by bloed and descent and in accordance with the laws and customs of the Omaha tribe. That your orator has been refused an allotment by the Department of the Interior.

That since the commencement of this suit assignments have been made of a part of the land to Stella Hallowell the N. E. of S. E. ¼ of section 34 and the N. W. ¼ of S. E. ¼ of section 34 to Joseph B. Hallowell, both of whom have had allotments under the act of August 7th, 1882 and that because of their claims thereunder to the lands in litigation they have become necessary parties.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land to place in possession the allottee or lessee, and that he threatens to place into possession either the allottees hereinbefore named or their lessees to the great and irreparable damage of the complainants who are now in possession. That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson his claim of authority over the land on controversy and his threats that he will remove your orator from the land make him a necessary party to this suit. And your 662 orator further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor or any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305 which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

Your orator further states that the defendant The United States of America'- claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, it was provided that the assignment be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them," and the defendant claims that your orator and his ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land 663 under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your orator admits that he and his ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claims that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation nor the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865 nor their rights of allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865 as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th, 1871 contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule referred to; that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882 who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th 1865 nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent, the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation but who at all times and at the time 664 of the treaty of March 6th 1865 and ever since resided away from the reservation.

Your orator further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your orator further states that the defendant, The United States claims that the complainant or his ancestor has received allotments of lands under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian Office neither the complainant nor Euphrasia Peters his ancestor are entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your orator admits that his ancestors received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830 as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians that the quantity so assigned was one half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by her nor given to her in consideration of the relinquishment of any other right than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

That numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money, which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th ch. 66, of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation 665 and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March 1865 and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your orator has not in any manner assigned or relinquished his right or claim to the benefit under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized this complainant or his ancestors or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant or any member of his tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your orator shows to your honors that he is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honor in this court of equity and they therefore pray- the aid of the court in the premises and that said defendants, The United States of America and Charles P. Mathewson, Stella Hallowell and Joseph B. Hallowell may answer your orator's bill but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That it be ordered and decreed that the patents issued to Stella Hallowell and Joseph B. Hallowell are null and void and that the selection as made by Jacob Peters for himself is prior and superior to their claim and is his allotment and that his is entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your orator further prays for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants Charles P. Mathewson, Stella Hallowell and Joseph B. Hallowell enjoining and restraining each of them their agents and employees from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein described and that at the termina-666 tion of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orator the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court direct- to The United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson, Joseph B. Hallowell and Stella Hallowell therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

THOMAS L. SLOAN,
Solicitor for Complainant.

CHARLES E. CLAPP, Of Counsel.

Endorsed: Filed May 10 1901 Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

667 Thereupon afterwards, to wit:—on the 13th day of July, 1901, an answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JACOB PETERS, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathewson, Stella Hallowell, and Joseph B. Hallowell, Defendants.

No. 269, Doc. T.
Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of the United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson, Stella Hallowell, and Joseph B. Hallowell, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Jacob Peters, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer say:

1. These defendants deny that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and deny that the complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary these defendants aver that the said complainant is a white man, and a citizen of the United States, and that his ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that his said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and these defendants deny that the 668 complainant or his ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and deny that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant claims to trace his lineage back to Michael Barada, who intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but these defendants are not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leaves the complainant to his proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife, in the year —, a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a free born white person, and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with his parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha tribe.

That the said Antoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vien, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife Josephine Vien continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Rich-
669 ardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years, until some time after the approval — act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a daughter named Euphrasia (the mother of this complainant) and the said Euphrasia was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis, and was never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882; that the said Euphrasia Barada, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a white man named Fulton Peters, a white man of German nationality and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said Fulton Peters and his wife Euphrasia, a son named Jacob Peters, who is the complainant herein, and the said Jacob Peters, being such white person and citizen of the United States, taking the status of his father continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when he came to the Omaha reservation with his parents, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under the said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty
670 included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded Jacob Peters, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and he not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit:—March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or his ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior De-671 partment, that neither the complainant nor any of his ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. These defendants further answering say: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontanelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedents or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant. That the said Antoine Barada was the 672 grandfather of this complainant, and the said Euphrasia Peters and Fulton Peters were the parents of this complainant, and Mary Peters and Frank Peters and Mary Sailors were brothers and sisters of complainant.

4. These defendants further answering say: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large p. 341) the said Peters family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of land, and that the said Peters family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotments of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding 673 the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13,

1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant is descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selections of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore, that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

674 If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able toprove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not — all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians.

Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, the mother of complainant and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case.

The case was stated as follows:

675 "Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nehama reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be 'the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them.'

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nehama and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all 676 the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871, or their descendant-, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. These defendants further aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others including this plaintiff, persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:—

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short,
677 we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We know that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8, and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and that the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

678 If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land.

The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority te remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the 679 said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters thaugh a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty.) That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotment of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

680 Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. These defendants further aver that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and complainant, failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require 681 Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent, to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Walter ——, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as he was of that class.

These defendants further aver that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan,
682 Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontanelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein, from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. These defendants for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5 (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to Euphrasia Peters for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, 683 the rights of Euphrasia Peters and her descendants including complainant were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further allotment of land.

These defendants for further answer deny that the complainant is entitled to an allotment of 160 acres of land, as the head of a family, and denies that the complainant is a head of a family, and avers that the complainant at the date of the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, being the act under which complainant claims the right of an allotment of land, was then a single person, but — years of age, and that the complainant was such single person at the date of the amendatory act of March 3, 1893, and as such single person would not be entitled to have in any event more than 80 acres of land.

These defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent has reserved for the complainant pending this litigation, the N. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 35, township 25, north range 7 E., being 80 acres of land and which said reservation has been noted upon the surveyed maps in the office of Commissioner of Indian Affairs awaiting the final determination of this suit; and that the land so reserved is the land and the only land occupied by the complainant; and these defendants deny that the said complainant either selected or occupied any of said lands at or prior to the date of the approval of the said act of Congress of August 7, 1882, but aver to the contrary that at said time the said complainant did not live upon the said reservation but moved on the reservation since the year 1888, and then for the first time made claim to the lands above described.

These defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent, appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections and make allotments of lands, investigated, ascertained
684 and found as a fact, that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of any of the lands claimed by him, and reported his said findings to the Interior Department, and which said findings and report have been approved by the said department.

That the said United States allotting agent did find upon investigation, that the N. W. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of section 34, had been selected for allotment by Joseph Hallowell, and that the N. E. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of said section 34, township 25, range 7 E. had been selected for allotment by Stella Hallowell, and the said United States allotting agent did make to the said Hallowells respectively, allotment therefore, and thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of said allotments respectively, and that the said —— Hallowell and Stella Hallowell were entitled to the lands allotted to them respectively, as above described, and which said allotments were subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and by Secretary of Interior, and patents therefore have been issued to the said Joseph Hallowell and Stella Hallowell respectively, under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotments were made and said patents issued in the regular and due course of business.

These defendants further aver that the complainant herein, did not have any prior or separate or vested right to the lands so patented to the said Joseph Hallowell and Stella Hallowell, respectively, and that the said allotments to them and the said patents to them were made in all respects in conformity to law.

10. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defend-
685 ants, and these defendants deny that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded. And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

Walter Mitchell will testify that Jacob Peter's claim to the N. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 34, township 25, range 7, was made about 1894, and that he, (Walter Mitchell) made the selection for Jacob Peters. Whatever improvements have been made on the land above described he (Walter Mitchell) made for Jacob Peters. The first thing that was done was to cut hay. He (Walter Mitchell) entered the proofs of the selection at the agency and then leased the land out for pasturage. Two years ago he (Walter Mitchell) broke about ½ of the land. William F. Springer will testify that he is a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and was the interpreter for Allotting Agent Rankin who made the allotments under the act of 1893.

That said Springer will further testify that at and before the time when the allotments were made to Stella Hallowell and Joseph B. Hallowell of the north half of the southeast quarter of section 34, township 25, range 7, that Henry Springer appeared before the said Rankin and this witness, and made claim that he had selected the land above described in his own right, but that afterwards he sold his right to said selection to Arthur Hallowell; the said Arthur Hallowell being the person who was looking after the selections and allotments to be made to the said Joseph B. Hallowell and Stella Hallowell. That during said allotting by the said Rankin there was no claim made to the said Rankin so far as the knowl-688 edge of this witness goes, of any other person to the said lands above described.

The witness further states that there were no building improvements of any kind whatever on the said land at the said time, and to his knowledge there was no fence around this 80 acres of land.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JACOB PETERS, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, STELLA Hallowell, and Joseph B. Hallowell, Defendants.
} Docket T, No. 269. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

692 Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Jacob Peters was not entitled to claim and have allotted to him the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The north half of the south west quarter of section thirty-five (35), and the north half of the south east quarter of section thirty-four (34), all in township twenty-five (25) north, of range seven (7), east of the 6th P. M.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore, complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

JACOB PETERS, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, STELLA Hallowell, and Joseph B. Hallowell, Defendants.	Docket T, No. 269. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceived himself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

699 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 19th day of April, 1901, an amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

SARAH F. McCREARY, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, ETHELYN Chase, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	No. 362, Doc. T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of said court:

Sarah F. McCreary brings this her bill of complaint against the defendants, and says that she is a member of what is or until recently was known as the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omahas in the various statutes of the United States, and the treaties herein set forth.

That she is of what is known as mixed blood, and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada or Michael Berda as he was sometimes designated, who intermarried with one Taegleha Hacienda, an Indian woman of the full blood and a member of said tribe. That your oratrix and her ancestors back to said Michael Barada and his said wife, have continually maintained their domicile with said tribe and have maintained tribal relations therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by said tribe, and have participated in the property and other rights of said tribe, and have been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as members of said tribe and are entitled to all its rights and privileges.

700 Further complaining your oratrix says that on the 16th day of March, A. D. 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands whereof it received its present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including the ancestors of your oratrix. All of which matters by said treaty provide- and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large, vol. 10, p'ge 1043, to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

And your oratrix further shows that on the 6th day of March A. D. 1865 another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large, vol. 14, page 667, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

And further showing your oratrix says that on the 7th day of August, A. D. 1882, an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, and to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section.

701 That all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which matters and things with other matter- more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large, vol. 22, page 341, to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

Your oratrix further shows that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act in December 1884, and at subsequent times since.

And your oratrix further shows that her mother Artemesia Frost was recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and that she received an allotment on the Nemaha half breed tract, and that she has lived on the present reservation and does live upon said reservation at the present time. That her said mother since the treaty of 1865 has been recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and has been enrolled upon the tribal roll and has drawn annuity money for herself and some of her children, and has had the benefits of tribal property, the mill and other common property of the tribe. That Artemesia Frost was the daughter of Margaret Sloan who was also recognized as a member of the tribe and received the benefits of the tribal property under the treaty of 1854, and the later treaty of March 6th, 1865. That your oratrix as the head of a family has selected the following described land for allotment of which she is now in possession; the S. E. ¼ of section 11 twp. 26 N. range 6, east of the 6th P. M. in Nebraska; that such described property is a part of the land described and referred to in the treaties and acts of Congress herein above set out and has been sur-702 veyed in accordance with the treaties and acts of Congress; that your oratrix has placed valuable improvements upon the above described premises, and that no person or persons claim or did claim the same when first selected by your oratrix in accordance with the laws relating thereto and the notice received from the council of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and that it is occupied by your oratrix and she is the only person who has occupied said land under a claim for allotment. That your oratrix is a member of said tribe by blood and descent and according*ly* to the customs of said tribe. That application for the allotment of said land has been refused your oratrix by the Department of the Interior.

Your oratrix further says that on the 3rd day of March, A. D. 1893, an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th, 1882, providing that with the consent of the Omaha trive of Indians expressed in open council further allotment should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd, 1893, but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899, and immediately thereafter assignments for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land in controversy without investigation as to the priority of the claim and without notice to the claimants.

703 To Ethelyn Chase, a minor child of Hiram Chase has been assigned the N. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 11, township 25 north, range 6 east in Nebraska. That said assignment was made under the provisions of the act of 1893 as approved by the Indians in 1899. That a trust patent therefore of date April 11th, 1899, naming the United States as trustee has been issued in the name of Ethelyn Chase. No rights were acquired under said patent but owing to the fact the assignment of said land was made during the pendency of this suit makes Ethelyn Chase a necessary party defendant.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land and to place in possession the allottee or lesses, and that he threatens to place into possession either the allottee hereinbefore named or her lessee to the great and irreparable damage of the complainant who is now in possession. That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson his claim of authority over the land in controversy and his threats that he will remove your oratrix from the land make him a necessary party to this suit.

And your oratrix further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdic-
704 tion to take cognizance of any action suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305, which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

Your oratrix further states that the defendant The United States of America claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, that the assignment to be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them." The said defendant claims that your oratrix and her ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your oratrix admits that she and her ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claims that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation and the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, or the rights to the allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.
705 That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and the United States Indian agents on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th, 1871, contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of making the schedule referred to; that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent, the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation but who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since has resided away from the reservation.

Your oratrix further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

706 Your oratrix further states that the defendant, The United States, claims that the complainant or her ancestors have received allotments of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian office your oratrix is not entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your oratrix admits that her ancestor received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the quantity so assigned was one half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by her ancestor nor given to her ancestor in consideration of the relinquishment of any other right- than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

Numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money, which were accepted on consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interests in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66, of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who have received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received the money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your oratrix has not in any manner assigned or relinquished her right or claim to the benefit under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians neither has the United States by the executive department of the Gov-707 ernment nor by the enactment of any law authorized this complainant or her ancestors or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant or any member of this tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your oratrix shows to your honors that she is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity, and she therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises and that said defendants, The United States of America, Ethelyn Chase, minor, by her next friend Hiram Chase, and Charles P. Mathewson may answer your oratrix' bill but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That it be ordered and decreed that the patent issued to Ethelyn Chase is null and void and that the selection as made by Sarah McCreary, your oratrix, is prior and superior to the claim of Ethelyn Chase and is the allotment of your oratrix and that your oratrix and that your oratrix and her heirs are entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your oratrix further prays for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants Charles P. Mathewson and Ethelyn Chase enjoining and restraining each of them, their agents and employés from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein described — at the termination of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your oratrix the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court direction to the United States of America, Ethelyn Chase minor, by her next friend Hiram Chase, and Charles P.
708 Mathewson, therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

THOMAS L. SLOAN,
Solicitor for Complainant.

CHARLES E. CLAPP, Of Counsel.

Endorsed: Filed Apr. 19 1901 Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

709 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 13th day of July, 1901, an answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

SARAH F. McCREARY, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Ethelyn Chase, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.

Doc. T, No. 362. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, Ethelyn Chase, a minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Sarah F. McCreary, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer, say:

1. These defendants deny that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and deny that the complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary these defendants aver that the said complainant is a white woman, and a citizen of the United States, and that her ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that her said ancestors
710 were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and these defendants deny that the complainant or her ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and deny that they were recognized by the tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant claims to trace her lineage back to Michael Barada, who intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but these defendants are not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe and therefore leaves the complainant to her proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife, in the year 1811, a daughter by the name of Margaret Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Ma-garet Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with her parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

That the said Margaret Barada intermarried with one Thomas Sloan, a free born white man of Irish nationality and a 711 citizen of the United States, and that said Thomas Sloan and his wife Margaret Sloan continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years, until some time after the approval act of Congress of August 7, 1883, (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Thomas Sloan and his wife Margaret there was born a daughter named Artemesia (the mother of this complainant) and the said Artemesia was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis, and was never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Artemesia Sloan, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a white man named Leonard Frost, a free born white man and a citizen of the United States.. There was born to the said Leonard Frost and his wife Artemesia, a daughter Sarah Frost, who intermarried with —— McCreary; and is the complainant herein, and the said Sarah McCreary, being such white person and citizen of the United States, took the status of her father and continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, who came to the Omaha reservation about 1900 with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under the said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Con-
712 gress—1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded Sarah McCreary, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and she not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871,
713 and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or her ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of her ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. These defendants further answering say: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Ma-garet Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontanelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Asnley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Ma-garet Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Ba-714 rada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedants or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant. That the said Thomas Sloan was the grandfather of this complainant, and the said Artemesia Sloan was the mother of this complainant, and the Peters family and descendants of Michael Barada and uncles and aunts of complainant.

4. These defendants further answering say: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large p. 341) the said Sloan family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Sloan family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Sloan family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Sloan family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Sloan family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which said judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

715 5. The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to the Sloan and Peters families, being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allot-ing the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by the department in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant is descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of 716 Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore, that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the In-717 dians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, the mother of complainant and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case.

The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to 718 lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation, and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

719 6. These defendants further aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit: William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We knew that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 21, range 8, and broke 40 acres.

720 We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has be n done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and that the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

721 Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons inciuding the said Sloan family from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the 722 treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all

Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relation- residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th. 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

723 Very respectfully,

(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. These defendants further aver that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and — failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the

Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which 724 recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent, to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as he was of that class.

These defendants further aver that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry 725 Fontanelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January, 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein, from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. This defendant- further avers that afterward the said Sloan family endeavored to have themselves adopted into the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to have themselves recognized by the Interior Department as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to that end submitted to the department certain petitions purporting to be signed by certain members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that under date of September 6, 1894, the department ruled that the said

Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan, should not be admitted to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and accordingly so ordered, and in which order and opinion the department held as follows:

"Aside from the general proposition that the question of adopting the Sloans as members of the tribe is one in a measure
726 separate and distinct from their alleged rights as Omaha Indians by blood, and that such alleged right is not necessarily a test for such adoption, there remains the right to admission by the free will and consent of the tribe, if fairly and properly obtained.

Upon their faces, the several petitions presented with your letter seem to be in proper form, and to express the desire of a majority of the members of the tribe that the persons in question shall be placed upon the rolls of the tribe, and be admitted to all the rights and privileges of other members thereof.

Besides the opposing petition hereinbefore referred to, the department is in receipt of recent information which shows that of the one hundred and fifty seven persons whose names appear on the six petitions presented with your letter, only seventy now favor the claimants; that eleven others have since assented to their adoption, making eighty-one in all now favorable; that twenty-four of the signatures thereon were not written by the parties whose names are given, nor was the use of their names authorized by them, that fifteen names were signed twice, and that the said petitions bear the names of nine boys and three women—neither of whom have any voice in such matters; that one of the nine members of the council purporting to have signed one of the petitions, did not sign nor authorize the use of his name, and further, that there are about one hundred and eighteen male members of the tribe, of lawful age, who oppose the adoption of the Sloans.

Without expressing any opinion of the merits of the petitions in question, the facts presented seem to clearly establish the be-727 lief that it is the desire and wish of a majority of the members of the tribe that the Sloans be not admitted to membership and it is so ordered.

In reference to that part of your report wherein you state that Thomas L. Sloan has held and improved a tract of land since 1881 or 1882, on the Omaha reservation, it would seem that he is doing so in defiance of any legal authority of occupation."

That after the above order and ruling of the department, the counsel for Ma-garet Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan applied to the department for reconsideration of the adoption case, and the department under date of November 17, 1896, re-affirmed this ruling and among other things therein said:

"It is not denied, nor has it ever been, that the Sloans, mother and son, are of part Omaha Indian blood. The tribe recognized them as such and made provisions for them, with others, by the treaty of 1830, and in the opinion of the department, and the Omahas themselves, their claim- as such mixed bloods were extinguished by the lands given them under the terms of the tenth article of the treaty named. * * * The claims of Margaret and her son William E. were extinguished prior to the birth of Thomas L. It is nowhere alleged or claimed that the latter is the offspring of a mother of Indian blood, much more of one of Omaha blood. The presumption is, therefore, that his mother was a white woman.

The claims of Margaret and Thomas L. are based upon their birthright as Omaha Indians and upon their alleged adoption in recent years by the tribe.

728 The birthright claim of Margaret has been extinguished. Thomas L. never has such claim. Neither of them have any claim by adoption, never having been regularly, fairly or properly adopted by the tribe, as was shown by department letter of September 6, 1894.

Notwithstanding that Mr. Breckinridge has advised the department by letter dated the 30th ultimo, of his withdrawal as attorney for the claimants, I have caused this review of the case to be made, and adhere to the opinion expressed in department letter of September 6, 1894, that the persons named have no valid, legal claim to membership with the Omaha tribe of Indians."

And defendant- avers that the above ruling of the Department of the Interior established the fact that Ma-garet Sloan and her descendants, the plaintiff- herein, then were not and had not theretofore been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and the defendant- avers that the said Margaret Sloan and her descendants, the plaintiff- herein, are not and never have been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

10. These defendants for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to Margaret Sloan for three hundred and twenty acre- of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of Margaret Sloan and her descendants including complainant were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to mem-

729 bership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

11. These defendants for further answer deny that the complainant is the head of a family, and deny that the complainant is entitled to 160 acres of land as the head of a family, and avers that the complainant at date of the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, being the act under which complainant claims the right of an allotment of land, was then a single person — years of age; that the complainant was such single person at the date of the amendatory act of 1893, and as such single person would not be entitled to have in any event, more than 80 acres of land.

These defendants further aver that the complainant never occupied or improved the S. E. ¼ of section 11, in township 25, N. range

6; that the complainant was born in Richardson county, in the State of Nebraska, and has at all times since lived in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and is now living with her husband in Richardson county, State of Nebraska; and that she has never lived upon the Omaha Indian reservation and was not on the reservation at the time of the allotting of lands to the Omaha Indians, and was not on the Omaha reservation at the date of the commencement of this suit; that she did not make a selection of the lands claimed, and if any selection ever was made of said lands in her name or her behalf, the same was so made by her attorney, Thomas L. Sloan.

These defendants further aver that Sarah F. McCreary, Philomen Frost, Charles A. Frost, Leonard Frost, Mary Frost and Frank Frost are all children of Artemesia Frost and Leonard Frost (hus-730 band and wife), and that the United States allotting agent consulted with Leonard Frost and Artemesia Frost, the parents, and found it desireable that if lands were to be allotted to the Frost family, they should be adjoining lands, and such was the wish of Leonard Frost and wife, whereupon the United States allotting agent made reservation of lands for the Frost family, including the complainant pending the result of this litigation in section 8 and 9, township 25, range 7, and which reservation has been made upon the surveyed maps in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs awaiting the final determination of this suit.

These defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent, appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections and make allotments of land, investigated, ascertained and found as a fact, that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of any of the lands claimed by her and reported his said findings to the Interior Department, and which said findings and report have been approved by the said department.

That the said United States allotting agent did find upon investigation that Hiram Chase had made claim for and in behalf of his children of the S. E. ¼ of section 11, township 25, range 6, being the same land now claimed by the complainant; and that the said Chase had leased the said land and had been deriving the rents and profits therefrom since the year 1893, and the said allotting agent did make allotment of the N. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 11, to Ethelyn Chase, a child of Hiram Chase, and thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs; and that said 731 Ethelyn Chase was entitled to lands allotted to her as above described, and which said allotment was subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and by the Secretary of the Interior, and the patent therefore was issued to the said Ethelyn Chase under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotment was made and the said patent issued in the regular and due course of business.

These defendants further aver that the complainant herein did not have any prior or superior or vested right to the land so patented to the said Ethelyn Chase, and that the allotment to her, and the said patent to her were made in all respects in conformity to law.

12. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause, or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defendants, and these defendants deny that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complainant demanded. And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

SARAH F. McCREARY, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Ethelyn Chase, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.
Docket "T," No. 362. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

735 Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Sarah F. McCreary was not entitled to claim and have allotted to her the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit:

The southeast quarter of section eleven (11) in township twenty-five (25) north of range six (6) east.

736 Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore, complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, ETHELYN Chase, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.
} Docket "T," No. 362. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives herself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States,

742 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 19th day of April, 1901, an amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JENNIE M. ARNOLD, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Nellie Fields, Nettie Fields, Minors; Bennie Saunsoci, a Minor; Richard White, Florence Filson, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	No. 363, T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of the United States circuit court for the district of Nebraska:

Your oratrix brings this her bill of complaint and says that she is of what is known as a mixed blood of the Omaha tribe of Indians and is a lineal descendant of Lata-da-we, who was an Indian woman of the full blood and a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians. That Lata-da-we intermarried with one Francis Bono and that they maintained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe and maintained their domicile upon the Omaha reservation and maintained tribal relations there so long and so far as any tribal relation- have been maintained by said tribe, and Lata-da-we has participated in the property and other rights of said tribe, and has been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

Further complaining your oratrix says that on the 16th day of March A. D. 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and 743 between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof it received its present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including Lata-da-we and her children. All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large, vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

And your oratrix further shows that on the 6th day of March A. D. 1865, another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large, vol. 14, page 667, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

And further showing your oratrix says that on the 7th day of August A. D. 1882, an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation, either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, and to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section. That all allotments
744 should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large vol. 22, page 431, to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

Your oratrix further shows that the said tribe gave their consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provision of said act in December, 1884, and at subsequent times since.

Your oratrix further says that on the 3rd day of March, 1893, an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th, 1882, providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council further allotment should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd, 1893, but increased allotments were provided from the residue lands after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent of the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899, and immediately thereafter assignments for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimants.

And your oratrix further shows that her mother Mary Monette was the child of Francis Bono and Lata-da-we, who was as 745 herein above set forth an Omaha Indian woman and a member of said tribe. That she lived among the Omaha Indians a number of years prior to her death and was recognized by them as one of their own blood. That she removed to the present reservation upon receipt of a letter from the special allotting agent in which she was notified that the tribal council had requested that she, Mary Monette and her family be allotted land with other members of the tribe, which notice was sent to her through a special messenger but was not received until after the work of allotting the lands had been completed. That as soon as the notice was received Mary Monette and her family removed to the Omaha reservation and selected land. That your oratrix Jennie M. Arnold selected for herself as the head of a family 160 acres of land described as follows:

The S. E. ¼ of section 13, township 25 N. range 6 east, and for her son, Benjamin Arnold, the E. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 13, township 25 N. range 6, and for her minor son Don Arnold the N. ½ of S. E. ¼ of section 24, T. 25 R. 6 east of the 6th P. M. in Nebraska. Your oratrix has been refused an allotment by the Interior Department.

That the said described land is a part of the lands referred to in the treaties and act of Congress herein above referred to. That no person or persons claimed the land when first selected and marked for your oratrix in accordance with the laws relating thereto. That your oratrix is in possession of said lands and has made valuable improvements thereon. That your oratrix is a member of said Omaha tribe of Indians by blood and descent and also in accordance with the customs, rules and regulations of said tribe, and said relationship and membership has never been terminated.

That under provisions of the act of Congress of March 3rd, 1893, new and additional allotments of land have been made to 746 members of the Omaha tribe and during the pendency of this suit assignments of the land have been made to the following named persons:

To Nellie Fields, N. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 13, to Nettie Fields the S ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 13. That both of the above named persons are minors and are represented by their father Josiah Fields, That the E. ½ of S. W. ¼ of section 13 has been assigned to Bennie Saunsoci, who is also a minor and whose next friend and father is Ardent Saunsoci. That the N. W. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of section 24 has been assigned to Wahaga White, who has since died. That at the time of his death he was a minor, unmarried and wi hout issue, that the sole heir at law of said deceased child is Richard White. That the N. E. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of section 24 has been assigned to Florence Filson, who is a minor and a non resident of the State. She is at present residing with her mother Josephine Lamson at St. Lake City, Utah. The said Florence Filson is one sixteenth Omaha Indian blood and fifteen sixteenths white, and whose ancestor, John Pilcher received an allotment on the Nemeha half breed tract and who also took a homestead as a citizen of the United States and who was not a resident on the Omaha reservation from 1864 to 1878 but who received an allotment under the act of 1882, That no rights were acquired by these parties to said lands assigned to them but owing to such assignments and alleged claims thereunder they are necessary parties to this suit.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land to place in possession the allottee or lessee, and that he threatens to 747 place in possession either the allottees hereinbefore named or their lessees to the great and irreparable damage of the complainant who is now in possession. That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson his claim of authority over the land in controversy an- his threats that he will remove your oratrix from the land make him a necessary party to this suit.

And your oratrix further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress, or who claims to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty. That said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large, on page 305, which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

Your oratrix further states that the defendant The United States of America claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty 748 of March 6th, 1865, the assignment to be in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood, "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them," the defendant The United States, claims that your oratrix and her ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your oratrix admits that she and her ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claims that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation and the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor their rights to allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 1st, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of theInterior January 26th, 1871, contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule referred to; that under the provisions of the act of August 7th 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, 749 nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agents, the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation, but who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since resided away from the reservation.

Your oratrix further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th 1865, but that the assignment provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your oratrix further states that the defendant, The United States, claims that the complainant or her ancestors have received allotment of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of said allotments under the policy of the Indian Office your oratrix is not entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your oratrix admits that her ancestor received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, that the quantity so assigned was one half the amount provided by said treaty, and that the said allotment was not accepted by her ancestor nor given to her ancestor in consideration of the relinquishment of any other right than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

Numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th 750 art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provision of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66, of the third session of the 35*rd* Congress, 1859. That most of the — breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your oratrix has not in any manner assigned or relinquished her right or claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians, neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized your oratrix or her ancestors, or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever the- tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant or any member of this tribe has been accepted or approved of by the United States or by any of its officers.

Wherefore your oratrix shows to your honors that she is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity, and she therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises and that said defendants, The United States of America, Nellie Fields, Nettie Fields, by their next friend, Josiah Fields; Bennie Saunsoci, by his next friend, Ardent Saunsoci, Richard White, Florence Filson by her next friend Josephine Lamson, and Charles P. Mathewson may answer your oratrix' bill but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived.

751 That the patents issued to Nellie Fields, Nettie Fields, Bennie Saunsoci, Wagaha White and Florence Filson be ordered and decreed null and void, and that the selection as made by Jennie M. Arnold for herself & minor children Ben & Don Arnold be decreed their allotments prior and superior to their pretended claims, and that your oratrix and her heirs be decreed entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th 1882.

Your oratrix further prays for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants Nellie Fields, Nettie Fields, Bennie Saunsoci, Richard White and Florence Filson and Charles P. Mathewson, enjoining and restraining each of them their agents and employés from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein described and that at the termination of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and for such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your oratrix the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court directed to the United States of America, Nellie Fields, Nettie Fields, by their next friend, Joseph Fields; Bennie Saunsoci by his next friend, Ardent Saunsoci, Florence Filson by her next friend Josephine Lamson, Richard White, and Charles P. Mathewson, therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

752 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 31st day of July, 1901, an answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JENNIE M. ARNOLD, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Nellie Fields, Nettie Fields, Minors; Bennie Saunsoci, a Minor; Richard White, Florence Filson, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	Doc. T, No. 363. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, Nellie Fields, Nettie Fields, minors; Bennie Saunsoci, a minor; Richard White, Florence Filson, a minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Jennie M. Arnold, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefits and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer, say:

1. These defendants deny that Mary Monette, the mother of the complainant, is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and deny that the complainant or her ancestors

753 ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe; and deny that they were recognized by the United States as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant claim- to be a descendant of Mary Monette, and that the said Mary Monette was the daughter of Latadawe, who had intermarried with one Francis Bono, and the defendant avers that the said Francis Bono was a free born white man and a citizen of the United States, and that the said Mary Monette (née Bono) took the status of her father, and thereby became and was a white person and citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; and that the said Mary Monette lived with her parents in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and in that vicinity, but not on the Omaha reservation up until the year —, when she intermarried with one —— Monette, who was a free born white man and citizen of the United States.

That there was born of the said —— Monette and his wife Mary Monette the following children; Mitchell Monette, David Monette, Jennie M. Arnold née Monette, Cassie M. Karch née Monette and which children, in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian affairs, took the status of their father, and thereby became and were white persons and citizens of the United States, and were not and never became members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; and that the said parents together with their said children, continued to live in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and in that vicinity until after the approval of the act of Congress, August 7, 1882; and that the 754 said Mary Monette came to the Omaha reservation about the year 1892, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant and her ancestors, did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded the Monette family, being only mixed Indian blood, and not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said Monette family was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the 755 Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the Monette family or their ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the Monette family, the complainant nor any of her ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. These defendants further answering say: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, p. 341) the said Monette family and other half-breeds and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and these defendants deny that the tribal council of the Omaha Indians ever requested that lands be allotted to the Monette family; and deny that the Monett- family were requested by letter or otherwise, from the United States allotting agent to come to the reservation, but to the contrary aver that the first allotment of lands under the act of 1882, was completed in the year 1884; and that the Monette family did not come to the vicinity of the Omaha reservation until the year 1892.

That the Omaha Indians on the said reservation manifested
756 the most determined opposition to the Monette family and other mixed blood Indians of that class being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision, as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

4. As showing the position taken by the Interior Department in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is taken from the ruling of the department dated September 13, 1883, relating to Celestine B. Kuhn, a member of the Barada family the members of which family are similarly situated to the complainant herein, and have like suits pending, claiming the right to allotments of lands.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotment.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

757 Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestine Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having — in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians.

Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and 758 family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

The department also made like ruling in the case of Euphrasia Peters, another of the mixed blood claimants of like class.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by A. C. Fletcher, special U. S. Indian agent, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case. The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4 of the treaty of 1765, defines those entitled to lands to be 'members of the tribe including their half breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them.'

759 This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field obseevation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation, and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. These defendants for further answer aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth,
760 many half-breed and mixed blood Indians insisted in coming and remaining on the lands of the reservation, and as a result thereof, the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department under date of March 19, 1888, in which they protested against the absentee half and mixed blood Indians coming upon the reservation and claiming the right to an allotment of lands, and requested the Interior Department to take action to remove all intruders from the lands of the reservation.

That the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting on the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report to the Secretary of the Interior and requested authority to remove said mixed blood claimants from the said reservation, and that afterward on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior directed the removal of the said mixed blood claimants from the said reservation, and which said order and judgment is as follows.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though 761 a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6th, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The — article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not born- upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who 762 may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

6. These defendants for further answer aver that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to complainant's ancestor for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of the ancestor and his descendants including complainant were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

7. These defendants further aver that the preference right to select lands for allotment under the act of Congress, August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) is confined by section (5) of said act to persons who had received or were entitled to receive an assignment and certificate of an allotment under the 4th article of the treaty with the Omahas concluding March 6, 1865, and Monette family had not received and were not entitled to receive an assignment and certificate for lands under said treaty, and by reason whereof, the said Monette family did not have and could not acquire 763 any such interest in the lands described in the amended petition as would give them a preference over other Indians in the selection of land for allotment.

8. And these defendants for further answer say that the complainant was not and is not the head of a family, and is not entitled to claim by way of allotment, the 160 acres of land described in the amended bill of complaint, but her right to allotment, if any she had, would be limited under the law to 80 acres of land.

9. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant did not select for allotment, and did not occupy or make any improvements on any of the lands described in the amended bill of complaint; and the defendants further aver that the complainants never lived upon the Omaha Indian reservation, and never selected, improved, or cultivated any land whatsoever, upon the Omaha Indian reservation, and is not entitled to have or select any lands upon the Omaha Indian reservation for allotment.

10. That the said United States allotting agent did find upon investigation that the said complainant did not and never had selected, occupied, or improved any of the lands described in the amended bill, but did find upon investigation that Josiah Fields had selected in the year 1891 for allotment to his daughters Nellie Fields and Nettie Fields, the S. E. ¼ of section 13, township 25, range 6 E., and had ever since the said year of 1891, continued to claim said land for his said daughters and had occupied the same, and cultivated the same from the said year 1891 down to the date of allotment, and the said United States allotting agent did make an allotment of the S. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of said section 13, to Nettie Fields, and the N. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of said section 13, to Nettie Fields.

764 And the said allotting agent did further find upon investigation as a fact that the E. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 13, had been claimed for Bennie Saunsoci by his father Ardent Saunsoci since the year 1893, and that the said Saunsoci had continued to occupy and cultivate said lands since the year 1893, and the U. S. allotting agent did allot the — E. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of section 24, to Florence Filson, and the N. W. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of section 24, to Wa-ha-ga White, who gave to said allotting agent satisfactory proofs of their right to said allotment, and thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of said allotments respectively, and that the said allottees were entitled to the lands allotted to them respectively, as above described, and which said allotments were subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and by the Secretary of the Interior, and patents therefor have been issued to the said allottees respectively, under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotments were made and said patents issued in the regular and do course of business.

These defendants further aver that the complainant herein, did not have any prior or separate or vested right to the lands so patented to the said allottees respectively, and that the said allotments to them and the said patents to them were made in all respects in conformity to law.

11. And these defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent reserved for the Monette family pending this litigation and subject to the result thereof, the following land to-wit, the northeast quarter of section 13, township 25, north of range 6 east; the east half of the northeast quarter of section 14, township 25, north of range 6 east; the south half of the southwest quarter of 765 section 12, township 25, north of range 6 east; the southeast quarter of section 10; the northeast quarter of section 15, the north half of the south-east quarter of section 14, the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 11, the east half of the southwest quarter of section 10, the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 10, and the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 10, and the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 10, and the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 9, all in township 25, north of range 7 east, and which said reservation has been noted upon the maps in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

12. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of those defendants, and these defendants deny that the said complainants are entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

W. S. SUMMER-,
U. S. Attorney.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.'

772 Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Jennie M. Arnold and children were not entitled to claim and have allotted to them the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The southeast quarter, and the east half of the southwest quarter of section thirteen (13), and the north half of the southeast quarter of section twenty-four, all in township twenty-five (25), north of range six (6), east of the 6th P. M.

773 Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore complainant prays that said decree be reversed, and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

JENNIE M. ARNOLD, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, BENNIE Saunsoci, Nellie Fields, Nettie Fields, Florence Filson, and Richard White, Defendants.	Docket "I," No. 363. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered

in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November. 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives herself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, and 775 that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MITCHEL MONETTE, DAVID MONETTE, Jennie M. Arnold, and Cassie M. Karch, Complainants,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Charles P. Mathewson, Alfred Hallowell, Defendants.

No. 364, Doc. T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the judges of the circuit court:

Michael Monette, Jennie M. Arnold, Cassie M. Karch and David Monette state that they are the heirs and legal representatives of the estate of Mary Monette, bring this their bill of complaint against the defendants and state that they are of what is known as mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe and that their mother Mary Monette was the daughter of Latadawe an Omaha Indian woman of the full blood and a member of the Omaha tribe. That both Latadawe and Mary Monette or Mary Bono were recognized members of said tribe.

Further complaining your orators say that on the 16th day of March A. D., 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof they received their present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including Margaret Sloan and her children. All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United 780 States Statutes at Large vol. 10 page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orators refer.

And your orators further show that on the 6th day of March A. D., 1865, another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large col. 14 page 667 to which for greater certainty your orators beg to refer.

And further showing your orators say that on the 7th day of August A. D. 1882, an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation, either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one-quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one-eighth of a section, to each orphan child one-eighth of a section, to each other person under eighteen years of age one-sixteenth of a section. That all allotments should be selected by the Indians heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act set forth in the Statutes at Large vol. 22 page 341 to which for greater certainty your orators refer.

Your orators further show that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act on December 1884 and at sub-781 sequent times since.

Your orators further say that on the 3rd day of March A. D., 1893 an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th, 1882, providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council further allotment should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd 1893, but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899 and immediately thereafter assignment- for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimants.

And your orators further show that their mother Mary Monette was the child of Francis Bono and Latadawe, who was as hereinabove set forth an Omaha Indian woman and a member of said tribe. That she lived among the Omaha Indians a number of years prior to her death and was recognized by them as one of their own blood. That she removed to the present reservation upon receipt of letter from the special allotting agent in which she was notified that the tribal council had requested that she, Mary Monette, and her family be allotted land with other members of the tribe, which notice was sent to her through a special messenger but was 782 not received until after the work of allotting the lands had been completed. That as soon as the notice was received Mary Monette and her family removed to the Omaha reservation and selected land. That Mary Monette selected the following described land situate in Thurston county, Nebraska, to-wit:

The west half of the southwest quarter of section thirteen and the east half of the southeast quarter of section fourteen, all in township 25 north, range 6 east of the 6th P. M. in Nebraska; that such described property is a part of the land referred to in the treaties and acts of Congress herein above set out and has been surveyed in accordance with the treaties and acts of Congress; that your orators have placed valuable improvements upon the above described premises and that Alfred Hallowell was a claimant for said land claiming for some deceased children but that he assigned to Mary Monette for a consideration partially paid, selected and marked by said Mary Monette in accordance with the laws relating thereto and the notice received from the council of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and that it is occupied by your orators and she is the only person who has occupied said — under a claim of said land for allotment, and that the defendant The United States of America has not opposed the claims of your orator- to said land by reason of its having been selected or allotted to any other person.

And your orators further show that notwithstanding the facts herein above set forth and notwithstanding that they are within and under the provisions of the law entitled to an allotment of one hundred and sixty acres on behalf of their mother Mary Monette, as by her selected and above described, the defendant by and through its officers and agents refuses and neglects to make the allotment.

783 That since the commencement of this suit assignments have been made of the land to Silas Hallowell of the E. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 14, township 25, N. range 6 east and the W. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 13, township 25 north range 6 east to Wm. Baptisti Hallowell. That both are dead and they were minors, unmarried and without issue at the time of their death, and the sole heir to their estate is Alfred Hallowell their father who because of such title having been acquired during the pendency of this suit has become necessary parties hereto.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land and to place in possession the allottee or lessee, and that he threatens to place into possession either the allottees hereinbefore named or their lessees to the great and irreparable damage of the complainants who are now in possession. That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson his claim of authority over the land in controversy and his threats that he will remove your orators from the land make him a necessary party to this suit. And your orators further show to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, 784 suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of a claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305 which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your orator- begs to refer.

Your orators further state that the defendant The United States of America claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th 1865, it was provided that the assignment — be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to members thereof of full blood "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them," and the defendant claims that your orators and their ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art., of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your orators admit that they and their ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claim that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation nor the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865 nor their rights to allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that 785 the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th, 1871 contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865 nor at the time of making the schedule referred to; that under the provisions of the act of August 7th 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th 1882 who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th 1865 nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent, the superintendent. nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation but who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since resided away from the reservation.

Your orators further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your orators further state that the defendant, The United States claims that the complainants for their ancestors have received 786 allotments of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art., thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian Office neither the complainant- nor Mary Monette their ancestor, are entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your orators admit that their ancestor received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art., of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians that the quantity so assigned was one half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by her nor given to her in consideration of the relinquishment of any other right than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

The numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art., of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money, which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th ch. 66, of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the treaty of the 6th of March 1865 and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your orators have not inany manner assigned or relinquished their right or claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized these 787 complainants or their ancestors or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant- or any member of this tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your orators show to your honors that they are without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honor- in this court of equity and they therefore pray the aid of the court in the premises and that said defendants, The United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson, and Alfred Hallowell may answer your orators' bill but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That it be ordered and decreed that the patents issued to Wm. B. Hallowell and Silas Hallowell are null and void and that the selection as made by Mary Monette is prior and superior to their claim and is her allotment, and that she and her heirs are entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your orators further pray for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants Charles P. Mathewson and Alfred Hallowell enjoining and restraining each of them, their agents and employees from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein described and that at the termination of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orators the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court direct- to the United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson, and Alfred Hallowell therein and thereby commanding them
788 on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

Endorsed: Filed May 10 1901 Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

789 Thereupon afterwards, to wit:—on the 31st day of July, 1901, answer to amended bill of complaintwas filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MITCHELL MONETTE, DAVID MONETTE, Jennie M. Arnold, and Cassie M. Karch, Complainants,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Charles P. Mathewson, Alfred Hallowell, Defendants.

Doc. T, No. 364. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson, Alfred Hallowell, defendants, to the amended bill of compiaint of Mitchell Monette, David Monette, Jennie M. Arnold, and Cassie M. Karch, complainants.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefits and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto, these defendants for their joint and several answer say:

1. These defendants deny that Mary Monette, the mother of the complainant- is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska, and deny that the complainants or their ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe
790 of Indians in Nebraska; and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe; and deny that they were recognized by the United States as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer aver that the complainants claim to be heirs and legal representatives of Mary Monette, and that the said Mary Monette was the daughter of Latadaee, who had intermarried with one Francis Bono, and the defendant- avers that the said Francis Bono was a free born white man and a citizen of the United States, and that the said Mary Monette (née Bono) took the status of her father, and thereby became and was a white person and citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; and that the said Mary Monette lived with her parents in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and in that vicinity, but not on the Omaha reservation up until the year —, when she intermarried with one —— Monette, who was a free born white man and citizen of the United States.

That there was born to the said —— Monette and his wife Mary Monette, the following children; Mitchell Monette, David Monette,

Jennie M. Arnold, née Monette, Cassie M. Karch, née Monette, and which children in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian affairs, took the status of their father, and thereby became and were white persons and citizens of the United States, and were not and never became members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; and that the said parents together with their said children continued to live in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and in that vicinity until after the approval of the act of Congress, August 7, 1882; and that the said Mary Monette came to the Omaha reservation about the year 1892 with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of 791 land under said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. These defendants for further answer aver, that the complainants and their ancestors, did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation, at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865 (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded the Monette family, being only mixed Indian blood, and not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said Monette family was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allot-
792 ments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the Monette family, or their ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the Monette family complainants, nor any of their ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. These defendants further answering say, that after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Stats. at Large p. 341) the said Monette family and other half breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands; and these defendants deny that the tribal council of the Omaha Indians ever requested that lands be allotted to the Monette family; and deny that the Monette family were requested by letter or otherwise, from the United States allotting agent, to come to the reservation, but to the contrary aver that the first allotment of lands under the act of 1882, was completed in the year 1884; and that the Monette family did not come to the vicinity of the Omaha reservation until the year 1892.

That the Omaha Indians on the said reservation manifested the most determined opposition to the Monette family and other mixed blood Indians of that class, being allowed to participate in 793 the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent, charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision, as to the right of the party to receive allotment.

4. As showing the position taken by the Interior Department in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is taken from the ruling of the department dated September 1883, relating to Celestine B. Kuhn, a member of the Barada family, the members of which family are similarly situated to the complainants herein, and have like suits pending, claiming the right to allotments of lands.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty 'shall be assigned to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe
794 under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule and it is proper to conclude therefore that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, why by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

795 The department also made like ruling in the case of Euphrasia Peters, another of the mixed blood claimants of like class.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case. The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas. Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children. All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nehama reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here. Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war. He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4 of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be 'members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them.'

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nehama and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not al-796 lowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871, or their descendant-, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

5. These defendants for further answer aver, that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, many half breed and mixed blood Indians in coming and remaining on the lands of the reservation, and as a result thereof, the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians caused petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department under date of March 19, 1888, in which they protested against the absentee half and mixed blood Indians coming upon the reservation and claiming the right to an allotment of lands, and requested the Interior Department to take action to remove all intruders from the lands of the reservation.

That the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting on the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his 797 report to the Secretary of the Interior and requested authority to remove said mixed blood claimants from the said reservation, and that afterward on the 5th day of December 1888, the Secretary of the Interior directed the removal of the said mixed blood claimants from the said reservation, and which said order and judgment is as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wished on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6th, 1865, (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is nor borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, 798 and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

6. These defendants for further answer aver, that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7. U. S. Statutes at Large 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5 (4) of an act of Congress
799 approved July 31, 1854 (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to Francis Bono for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of Francis Bono and his descendants including complainant were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

7. These defendants further aver that the preference right to select lands for allotment under the act of Congress, August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) is confined by section (5) of said act to persons who had received or were entitled to receive an assignment and certificate of an allotment under the 4th article of the treaty with Omahas concluding March 6, 1865, and Monette family had not received and were not entitled to receive an assignment and certificate for lands under said treaty, and by reason whereof, the said Monette family did not have and could not acquire any such interest in the lands described in the amended petition as would descend to her heirs, to-wit, the present complainants.

These defendants further aver that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, does not contemplate the making of allotments to heirs, or the issue of patents to heirs for lands claimed to have been selected by their ancestors, neither can such allotment be made to or patent issued to the deceased Mary Monette; that under the act of 1882, as well as under the act amendatory thereof, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large 630) allotments of lands cannot be made to deceased persons but only to living persons, and that the present complainants can only claim allotment to land in their own right, and each of the present complainants have separate suits pending in which they claim for themselves severally, the right to an allotment of lands dis-
800 tinct from and separate from the land described in the present amended bill of complaint.

8. And these defendants for further answer say that Mary Monette was not the head of a family during any of the time she claims to have lived on the reservation, and hence was not entitled to claim by way of allotment the 160 acres of land described in the amended bill of complaint, but her right to allotment, if any she had, would be limited under the law of 80 acres of land.

9. These defendants for further answer aver that Mary Monette did not select for allotment, and did not occupy or make any improvements on any of the lands described in the amended bill of complaint, and that the pretended claim to the said lands is apparently an afterthought made by the pretended heirs of Mary Monette, in an effort thereby to acquire titles to lands in addition to lands they might otherwise claim under their own names and separate rights.

10. That the said United States allotting agent did find upon investigation that the E. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 14, township 25, range 6 E, had been selected for allotment by Silas Hallowell, and that the W. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 13, had been selected for allotment for and in behalf of William Hallowell; and that said allotting agent did further find upon investigation as a fact, that the said E. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 14, and the W. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 13, had been selected and occupied by Alfred Hallowell as early as the first of June 1893, for and in behalf of his sons Silas Hallowell and William Hallowell, and that in pursuance of said selection the said Alfred Hallowell had continued to occupy the said lands either in person or by and through tenants down to the 801 time of said allotments, and the said United States allotting agent did make the said Hallowells respectively, allotment therefor, and thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of said allotments respectively, and that the said Hallowells were entitled to the lands allotted to them respectively, as above described, and which said allotments were subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and by the Secretary of the Interior, and patents therefor have been issued to the said Silas Hallowell and William Hallowell respectively, under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotments were made and said patents issued in the regular and due course of business.

These defendants further aver that the complainant herein, did not have any prior or separate or vested right to the lands so patented to the said Silas Hallowell and William Hallowell respectively, and that the said allotments to them and the said patents to them were made in all respects in conformity to law.

11. And these defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent reserved for the Monette family, pending this litigation and subject to the result thereof, the following land to-wit: The northeast quarter of section 13, township 25, north of range 6 east; the east half of the northeast quarter of section 14, township 25, north of range 6, east; the south half of the southwest quarter of section 12, township 25, north of range 6 east; the southeast quarter of section 10; the northeast quarter of section 15, the north half of the southeast quarter of section 14, the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 11, the east half of the southwest quarter of section 10, the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 10, the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 10, and the southeast quarter of the northeast quar-
802 ter of section 10, and the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 9, all in township 25, north of range 7 east, and which said reservation has been noted upon the maps in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

12. And these defendants say; that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of those defendants, and these defendants deny that the said complainants are entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complainant demanded. And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

MITCHELL MONETTE, DAVID MONETTE, Jennie M. Arnold, and Cassie M. Karch, Complainants,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathewson, Alfred Hallowell, Defendants.

No. 364, Doc. T.
Stipulation of Facts.

It is hereby stipulated that the following named persons will testify in behalf of the complainant-, to the facts set down after the-names respectively, and it is hereby further stipulated and agreed that said statements may be received in evidence with like force and effect, as if the deposition of the respective parties to the said facts had been formerly taken.

Mitchell Monette will testify that Mary Monette died February 14, 1893. That she made the selections of the land claimed by her in the year 1892; that Mary Monette at that time made a contract with Alfred Hallowell (the father of Silas Hallowell and Baptiste Hallowell) to buy out Hallowell's right to the lands since allotted to Silas Hallowell and Baptiste Hallowell, to-wit: The E. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 14, and the W. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 13, township 25, range 6.

That Mary Monette was to pay Hallowell $50.00 for Hallowell's right to the land, and the purchase was to be completed in the next spring (1893). That the contract was not in writing, that Mary Monette paid some money on the contract at the time it was made, but the witness does not know how much money was paid, and that the parties did not come together in the spring of 1893, to complete the purchase right under that contract.

810 Mary Monette lived with her family on the N. W. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of section 14, township 25, range 6, up until the time of her death; said land was tribal land at the time and has since been allotted to Fontenelle but is not in controversy in this suit.

Cassie M. Karch — that she is a daughter of Mary Monette and that she and her mother were making their home together at the time of her mother's death. That they were living upon the land adjoining the E. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 14, and the W. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 13, twp. 25, N. and range 6 east. That she knows of Alfred Hallowell coming to the house and arranging to release the land described to her mother. That Hallowell was given his meals and some money was paid on the agreement. That Hallowell then claimed that he and Simeon Hallowell had marked and claimed more land than they were entitled to. That he wanted to get something out of this claim as he was going to take other land near the river where he could get more rent for it. That there was a horse Hallowell wanted and it was agreed that he could have either the horse or the fifty dollars in addition to what was paid when the allotment was made. It was then expected that the allotment would be made the following year.

Samuel H. Campbell will testify that during the year 1884 he was on the Omaha reservation. That he was there to see about allotments of land for his wife and children. That he is a white man and his wife is one half Omaha Indian. That at the time he and his family were living in Richardson county, Nebr., upon the lands that had been allotted to half-breeds of the Omaha and other tribes. That at a council of the tribe an Indian known as Wook Tick asked to have his sister and her family allotted.

811 That the council told the allotting agent to send for her and she wrote a letter directing this Indian's sister, Mrs. Monette, to come to the reservation at once. That the letter was given to him to deliver and he agreed to deliver it to Mrs. Monette. That when he got near home he learned that some of his family were sick. That he hurried home and gave the letter to a neighbor to deliver to Mrs. Monette, for a long time. That allotments were made to my wife and to all the children.

Doc. T, No. 364. Stipulation of Facts.

It is hereby stipulated that the following named persons will testify in behalf of the defendants, to the facts set down after the names respectively, and it is hereby further stipulated and agreed that said statements may be received in evidence with like force and effect, as if the deposition of the respective parties to the said facts had been formerly taken.

Alfred Hallowell will testify that he is the father of Silas Hallowell and William Hallowell, and that in the year 1892, — selected and plowed around 160 acres of land including the E. ½ of the E. S. ¼ of section 14, allotted to Silas Hallowell, and the W. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 13, township 25, range 6, allotted to William Hallowell.

812 Alfred Hallowell will further testify that in the year 1893 he made a lease of the land for a period of five years. The original of which lease is attached to the affidavit of John K. Rankin, filed in the Mitchell Monette case Doc. T. No. 364 to which reference is made as a part hereof.

He will further testify that he employed S. H. Campbell to stake off and break the land claimed by him for his son Silas Hallowell.

Josiah Fields will further testify that in 1898 he notified the Indian agent of his selection of the said lands for Silas Hallowell and William Hallowell, and received from W. C. Strong, clerk of the Indian agency a memorandum in writing thereof, which reads as follows:

W. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 13 for Hundunmoni. } Township 25
E. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 14 for Hasunedah. } range 6 E.

W. C. STRONG, Clerk.

(The names in said certificate are the Indian names for Silas and William Hallowell.)

Mr. S. H. Campbell, will testify that Alfred Hallowell in the year 1893 employed him (Campbell) to stake around and break up said land, and that in pursuance of said employment he, (Campbell) staked around the E. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 14, (being the land allotted to Silas Hallowell) and broke a part of the said land so allotted to Silas Hallowell. That the land staked around was 80 acres, but the amount of land broken was 40 acres.

ELLIS BLACKBIRD (Indian name is Shongaska, meaning White Horse) a witness, produced in behalf of the defendants, being first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

HIRAM CHASE, after taking the usual interpreter's oath, acted as interpreter.

Direct examination by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

814 Q. Are you a full blood Indian?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How old are you?
A. About 71 years.
Q. Were you a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians in 1884?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you remember the time when Alice C. Fletcher was at the agency as United States allotting agent?
A. I remember that, and I was there, and living there on the reservation.
Q. Was you a member of the Omaha council at that time?
A. I was.

Q. Do you know Mary Monette, and the members of the Monette family, her children?

A. I know them.

Q. Anna Cabana states that a council was held in June, 1884 at the mission on the Omaha reservation when Miss Fletcher the allotting agent was present, at which time an Indian by the name of Wood Tick stated to the council that he wanted his sister Mary Monette, to receive an allotment on land on the Omaha reservation; that Mary Monette at that time was on the Nemaha reservation; that the council consented that Mary Monette should be invited to come to the Omaha reservation and receive an allotment of lands, and requested the allotting agent, Alice C. Fletcher to write a letter to be transmitted to Mary Monette requesting her to come to the reservation for the purpose of receiving an allotment of lands. Do you know of such council meeting being held, and do you know anything about the council agreeing that Mrs. Monette should be written to, to come to the reservation, and that she should have an allotment of lands, and anything about such a letter being written by 815 the allotting agent Alice C. Fletcher?

A. I do not know anything about it. I might have been away when such a thing as that occurred, but I do not know anything about it. If I knew of such a meeting as that I would remember it. I do not know of such a meeting as that, and I do not know of any of the occurrences stated. What I know about Mary Monette, is that I know that she was an Omaha blood, but as to sending for her in the manner that was stated I do not know anything about it.

Q. Did you attend the council meetings held at that time as you knew anything about them?

A. He says that he attended regularly but there are times that he missed councils when things that occurred that he did not know anything about. On this subject he never knew anything about it. He said he thought that Sinta Haha should know more about the matter that he did.

Q. Was the subject matter or question of inviting Mrs. Monette to come to the reservation talked of at any council meeting that he attended.

A. He did not hear of any such subject. The only time that the subject of Mary Monette was broached to him was since her death, and this Wood Tick, her half brother, a full blood Omaha, had a conversation with me to use my influence in this manner, making this statement; Wood Tick made this statement to White Horse, that inasmuch as he had not urged the claim of Mary Monette to allotment on the Omaha reservation, he asked White Horse's influence to help the children of Mary Monette to get allotments; they know that the mother of the Monettes, that she was a full blood Omaha, and her name was Thah-ta-dah-we.

Q. How long was it that Wood Tick talked to you in behalf of the children of Mary Monette?

816 A. During Rankin's allotment (he did not say Rankin, but I know what he meant) he meant the last allotment, since the act of 1893 took effect, the amendatory act to this original allotment bill of 1882 is what he meant instead of the former statement. I made a mistake. I understood him to say since the last allotment. He is speaking of an Indian custom in the manner that he, Wood Tick spoke to him, telling the witness here that their younger brothers, meaning the Monettes would wait on White Horse at some future time, and bring something for him, to have a kind of a feast like, and talk over the matter, so as to enlist White Horse's influence to get the boys in on the allotment.

Q. Were the council during the time the allotments were being made under the act of 1882, and down to the present time, opposed to the mixed bloods who have these pending suits being admitted into the tribe and to the receiving of allotments of lands?

A. He says that in regard to these people that are bringing suits, even before the Miss Fletcher allotments, talks among the Indians had been made to exclude these people on account of the provision in the same treaty. He did not say what year, but I suppose it is understood what treaty he means. And for that reason it has been—they have been denied rights on the reservation.

Q. Did they make known to Miss Fletcher their objection to these persons who have these suits, and object to them receiving any allotments of lands?

A. He said if they had not objected that they would have the lands today, and he said that the objections must be the cause for them not having their lands.

817 Q. Did they make this objection known to Alice C. Fletcher, the allotting agent?

A. Yes, she knew it.

Q. Did that objection still exist when Rankin was here as allotting agent?

A. Yes sir; the objection existed.

Q. Did Rankin know of this objection?

A. He knew it. The council had a meeting with Rankin and informed him of their objections against any of these parties taking lands.

Q. By these parties, do you mean the parties who have these pending suits?

A. Yes sir; the same parties.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. Were there any persons upon the reservation not in the suits that they were willing should be allotted by Rankin, belonging to the same family?

A. There was no talk in a public way in regard to anything of that kind.

Q. You limited that question to the Monette question?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Ask him if there were any of the Barada family who were not in the suits toward whom they felt that Rankin should make allotments?

A. He said, what he understood though, was this; it was with reference to William Barada that at the time that he was up among the Sioux and returned, he understood that Barada had called the council together—Omaha council together, and as he understood it for the purpose of being allotted; that he had given kind of a 818 feast, but as to what was finally determined or done in that matter, he says he is ignorant of. And the same fall after this meeting, Mr. Barada also made a—had an arrangement made for the council to come together at some woods, and had something there for the people to feast on for the purpose of presenting his wishes about allotments, but nobody had reached there, and he alone went to the place, and Barada came home without affecting anything. They had not heard of anything like a public assurance of giving lands to Mr. Barada, for Mr. Barada to have allotments on the Omaha reservation.

Q. There is however a feeling among a number of the councilmen that Barada is entitled to an allotment?

A. He don't know of any, except that Fontenelle while councilman gave his opinion that it was his wish that Mr. Barada should have an allotment, but he was very doubtful whether a consent could be had—proper consent could be had of the tribe. He does not know, and never heard of any encouragement given by any person by saying that they would give lands to Mr. Barada yet.

Q. Is Barada related to Mary Jane Paul?

A. He does not know. He says, in those matters as to relationship of these parties, he does not know, and that there is only one person that he knows of that could tell positively as to what relations they were, and that was Thomas Dick now living among the Omahas.

Mr. WEBSTER: It is agreed that the William Barada referred to in the above questions and answers is not a complainant in any of the pending suits.

Q. Are Mary Jane Paul and Marthi-Shon one and the same person?

A. He knows of the name of Marthi Shon, but he does not know the other name.

819 Mr. WEBSTER: It is agreed between the parties that Hiram Chase will testify that Mary Jane Paul and Marthi Shon is one and the same person.

Witness excused.

By consent of the parties hereto, it is agreed that the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

820 (RICHARD) CHARLES ROBINSON (whose Indian name is Munca-wa-tha), a witness produced in behalf of the defendants, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

A. Yes I knew her.

Q. Did you hear the question that was put to White Horse about a council meeting held in June, 1884, and of the letter which Mrs. Cabana said was written to Mrs. Monette to come from the Nemaha to the Omaha reservation?

A. I was police at that time, and I do not know anything of such an occurrence. Yes, he heard what was asked White Horse, and what he knew about it, was he was police at the time and 821 does not know of such occurrence.

Q. Did Mrs. Monette at any time talk to you about her claim to an allotment, and is so state the circumstances?

A. Subsequent to, and during Beck's administration him and Wajapa came out here where Mrs. Monette was living at Mrs. Monette's solicitation, and they were there, and they had a conversation with her, and at the conversation there had she never spoke one word about the letter that was mentioned in this testimony. He said that that letter seemed to him of so great importance that it seemed to him that she should have stated it, but instead of mentioning that letter she plead with these two men to be let in on the reservation for allotment.

Q. Was the Wajapa the same Wajapa who was a member of the council during the Fletcher allotment?

A. Wajapa was not a councilman—(question withdrawn).

Q. Did you mean by your answer that Wajapa was not a councilman when Miss Fletcher was here allotting lands?

A. He says he was not. He does not remember, but at any rate what he means to say is that Wajapa was not a councilman; that the witness was a police at the time.

Q. There is only one person that is known in the tribe as Wajapa?

Mr. SLOAN: We will agree to that.

Mr. WEBSTER: It is agreed between the parties that there is but one man in the tribe known as Wajapa.

Q. Did you ever hear of this letter said to have been written to Mary Monette before the taking of this testimony today?

A. Never heard of it; never heard of it.

Q. Do you know of any council meeting at which the council ever agreed or consented that Mrs. Monette or her children might have allotments on the Omaha reservation, or should be in-822 vited to come to the Omaha reservation?

A. Never did.

Q. Had the council been opposed to Mrs. Monette and children receiving allotments on the Omaha reservation?

A. Never heard anything of it.

Q. Have the Omaha Indians as a tribe been opposed to Mary Monette and the other persons who have these pending suits being adopted into the tribe or receiving allotments of lands?

A. The people have said that they did not want to take them into the tribe, and they do not know them.

Q. Did the Indian council make known their objections to these people who have these pending suits to the allotting agent Fletcher, and to the allotting agent Rankin?

A. He says that one reason of not taking these people in was Miss Fletcher's influence and cause.

Q. Did the Indians talk to the allotting agent Fletcher about these Indians, and their objections to them being adopted into the tribe?

A. He did not hear it.

Mr. WEBSTER: It is agreed between the parties that Beck's administration was from 1893 to 1897.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. Do you know which councilman said to the agent, and got him to do it?
A. It was Ebahamba.
Q. You say Wood Tick is your friend?
A. Yes sir.
Q. But you are not a friend to his sister, is that right?
A. Yes sir.

A. Yes sir.

824 Re-direct examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

A. Yes sir.

Witness excused.
By consent of the parties hereto, the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

828 HIRAM CHASE, a witness, produced in behalf of the defendants, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Are you a member of the Omaha tribe?
A. I am.
Q. And at present a member of the council?
A. I am.
Q. Did you know Eberhambe in his life time?
A. I did.
Q. Do you know what his physical condition was from November, 1883 to July 1884?
A. I do.
Q. What was it?
A. From the fall of 1883, about November, he took sick. I visited him often, and he complained of being wrenched in driving cattle; he was driving cattle on horseback, and from that time on he was sick, and was growing worse, and was in bed towards spring, most all the time up to the time of his death. He died about the 14th day of July, 1884.

Q. Was he in a condition to attend a council meeting in June, 1884?

A. He was not.

Q. Did you hear read over to you by the stenographer taking these depositions, the testimony of Anna Cabana about a council-meeting held in June, 1884 at which the allotting agent was requested to write a letter to Mary Monette to come from the Nemaha reservation to the Omaha reservation and receive an allotment of lands?

A. I did.

Q. When did you first hear about that instance or circumstance?

A. I have never heard any—I have never heard my—I have 829 no recollection of any such thing as that until the matter was brought to my attention today. In fact I was around those councils at that time. I did not know anything of it.

Q. Were you during those years, 1883 and 1884 familiar with the affairs about the agency?

A. A great deal of them.

Q. Was you yourself interested in a general way in the allotment of lands?

A. I was the same as the rest of them.

Q. If anything of that kind occurred at the council meeting from your knowledge of Omaha Indian tribal affairs, would or would it not have been a matter which had been generally talked about among the Indian tribe?

A. I rather think it should, but still there are things that have occurred that I did not know until away afterwards in the matter of the Lewis, Neal and Pilcher case, I heard it from public repute, I was not there, how it was done by the council or what was agreed on, and often times even matters of that kind escape our attention until brought to us.

Q. What I want to get at is if this incident had occurred, was it one which from your knowledge of Indian affairs you would say would have been talked about among the head men of the tribe?

A. I think it would, yes sir.

Q. It was then a matter of considerable discussion about who should and who should not receive allotments of lands, was it not?

A. Yes sir; at those times there was quite a good deal.

Q. But this affair never came to your attention until the taking of this deposition today?

A. No sir; no recollection of anything like it. The inci-830 dent about Antoine Barada, I remember that through hearsay and common repute, which I remembered all these years; Antoine Barada having a place out there at the Provos. I did not see him; I had a curiosity to see him, but I did not see him and I went home. It was mentioned today.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. You and Miss Fletcher were not on friendly relations?
A. Never was.
Q. Was she arbitrary in her official matters?
A. I think so in some things.
Q. Partiality, and showed a great deal of favoritism?
A. I think she did.
Q. And had a disposition to control the council to aid her friends?
A. Yes sir; like most all other officials when they have a mind to, I do not make her an exception.
Q. You are aware that she exercised those influences to a considerable extent?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When she chose to favor she did so, and influenced the council to that extent?
A. I believe she did.

Re-direct examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. About that time, Mr. Chase, you were interested with Tom Sloan and others in trying to get some allotments for the mixed bloods, were you not?
A. Not just at that time, but after Mr. Sloan and Aunt Margaret Sloan, as we used to call her, were here, and I had very friendly relations with them on account of a statement made to me 831 in our Indian family that she was actually related to our ancestors on the Indian side, that she had come from the same Indian stock that I had, and my part in the matter has been this, that under those influences and relations that I had with the Sloans on account of my kinship with them, seeing that other people from the Nemaha reservation had lands, that were not here in 1865, I looked on it as a matter of being morally unjust. I did not look at the legal phase of it at that time, and I did not care, and it was through those influences that impelled me to take the stand that I did at these times, not knowing all the legal phases that have come up with reference to these matters.
Q. And it was that interest which you felt for Margaret Sloan that you above described that in a measure prompted your personal feeling toward Miss Fletcher?
A. A good deal of it; there is not only that Mr. Webster. There is my own affairs. It was over partiality with certain families here among the Omahas which I think were not as much entitled to regard from the officials of the Government as even myself. I do not state it as a matter of boast, but as a matter of fact; it was over partiality with those families to disregard entirely the families that had descended from actual Omaha Indians.

Q. That had reference to the mixed bloods and not as against the full blood Omaha Indians?

A. Yes sir; I want the thing amicably settled, and have the mixed bloods and the full bloods unite in one body, and it would be a benefit to both people, mixed bloods as well as the others. That is one view I take of it.

Q. You were looking at it from a philosophical standpoint?

832 A. Some, I do not know as it cuts any figure.

Witness excused.

By consent of the parties hereto, the signature of the witness to the above deposition is hereby waived.

833 ALFRED HALLOWELL, whose Indian name is "Nebraska," a witness produced on behalf of the defendants, being first duly sworn deposes and says as follows:

HIRAM CHASE being duly sworn acted as interpreter.

Direct examination by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Are you a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians?

A. I am.

Q. How old are you?

A. I am 44.

Q. Have you been a member of the council at any time?

A. This is the second time I have been councilman.

Q. How long are councilmen elected for, or how long do they serve?

A. Three years.

Q. Do you remember when Alice Fletcher was making allotments of lands on the reservation?

A. Yes, I remember it.

Q. Did you know Mary Monette in her life time?

A. Not until a year after; I did not know Mary Monette until after the allotment.

Q. Did you know anything about the council asking Allotting Agent Fletcher to write a letter to Mary Monette to come to the Omaha agency and receive an allotment of lands?

A. He says he has not heard of any such matter.

Q. Was the Indian tribe opposed to those mixed blood claimants in the pending suits having allotments on the Omaha reservation?

A. He says he was opposed to them having land on the reservation ever since Miss Fletcher started in on the allotments.

834 Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. Were there objections to the mixed blood family of Louis Neal getting allotments during the Fletcher allotments?

A. He did not hear of that matter.

Q. Were there any objections made to the allotments of Pilcher and his family during the Fletcher allotments?

A. There wasn't much said about the Pilcher family before he got the land. Pilcher has been back long before the allotment, before Miss Fletcher came to the reservation.

Q. Was there any objection made to the allotment of Julia Provo?

A. He says that the common talk was to refuse the mixed bloods, but for some reason Miss Provo got in, he does not know how or in what manner. He says that Mrs. Provo, he understood was Miss Provo, was to have allotment on condition that she alone and not her family should get allotments.

Q. But her family did get allotments, did they not?

A. That is what he understands. He says he has understood that. He says that all the children have—he says he knows of one of the children that has not gotten land that is Garry Myers, Mrs. Provos' son.

Q. The Omahas first objected to Frank Murphy and his family his wife and children getting allotments?

A. He said that the general talk among the Indians with reference to the mixed bloods was to even refuse the Paul family, but by some reason it was generally understood that the Paul family would be let in and the rest shut out; that it was understood that Mary Jane Paul and four of her daughters should get land, but he found afterwards that other branches of the family were taking land, and that is how he explains it.

835 Q. The Neal family had no greater right than the Monette family to allotment on the Omaha reservation, had they?

A. He thinks that he does not know about it, but whatever was done was done by the council, and possibly with the agents, the Government agents. He says he can state a comparison with the Neal case, and that is this, that often times they are told that the children, all the Indian children of white people, while they were excluded, were often times placed back on the rolls. In that way some of the people got on to get the land—got on the list to get the land. He thinks that is the way that Lewis got on.

Q. Mary Murphy had no greater right than Margaret Sloan, had she?

A. He said he thinks that it is based on a common sentiment of the Indians that they shall stop at that point and refuse them.

Q. It was oftener good will or ill-will of the Indians that obtained on the allotments for the persons without any regard to the right, was it?

A. He thinks that the Omahas went on other things, for instance like this; that they thought they would not have enough lands among themselves, and he knows of full blood Omahas not that are out of their proportion of lands. He says; another reason was that it was the laying of a precedent for all mixed bloods to come back notwithstanding the fact that they had allotments in the Nemaha country, and they had been provided for once. That was one reason.

Q. Does he claim that they insisted on that rule strictly?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You do not know then that Henry Fontenelle and Louis Saunsoci had allotments down there?

836 A. He said that here was Henry Fontenelle, and Louis had help in their tribe to get them in on the reservation under Miss Fletcher allotments, and at the time of the allotment they had friends, and everything was favorable for them.

Q. Then the allotment was made according to favoritism?

A. Yes sir, favoritism. He thinks that the council chiefs, or what they used to call chiefs then, used to do things without the free will of the Indians, and do things of their own authority in those times; but since there has been no chiefs it has been—there has been more democracy among the Omahas; the people has had their say about those things. That is, the Indians then had some say in regard to common affairs, and how they had come to do these things. The distinction is that among the chiefs, at the time that the Omahas had chiefs, they went right ahead and done things without consulting the people in general*ly*, but since the chiefs were deposed that the tribe—that the body of the people had something to do with their common interests and in seeing what should generally be done.

Q. Then while Miss Fletcher was making the allotments, she and the chiefs did a great many things that the tribe did not learn about until quite a while afterwards?

A. He says there were no chiefs at the time of Miss Fletcher's allotments.

Q. During the time that Miss Fletcher was making the allotments, she and the councilmen did things that they did not learn about until a great while later?

Q. He had not heard that Miss Fletcher had done so and so, that Miss Fletcher and the council had done so and so, in regard to any of these matters.

837 Q. You do not know then that either Louis Neal or his family or any of those folks have been allotted?

A. I do not know; he knows that they have allotments, but through the influence of friends in the tribe, just as he stated before. He did not think that Miss Fletcher done it on her own motion.

Q. And that is true as to all the Paul family?

A. He answers the same. He thinks the matters with reference to them was properly presented for consent of the people; he don't know, he thought it was properly presented.

Q. Then as a matter of fact he don't know what was done by the council in any of those cases?

A. No, not personally.

Re-direct examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Wasn't Louis Neal living on the reservation when the allotments were made by Allotting Agent Fletcher?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that not true of the Provos?

A. They had been here for a good many years before Miss Fletcher?

Q. Is it not a fact that Miss Fletcher did not allot lands to any Indian except those that were living on the reservation at the time?

A. That is the way he understands it, that she did not allot to those that were not living on the reservation; and those of whom the Indians said they did not know where, that they were doubtful about whether they were really Omahas or not—of Omaha blood.

Q. What was his other answer to that?

A. His other answer to that is that she did not allot to those that were not living on the reservation, and neither to such other 838 persons that applied who the tribe did not have any knowledge as to what Indian blood they were.

Re-cross examination.

Questions by Mr. THOMAS L. SLOAN:

Q. Was the Campbell family living on the reservation at the time Miss Fletcher was making allotments?

A. Mrs. Campbell's history in regard to the allotment is that her mother was a full blood Omaha, who had an allotment on the reservation. When she died Mrs. Campbell came for the purpose of a claim on that allotment, and through that claim she finally got allotment here—allotment under Miss Fletcher.

Q. You are not answering the question whether she was living here during the time of Miss Fletcher's allotments or not?

Mr. SLOAN: I move to strike out the last answer as not responsive.

A. No, she was not living on the reservation, but that the Campbell family had been back and forth off and on among the Omahas, and lived at times among the Omahas with her mother, and often at his father's house; they would go back and forth between here and Nemaha, and live here part of the time and down there part of the time.

Q. Were the Fuller family living on the reservation at the time of her allotment.

A. I do not know very much about that; he says that these names mentioned there, he remembers were about as Mrs. Campbell, were living part of the time on the reservation and then went back to Nemaha, and back and forth.

Q. You never saw the family of Theresa Fuller on the reservation, did you?

A. I saw them there a little beyond the time that Miss Fletcher made the allotments in 1884.

839 Q. Who did you see at that time?

A. I saw her alone. I did not pay much attention to the others.

Q. He never saw her have a house, living on the reservation she and her family?

A. Living in the house?

Q. She and her family?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Whose house?

A. On the south of Charles Baylis' place.

Q. Whose house was it.

A. He did not pay much attention; she was there at the house living there; living there at the house. She may have been visiting there, but he saw her there.

Q. You did not see her husband and the rest of her family, did you?

A. There was quite a number of the family, and he might have he saw her there, and there was some children there; he says he did not make any inquiry; he saw some children there, and he supposed they were Theresas'. She speaks Indian.

Q. The same is true of Mrs. Campbell, she visited back and forth with a part of the family until after the Fletcher allotment?

A. He says he would not say that the whole family came up, but on several occasions he knew of Mrs. Campbell coming here to live here, and knew of the fact for the reason that Mr. Campbell in those days had a race horse, kept a race horse, and he saw it, and his father was closely related to Mrs. Campbell's mother, and they visited back and forth while he was here on the reservation. These times they visited there is where he saw them. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell were visiting at his father's house is where he saw them mostly.

A. Yes sir.
Q. State what it was?
A. Miss Fletcher—Frank asked the Indians if there was—who else was out they wanted in, and they said, well, they wanted the half breeds in, and then he got up specially and called this sister. I believe it was his sister; he said she wasn't here, and he

Questions by JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Mrs. Cabana, was this a regular council meeting of the chiefs or head men of the tribe?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Who called the council meeting?

A. If I mistake not, I think Miss Fletcher called them there to talk things over, and they went in the chapel. I think it was mostly for Mrs. Provo.

Q. Was you in at this council meeting?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What was you doing there?

A. I just went in there to listen, to see what was going on. That is the first one I ever attended, I was there, and I asked her to let me in and she said I could come in.

A. Yes sir.

Q. Full blooded?

A. Yes sir.

A. Yes sir.

Q. And this council meeting that you say you attended was a council of the Omaha Indians?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And that council was held in the Indian language?

A. Partly; it was interpreted every word in English. Mr. Frank La Flesche interpreted to Miss Fletcher, because she could 845 not understand the Indian language, and so I had a chance to hear what was said.

Q. Do you know this man Wood Tick you spoke of, do you know him personally?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Did you know him at that time?

A. No sir, that was the first time I had ever seen him.

Q. Do you know where he came from?

A. He lived right in the tribe, amongst them.

Q. And he wanted his sister, Mrs. Monette?

A. To come and get her land, and her family.

Q. Do you know that Mrs. Monette was a sister of Wood Tick?

A. That is what they said; I did not personally know.

Q. When was she to come here?

A. Yes, she was to come as quick as she could, right away, as quick as she could, but she did not come, and I suppose it was left that way.

Q. Was that one of the conditions of her receiving an allotment, that she should come immediately?

A. She should come right away and take it.

Q. If she was to have an allotment she was to come immediately for it, was that the way you understood it?

A. I understood her title was good, and she should come and get it; I suppose, it did not say any time.

Q. I am trying to get at what actually happened?

A. That is what actually happened then.

Q. Now, can you remember just what was said about it by any one?

A. Yes. I heard Miss Fletcher talk about it, and he talked in Indian to them, and Frank interpreted it to her in English, and said that he wanted his sister to come up and get her land, and then he says, well, he says, she should come right away and get it.

846 Q. That is Wood Tick that said that?

A. No, this is what was interpreted.

Q. What the interpreter said?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. If I understand you, the interpreter said that Wood Tick wanted his sister to have an allotment?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And wanted her to come immediately and get it?

A. No, I do not know that he said immediately; he wanted her to have the allotment, and that he was there for to speak in her behalf; that is the way I understood it; the way it was interpreted.

Q. Now, you did not hear anyone say anything then that you understood about it except what Frank La Flesche said to Miss Fletcher

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see that letter when it was written?

A. No sir, I seen them write it, but I did not read it.

Q. You did not read it?

A. No sir.

Q. You do not know what was in the letter?

A. No sir.

Q. Miss Fletcher concluded her allotments under the act of 1882 before Mrs. Monette came, did she not?

A. Yes, sir, she did not come there until 1883.

Q. She did not come until 1883?

A. Miss Fletcher.

Q. She finished her allotments and went away when?

A. 1884, in June.

Q. And Mrs. Monette did not come to the reservation until 1890, some six years after Miss Fletcher had gone away, is that correct?

A. I do not know; I think there was someone here between that time, and before to see about it, but I do not know what time she came.

847 Q. You do not know when Mrs. Monette did come up?

A. No sir, not exactly.

Q. You do not know that?

A. No sir.

Q. The fact is she did not come until after Miss Fletcher had concluded her work and had gone away?

A. Yes sir, I think there were other allotments made afterwards, and I do not see why others could not have been too.

Q. There was no allotting agent at the reservation under the act of 1882 after Miss Fletcher went away, was there?

A. I think there was some more allotments went on after she came down. I am not certain. I think I could look it up.

Q. Do you know of any allotting agent being at the reservation after Miss Fletcher had concluded her work and went away, do you remember?

A. No sir, not until this last one.

Q. Not until Colonel Rankin came to make allotments in the year 1893?

A. Yes sir.

Q. The fact is, there was no allotting agent on the reservation to make any allotments under the act of 1882 after Miss Fletcher left?

A. No, I do not think there was any here, but I think there was some allotting done.

854 A. Not as I understood their talk, but what she told me, that she had a talk with Nebraska for a quarter section of land that he had marked.

Mr. WEBSTER: The defendants object to the foregoing answer, and to any further testimony of this witness on that point; for the reason that it is hearsay.

Q. Was there any money or anything paid to Nebraska at that time?
A. Well, there was some paid to him, but I could not say whether it was on that deal or not. They were talking over it a good deal. I cannot understand much of it myself.
Q. Was there any part of the conversation in respect to the land which you from the talk yourself understood was a conversation relating to that particular land?

A. Just by the motions that he made, and pointing of it.

855 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the said 3rd day of September, 1903, stipulation of evidence was filed in said case, which said stipulation is in words and figures following to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MITCHELL MONETTE, DAVID MONETTE, JENNIE M. Arnold, and Cassie M. Karch, Complainants, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathweson, and Alfred Hallowell, Defendants.	Docket T, No. 364. Stipulation of Evidence.

It is hereby stipulated that the following named persons will testify in behalf of the defendants, to the fact set down after their names respectively, and it is hereby further stipulated and agreed that said statements may be received in evidence with like force and effect, as if the deposition of the respective parties to the said facts had been formerly taken.

Alfred Hallowell will testify that he is a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and of the full blood; that he is the same Alfred Hallowell who has heretofore made a statement herein, and is the father of Silas Hallowell and William Hallowell. That he has been a member of the council of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and that his term as councilman expired during the spring of 1902.

He will further testify that there has been read to him the statement of Mitchell Monette to the point that in the year 1892 Mary Monette made a contract with Alfred Hallowell to buy out 856 Hallowell's right to the lands allotted to Silas Hallowell and William Hallowell for the sum of $50.00; and that the said Alfred Hallowell states that he never had any such agreement with Mary Monette. That at one time Samuel Campbell came to the witness and said that he, the said Campbell, had a horse which he would be willing to give to the said Alfred Hallowell for a release of the said land, but he, the said Alfred Hallowell, declined to accept the said horse and declined to release the said land.

The said Alfred Hallowell will further testify that Mary Monette never paid him any money or other consideration for the release of the said land; that he knew Mary Monette and saw her several times, but never had any conversation with Mary Monette on the subject whatever.

The witness will further testify that Mary Monette died in 1893, and that the witness never had any conversation with Mitchell Monette on the subject of releasing the lands.

And the witness will further testify that Mitchell Monette talks the English language, and does not talk the Indian language, and that this witness, Alfred Hallowell, talks the Indian language, but does not talk the English language, and could not therefore have any conversation with Mitchell Monette.

The witness Alfred Hallowell will further testify, that he is so informed, that Cassie M. Karch talks the English language, and does not talk the Omaha Indian language, and will further testify that he never had any conversation with Cassie M. Karch on the subject of releasing the said lands, and does not personally know Cassie M. Karch, and would not know her if he saw her.

The said Alfred Hallowell will further testify that he never saw Mary Monette but once, and that was when she was over at the house of this witness, and that at said time he did not 857 have any talk with her about selling the land, and did not make any statement to her that he and Simeon had marked and claimed more land than they were entitled to, and that he did not make any such statement to Cassie M. Karch and does not know her personally, and never saw her.

Alfred Hallowell will further testify that at the time of the giving of this testimony is the first time that he ever heard of the claim that he had agreed to sell his right to the said lands to Mary Monette.

William F. Springer will testify for the defendants that he is a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and was the interpreter for Allotting Agent Rankin during the time when Rankin was making the allotments under the act of 1893; and that he was present with Rankin during the interviews with the Indian claimants for allotments, and that the Monettes did not make any claim or statement to Rankin, the allotting agent in his presence or hearing that they had purchased the Hallowell ground; and that he never heard of this claim of the Monettes of the purchase of the Hallowell claim until the taking of this testimony.

The witness will further testify that Allotting Agent Rankin, accompanied by the said witness as interpreter, went to the home of Mitchell Monette, John Kuhn, Frank Peters, Lot Sailors, William Barada for the purpose of getting the names and ages of the children, so that if it was determined that they were entitled to allotments that they might receive allotments as other Indian children. They gave in the names and ages of the children. One or two of the families said that Thomas L. Sloan had the description of the lands that they claimed, but they did not give to the allotting agent any description of any lands to which they made claim; that they 858 saw Mitchell Monette and he did not make any claim to Agent Rankin to the land allotted to Silas Hallowell and William Hallowell described in this case and did not furnish any description of the lands claimed by the Monette family.

Alfred Hallowell being recalled for the defendants, states, in explanation of the testimony of Samuel H. Campbell, heretofore taken, that the lands staked around by Samuel H. Campbell for this witness under his employment was 80 acres, and that the amount broken was not 40 acres, but about 10 acres, and that he, Alfred Hallowell, paid Samuel Campbell $25.00 for the breaking of the said 10 acres.

Q. Was your wife on the roll at that time when you came up?
A. No, I do not think she was.
Q. How long after you removed to the Omaha reservation were you placed upon the annuity rolls?
A. I do not recollect now the year. It was when Colonel Edwards was agent.

Q. By the council, or agent, which do you know?
A. It was the council by the agent.
Q. How did they do it, just drop your name?
A. No, they wanted to put some more on the roll, and the Indians did not want to put them on, and finally they concluded that they would not put them on the roll. They had about four—three of us in the roll at one time, and Mr. Fontenelle wanted to put on his son-in-law on the roll, a La Flesche, at that council; they had a special council for them at that time, and I told Mr. Wilkinson that I did not want—I told him that I did not want to have any trouble with them, or for them to put any more on the roll because I was on the roll, and that I would withdraw my name off of the roll and stop their putting any white men on the roll.

By Mr. WEBSTER:

A. No.
Q. And the fact is, your children never got any allotments under the act of 1882, is that not so?
A. They should have been allotted.
Q. They were allotted under the act of 1893?
A. Yes sir.
Q. But never under the act of 1882?
A. No sir.

A. Yes sir.
Q. Where was he born?
A. In Richardson county.
Q. Was his father a white man or an Indian?
A. A white man.
868 Q. When did you, with your children remove to the Omaha reservation?

When I came here to live, they says, here is your mother, you and your children, and we will have the rest put on the roll. This little fellow (indicating) was then put on the roll. Q. Were you present at a council, at the council mission where the claims of your children and yourself were considered?

A. Yes sir, it was at a council that she had called us to meet the Indians; the Indians had always told her to give my children land and allot them, and in that council she asked them again, and they said, we told you what to do, and you do as you please; and we thought our children were allotted all the time until after she was gone. We did not think she would be so wicked as to leave us out.

Q. Your children had since received allotments from Colonel Rankin?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you know Wood Tick?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Was he present at that council that you were called to?

A. Yes sir.
Q. Her family and children?
A. Yes sir.

A. Yes sir.

Q. How many of his children were born on the reservation, if you know?
A. I think the two last ones were born on the reservation.
Q. How many children has he?
A. I could not tell you.
Q. You had better name them over. Josephine was the oldest one?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And Charlie next, and Minnie, and Grace then Ada, then Millie and Jennie and William?
A. Yes sir.
Q. All of those children, except the last two named were born off of the reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Did Mr. Pilcher have any trouble about having an allotment on the reservation?
A. He had some trouble, because he became a citizen and had gone away from the nation; he had some trouble to get on, but finally got on.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Mrs. Provo you are a relative of the Sloans and the Baradas?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Your father was who?

A. Antoine Barada.

Q. Was he an uncle of Thomas L. Sloan?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And what relation are you to Thomas L. Sloan?

A. Thomas L. Sloan would be—your father (pointing to Thomas L. Sloan) was father's nephew. What would you call yourself to my father.?

Mr. SLOAN: I would call him grand uncle.

A. His grand mother was my aunt.

Q. When did you go up to the Omaha reservation?

A. I went in the early days; I stated before.

Q. When?

A. The first year we lived on the Omaha reservation was in 873 1853; I have been on the roll ever since. I have been on the roll ever since I was a small child. My father used to draw his annuity up here, and he traveled up and down; we went up and got our moneys.

Q. You personally have been on the roll since 1853?

A. I have been on the roll since I was a small child you may say; I do not think I was ever took off of the roll when I got married to my first husband.

Q. How old are you now?

A. 58.

Q. You do not mean that you lived on the Omaha reservation since 1853 all the time?

A. We lived here a couple years, me and my first husband, and went back to Richardson county, and then when we married we came up here.

Q. You and Barnaby?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you and Barnaby live on the Omaha reservation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. When was that?

A. That was in 1853.

Q. In 1853?

A. I mean in 1863. I did not keep the time in my head.

Q. So you lived on the Omaha reservation with Barnaby in 1863 for how long?

A. We were here about a year and a half.

Q. To 1865, then where did you go to?

A. We went down to Richardson. We had a home down there.

Q. You were on the rolls of the Omaha tribe in 1863 or 1864 and 1865 with Barnaby your husband?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And was your husband's name on the tribal rolls at that time?

A. Yes sir.

Q. So you regarded that both Barnaby and yourself were members of the Omaha tribe in 1863, 1864 and 1865?

A. Yes sir.

874 Q. When Miss Fletcher was allotting agent she allotted lands to you, did she?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And she allotted lands to the children of your husband Barnaby?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Now, her refusal to allot land was to the children of Provo?

A. I do not know what her idea was.

Q. I am asking for the fact. I am not talking about ideas. The children to whom she did not make allotments were the children of Provo?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Of your last husband?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Who was a Sioux Indian?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Now, who was your second husband?

A. His name was Myers.

Q. Now Mrs. Provo, about the Monett matter, was you a member of the council of the Omaha Indians at the time when this council was held that you speak of at the mission in 1884?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You was a member of the council?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And that council is made up of what?

A. I meant I was a member of the tribe.

Q. So you are mistaken then, are you, when you said a moment ago that you were a member of the council of the Indians in 1884?

A. Yes sir, I am mistaken.

Q. You was not a member of the council?

A. No sir, they sent for us to come there.

Q. So if you was not a member of the council you did not have a right to participate in the proceedings of the council?

Mr. SLOAN: Objected to as calling for a conclusion of the witness.

875 A. The council got up on behalf of ourselves, for the Indians told her more than once to put our children on the roll, and she had not done it, and she called us up a third time, and that is what we were there for.

Q. Will you be kind enough to answer the question that I asked you?

A. What question did you ask?

Q. I asked you whether you had any right to participate in the proceedings of the council?

A. No, only what I was asked to answer. If they would ask me to answer anything I would have a right to answer anything at that time.

Q. So then as a matter of fact you did not take any part in the action of the council?

A. I had no right to take a part only if I was asked. I was sent there to witness whether she would put my children on or not.

Q. All that was asked of you were certain facts as to your tribal relation?

A. I had been asked that long before then.

Q. I do not care of you was asked it a thousand times; will you answer my question; was you asked those questions at that council meeting?

A. No, we were not asked that question.

Q. Then what was you asked at that council meeting?

A. We were not asked anything.

Q. Were you asked anything, did any Indian ask you anything at that council meeting?

A. No, they did not ask me anything.

Q. If they did not ask you anything you had nothing to answer to that council, had you?

A. No, sir; we were sent for is all, sent for to listen.

876 Q. Now, who was the interpreter at that time?

A. Frank La Flesche.

Q. And the allotting agent was who?

A. Miss Fletcher.

Q. Who were the members of the council at that time?

A. I remember of just several; I do not remember all the councilmen. There was Sinta Haha for one; and Eberhambe; and Duba Monie; and White Horse, is all I remember.

Q. Was Sinta Haha there?

A. Yes sir, I said Sinta Haha.

Q. Mrs. Provo, are those all that you can name?

A. That is all I remember of their names; there was more than that there; they always had twelve councilmen.

Q. Do you say Mrs. Provo that these persons that you have named were present at that council meeting?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Sinta Haha was there?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And White Horse was there?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Now, that is the meeting that you say that Wood Tick spoke of his sister, and at which he pointed southward toward the Nemaha reservation?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Now, where was this council meeting held?
A. At the old mission in the chapel.
Q. Now, do you remember any other person that was there beside members of the council, if so, name any other person that was there beside the members of the council?
A. I do not remember who was there hardly. I know I was there because I was called there I could not mention who was there. The whole nation was there; these other half breeds were not there; the Fullers and them, they were not there. Mrs. Cabana was there for one.
Q. How do you know she was there?
877 A. I saw her there.
Q. What was she doing there?
A. She came in to listen to the council.
Q. This letter that you speak about, who wrote that letter?
A. Mr. Frank La Flesche wrote that letter and Miss Fletcher signed it.
Q. How do you know that he wrote it?
A. I seen him write it.
Q. Did you read it?
A. No sir, I did not read it.
Q. Did you look at it?
A. No sir.
Q. Do you know any word that was in it?
A. No sir, only he wrote it as the man and she was telling him what to write.
Q. You did not read a word that was in the letter?
A. No sir.
Q. Is it not a fact Mrs. Provo you do not know personally that the letter you saw him write was directed to Mrs. Monett at all, do you?
A. I did not go and stand over him and see him write the letter or direct it.
Q. You do not know that it was directed to Mrs. Monett?
A. No, I do not know that; because I did not stand on the table and watch him.
Q. And you do not know what that letter that you saw Frank La Flesche writing even asked Mrs. Monett to come to the reservation, you do not know that?
A. I know when he came up and spoke and asked for his sister, that ought to be evidence.
Q. I am speaking of the letter itself?
A. I do not know anything about the letter.

Q. This letter that you speak of that you saw La Flesche 878 write was after the council meeting was it not?

A. It was during the council, just the finishing up of the council.

Q. It was after the council had spoken in answer to Wood Tick's request?

A. It was after he spoke.

Q. Did you stand there to see Miss La Flesche sign that letter that Frank wrote?

A. Yes sir; I saw her go to the table and sign it.

Q. You saw that?

A. Whether she signed her name or not I do not know that.

Q. You saw her walk over to the table?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And that was the table that was used for her general office business?

A. Yes sir.

Q. So you do not know personally that Miss Fletcher signed the letter that you speak of?

A. I suppose she did when she walked up to sign it.

Q. You do not know as a matter of fact that she did sign the letter you refer to, you did not see her sign it?

A. I saw her go up and sign the paper.

Q. Did you see her write her name?

A. I saw her stand there and write her name.

Q. On what?

A. I did not stand over to see what she was writing or nothing.

Q. You do not know what became of that paper that was signed if she signed any?

A. No sir.

Q. So you do not know what became of the paper and you do not know a word that was in it, nor who it was directed to? In other words, all you know about the letter is inferentially from some things you heard said there, is it not?

A. When you see anything with your own eyes, is not that sufficient?

879 Q. The trouble is you did not see with your own eyes a word that was in the letter, and did not read a word that was in it, and so your eyes do not help you in this particular case a particle?

A. I saw this man writing there; I do not know what he was putting there. I saw him writing; I suppose that is sufficient.

Q. Did you oppose that?

A. And in reply to her request Miss Fletcher said, she said to the council that you can do as you like; you can give it to her, or you do not need to if you do not want to.

891 Q. What did you do?

A. When Miss Fletcher told them that the council talked it over among themselves, and they agreed among themselves that they had better give her a quarter section to live on; that she was fair about it and did not want any land for her children, and their annuities, and was asking for a home, and they granted it to her.

A. I never spoke to him about the purchase of the land that I know of.
Q. You never did?
A. No sir.
Q. How did he come to ask you about the purchase of that land from Hallowell if you never talked to him about it?
A. I do not know.
Q. What reason had he to know that you ever heard of it?
A. I suppose because I was with him there at the time.
Q. That is the only reason you can give why you suppose he knew that you knew anything about it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. David Monett, when was this occurrence?
A. This transaction?
Q. When was this occurrence that you spoke of between Hallowell and your mother?
A. When?
Q. Yes sir.

A. I cannot state exactly. I think it was sometime in April.

899 Q. April when?

A. 1891.

Q. What makes you think it was in 1891?

A. That is the spring we lived on this Fontenelle land, that we lived there.

Q. What has that got to do with Alfred Hallowell?

A. I just stated that he came to our house that year and mother and him made this arrangement.

Q. Well, but what difference does that make whether you was living on the Fontenelle land or any other land?

A. We were living on the Fontenelle land at this time.

Q. Now, what did Hallowell say to your mother or first let me ask you, did you hear him make any statement to your mother?

A. Yes, to a good extent, I understand part, and more so by gestures, and just understand the Omaha language, partly understand it.

Q. That is to (s)day, you only understand it partly?

A. At that time, as well as I do today.

Q. But you have got to now depend very much upon gestures to know what the Indian is saying?

A. Oh, no, I can tell what they say to a great extent.

Q. Why did you say a moment ago that you depended on gestures?

A. I do not understand the conversation fully; I cannot follow a conversation?

Q. You cannot?

A. Except words occasionally in doing business.

Q. If you can only understand words occasionally, and cannot follow a conversation, do you mean to say that you can tell me what Alfred Hallowell said to your mother?

A. It was also interpreted to me at the time by mother.

Q. I am asking you whether you could understand what Hallowell said to your mother?

900 A. I understood the substance of it.

Q. Now, who was it that interpreted this to you; you say it was interpreted to you?

A. My mother did; she could talk the language fluently.

Q. She interpreted to you when? When did she interpreted it to you?

A. At this particular time, as the conversation went on fully.

Q. Will you state your recollection of what Hallowell said just what he said, not your conclusion about it, but what he said if you have any recollection about it it at all?

A. He said he gave her that land; that is the Indian way of saying it; he gave it to her.

Q. Is that all he said?

A. That is all I believe.

Q. What did your mother say?

A. She told me that she bought his land, all his right.
Q. She told you that she wanted the land?
A. That she bought it, and paid for it.
Q. I am asking you what she said to Hallowell at that time?
A. Oh, I do not remember exactly the conversation, but it was on this subject, that she wanted this particular claim, and he gave it to her for consideration.
Q. That is as near as you can tell about what your mother said and what Hallowell said?
A. Yes sir.
Q. That is as near as you can tell what your mother said to Hallowell?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Now, you have told all, have you, that was said between Hallowell and your mother as far as you recollect it?
A. I think so.
Q. Now, Mr. Monett, have you not been told what Alfred Hallowell has testified to in this matter?
A. No sir.
901 Q. You have not?
A. No sir.
Q. Do you know what he has testified to?
A. No sir.
Q. Do you not know that Alfred Hallowell testified that he never had any such conversation with your mother?
A. No sir.
Q. You did not know that?
A. No sir.
Q. When did you first go to the Omaha reservation?
A. 11 years ago.
Q. That would be 1891?
A. The first time——
Q. When you came there to live, I mean when you lived there? I did not mean visits?
A. 11 years ago. That would be 1891.
Q. Did your mother move there at the same time you did?
A. Yes sir.
Q. The family moved up together?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And how old was you at that time?
A. I was born in 1859, that is 11 years ago. I must have been about 32 years old.
Q. Where were you born?
A. On the half breed reservation in Richardson county, Nebraska on my mother's allotment.
Q. Now, if you get this letter, or your mother did, that you speak about, in 1884, and if you did not move to the reservation until 1891, it was seven years after the time when you say that your mother received this letter?

A. The allotment was off at the time, it would not do us any good to come. We came at this time when we did move excepting an allotment that spring; that was the reason we moved at that time.

Q. So when you moved up in 1891 you heard there was going to be an allotment of lands up there on the Omaha reservation?

902 A. Yes sir.

Q. And that is why you moved up?

A. Yes sir.

Q. So that if you had not heard that there was to be an allotment of lands on the Omaha reservation in 1891, you would not have moved up there?

A. Yes, we would. We sold our farm in Richardson county or Nemaha county.

Q. When you say you sold your farm, you sold the land which the Government had given to your mother as an allotment, as a half breed, on the Nemaha reservation, that is what you mean? That is the land you sold?

A. Our farm.

Q. Was it the land which the Government had patented to you as a mixed blood on the Nemaha reservation?

A. Land that we sold lastly?

Q. Yes sir:

A. No sir, it was not.

Q. The land on the Nemaha reservation, your allotment, didn't you sell that before you went to the Omaha reservation?

A. I did not.

Q. Did your mother sell it?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And it was after you sold that, and got the money for it that you went up to the Omaha reservation to get more land was it not?

A. We came to our home.

Q. You call it home wherever you could get more land?

A. We were justly entitled to it; we were entitled to a home on the Omaha reservation?

Q. Monett, in the year 1884 could you read English?

A. 1884?

Q. Yes sir?

A. I could read English ever since I was seven years old.

Q. Could you write?

A. I could write.

Q. Now you say you saw this letter which came to your mother in 1884?

A. Yes sir.

903 Q. Did you have it in your hands?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you read it?

A. I read it.

Q. Now, if that letter was as you think it was, why didn't you immediately come to the reservation?

A. It was too late in the day; the allotment had passed; Miss Fletcher had gone.

Q. How do you know she had gone?

A. By the statement in the letter and inquiries made later I presume; mother looked after those affairs.

Q. She was not there in 1891, was she, when you did come up?

A. No sir.

Q. And there was no allotting agent there in 1891 when you did come up, was there?

A. I never saw any.

Q. Was there any reason why you could not have gone in 1884 with the hope of getting the land as well as in 1891?

A. No sir. We were advised there was to be an allotment that spring.

Q. Who told you there was going to be an allotment in 1891?

A. It was generally supposed, by Sam Campbell, an old neighbor.

Q. That is about the time a good many of you mixed bloods started up to the Omaha reservation?

A. There wasn't anybody in our crowd but our own family.

Q. How many were there of your family that went up at that time?

A. Four.

Q. Now do you know Miss Fletcher?

A. No sir.

Q. Did you ever see her?

A. No sir.

Q. Did you ever see her handwriting?

A. That was purported to be hers that I saw; her dictation or her letter; I do not know whether it is her handwriting.

904 Q. So you do not know that she did write it—write that letter that you spoke of?

A. I was not there when she wrote it. Campbell said it was a letter from Miss Fletcher.

Q. Campbell said so. Campbell is not the man that gave the letter to you is it?

A. Campbell is the man that gave it to Mr. Lambert of Nemaha to be delivered to us.

Q. The man who gave it to you and that brought it to you was Lambert and not Campbell?

A. Yes sir, our neighbor Lambert.

Q. Why do you say that Campbell said Miss Fletcher wrote it? The fact is it was Lambert that delivered it to you and not Campbell at all?

A. Campbell did not know the contents of the letter; he said it was important.

Q. I did not ask about that.

A. What was the question then, about Lambert?

Q. It was Lambert that told you about the letter and not Campbell?
A. Lambert is the man that delivered the letter.
Q. Then the fact is you did not have any talk with Campbell about that letter at all, did you?
A. We did later.
Q. At that time you did not see Campbell, did you?
A. Not the day the letter was delivered.
Q. And you had not seen him for a long time before that, had you?
A. No, we had not seen Campbell from the time he came up here and went back, I saw him afterwards.
Q. Who was this man Lambert, a neighbor of yours?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Lambert as you understood it got the letter from Campbell?
A. Yes sir.
905 Q. He did not get it from Miss Fletcher?
A. No sir, it was handed to him at Nemaha City, as Campbell was not coming our way, and Lambert returned and he delivered it to him, and he says, If you cannot deliver it I will take it over myself.
Q. You got it second or third hand?
A. Yes, and too late.
Q. What did you do with that letter after you received it?
A. It got lost some way.
Q. I am asking you what you did with that letter after you received it?
A. We read it.
Q. After you read it what did you do with it?
A. Mother had charge of the letter. It was here and it was lost.
Q. How do you know it was lost?
A. Because we could not find it.
Q. How do you know you could not find it?
A. We hunted for it.
Q. When?
A. When we wanted to find it.
Q. When was that? It has been 20 years since then?
A. I do not know; we looked up the letter and we could not find it.
Q. You cannot tell?
A. No sir.
Q. You hav-n't the remotest idea when you hunted for it, have you?
A. No sir, I cannot give dates.
Q. You hav-n't the remotest idea when you looked for it?
A. I stated it was hunted for.
Q. Who hunted for it, can you tell me that?
A. Mother and I.
Q. Where did you hunt for it?

A. In any place, where our papers and letters were placed, supposed to be.

906 Q. Where did you have your papers?

A. We had bureau drawers, and usually in them I think.

Q. You hunted in bureau drawers?

A. Yes sir, where we supposed it might be.

Q. Are you guessing at that?

A. I hunted for it.

Q. But you cannot tell when it was?

A. No, not exactly.

Q. If you do not know exactly, can you give me an approximate idea, was it this year, or this month, or this week, or last year?

A. It is longer ago than that.

Q. Was it last year?

A. It was when we still lived in Richardson county, Nemaha county.

Q. It was before you moved up here, you think?

A. I think so.

Q. Are you sure about that?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Now, I have got you within a period of about seven or eight years; can you tell any more definite about the time when you looked for that letter?

A. No sir, I cannot.

Q. Now, how many letters did you get notifying you—or rather inviting you to come to the reservation, one or two?

A. Only one I ever saw from Miss Fletcher.

Q. I did not say anything about Miss Fletcher in my question did I?

A. That is the only one I got.

Q. Did you get one signed by Henry Fontenelle to come up written at the time extending the same invitation?

A. I do not remember.

Q. You do not remember any such letter?

A. No sir.

Q. Have you not been advised that Wood Tick, who is your uncle, is he not, and a brother to your mother?

907 A. Wood Tick is my uncle.

Q. He is a brother of your mother?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Have you not been advised that Mr. Wood Tick gave his testimony in this case, in which he testified that at that time he had a letter written by Henry Fontenelle and sent down to your mother asking you to come up to the reservation, or words to that effect?

A. I simply know that Wood Tick has been giving testimony, but the nature of it I do not know anything about.

Q. Well, now, your recollection is that you only received one letter?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And that is the only one you know anything about?
A. That is the only one I know anything about.
Q. If it happened that that was the letter that was sent by Fontenelle, why then that would have been the only letter that you saw?
A. This one I saw was from Miss Fletcher.
Q. Suppose the fact is that Miss Fletcher never wrote such a letter at all, that you did not see a letter from her, did you?
A. I think I saw a letter from her.
Q. You think you did anyhow?
A. Yes sir.
Q. All you know about this letter, Mr. Monett is your recollection that in 1884, that you saw that letter at the time when you say Lambert delivered it to your mother, and you never saw that letter afterward and you do not know where it is now?
A. No sir, I do not know where it is now.
Q. You never saw it except at that time, did you?
A. I saw it and read it at that time.
Q. And that is the only time you ever saw it?
A. I think so, to the best of my recollection.
908 Q. Can you tell when it was dated?
A. No, sir.
Q. Can you tell when you received it?
A. I cannot just recollect the date or the time of the year.
Q. What is your recollection of the time of the year when you received it?
A. It seems to me it was in the fall of the year, I never paid much attention to it. I never knew I would have so many questions asked about it or I would have looked it up.
Q. You think it was in the fall of the year, do you mean of the year 1884?
A. It was, it was at the close of the allotment, whenever that was; I do not know exactly when that was, when she got through with her work here; I think it was in the summer of 1884, was it not?
Q. I do not know; you are telling this story; your understanding of that letter, Monett, was that if you did not get up to the reservation before Miss Fletcher left that you would not get any allotment?
A. Not at that time.
Q. Where did you get that idea?
A. I supposed the work was done and she had gone away.
Q. Well, now, Monett, how did that letter begin, was it in an envelope or not?
A. Yes, I think it was.
Q. Do you know what was the address on the envelope?
A. Mrs. Mary Monett.
Q. Anything else or more?
A. I disremember—county or State or not—it was presented.
Q. How did the letter begin?

A. Oh, I do not remember the whole letter. I just remember some of the substance that I have stated in regard to the council wanting her to come up and select land for herself and family to be 909 allotted.

Q. You do not pretend to say that was the language of the letter, do you?

A. I think it was as near as I can recollect.

Q. But you said a moment ago that you only recollected a part of the letter?

A. I stated what I remembered.

Q. What was the other part of the letter?

A. I do not remember the other part I have forgotten.

Q. How much of that letter have you forgotten?

A. I do not remember how much.

Q. You cannot tell how much you forgot?

A. No sir, I do not think there was any more to it; I think that was the whole sum and substance of it.

Q. If you think that now, Mr. Monett, why did you say a while ago that you only recollect a part of it?

A. I stated what I recollect of it; there may have been more of it, of course, as I stated before, I did not expect to have to remember it, but I remember that much.

Q. Do you know whether the writing in that letter was the same hand writing as the signature?

A. I do not remember; it has been so long ago.

Q. Do you remember whether the body of that letter was in a man's hand writing or a lad*ie*'s hand writing?

A. I do not remember as to that.

Q. You cannot tell; you do not know that?

A. I paid no attention to that part of it.

Q. Would you know Henry Fontenelle's hand writing if you saw it?

A. No sir, I never saw any of it.

Redirect examination.

2. If your answer to # 9 is in the negative, what is it that now causes you to remember what took place at those council meetings and when and where were the council meetings held?

3. When and where — the council meetings held that you have t testified to in answer to interrogatories # 10 and # 11.

4. Are you positive you were present at all of the council meetings of the Omaha tribe of Indians at which discussions as to permitting Mary Monett or the Monett family to receive allotments of land upon the Omaha reservation were discussed?

924 5. Might there not have been council meetings at which you were not present when Woodtick made a request to the members of the council that Mary Monett or the Monett family be given land upon the Omaha reservation and that the council gave its consent by the holding up of their hands?

6. As interpreter for A. C. Fletcher, how many documents were you called upon to write for her?

7. Did you write any letters at all under the direction of the council at any of these meetings?

8. Who were the persons at the council meeting held at the mission and which you have testified to in answer to interrogatory # 13?

9. Who were present at this meeting at the mission from the Omaha tribe of Indians?

10. State whether or not there were other persons besides the council and the tribe present? If so, give their names.

11. Did you see Samuel Campbell there?

12. State whether or not Anna Cabana was there?

13. State whether or not Artemesia Frost and Leonard Frost were there?

14. If your answer to # 14 is in the negative why do you now say that you never wrote a letter which was dictated by the council requesting Mary Monett or the Monett family to come to the Omaha reservation and receive an allotment of land?

15. If several witnesses should testify that you did in fact write such a letter and that it was signed by A. C. Fletcher, what would your answer be?

925 16. If you- answer to interrogatory # 16 is that Woodtick did ask some one to write such a letter, you may state whether or not your information is from seeing the letter or is it from hearing of it from some one else?

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, ss:

Deposition of Frank La Flesche, taken before me, Anson S. Taylor, a notary public in and for the District of Columbia, on the 26th day of September, A. D. 1902, between 9 o'clock a. m. and 6 o'clock p. m., in said District, pursuant to the next stipulation, to be read in evidence in behalf of the defendants and in action pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska in which Mitchell Monett et al. are complainants and The United States of America et al. are defendants.

FRANK LA FLESCHE of lawful age being by me first duly examined and solemnly sworn deposes and says as follows:

Interrogatory No. 1. State your name, age, present place of residence and present business.

Answer. Frank La Flesche, about 45, Washington, D. C., clerk in the Indian office.

Interrogatory No. 2. State your tribal relation, if any, to the Omaha tribe of Indians.

926 Answer. I am a member of the Omaha tribe.

Interrogatory No. 3. Are you versed in the English language and in what schools were you educated?

Answer. I speak the English language and was educated at the Omaha mission school, Omaha reservation, Nebraska. Have since taken a course in law in the National University of Washington, D. C.

Interrogatory No. 4. Were you on the Omaha reservation in the year 1883 and 1884 and if so in what capacity did you act as interpreter or otherwise when Alice C. Fletcher was making allotments

Answer. I was on the Omaha Indian reservation in the year 1883 and 1884 and acted as clerk and interpreter to Special Agent Alice C. Fletcher in all matters that pertained to the making of the allotments of land to the Omaha Indians under the act of 1882.

Interrogatory No. 5. Did you attend the various council meetings of the tribe during the years 1883 and 1884 when the question of allotments were under consideration and act as official interpreter for A. C. Fletcher at such council meetings?

Answer. I attended the various council meetings of the tribe during the years 1883 and 1884 excepting at a time when I was 927 absent from the reservation on leave of absence for the period of one month either in August or September 1883, and the question of allotments were under consideration. I acted as official interpreter for Special Agent A. C. Fletcher at such council meetings but sometimes the Government interpreter did the interpreting at these councils.

Interrogatory No. 6. At that time did you know Anna Cabana, an Indian known by the name of Wood Tick, a white man by the name of Samuel H. Campbell?

Answer. At that time I knew Anna Cabana, Wood Tick and Samuel H. Campbell.

Interrogatory No. 7. Did you then know White Horse, Wajepa, Prairie Chicken and the other members of the council?

Answer. Yes.

Interrogatory No. 8. State whether at any of such council meetings Wood Tick made a request to the members of the council to agree that Mary Monett or the Monett family might be permitted to go from the Nemaha reservation to the Omaha reservation and receive an allotment of land upon the Omaha reservation?

Answer. I did not know of Wood Tick making any such request of the council at any of the council meetings at which I was present.

Interrogatory No. 9. Did the council at any of said meetings vote in favor of Mary Monett receiving an allotment of lands upon 928 the Omaha reservation by the holding up of their hands thereby voting in the affirmative.

Answer. Not to my knowledge.

Interrogatory No. 10. Did any such proceedings take place?

Answer. Not that I know of.

Interrogatory No. 11. Did you interpret any such proceedings by the Indian council to A. C. Fletcher allotting agent?

Answer. No sir.

Interrogatory No. 12. If any such proceedings had taken place before the Indian council would you not as the interpreter for A. C. Fletcher have known of the fact?

Answer. Yes, sir.

Interrogatory No. 13. Was you at a council meeting held at the mission, or at any other time or place for and in behalf of A. C. Fletcher by the direction of the Indian council, write a letter inviting Mary Monett to come to the Omaha reservation and receive an allotment of land, which letter being signed by A. C. Fletcher allotting agent?

Answer. I wrote no such letter at any of the council meet-929 ings at which I was present by the direction of the Indian council.

Interrogatory No. 14. Did A. C. Fletcher either write or sign any such letter?

Answer. Of that I have no knowledge.

Interrogatory No. 15. Was any such letter delivered by A. C. Fletcher or yourself to Samuel H. Campbell to be by him taken to the Nemaha reservation and delivered to Mrs. Mary Monett?

Answer. I know of no such letter having been written by A. C. Fletcher, and delivered either by A. C. Fletcher or myself to Samuel H. Campbell for that purpose.

Interrogatory No. 16. You may state what you know of Wood Tick soliciting anybody to write such a letter and whether a letter was written by anybody directed to Mary Monett and if so state all the facts relating thereto so far as you know them.

Answer. Wood Tick came to the Omaha mission where the allotments of land were being made and asked of the special agent permission to make a selection of an allotment for his sister, the wife of one of the Nemaha half-breeds. He was told that as his sister was of age it would be necessary for her to make her own selection and present her own claim to an allotment on the Omaha reservation. He thereupon said that he would go after his 930 sister. He may have asked me to write a letter for him to his sister and I may have written for him as I have written other private letters for other Indians but of this I have no distinct recollection. I think that this was in the summer of 1883. If other letters were written by other persons for Wood Tick to his sister I have no knowledge of them.

Objection is made by counsel for complainants who moves to strike out that portion of the last answer which is in the following words, "As I have written other private letters for other Indians."

Cross Interrogatories.

First cross-interrogatory. How many council meetings of the Omaha tribe of Indians were held during the years 1883 and 1884?

Answer. I have no recollection of the number.

2nd cross-interrogatory. If your answer to #9 is in the negative, what is it that now causes you to remember what took place at those council meetings and when and where were the council meetings held?

Answer. I remember because I was clerk of all the council meetings which I attended. Council meetings were held at various times and places but mostly at the agency. A council meeting was held by the Omaha council on May 23rd, 1883 with Special Agent A. C. Fletcher, at the carpenter and blacksmith shop on the Omaha reservation at which the council, in speeches made by each individual member, finally disposed of the Nemaha half-breed 931 question by rejecting the claims of all the Nemaha half-breeds excepting all those who had already been allotted in 1870. If the Monett case was considered at any subsequent councils I have no recollection of it.

Adjourned until Saturday September 27th, 1902 at 2 o'clock p. m. the hour for closing business having arrived.

September 27th, 1902, pursuant to the adjournment of September 26th the cross-examination of the witness was resumed.

3rd cross interrogatory. When and where were the council meetings held that you have testified to in answer to interrogatories #10 and #11?

Answer. I testified to no council meetings.

4th cross interrogatory. Are you positive you were present at all of the council meetings of the Omaha tribe of Indians at which discussions as to permitting Mary Monett or the Monett family to receive allotments of land upon the Omaha reservation were discussed?

Answer. There might have been council meetings held at which the Mary Monett case was discussed and at which I was not present.

5th cross interrogatory. Might there not have been council meetings at which you were not present when Wood Tick made a request to the members of the council that Mary Monett or the Monett family be given land upon the Omaha reservation and that the council gave its consent by the holding — of their hands?

932 Answer. Yes.

6th cross interrogatory. As interpreter for A. C. Fletcher, how many documents were you called upon to write for her?

Answer. I do not recollect the number.

7th cross interrogatory. Did you write any letters at all under the direction of the council at any of these meetings?

Answer. No sir.

8th cross interrogatory. Who were the persons at the council meeting held at the mission and which you have testified to in answer to interrogatory # 13?

Answer. I testified to no council meetings at the mission.

9th cross interrogatory. Who were present at this meeting at the mission from the Omaha tribe of Indians?

Answer. I testified to no council meeting at the mission.

10th cross interrogatory. State whether or not there were other persons besides the council and the tribe present? If so, give their names.

Answer. I testified to no council meetings at the mission.

933 11th cross-interrogatory. Did you see Samuel Campbell there?

Answer. I testified to no council meeting at the mission.

12th cross-interrogatory. State whether or not Anna Cabana was there?

Answer. I testified to no council meeting at the mission.

13th cross-interrogatory. State whether or not Artemesia Frost and Leonard Frost were there?

Answer. I testified to no council meeting at the mission.

14th cross-interrogatory. If your answer to #14 is in the negative why do you now say that you never wrote a letter which was dictated by the council requesting Mary Monett or the Monett family to come to the Omaha reservation and receive an allotment of land?

Answer. Because I never wrote any letters at any of these council meetings at the dictation of the council.

15th cross-interrogatory. If several witness- should testify that you did in fact write such a letter and that it was signed by A. C. Fletcher, what would your answer be?

Answer. I would say that the council dictated no such letter to me.

934 16th cross interrogatory. If your answer to interrogatory # 16 is that Wood Tick did ask some one to write such a letter, you may state whether or not your information is from seeing the letter or is it from hearing of it from some one else?

Answer. I have answered this in the direct interrogatory # 16.

17th cross interrogatory. You will please state only such information as you know from your own personal knowledge and not from statements of others.

Answer. I have done so.

NOTE.—Council for plaintiffs desires the record to show that the witness appeared with copies of the direct and cross interrogatories in his possession which he admitted had been furnished him prior to the date of examination by the attorney for the defendant-, and council for plaintiffs reserves all rights of objection on account thereof which may properly be made on the trial of the above entitled cause.

Endorsed: Filed Nov. 8 1902 Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

937 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 13th day of October, 1903, an assignment of errors was filed in said case, which said assignment is in the words and figures, following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MITCHELL MONETTE, DAVID MONETTE, Cassie M. Karch, and Jennie M. Arnold, Complainants, v.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathewson, and Alfred Hallowell, Defendants.
Docket T, No. 364. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainants in the above entitled cause and assign the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in finding and determining that Mary Monette received an allotment of land in the Nemaha reservation and was for that reason debarred from claiming a further allotment upon the Omaha reservation.

Second. The court erred in construing the treaty between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians, made July 15, 1830, as meaning and intending that the taking of an allotment of land by a member of such tribe pursuant to article 10 of said treaty thereby extinguished the claim of such Indian to a further allotment of land or further allotments or benefits in the tribal property as a member of such tribe.

Third. The court erred in construing the treaty between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians, of July 15, 1830, as meaning and intending that half-breed members of the tribe who secured allotments of land in severalty in the Nemaha reservation under the terms of said treaty are not entitled to a second allotment under the act of 1882, although at the time of its passage they were residing on the reservation in the tribal relation.

938 Fourth. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Fifth. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Sixth. The court erred in holding that the complainants were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Seventh. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Eighth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

939 Ninth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Tenth. The court erred in adjudging and determining that Mary Monette at the date of her death was not vested with the title to the land she was occupying in such sense that her death devolved or vested any title thereto in her heirs.

Eleventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Mary Monette at the time of her death was not entitled to claim and have allotted to her the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The west half of the south west quarter of section thirteen (13), and the east half of the south east quarter of section fourteen (14), all in township twenty-five (25), north, of range sixth (6) east of the 6th P. M. and that such described property did not vest in complainants the heirs at law of said Mary Monette, at the time of her death.

Twelfth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainants.

Thirteenth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainants.

Wherefore, complainants pray that said decree be reversed and that complainants be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

940 Thereupon, to-wit: on the said 13th day of October, 1903, a petition for appeal was filed in said case, which said petition is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MITCHELL MONETTE, DAVID MONETTE, Cassie M. Karch, and Jennie M. Arnold, Complainants, v. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathewson, and Alfred Hallowell, Defendants.	Docket T, No. 364. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant- in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant- alleges, grievous injury to this complainant-, and complainant- conceives themselves to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and allege divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainants further show to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

941 Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

945 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 19th day of April 1901, an amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill is in the words and figures to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

CASSIE M. KARCH, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, NICE DAY Hallowell, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	No. 365, Doc. T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of the United States circuit court for the district of Nebraska:

Your oratrix brings this her bill of complaint and says that she is of what is known as mixed blood of the Omaha tribe of Indians and is a lineal descendant of Lata-da-we, who was an Indian woman of the full blood and a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, that Lata-da-we intermarried with one Francis Bono and that they maintained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe and maintained their domicile upon the Omaha reservation and maintained tribal relations there so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by said tribe, and Lata-da-we has participated in the property and other rights of said tribe, and has been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

Further complaining your oratrix says that on the 16th day of Marcg, A. D. 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands 946 in lieu whereof it received its present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including Lata-da-we and her children All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

And your oratrix further shows that on the 6th day of March A. D. 1865, another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large, vol. 14, page 667, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

And further showing your oratrix says that on the 7th day of August A. D. 1882, an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, and to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section. That all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All 947 of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large, vol. 22, page 431, to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

Your oratrix further shows that the said tribe gave their consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that all allotments were made under the provision of said act in December 1884 and at subsequent times since.

Your oratrix further says that on the 3rd day of March A. D. 1893, an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th, 1882, that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council further allotments should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd, 1893, but increased allotments were provided from the residue lands after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882. That consent of the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899, and immediately thereafter assignments for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimants.

And your oratrix further shows that her mother, Mary Monette, was the child of Francis Bono and Lata-da-we, who was as herein above set forth an Omaha Indian woman and a member of said tribe.

That she lived among the Omaha Indians a number of 948 years prior to her death and was recognized by them as one of their own blood. That she removed to the present reservation upon receipt of a letter from the special allot-ing agent in which she was notified that the tribal council had requested that she, Mary Monette and her family, be allotted land with other members of the tribe, which notice was sent to her through a special messenger but was not received until after the word of allotting the lands had been completed. That as soon as the notice was received Mary Monette and her family removed to Omaha reservation and selected land. That your oratrix, Cassie M. Karch selected for herself as the head of a family 160 acres of land described as follows:

The S. W. ¼ of section 12, township 25 north and range 6 east of the 6th P. M. in Nebraska. Your oratrix has been refused an allotment of said land by the Interior Department.

That the said described land is a part of the lands referred to in the treaties and act of Congress herein above referred to. That no person or persons claimed the land when first selected and marked for your oratrix in accordance with the laws relating thereto. That your oratrix is in possession of said lands and has made valuable improvements thereon. That your oratrix is a member of said Omaha tribe of Indians by blood and descent, and also in accordance with the customs, rules and regulations of said tribe, and said relationship and membership has never been terminated. That under provisions of the act of Congress of March 3rd, 1893, new and additional allotments of land have been made to members of the Omaha tribe and during the pendency of this suit an assignment of land has been made to the following named person:

To Nice Day Hallowell, a minor daughter of Simeon Hal-949 lowell, the N. ½ of S. W. ¼ of section 12, township 25 north range 6 east.

That said pretended claim arises under the act of 1893 as approved by the Omaha tribe of Indians in May 1899. Your oratrix avers no rights were acquired by the said Nice Day Hallowell to the land assigned to her.

That owing to such assignment and alleged claim thereunder she is a necessary party to this suit.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioners of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land, to place in possession the allottee or lessee, and that he threatens to place into possession either the allottee hereinbefore named or her lessee to the great and irreparable damage of the complainant who is now in possession.

That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson, his claim or authority over the land in controversy and his threats that he will remove your oratrix from the land make him a necessary party to this suit.

And your oratrix furthes shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotments of land under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within 950 their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty. The said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305, which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

Your oratrix further states that the defendant The United States of America claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, the assignment to be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them."

The defendant, The United States, claims that your oratrix and her ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your oratrix admits that she and her ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claims that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation and the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor their rights to allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

951 That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th, 1871, contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule referred to; that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882 who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agents, the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation, but who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since resided away from the reservation.

Your oratrix further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignment provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and 952 assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your oratrix further states that the defendant, The United States, claims that the complainant or her ancestors have received allotments of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of said allotments under the policy of the Indian office your oratrix is not entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your oratrix admits that her ancestor received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, that the quantity so assigned was one half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by her ancestor nor given to her ancestor in consideration of the relinquishment of any other right- than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

Numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th 1830, sums of money, which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provision of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66, of the third session of the 33rd Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830 have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your oratrix has not in any manner assigned or 953 relinquished her right or claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians, neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government or by the enactment of any law authorized your oratrix or her ancestors or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant or any member of this tribe has been accepted or approved of by the United States or by any of its officers.

Wherefore your oratrix shows to your honors that she is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity and she therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises and that the said defendants, The United States of America, Nice Day Hallowell, by her next friend, Simeon Hallowell, and Charles P. Mathewson may answer your oratrix' bill but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That the patent issued to Nice Day Hallowell be ordered and decreed null and void and that the selection made by Cassie M. Karch be decreed her allotment prior and superior to the patented claim of Nice Day Hallowell, and that your oratrix and heirs be decreed entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your oratrix further prays for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants Nice Day Hallowell and Charles P. Mathewson enjoining and restraining each of them their agents and employés from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein described and that at the termination of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and for such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

954 And so may it please your honors to grant unto your oratrix the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court directed to the United States of America, Nice Day Hallowell, by her next friend, Simeon Hallowell, and Charles P. Mathewson, therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

955 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 31st day of July, 1901, an answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

CASSIE M. KARCH, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, NICE Day Hallowell, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	Doc. T, No. 365. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, Nice Day Hallowell, a minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Cassie M. Karch, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefits and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer, say :

1. These defendants deny that Mary Monette, the mother of the complainant, is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and deny that the complainant or her ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe; and deny that 956 they were recognized by the United States as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant claim- to be a descendant of Mary Monette, and that the said Mary Monette was the daughter of Latadawe, who had intermarried with one Francis Bono, and the defendant-avers that the said Francis Bono was a free born white man and a citizen of the United States, and that the said Mary Monette (née Bono) took the status of her father, and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; and that the said Mary Monette lived with her parents in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and in that vicinity, but not on the Omaha reservation up until the year —, when she intermarried with one —— Monette, who was a free born white man and a citizen of the United States.

That there was born of the said —— Monette and his wife Mary Monette the following children: Mitchell Monette, David Monette, Jennie M. Arnold nèe Monette, Cassie M. Karch née Monette and which children, in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department and its government and control of Indian affairs, took the status of their father, and thereby became and were white persons and citizens of the United States and were not and never became members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; and that the said parents together with their said children, continued to live in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and in that vicinity until after the approval of the act of Congress, August 7, 1882; and that the said Mary Monette came to the Omaha reservation about the year 1892, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

957 2. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant and her ancestors, did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded the Monette family, being only mixed Indian blood, and not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said Monette family was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified 958 to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the Monette family or their ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the Monette family, the complainant nor any of her ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. These defendants further answering say, that after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, p. 341) the said Monette family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands; and these defendants deny that the tribal council of the Omaha Indians ever requested that lands be allotted to the Monette family; and deny that the Monette family were requested by letter or otherwise, from the United States allotting agent, to come to the reservation, but to the contrary aver that the first allotment of lands under the act of 1882, was completed in the year 1884; and that the Monette family did not come to the vicinity of the Omaha reservation until the year 1892.

That the Omaha Indians on the said reservation manifested the most determined opposition to the Monette family, and other mixed blood Indians of that class, being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual 959 cases were reported to the department by the special agent, charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision, as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

4. As showing the position taken by the Interior Department in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is taken from the ruling of the department dated September 13, relating to Celestine B. Kuhn, a member of the Barada family, the members of which family are similarly situated to the complainant herein, and have like suits pending, claiming the right to allotments of lands.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half — mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe
960 under date of December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestina Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the In-961 dians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

The department also made like ruling in the case of Euphrasia Peters, another of the mixed blood claimants of like class.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by A. C. Fletcher, special U. S. Indian agent, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case.

The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to 962 lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were born upon the duly certified roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. These defendants for further answer aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth,
963 many half-breed and mixed blood Indians insisted in coming and remaining on the lands of the reservation, and as a result thereof, the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department under date of March 19, 1888, in which they protested against the absentee half and mixed blood Indians coming upon the reservation and claiming the right to an allotment of lands, and requested the Interior Department to take action to remove all intruders from the lands of the reservation.

That the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting on the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report to the Secretary of the Interior and requested authority to remove said mixed blood claimants from the said reservation, and that afterward on the 5th day of December 1888, the Secretary of the Interior directed the removal of the said mixed blood claimants from the said reservation, and which said order and judgment is as follows.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though 964 a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6th, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, 965 you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

6. These defendants for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to complainant's ancestor for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of the ancestor and his descendants including complainant were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

7. These defendants further aver that the preference right to select lands for allotment under the act of Congress, August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) is confined by section (5) of said act to persons who had received or were entitled to receive an assignment and certificate of an allotment under the 4th article of the treaty with the Omahas concluding March 6, 1865, and Monette family had not received and were not entitled to receive an assignment and certificate for lands under said treaty, and by reason whereof, the said Monette family did not have and could not acquire 966 any such interest in the lands described in the amended petition as would give them a preference over other Indians in the selection of land for allotment.

8. And these defendants for further answer say that the complainant was not and is not the head of a family, and is not entitled to claim by way of allotment, the 160 acres of land described in the amended bill of complaint, but her right to allotment, if any she had, would be limited under the law to 80 acres of land.

9. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant did not select for allotment, and did not occupy or make any improvements on any of the lands described in the amended bill of complaint; and the defendants further aver that the complainant never lived upon the Omaha reservation until after the act of 1893, and never selected, improved, or cultivated any land whatsoever, upon the Omaha Indian reservation, and is not entitled to have or select any lands upon the Omaha Indian reservation for allotment.

10. That the said United States allotting agent did find upon investigation that the said complainant did not and never had selected, occupied or improved the N. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 12, township 25, range 6, and said United States allotting agent further found that the land last above described had been selected and reserved by Simeon Hallowell for his daughter Nice Day Hallowell, and that the said Hallowell had continued to claim said land for his daughter, and occupied, cultivated and improved the same from the year 1891, down to the date of allotment; and the said United States allotting agent did make an allotment of the said N. ½ of the S. W. ¼ section 12, township 25, range 6, to the said Nice Day Hallowell and thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of said allotment above described, and which said allotment was subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and by the Secretary of the Interior, and patent 967 therefor has been issued to the said allottees under date of April 1900, and which said allotment was made and said patent issued in the regular and due course of business.

These defendants further aver that the complainant herein, did not have any prior or separate or vested right to the lands so petented to the said allottees respectively, and that the said allotments to them and the said patents to them, were made in all respects in conformity to law.

These defendants further aver that the land at present occupied by the complainant is the S. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 12, township 25, range 6, east, and which land has been reserved for the complainant pending this litigation, and is a part of the land described in the next paragraph of this answer.

11. And these defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent reserved for the Monette family pending this litigation and subject to the result thereof, the following land to-wit: The N. E. ¼ of section 13, township 25, north of range 6 east; the E. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 14, township 25, north of range — east; the S. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 12, township 25, north of range 6 east; the S. E. ¼ of section 10; the N. E. ¼ of section 15, the N. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 14, the N. W. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ of section 11, the E. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 10, the N. W. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ of section 10, and the S. W. ¼ of the N. W. ¼ of section 10, and the S. E. ¼ of the N. W. ¼ of section 10, and the S. E. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ of section 9, all in township 25, north of range 7 east, and which said reservation has been noted upon the maps in the office of the
968 Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

12. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause, or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defendants, and these defendants deny that the said complainants are entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

CASSIE M. KARCH, Complainant,
v.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Nice Day Hallowell, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.
Doc. T, No. 365. Stipulation of Facts.

It is hereby stipulated that the following named persons will testify in behalf of the complainant, to the facts set down after the names respectively, and it is hereby further stipulated and agreed that said statements may be received in evidence with like force and effect, as if the deposition of the respective parties to the said facts had been formerly taken.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

CASSIE M. KARCH, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Nice Day Hallowell, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.
} Docket "T," No. 365. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

974 Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Cassie M. Karch was not entitled to claim and have allotted to her the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit:

The southwest quarter of section twelve (12) in township twenty-five (25) north of range six (6) east of the 6th P. M.

975 Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

CASSIE M. KARCH, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, NICE DAY Hallowell, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.

Docket "T," No. 365. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives *him*self to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, 977 and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

981 No. 460, Doc. T.

Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 9th day of October, 1901, an amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said bill is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States within and for the District of Nebraska.

To the honorable the judges of said court:

Thomas Barada brings this his amended bill of complaint against the United States of America, and Megra-shone Mathews, Harry Walker, Mary Walker, Henry Walker, Me-pe Walker, Little Girl Walker, Josephine McCauley, Elizabeth Dick, Joseph E. Blenkiron, Charles H. Chapman, Edward Farley and Charles P. Mathewson, aand thereupon your orator complains and says that the matter in dispute as hereinafter set forth exceeds the sum or value of two thousand dollars, exclusive of all interest and costs and that this action and dispute arises under the Constitution and laws of the United States and under certain treaties entered into under and by virtue of the said Constitution and laws of the United States as hereinafter more specifically set forth.

Your orator further says that he is a member of what is, and has long been known as, the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians named and desi,nated as "Omahas" in the various statutes of the United States and in the treaties hereinafter set forth. That he is of what is known as mixed blood and a lineal descendant from Michael Barada and his wife, Taegleha Hacieneda, an Omaha Indian woman of the said tribe. That your orator and his ancestors back to the said Michael Barada and his wife, have continually maintained their domicile with the said tribe, and maintained tribal relations therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations existed or have been maintained by the said tribe. Your orator further says that he has participated in the property 982 and other rights of the said tribe and has been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof, as a member of the said tribe and as entitled to all of the rights and privileges thereof.

Further complaining your orator says that on the 16th day of March, 1854, a certain treaty was made and entered into by and between the said United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians wherein and by which the said tribe ceded unto the United States certain lands situated in what is now the State of Nebraska, south of what has recently been known as the Omaha reservation, and in consideration of the cession of the said lands, the United States agreed to pay, and in fact did pay, unto the said tribe certain annuities for a certain period of years more fully set forth in said treaty, and agreed to perform in addition thereto, certain covenants more fully set forth in said treaty.

And your orator further says that among other things it was provided in said treaty that the President of the United States might from time to time, under his discretion cause the whole of the lands of the said Omaha tribe, not by the said treaty ceded, or any part thereof that he might think proper, to be surveyed into lots and to assign unto such Indians of said tribe as might be willing to avail himself or themselves of the said privilege and who might — thereon as a permanent home, if a single person, over twenty-one years of age, one eighth of a section; to each family of two, one fourth of a section; to each family of three and not exceeding ten, one section; to each family over ten in number, one fourth of a section for each additional five members, and that the said President might at any time at his discretion, if said family or person desired to make 983 such location their permanent home, issue to said person, persons or family, a patent to said land under certain conditions in said treaty set forth. All of which things more fully appear in said treaty as published under and by virtue of the authority of the United States in the Statutes at Large, volume 10 on page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

And further your orator says that on the 6th day of March, 1865, the United States made and entered into a certain treaty with the said tribe wherein and by which the latter did cede unto the United States a certain other tract of land north of what has been known as the Omaha reservation for a consideration in such treaty named. That said treaty provided among other things that the said tribe being desircus of promoting settled habits of industry and enterprise among themselves and of abolishing the tenure by which they then held their lands by assigning limited quantities thereof to the several members of the tribe, including their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with them, to be cultivated and used for their own individual use and benefit, it was then provided agreed and stipulated that the remaining portion of their then reservation should be set apart for such purposes and that out of the same there should be assigned to each head of a family not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres of land; and to each male member eighteen years of age and upward, without family, not exceeding forty acres of land; and including in every case as far as practicable a reasonable proportion of timber. That the whole of said land, assigned or unassigned, should constitute and be known as the Omaha reservation, that said division and assignment of land in severalty should be made under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior and when approved by him should be final and conclusive, that certificates should be issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for the tract so as-984 signed, specifying the names of the individuals to whom they have been assigned respectively, and that they were for the exclusive use and benefit of themselves, their heirs and descendents, and that said tract should not be leased or otherwise disposed of except to the United States or other members of the tribe under such rules and regulations as might be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, and that they should be exempt from taxes, levy, sale or forfeiture until otherwise provided by Congress which said last mentioned treaty was published by authority of the United States in volume 14 of the Statutes at Large at page 667, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer.

And your orator says that by an act of Congress approved on the 7th day of August, 1882, entitled "An act to provide for a sale of a part of the reservation of Omaha tribe of Indians in the State of Nebraska and for other purposes," it was among other things provided that with the consent of the tribe expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should be authorized to cause to be surveyed, and if necessary sold, all that portion of the Omaha reservation lying west of a certain right of way thereupon granted by the said tribe to the Sioux City and Nebraska Railway Company; that said lands should be appraised in tracts of forty acres each and that thereupon the Secretary of the Interior should issue proclamation to the effect that unallotted land should be open to settlement, and that within one year after the date of said proclamation each bona fide settler upon said lands having made valuable improvements thereon should be entitled to purchase, according to said survey, at the appraised value of said lands, the said lands so occupied and improved by him. Said sale was to be for cash or payable 985 in three equal payments in one, two or three years from date of entry with interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum. That the proceeds of said sale after paying the expenses incident to carrying out the provisions of said act, should be placed to the credit of the said tribe in the Treasury of the United States, and should bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum which income should be expended for the benefit of the said Indians under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior.

And the said act further provides that the said Secretary of the Interior should be thereby authorized, either through the agent of the said tribe or such other person as he might designate, to allot the lands lying east of the said right of way granted to said railroad, in severalty to the Indians of said tribe; to each head of a family one quarter of a section; to each orphan child under eighteen years of age, one eighth of a section; and to each other person under eighteen years of age, one sixteenth of a section; that said allotment should be deemed and held in lieu of the allotment provided for in said treaty of March 6th, 1865, provided that any Indian to whom a tract of land had been assigned and certificate issued and who was entitled to the same under the provisions of the said treaty, if he had made valuable improvements thereon, and any Indian being entitled to said assignment and certificates under said treaty, has settled and made valuable improvements on the tract assigned to any Indian who never improved or occupied said land should have the preference right to select a tract upon which his improvements were situated for the allotment provided for by said act, and that said allotment should be selected by the said Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children, and the agent 986 selecting for each minor child. That upon the approval of the allotment as provided for by the Secretary of the Interior, he should cause patents to issue therefor in the name of the allottees, which patents should be of legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land thus allotted for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the Indian to whom such allotments should have been made, and in case of his decease, for the sole use and benefit of his heirs according to the laws of the State of Nebraska, and that at the expiration of said period the United States will convey the same by patent to the said Indian or his heirs in fee discharge of said trust and free from all discharge or encumbrance, and that said lands should descend and be subject to partition in accordance with the laws of the State of Nebraska, after patents therefor should have been executed and delivered, and that upon the completion of said allotment and the patenting of the same to the said allottees, each and every member of said tribe should have the benefits of and be subject to the laws, both civil and criminal, of the State of Nebraska.

The said act further provides that the residue of the said lands lying east of the said right of way, after the making of the said allotments should be patented to the said tribe, which patents should be of the legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land thus patented for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the said tribe, and that at the expiration of the said period the United States will convey the same by patent to the said tribe in fee discharge of said trust, and free from all charge or encumbrance; provided that from the land thus patented to the tribe in common, allotments should be made 987 to each Omaha Indian child who might be born prior to the expiration of the time during which said lands should be held in trust and upon the same conditions as theretofore provided, which said last mentioned act was published by authority of the United States in volume 22 of the Statutes at Large at page 241, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer.

Your orator further shows that he is the son of Antoine Barada, who was in turn the son of Michael Barada and Taggleha Hacienda, who was as hereinbefore stated, an Omaha Indian woman and a fully admitted and recognized member of the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska, as have been her descendants above named; that ever since 1880 and prior to that time your orator resided with the said Omaha Indian tribe on the Omaha reservation and that prior to 1880, and has ever since that time maintained his residence and domicile with the said tribe on the said Omaha reservation; that he has participated in the tribal property and has received an annuity of the said Omaha Indian tribe as a member thereof through the agent in charge of the affairs of the said tribe, a duly commissioned officer and agent of the United States; that the children of your orator have been educated at the agency school maintained for the exclusive use and benefit of the youth of the Omaha tribe of Indians, it being admitted, recognized and decided by the tribal authorities and officers of the United States that the said children of your orator were entitled to the use and benefit of said school by reason of their Indian blood and relationship to the said Omaha tribe of Indians, acquired solely through their father, your orator; that by reason of such Indian blood and relationship to the said Omaha Indian tribe the children of your orator are still educated at the expense of the Government of the United States as Omaha Indian children by and through the endorsement of the officials of the United 988 States; that in the year of 1894 petitions were prepared by members of the said Omaha Indian tribe and signed by a majority of the members of said tribe and by members of the council of the said tribe, said petitions being directed to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of the United States and asking that your orator be granted an allotment of land as an Omaha Indian and that he be allowed to participate in all of the benefits of the said tribe and be recognized as a member of the said Omaha Indian tribe, which in fact he was and still is. That in 1862 your orator was present on the said Omaha Indian reservation and together with his parents received an annuity of the distributive moneys of the said tribe, as an Omaha Indian.

Your orator therefore shows unto your honors that in the participation of the benefits above referred to and in the admissions and findings of the tribal authorities and the officers and agents of the United States he was duly recognized by the said authorities, officers and agents as an Omaha Indian.

And your orator further says that the officers of the United States have solicited him to send his children with them to eastern schools established and conducted solely for the use and benefit of Indians and that said officers, being empowered by the proper authority of the United States, have offered and proposed to take the children of your orator to schools provided for Indian children and there to educate them at the expense of the United States all because and by reason of the fact that your orator and his children are recognized Omaha Indians and entitled to the rights of such Omaha Indians by reason of their blood and relationship to the said Omaha Indian tribe; and that the United States has admitted and recognized the relationship of your orator to the said tribe in other and 989 numerous ways.

And your orator further says that he took possession of a tract of land on the Omaha reservation hereinbelow described, claiming the same by reason of his right to an allotment on the said reservation; that your orator broke the said land from wild, raw and untilled prairie and has placed thereon valuable improvements and has built and maintained thereon for his family a home, and has solely through his own efforts and labor farmed and cultivated and occupied the said premises without objection on the part of the said tribe of Indians or of the officials of the United States or of anyone, and he is now together with his family of which he is the head, as such member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, under and by virtue of the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress hereinbefore described, occupying and has since 1889 occupied the following described lands within and a part of the said reservation situated in the county of Thurston and State of Nebraska, and within the jurisdiction of this court, to-wit: The northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section twenty-two of township twenty-four north, of range eight east of the 6th P. M. and the west one half of the north-east quarter, and the south-east quarter of the north-west quarter, both of section four of township twenty-four north of range eight east of the 6th P. M., and the south-west quarter of section sixteen, and the northwest quarter of section twenty-one, and the north one-half of the south-west quarter of section twenty-one, all of township twenty-five north in range seven east of the 6th P. M. in Thurston county and the State of Nebraska.

That the said described land as above set forth is a part of the land referred to in the treaties hereinbefore set forth and 990 has been surveyed in accordance with the treaties and acts of Congress.

And your orator further shows unto your honors that no other person besides himself claims the right to the land so selected by your orator; that no selection of such lands has been made by any other person than your orator, except as hereinafter set forth; and that no certificate of such selection has been issued to any — for such lands, nor has any allotment thereof been made by the defendant, The United States of America, to any person whatsoever, nor has any patent issued accordingly to said lands except as hereinafter set forth; and that the defendant, The United States of America, has not opposed and does not oppose the claim of your orator to said lands by reason of such lands having been selected by others.

And your orator further shows that notwithstanding the facts as hereinbefore set forth and notwithstanding the fact that he is within and under the provisions of the laws referred to herein and entitled to an allotment of one hundred and sixty acres of such land for himself and that each of his children are entitled to an allotment of said land, the defendant, The United States of America, by and through its officers and agents refuses and neglects to make unto your orator the allotment of land to which he and his children or either of them are entitled, and that notwithstanding the rights of your orator to such an allotment, he is now and has been unlawfully denied the allotment or parcel of land to which he is and claims to be lawfully entitled by virtue of said treaties and acts of Congress and in that behalf your orator shows that the said defendant, The United States of America, notwithstanding the selection of the above described land by your orator, refuses through the Department of the Interior to approve such selection of land so made 991 by your orator, although he has notified the said defendant,

The United States of America through its proper officers and agents that he has made such selection as was his right under and by virtue of said treaties and acts of Congress, and the said defendant, The United States of America, notwithstanding such selection and notification, refuses and has refused to cause the patent to issue for such allotment and selection in the name of your orator.

And your orator further shows that in accordance with the laws of the United States, the defendant, The United States of America, has detailed and appointed to the said Omaha tribe of Indians as agent of the United States of America, over what is known as the Omaha reservation, as hereinbefore described, Charles P. Mathewson, who is now in charge of the said land of the Omaha reservation including these lands in controversy now claimed by your orator, and that the said Charles P. Mathewson is now the person designated by the laws of the United States to superintend and supervise and make allotments of land to those members or former members of the Omaha Indian tribe entitled to such allotments under the foregoing treaties and statutes. And now the said Charles P. Mathewson and the Secretary of the Interior of the United States, as representing the defendant, The United States of America, refuse and neglect to make unto your orator the allotment of land to which he is entitled, and that notwithstanding his rights in the premises he is now and has been, unlawfully denied the allotment of the parcel of land to which he is entitled, and which he now claims, and that the defendant, The United States of America, refuses to make to him such allotment and refuses to issue to him a certificate and patent therefor to which he is entitled under the laws and treaties of The United States, notwithstanding the fact that under the said laws and treaties and 992 the practice hereto prevailing in the allotment of the said lands as adopted and pursued by the defendant, it is the duty of the agent assigned to the said tribe to issue to each member thereof, whether of mixed or full blood a certificate showing the location of the land selected by the said Indian and that thereupon it is and becomes the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to issue to such member a patent for the land so selected under the laws as hereinbefore set forth, and notwithstanding the fact that your orator has in all respects complied with the requirements, rules and regulations adopted and prescribed by the defendant, The United States of America, relating to the selection and allotment of the said lands.

And your orator further shows unto your honors that in accordance with an act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, as hereinbefore set forth, the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians was given in open council in May, 1889, and thereupon assignments for allotments were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of the United States; that the instructions to said special agent directed that in making assignments, he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the land claimed and the subject of the litigation in court. That said special agent did not follow his instructions, but assigned a portion of such land without investigation as to prior claims or notice to claimants. That your orator gave to the defendant, The United States of America, and also to said special agent due and proper notice of his claim and a discription of the land selected by him which is hereinbefor-more fully set forth, and your orator further gave said special agent and the defendant, The United States of America, notice that 993 his claim to an allotment of the lands selected by him was the subject of litigation in the proper court at that time, which was prior to the making of any assignment by said special agent.

That said special agent contrary to his said instructions and to your orator's notice, assigned of the land claimed by your orator the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section four in township twenty-four, north, of range eight east, of the 6th P. M. to Mega-shone Mathews; and the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section sixteen in township twenty-five north, of range seven east of the 6th, P. M. to Harry W. Walker; and the west one half of the southwest quarter of section sixteen of township twenty-five north, of range seven east of the 6th P. M. to Mary Walker; and the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section sixteen in township twenty-five north of range seven east of the 6th P. M. to Henry Walker; and the northeast quarter and the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section twenty-one of township twenty-five in range seven east of the 6th P. M. to Me-pe Walker; and the south one-half of the northwest quarter of section twenty-one of township twenty-five north of range seven east of the 6th P. M. to Little Girl Walker; and the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section twenty-one of township twenty-five north of range seven east of the 6th P. M. to Josephine McCauley and the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section twenty-one of township twenty-five north of range seven east of the 6th P. M. to Elizabeth Dick, all of whom are Omaha Indians, which assignments were approved by the Secretary of the Interior of the United States and certificates accordingly issued to the said Omaha Indians who were at all times herein mentioned and now are citizens of the United States, and whose claims to the above described premises and 994 rights thereto were at all times junior and inferior to the claim of your orator to the said described lands. That after said assignments of land had been made to said Omaha Indians out of the premises claimed and held by your orator, leases were made on portions of said land by and through the authority of the United States and by Charles P. Mathewson as agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, as follows: on the land assigned to Harry Walker, Mary Walker, Henry Walker, Me-pe Walker, as above set forth, from said Omaha Indians to Joseph E. Blenkiron and on the land assigned to

Little Girl Walker and Elizabeth Dick, as above set forth from said Omaha Indians to Charles H. Chapman and on the land assigned to Josephine McCauley as above set forth from said Josephine McCauley to Edward Farley, and that in accordance with the terms of said leases the rent therefrom is payable in semi-annual payments to Charles P. Mathewson, agent, for the use and benefit of the said pretended allottees, and that in accordance with the rules and customs of the office of Indian agent, said rent money is immediately paid to said defendants Harry Walker, Mary Walker, Henry Walker, Me-pe Walker, Little Girl Walker, Josephine McCauley and Elizabeth Dick by the said Charles P. Mathewson, agent.

That said defendants Harry Walker, Mary Walker, Henry Walker, Me-pe Walker, Little Girl Walker, Josephine McCauley, and Elizabeth Dick are entirely insolvent and irresponsible and if said rent moneys or any part thereof are paid to them or either of them the same will be wholly lost to your orator.

And your orator further shows unto your honors that under and by virtue of an act of Congress, approved on the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in 995 part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to an allotment of land under any act of Congress or law of the United States, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment or act or grant made by Congress or who claim to be unlawfully denied or excluded from any allotment or parcel of land to which they claim to be lawfully entitled by virtue of any act of Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend any action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States; and that said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the rights of any person of whole or of mixed Indiad blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty, and the said act further provides that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any such claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior of the United States, as if such allotment had been made, allowed and approved by him, and that the United States of America is, and may be made a proper party to such suit and proceeding, which said act of Congress was published by the authority of the United States in the 28th volume of the Statutes at Large on page 305, said act being amended by reënactment duly approved by the President of the United States on the 6th day of February, 1901, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer.

Your orator therefore shows unto your honors that he is without adequate remedy at law and without remedy in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity, and he therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises, and that said de-996 fendant, The United States of America may appear and answer this bill of your orator, but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived.

That it be ordered and decreed that your orator is entitled to have allotted to him the land described in this bill of complaint of your orator, and that the defendant, The United States of America be ordered and required to make and issue to your orator the certificate and patent to the above described lands as he shall be entitled to, as contemplated and provided by the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress, and to recognize in all respects the rights of your orator to and upon the lands now occupied by him and selected by him, for himself and as head of his family, and his rights thereto and the rights of his children under and by virtue of the laws of the United States and treaties, be forever established and that your orator and his children may be fully recognized as members of said tribe of Omaha Indians and that all of the benefits and privileges thereunto belonging may be granted to him and his family, and that selection and pretended assignments of land for allotment to Mega-shone Mathews, Harry Walker, Mary Walker, Henry Walker, Mepe Walker, Little Girl Walker, Josephine McCauley and Elizabeth Dick out of the premises selected and claimed by your orator be ordered annulled, vacated and canceled and that the said tenants of the same, Joseph E. Blenkiron, Charles H. Chapman, Edward Farley be immediately enjoined and restrained from paying the rents of the said lands, selected by your orator and leased by said tenants, to Charles P. Mathewson or to any of the above named Omaha Indians or to any person or persons until the settlement and determination of this controversy and until the final adjudication of the rights of your orator to an allotment of the said lands, and that your orator may 997 have such other and further relief as may be just and equitable, and so may it please your honors to grant unto your orator the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court to be directed to the defendant herein and to the United States of America, therein and thereby commanding it on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand and abide and to perform such orders and decreed therein as — this court shall seem meet.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

THOMAS BARADA, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA and Megra-shone Mathews, Harry Walker, Mary Walker, Henry Walker, Me-pe Walker, Little Girl Walker, Josephine McCauley, Elizabeth Dick, Joseph E. Blenkiron, Charles H. Chapman, Edward Farley, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.

Doc. T. No. 460. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, Megra-shone Mathews, Harry Walker, Mary Walker, Henry Walker, Me-pe Walker, Little Girl Walker, Josephine McCauley, Elizabeth Dick, Joseph E. Blenkiron, Charles H. Chapman, Edward Farley, and Charles P. Mathewson, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Thomas Barada, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefits and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer, say:

1. These defendants deny that the complainant is an Omaha 999 Indian and den*ies* that complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary, this defendant- avers that said complainant is a white man, and a citizen of the United States, and that his ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that his said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and these defendants deny that complainant or his ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and deny that complainant or his ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and deny that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

This defendant- for further answer avers that the complainant claims to trace his lineage back to Michael Barada, who intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but this defendant- is not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leaves the complainant to his proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife in the year —, a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a free born white person, and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with his parents until the year 1883, and 1000 was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha tribe.

That the said Antoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vien, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife Josephine Vien continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years, until some time after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a son named Thomas Barada, (the complainant herein) and the said Thomas Barada was of but one fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of his father and became and was a white man and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and lived in the city of St. Louis, and was never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Thomas Barada, so being a white man and a citizen of the United States taking the status of his father continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when he came to the Omaha reservation with his parents, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under the said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

1001 2. This defendant- for further answer avers that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded Thomas Barada, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and he not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and this defendant further avers that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to 1002 the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or his ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of his ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. This defendant- further answering says: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880 December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Ma-garet Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whipperm, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedants or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names" and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant.

4. This defendant- further answering says: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Peters family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Peters family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher the United States special allotting agent, for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding 1004 the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant is descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selections of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date of December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celeste Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

1005 If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not — all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, the mother of complainant and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case. The case was stated as follows:

1006 "Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4 of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the 1007 new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these oursiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their — of 1865, whose names were born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, of their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. This defendant further avers that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit: William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors, and others including this plaintiff, persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

1008 SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Out land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We know that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8, and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, 1009 take the man away, we cannot feel sure that out own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our un-lotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claim, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

1010 DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The — article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half — mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotment of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882,
1011 none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. This defendant- further avers that the said Ma-garet Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and complainant, failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed

Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation. and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Com-
1012 missioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors, and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would nor do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent, to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Walter Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as he was of that class.

This defendant- further avers that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instructions to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are no- entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. This defendant- further avers that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the pur-1013 pose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which suits, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein, from the Omaha reservation that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainant- in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant makes claim to the N. E. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ of section 22 and the N. E. ¼ of section 4, township 24, range 8 E. and which said lands have been reserved for the complainant pending the result of these litigations, and being lands upon which the complainant resides.

That the complainant also makes claim to the S. W. ¼ of section 16 and the N. W. ¼ of section 21 and the N. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 21 all in township 25, range 7, but which said lands in township 25, range 7 have been allotted and patented to other persons, defendants herein, whom the allotting agent and the Interior Department found had a prior and a better right to the selection of said lands. That the said complainant never occupied or im-1014 proved any of the said lands in said township 25, range 7 E, allotted and patented to the defendants herein.

That the said complainant being the son of Josephine Vien, a full blood white woman, and her husband Antoined Barada, a descendant of Michael Barada, a full blood white man, was born on the Nemaha reservation in 1857 and was living with his said parents at the time when his father received an allotment upon the Nemaha reservation, and that the said complainant afterward married a full blood white woman in Richardson county, Nebraska, in the year 1885 and did not come to the Omaha reservation until the year 1888.

10. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause, or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant, and this defendant- deni*es* that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

1017 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 13th day of October, 1903 an assignment of errors was filed in said case, which said assignment is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

THOMAS BARADA, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Joseph E. Blenkiron, Edward Farley, Charles P. Mathewson, Harry Walker, Mepee Walker, Henry Walker, Little Girl Walker, Josephine McCauley, Megrashone Mathews, and Elizabeth Dick, Defendants.
} Docket T, No. 460. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such times, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the 1018 date of the passage of said act.

Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Thomas Barada and children were not entitled to claim and have allotted to them the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The north east quarter of the north east quarter of section twenty-two (22); the west half of the north east quarter of section 4, and the south east quarter of the north west quarter of section four (4), all in township twenty-four (24), north, of range eight (8), east; also the south west quarter of section sixteen (16); the north 1019 west quarter of section twenty-one (21), and the north half of the south west quarter of section twenty-one (21), all in township twenty-five (25) north of range seven (7) east.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendant and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore, complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

THOMAS BARADA, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Joseph E. Blenkiron, Edward Farley, Charles P. Mathe-son, Harry Walker, Mepee Walker, Henry Walker, Little Girl Walker, Josephine McCauley, Megrashone Mathews, and Elizabeth Dick, Defendants.	Docket T, No. 460. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives himself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

1021 Wherefore complainants prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

1025 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 9th day of October, 1901, amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill of complaint is in words and figures following, to-wit:

No. 461, Doc. T.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

To the honorable the judges of said court:

Mary Sailor brings this, her bill of complaint against the United States of America and Wallace Miller, Mary A. McCauley, Tah-egra-ha Canby, Michael Cooney, Joseph E. Blenkiron, Charles C. Maryott and Charles P. Mathewson, and thereupon your oratrix complains and says that the matter in dispute as hereinafter set forth exceeds the sum or value of two thousand dollars, exclusive of all interest and costs and that said action and dispute arises under the Constitution and laws of the United States and under certain treaties entered into under and by authority of the said Constitution and laws of the United States and are hereinafter more specifically set forth.

Your oratrix further says that she is a member of what is and has long been known as the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians named and designated as the "Omahas" in the various statutes of the United States and in the treaties hereinafter set forth. That she is of what is known as mixed blood and a lineal descendant from Michael Barada and his wife, Taegleha Hacieneda, an Omaha Indian woman and a member of said tribe. That your oratrix and her ancestors back to the said Michael Barada and his said wife, have continually maintained their domicile with the said tribe and have maintained the tribal relations therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have existed or have been maintained by the said tribe of Indians.

Your oratrix further says that she has participated in the 1026 property and other rights of the said tribe and has been recognized by the said tribe and its members as a member thereof and as entitled to all of its rights and privileges.

Further complaining your oratrix says that on the 16th day of March, 1854, a certain treaty was made and entered into by and between the United States and the said Omaha tribe of Indians wherein and by which the said tribe ceded unto the United States certain lands in what is now the State of Nebraska, south of what has recently been known as the Omaha reservation and in consideration of the cession of said lands, the United States agreed to pay, and in fact did pay unto the said tribe certain annuities for a certain period of years more fully set out in said treaty, and agreed to perform in addition thereto, certain covenants more fully set forth in said treaty.

And your oratrix further says that among other things it was provided in the said treaty that the President of the United States might from time to time, under his discretion, cause the whole of the lands of the said Omaha tribe, not by said treaty ceded, or any part thereof that he might think proper, to be surveyed into lots and he might assign the same to such Indian or Indians of said tribe as might be willing to avail himself or themselves of the privilege and who might locate thereon as a permanent home, if a single person over twenty one years of age, one eighth of a section; and to each family of two, one fourth of a section; and to each family of three and not exceeding five, one-half of a section; and to each family of six and not exceeding ten, one section; and to each family of over ten in number, one-fourth of a section for each additional five members, and that the said President might at any time, at his discretion, if said person or family desired to make such location their permanent home, issue to said person, persons or family, 1027 a patent of said land under certain conditions in the said treaty set forth. All of which matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published under and by authority of the United States in the Statutes at Large, volume 10, on page 1043, to which for greater certainty your oratrix herein begs leave to refer.

And your oratrix further says that on the 6th day of March, 1865, the said United States made and entered into a certain treaty with the said tribe wherein and by which the latter did cede unto the United States a certain other tract of land north of what has since been known as the Omaha reservation for a consideration in such treaty named. Said treaty provided among other things that the said tribe being desirous of promoting settled habits of industry and enterprise among themselves and of abolishing the tenure by which they then held their lands by assigning limited quantities thereof to the several members of the tribe, including their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with them, to be cultivated and used for their own individual use and benefit, it was therefore provided, agreed and stipulated that the remaining portion of their reservation should be set apart for such purposes and out of the same there should be assigned to each head of a family not to exceed one hundred sixty acres and to each male member eighteen years of age and upwards, without family, not to exceed forty acres of land, and including in every case as far as practicable a reasonable portion of timber. That the whole of said land assigned or unassigned should constitute and be known as the Omaha reservation, that said division and assignment of land in severalty should be made under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior and when approved by him should be final and conclusive, that certificates should be issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for the tracts so assigned, specifying the name- of the individuals to 1028 whom they had been assigned respectively, and that the said lands were for the exclusive use and benefit of themselves, their heirs and descendants and that said tracts should not be leased or otherwise disposed of, except to the United States or other members of the tribe under such rules and regulations as might be proscribed by the Secretary of the Interior, and that they should be exempt from taxation, levy or forfeiture until otherwise provided for by Congress, which said last mentioned treaty was published by authority of the United States in volume 14 of the Statutes at Large at page 667, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs leave to refer.

Your oratrix further says that by act of Congress approved on the 7th day of August, 1882, entitled "An act to provide for the sale of a part of the reservation of the Omaha tribe of Indians in the State of Nebraska and for other purposes," it was among other things provided that with the consent of said tribe expressed in open council, the Secretary of the Interior should be authorized to cause to be surveyed, and if necessary sold, all of that portion of the Omaha reservation lying west of a certain right of way thereupon granted by the said tribe through the said reservation to the Sioux City & Nebraska Railway Company; that said lands should be appraised in tracts of forty acres each and then the Secretary of the Interior should issue proclamation to the effect that unallotted lands should be opened to settlement, and that within one year after the date of said proclamation each bona fide settler upon said lands having made valuable improvements thereon should be entitled to purchase, according to said survey, at the appraised value of said land, the said land so occupied and improved by him. Said sale was to be for cash or payable in three equal payments in one, two or three years from the date of entry with interest at the rate of 1029 five per cent. per annum.

That the proceeds of said sale, after paying the expenses incident to carrying out the provisions of said act, should be placed to the credit of said tribe in the Treasury of the United States and should bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum, which interest should be expended for the benefit of said Indians under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior. And the said act further provides that the said Secretary should be thereby authorized either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate to allot the lands lying east of the said right of way granted to said rail road, in severalty to the Indians of said tribe; to each head of a family, one quarter of a section; to each orphan child under eighteen years of age, one eighth of a section; to each other person under eighteen years of age, one sixteenth of a section; and that such allotment should be deemed and held in lieu of the allotments provided for in said treaty of March 6th, 1865, provided that any Indian to whom a tract of land had been assigned and a certificate issued and who was entitled to the same under the provisions of said treaty if he had made valuable improvements thereon, and any Indian, who being entitled to said assignment and certificate under said treaty, had settled and made valuable improvement upon the tract assigned to any Indian who had never improved or occupied said land, should have a preference right to select a tract upon which his improvements were situated for the allotment provided for by said act, and that said allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each minor child. That upon the approval of the allotment as provided by the Secretary of the Interior, he should cause patents to issue therefor in the names of the allottees, which patents should be 1030 of the legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land that is so allotted for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the Indian to whom such allotment should have been made, and in case of his decease, for the use and benefit of heirs at law according to the laws of the State of Nebraska, and that at the expiration of said period, the United States will convey the same by patent to the said Indian or his heirs in fee discharge- of said trust and free of all discharge or incumbrance, and that said lands should descend and be subject to partition in accordance with the laws of the State of Nebraska, after patents therefor should have been executed and delivered, and that upon the completion of said allotment and the patenting of the same to the said allottees, each and every member of said tribe should have the benefit of and be subject to the laws, both civil and criminal of the State of Nebraska.

The said act further provides that the residue of said land lying east of said right of way, after the making of said allotments should be patented to the said tribe, which patents should be of legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land thus patented for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of said tribe, and that at the expiration of the said period the United States will convey the same by patent to the said tribe in fee discharge- of said trust, and free from all charge or encumbrance; provided that from the lands thus patented to the tribe in common, allotments should be made to each Omaha Indian child who might be born prior to the expiration of the time during which said lands should be held in trust and upon the same condition as theretofore provided, which said last mentioned act was published by authority of the United States in volume 22 of 1031 the Statutes at Large at page 241, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs leave to refer.

Your oratrix further shows that she is the daughter of Euphrasia Peters, who was in turn the daughter of Antoine Barada, and that the said Antoine Barada was the son of Michael Barada and Taegleha Haceineda, who was, as hereinbefore stated, an Omaha Indian woman and a fully admitted and recognized member of the Omaha Indian tribe in Nebraska, as have been her descendants above named; that ever since 1880 and prior to that time your oratrix resided with the said Omaha Indian tribe on the Omaha reservation and had prior to 1880 and has ever since that time maintained her residence and domicile with the said tribe on the said Omaha Indian reservation; that she has participated with the tribal property and received an annuity of the said Omaha Indian tribe through the Indian agent in charge of the affairs of said tribe, a duly commissioned officer and agent of the United States; that the children of your oratrix have been educated at the Indian agency school maintained for the exclusive use and benefit of the youth of the Omaha tribe of Indians it being admitted, recognized and decided by the tribal authorities and the officers of the United States that the said children of your oratrix were entitled to the use and benefit of said school by reason of their Indian blood and relationship to the said tribe of Indians. That the children of your oratrix are still educated at the expense of the Government of the United States as Omaha Indians with the consent of and by and through the endorsement of the officials of the United States; that during the year 1894 petitions were prepared by members of the Omaha Indian tribe and signed by a majority of the members of said tribe and also by ten of the then twelve councilmen of the said Omaha Indian tribe, said petitions 1032 being directed to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of the United States and asking that your oratrix be granted an allotment of land as an Omaha Indian woman and that she be allowed to participate in all of the benefits of the said tribe and that she be acknowledged and recognized as a member of the said Omaha Indian tribe.

Your oratrix therefore shows unto your honors that in the participation of these benefits and in the admissions and findings of the tribal authorities and officers of the United States she was duly recognized by such authorities and officers as an Omaha Indian woman.

And your oratrix further says that she took possession of a tract of land on the Omaha reservation hereinbelow described, claiming the same by reason of her right to an allotment on the said reservation; that your oratrix has broken the said tract of land and converted the same from wild, raw and untilled prairie into well tilled fields and has placed valuable improvements thereon and has built and maintained for herself and family a home thereon and has solely through her own and her family's efforts and labor farmed and cultivated and occupied the said premises without objection on the part of the said tribe of Indians or of the officials of the United States or of anyone, and she is now, together with her family of which she is the head, as such member of the Omaha Indian tribe, under and by virtue of the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress hereinbefore set forth, occupying and has since 1885 occupied the following described lands within and a part of said Omaha Indian reservation, situated in the county of Thurston and State of Nebraska, and within the jurisdiction of this court, to-wit: the southeast quarter of section seventeen, and the northeast quarter of section twenty-nine, both of township twenty-four north, of range eight east of the 6th principal meridian and also the south one-half of 1033 the southwest quarter of section eight, and the north one-half of the northwest quarter of section seventeen, both in township twenty-five north, of range seven east of the 6th principal meridian. That the said described land as above set forth is a part of the land referred to in the treaties hereinbefore set forth and the same has been surveyed in accordance with the said treaties and acts of Congress.

And your oratrix further shows unto your honors that no other person besides herself claims the right to the land so selected by her and that no selection of such lands has been made by any other person or persons than your oratrix and that no certificate of such selection has been issued to any person for such lands nor any allotment thereof been made by the defendant, The United States of America, to any other person, nor has any patent so issued and that the United States of America, has not opposed and does not oppose the claim of your oratrix to said land by reason of such lands having been selected or claimed by any other person, except as hereinafter set forth.

And your oratrix further shows that notwithstanding the facts as hereinbefore set forth, and notwithstanding the fact that she is within and under the provision of the laws referred to herein and is entitled to an allotment of one hundred and sixty acres of said land for herself, and that each of her children is entitled to an allotment of forty acres of said land, the defendant, The United States of America, by and through its officers and agents, refuses and neglects to make to your oratrix the allotment of land to which she and her children, or either of them, are entitled, and that notwithstanding the rights of your oratrix to such allotments she is now and has been unlawfully denied the allotment and parcel of land to which she is, and claims to be, lawfully entitled by virtue of said treaties 1034 and acts of Congress, and in that behalf your oratrix shows that the defendant, The United States of America, notwithstanding the selection of the above described lands by your oratrix, refuses through the Department of the Interior to approve such selection of land so made by your oratrix, although your oratrix has notified said defendant, The United States of America, through its proper officers and agents that she has made such selection as was her right under and by virtue of said treaties and acts of Congress, and the said defendant, The United States of America, notwithstanding such selection and notification, has refused and still refuses to cause the patent to issue for such allotment and selection in the name of and to your oratrix.

And your oratrix further shows that in accordance with the laws of the United States, the defendant, The United States of America has detailed and appointed to said Omaha Indian tribe as agent of the United States of America, over what is known as the Omaha reservation, as hereinbefore described, Charles P. Mathewson, who is now in charge of the said land of the Omaha reservation, including those in controversy herein, now claimed by your oratrix, and that the said Charles P. Mathewson is now the person designated by the laws of the United States to superintend and supervise and make allotments of lands to those members or former members of the Omaha Indian tribe entitled to such allotments under the foregoing treaties and statutes.

And now the said Charles P. Mathewson and the Secretary of the Interior of the United States, as representing the defendant refuse and neglect to make to your oratrix the allotment of land to which she is entitled, and that notwithstanding her rights in the premises she is now, and has been, unlawfully denied the allotment to her of said parcel of land which she now claims and which the defendant refuses to make to her, and that said defendant 1035 The United States of America, refuses to issue to her a certificate and patent for said parcel of land to which she is entitled under the laws and treaties of the United States notwithstanding the fact that under the said laws and treaties and practice heretofore prevailing in the allotment of said lands as adopted and pursued by the defendant, The United States of America, it is the duty of the agent assigned to said tribe to issue to each member thereof, whether of mixed or full blood, a certificate showing the location of the land selected by said Indian and that then and thereupon it is and becomes the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to issue to such member a patent for the land so selected under the laws as hereinbefore set forth, and notwithstanding the fact that your oratrix has in all respects complied with the requirements, rules and regulations adopted and prescribed by the defendant, The United States of America, relating to the selection and allotment of said lands.

And your oratrix further shows that in accordance with an act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, as hereinbefore set forth, the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians was given in open council in May, 1899 and thereupon assignments for allotments were made by special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of the United States; that the instruction to said special agent directed that in making assignments, he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed and the subject of the litigation in court. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a portion of such land without investigation as to prior claims or notice to claimants. That your oratrix gave the defendant, The United States of America, and said special agent due and proper notice of her claim and the land selected by her which is herein-
1036 before more fully set forth. That said special agent, contrary to said special instructions and to such notice, assigned of the land claimed by your oratrix the south-west quarter of the south-west quarter of section eight (8), in township twenty-five north, of range seven (7) east to Wallace Miller and the south-east quarter of the southwest quarter of section eight (8), in township twenty-five (25) north, of range seven (7), east, and the north-east quarter of the north-west quarter of section seventeen (17) in township twenty-five (25) north, of range seven (7) east, to Mary A. McCauley, and the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section seventeen in township twenty-five north, of range seven east, to Tah-e-gra-ha Canby, all of whom are Omaha Indians, which assignments were approved by the Secretary of the Interior of the United States and certificates therefor issued accordingly to the said Omaha Indians who were at all times herein mentioned and now are citizens of the United States. That subsequently leases were made by and through the authority of the United States and by Charles P. Mathewson as agent of the Omaha Indian tribe, as follows: the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section eight, in township twenty-five north, of range seven east, from Wallace Miller to Michael Cooney; and the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section eight in township twenty-five north, of range seven east, and the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section seventeen, in township twenty-five north, of range seven east, from Mary A. McCauley to Joseph E. Blenkiron; and the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section seventeen, in township twenty-five north, of range seven east, from Tah-e-gra-ha Canby to Charles C. Maryott and that in accordance with the terms of said leases the rent therefrom is payable in semi-annual payments each year to Charles P. Mathewson, agent, for the use and bene-
1037 fit of said pretended allottees and that in accordance with the rules and customs of the office of the Indian agent, said rent money will be immediately paid to the said defendants Wallace

Miller, Mary A. McCauley and Tah-a-gra-ha Canby by the said Charles P. Mathewson, agent.

That said defendants, Wallace Miller, Mary A. McCauley and Tah-e-gra-ha Canby are entirely insolvent and irresponsible and if said rent moneys are paid to them or either of them, the same will be wholly lost to your oratrix.

And your oratrix further shows unto your honors that under and by virtue of an act of Congress approved on the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to an allotment of lands under any act of Congress, or law of the United States, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment or act or grant made by Congress, or who claim to be unlawfully denied or excluded from any allotment or parcel of land to which they claim to be lawfully entitled by virtue of any act of Congress, may commence prosecute or defend any action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States; and that said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdictions involving the rights of any person of whole or of mixed Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty, and the said act further provides that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of lands should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior of the United States, as if such allotment had been made, allowed and approved by him, and that the United States of America is and may be made a proper party to such suit and proceeding, which said act of 1038 Congress was published by the authority of the United States in the 28th volume of the Statutes at Large, on page 305, said act being amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, on the 6th day of February, 1901, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs leave to refer.

And your oratrix therefore shows unto your honors that she is without adequate remedy at law and without remedy in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity, and she therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises, and that the said defendant, The United States of America, may appear and answer this bill of your oratrix, but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived.

That it be ordered and decreed that your oratrix is entitled to have allowed to her the land described in this bill of complaint of your oratrix and that the defendant, The United States of America, be ordered and required to make and issue to your oratrix the certificate and patent to the above described lands as she shall be entitled to as contemplated and provided by the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress and to recognize in all respects the rights of your oratrix to and upon the lands now occupied by her, for herself and as head of her family; and her rights thereto and the rights of her children under and by virtue of the said laws of the United States and treaties, be forever established and that your oratrix and her children may be fully recognized as members of the said tribe of Omaha Indians and that all of the benefits and privileges thereto belonging may be granted to her and her family, and that the selections and pretended assignments of land for allotment to Wallace Miller, Mary A. McCauley and Tah-e-gra-ha Canby, out of the premises selected and claimed by your oratrix be ordered annulled, vacated and canceled and that the said tenants of the same, Joseph E.

1039 Blenkiron, Charles C. Maryott and Michael Cooney be enjoined and restrained from paying the rents of the said land selected by your oratrix and leased by said tenants, to Charles P. Mathewson or to any of the above named Omaha Indians or to any person or persons until the settlement and determination of this controversy and until the final adjudication of the rights of your oratrix to an allotment of said lands, and that your oratrix may have such other and further relief as may be just and equitable, and so may it please your honors to grant unto your oratrix the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court to be directed to the defendants herein and to the United States of America, therein and thereby commanding it on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand and abide and to perform such orders and decrees therein as — this court shall seem meet.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MARY SAILOR, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA and Wallace Miller, Mary A. McCauley, Tah-egra-ha Canby, Michael Cooney, Joseph E. Blenkiron, Chas. C. Maryott, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.

Doc. T, No. 461. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, Wallace Miller, Mary A. McCauley, Tah-egra-ha Canby, Michael Cooney, Joseph E. Blenkiron, Chas. C. Maryott, and Charles P. Mathewson, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Mary Sailors, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefits and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer say:

1. These defendants deny that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and deny that complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary, these defendants aver that the said complainant is a white woman, and citizen of the United States, and that her ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that her said
1042 ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and these defendants deny that complainant or her ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relation with the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska, and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and deny that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

This defendant- for further answer avers that the complainant claims to trace her lineage back to Michael Barada, who had intermarried with an Indian woman by the name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but this defendant- is not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leaves the complainant to her proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife in the year —, a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with his parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

1043 That the said Antoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vien, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife Josephine Vien continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years, until some time after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a daughter named Euphrasia (the mother of this complainant) and the said Euphrasia was of but one fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis and was never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Euphrasia Barada, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a white man named Fulton Peters, a white man of German nationality, and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said Fulton Peters and his wife Euphrasia, a daughter named Mary, who is the complainant herein, and the said Mary, being such white person and citizen of the United States taking the status of her father continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when she came to the Omaha reservation with her parents, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. This defendant- for further answer avers that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reserva-1044 tion at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865 (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded Mary Sailors, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and she not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit:—March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and this defendant- further avers that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of 1045 the complainant or her ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of her ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. This defendant- further answering says: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August, 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedents or de-cendants of said parties, so far as I 1046 know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant. That the said Antoine Barada was the grandfather of this complainant, and the said Euphrasia Peters and Fulton Peters were the parents of this complainant, and Josephine Peters and Frank Peters and Maggie Rockwell née Peters, were brothers and sisters of complainant.

4. This defendant further answering says: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Peters family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Peters family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work 1047 of allotting lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant is descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selections of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore that they were not rec-1048 ognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not — all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, the mother of complainant, and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department
1049 by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case.

The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve.

Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

1050 It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. This defendant- further avers that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit: William Barada, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others including this plaintiff, persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:—

OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

1051 SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We know that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8, and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off. We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and that the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

1052 If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterwards, on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

1053 DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7,
1054 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. This defendant- further avers that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and complainant failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Com-
1055 missioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters,

William Barada, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Frank Peters, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as she was of that class.

This defendant- further avers that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. This defendant- further avers that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the pur-1056 pose and intention of the department of have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January, 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. The defendants for further answer aver that the complainant never occupied the lands claimed in township 25, range 7, E., which had been allotted and patented to other parties, and that the only lands occupied by complainant were the lands described in township 24, range 8, E., which have been reserved for the complainant, and her family hereinafter referred to; that the complainant was born in Richardson county in the State of Nebraska, 1859 and continued to live in Richardson county, State of Nebraska until the year 1890. That while so living in Richardson county she married Lot Sailors in the year 1880, the said Lot Sailors being a free born full blood white man.

1057 That said complainant and her husband came to the Omaha reservation in the year 1890 and were not residents on the reservation at the time of the allotment of lands under the act of 1882. That the said complainant is one of the children of Fulton Peters a free born full blood white man and his wife Euphrasia, and that the mother of the complainant received an allotment of lands on the Nemaha reservation at a time when the complainant was a minor child living with her said parents.

10. These defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections and make allotments of land, investigated, ascertained and found as a fact that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of any of the lands claimed by her in section 8, township 25,range 7, E., and reported his said findings to the Interior Department and which said findings and report have been approved by the said department. And the said allotting agent did find as a fact that other persons to whom the said land has been allotted and patented, had a better and prior claim thereto and reported his said finding to the Interior Department, and which said report and finding was approved by the Interior Department and patents issued for the said lands in section 8, township 25, range 7, E.

That the said allotting agent did reserve for the complainant and her family the lands described in her petition and claimed by her in township 24, range 8, E, to-wit: The S. E. ¼ of section 17, and the N. E. ¼ of section 29, in said township 24, range 8 E., and which reservation has been made upon the surveyed maps in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, awaiting the final determination of this suit.

11. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint
1058 contained material or necessary for this defendant- to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant-, and this defendant- den*ies* that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MARY SAILORS, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Wallace Miller, Mary A. McCauley, Tah-egraha Canby, Michael Cooney, Joseph E. Blenkiron, Charles C. Maryatt, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants. } Docket T, No. 461. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such times, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide 1062 residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in nolding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Mary Sailors and her children were not entitled to claim and have allotted to them the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The south east quarter of section seventeen (17), and the north east quarter of section twenty-nine (29), all in township twenty-four (24), north, of range eight (8) east; also the south half of the south west quarter of section eight, and the north half of the north west 1063 quarter of section seventeen (17), all in township twenty-five (25), north, of range seven (7) east.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause — dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore, complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives herself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That as assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

1065 Wherefore complainants prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, and — a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

1069 Thereupon afterward, to-wit: on the 2nd day of October, 1902, an amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said bill of complaint is in the words and figures following, to wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

ARTEMESIA FROST and MARY FROST and Benjamin F. Frost, by Artemesia Frost, Their Next Friend, Plaintiffs,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, MARY Tyndall, and Agnes Springer, Defendants.

No. 462. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of said court:

Comes now Artemesia Frost, who brings this suit in her own behalf and as next friend of and for Mary Frost and Benjamin F. Frost, plaintiffs, and gives the court to understand and be informed that the said Mary Frost and Benjamin F. Frost are minor children of the plaintiff Artemesia Frost; Mary Frost being sixteen years of age and Benjamin F. Frost being fifteen years of age.

And the said plaintiff, Artemesia Frost, being the mother of said minors, and bringing this suit in their behalf so far as their interests are concerned as the next friend of each of said minors, and in that behalf, your orator says that this suit is brought against The United States of America, Mary Tyndall and Agnes Springer; that the matter in dispute herein exceeds the sum and value of two thousand dollars, exclusive of interest and costs as to the interest of each of the several plaintiffs, and arises under the Constitution of the United States and the laws of the United States and treaties made under their authority as hereinafter more specifically set forth.

1070 That plaintiffs are members of what is known as the Omaha tribe of Indians in the State of Nebraska.

That plaintiff and the said Mary Frost and Benjamin F. Frost are members of said Omaha tribe of Indians, being the tribe of Indians named and designated as "Omahas" in the various statutes of the United States and in the treaties hereinafter set forth, being of what is known as mixed blood and lineal descendants from Michael Barada and his wife, Taegleha Hacieneda, an Omaha Indian woman of the said tribe; that plaintiffs and their ancestors have at all times and continually maintained their domicile with the said Omaha tribe of Indians, and have at all times been recognized as members of said tribe by the other members thereof, and by the Government of the United States in and about the business transacted by it with said Omaha tribe of Indians, and has participated in the division of property and annuities made to the several members of said tribe by virtue of the laws of the United States and the several treaties by and between said tribe and the United States.

That on the 16th day of March, 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians wherein and whereby the said tribe ceded unto the United States certain land situated in what is now the State of Nebraska, south of what has recently been known as the Omaha reservation, and in consideration of the session of the said land the United States agreed to pay and did pay unto the said tribe certain annuities for a certain period of years more fully set out in the said treaty, and agreed to perform in addition thereto certain covenants more fully in the said treaty set forth.

That among other things it was provided in the said treaty that the President of the United States might from time to time under his direction, cause the whole of the land of the said Omaha tribe, not by said treaty ceded, or any part thereof, that he might 1071 think proper, to be surveyed into lots and to assign to such Indian and Indians of said tribe as might be willing to avail themselves of the privileges and who might locate thereon as a permanent home, if a single person over twenty-one years of age one-eighth of a section to each family of two, one-fourth of a section, to each family of three and not exceeding five, one-half of a section, and to each family of six and not exceeding ten, one section, and to each family over ten in number, one fourth of a section for every additional five members; and that the said President might at any time at his discretion, if said person or family desired to make such location their permanent home, issue to said person, persons or family a patent of said land under certain conditions in the said treaty set forth. All of which matters and things more fully and at large appear in the said treaty as published under authority of the United States in the Statutes at Large, vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator- herein begs leave to refer.

That on the 6th day of March, 1865, the said United States made and entered into a certain further treaty with the said tribe wherein and whereby the latter did cede to the United States a certain other tract of land north of what has since been known as the Omaha reservation, for a consideration on the said treaty named. Said treaty provided among other things, that the said tribe being desirous of promoting settled habits of industry and enterprise among themselves and of abolishing the tenure by which they then hold their lands by assigning limited quantities thereof to the several members of the tribe, including their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with them, to be cultivated and used for their own individual use and benefit, it was therefore provided, agreed and stipulated that the remaining portion of their then reservation should be set apart for such purpose and that out of the same there should 1072 be assigned to each head of a family not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres, and to each male member eighteen years of age and upwards without family, not exceeding forty acres of land, and including in every case as far as practicable a reasonable proportion of timber. That the whole of said land, assigned or unassigned, should constitute and be known as the Omaha reservation; that said division and assignment of land in severalty should be made under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior and when approved by him, should be final and conclusive; that certificates should be issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for the tract so assigned, specifying the names of the individuals to whom they had been assigned respectively, and that they were for the exclusive use and benefit of themselves, their heirs and descendants, and that said tract should not be leased or otherwise disposed of except to the United States or other members of the tribe under such rules and regulations as might be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior and that they should be exempt from taxation, levy, sale or forfeiture until otherwise provided for by Congress, which said last mentioned treaty was published by authority of the United States in vol. 14 of the Statutes at Large at page 667, to which for greater certainty your orator- begs to refer.

That by act of Congress, approved the 7th day of August, 1882, entitled "An act to provide for the sale of a part of the reservation of the Omaha tribe of Indians in the State of Nebraska, and for other purposes," it was among other things provided that with the consent of said tribe expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should be authorized to cause to be surveyed and if necessary sold, all that portion of the said Omaha reservation lying west of a certain right of way thereupon granted by the said tribe through the said reservation to the Sioux City and Nebraska Railway 1073 Company; that said land should be appraised in tracts of forty acres each and that the Secretary of the Interior should thereupon issue proclamation to the effect that unallotted lands should be open to settlement and that within one year after date of such proclamation each bona fide settler upon said lands having made valuable improvements thereupon, should be entitled to purchase, according to said survey, at the appraised value of said lands, the said lands so occupied and improved by him. Said sale was to be for cash payable in three equal payments in one, two and three years from the date of entry, with interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum; that the proceeds of said sale, after paying expenses incident to carrying out the provisions of the said act; should be placed to the credit of the said tribe in the Treasury of the United States and should bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum, which income should be expended for the benefit of the said Indians under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior. And the said act further provides that the said Secretary should be thereby authorized either through the agent of the said tribe or such other person as he might designate, to allot the lands lying east of the said right of way granted the said railroad in severalty to the Indians of the said tribe; to each head of a family one quarter of a section to each orphan child under eighteen years of age, one eighth of a section; and to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section; and that said allotments should be deemed and held in lieu of the allotments provided for in said treaty of March 6, 1865, provided that any Indian to whom a tract of land had been assigned and certificate issued and who was entitled to the same under the provisions of said treaty if he had made valuable improvements thereon, and any Indian who being entitled to said assignment and certificate under said treaty has settled and made 1074 valuable improvements upon the tract assigned to any Indian who had never improved or occupied said land should have a preference right to select a tract upon which his improvements were situated for the allotment provided for by the said act, and that all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. That upon the approval of the allotment as provided by the Secretary of the Interior, he should cause patents to issue therefor in the name of the allottees, which patents should be of the legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land that is allotted for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the Indian to whom such allotment should have been made and in case of his decease, of his heirs, according to the law of the State of Nebraska; and at the expiration of the said period the United States would convey the same by patent to the said Indian or his heirs in free discharge of said trust and free of all charge or incumbrance, and that the land should descend and be subject to partition in accordance with the laws of the State of Nebraska, after patents therefor should have been executed and delivered, and that upon the completion of said allotment and the patenting of the same to the said allottees, each and every member of the said tribe should have the benefit of and be subject to the laws, both criminal and civil, of the State of Nebraska. And said act further provided that the residue of lands lying east of the said right of way after the making of said allotments should be patented to said tribe, which patent should be of legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land thus patented for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the said tribe, and that at the expiration of the said period the United States would convey the same by patent to the said 1075 tribe in fee discharge- of said trust and free from all charge and incumbrance; provided that from the lands thus patented to the tribe in common allotment should be made to each Omaha child who might be born prior to the expiration of the time during which said land should be held in trust and upon the said condition as theretofore provided, which said last mentioned act was published by authority of the United States in vol. 22 of the Statutes at Large at page 341, to which for greater certainty your orators beg to refer.

Plaintiffs further say, that the plaintiff Artemesia Frost was and at all the dates hereinbefore mentioned has been a member of the said Omaha tribe of Indians, and fully recognized as such by said tribe and by the Government of the United States, and entitled to an allotment of land in and upon the said Omaha reservation in the manner provided by law, and that the plaintiff Artemesia Frost, has selected for herself, the following described land upon said reservation, to-wit:

The south one-half (S. ½) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section nine (9), township twenty-five (25), range seven (7) east of the sixth principal meridian, in Nebraska, containing eighty acres. Also, a certain adjoining tract of land containing seventy-eight (78) acres and more particularly described as follows:

Commencing at a point at the northeast corner of the south one-half (½) of the northwest quarter (¼) of section nine (9); running thence north fifty-two (52) rods; thence west two hundred forty (240) rods; thence south fifty-two (52) rods; thence east two hundred forty (240) rods, to the place of beginning. And for her daughter, the plaintiff Mary Frost; the south one half (½) of the northeast quarter (¼) of section eight (8), township twenty-five (25), range 1076 seven (7).

And for her said minor son, the said Benjamin F. Frost: the north one-half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section seven (7), township twenty-five (25) range seven (7) containing eighty (80) acres. All of said lands being upon and a part of said Omaha reservation, lying and being in Thurston county in the State of Nebraska, and for four years last past has been in actual possession of said tract of land, for herself and her children, and has caused the same to be fenced, cultivated and house and other out-buildings erected thereon and made other lasting and valuable improvements thereon.

That the said described land, as above set forth, is a part of the land referred to in the treaties hereinbefore set forth and has been surveyed in accordance with the treaties and acts of Congress and plaintiffs further show unto your honors that no other person besides themselves claims the right to the land so selected by plaintiffs; that no selection of such lands has been made by any other person than plaintiffs except as hereinafter set forth and that no certificate of such selection has been issued to any person for such land, nor has any allotment thereof been made by the defendant, The United States of America to any person whatsoever, nor has any patent issued accordingly to said lands except as hereinafter set forth and that the defendant, The United States of America has not opposed and does not oppose the claim of plaintiffs to said lands by reason of such lands having been selected by others; that although plaintiffs are entitled to the allotments of said land to them as herein provided, yet the defendant, through the Secretary of the Interior of the United States and one Charles Mathewson, the Indian agent in charge of said reservation, refuses to issue — to allot said 1077 lands to said plaintiffs or to make any allotment of land to plaintiffs in any manner whatsoever and denies the rights of plaintiffs in the premises and refuses to issue to them a certificate and patent for such lands as required by law; that plaintiff- have in all respects complied with the requirements, rules and regulations adopted and prescribed by the defendant, The United States of America, relating to the selection and allotment of said land.

Plaintiffs further show unto your honor that in accordance with an act of Congress of August 7, 1882, as hereinbefore set forth, the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians was given in open council in May, 1899 and thereupon assignments for allotments were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of the United States; that the instructions to said special agent directed that in making assignments he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the land claimed and the subject of litigation in court: that said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a portion of such land without investigation as to the prior claims or notice to claimants; that plaintiffs gave to the defendant, The United States of America and also to said special agent due and proper notice of their claim and a description of the land selected by them, which is hereinbefore more fully set forth, and plaintiffs further gave said special agent and the defendant, The United States of America, notice that their claim- to allotments of the lands selected by them were the subject of litigation in the proper court at that time, which was prior to the making of any assignment by said special agent; that said special agent, contrary to his said instructions and to the notices of plaintiffs, assigned of the land claimed by Benjamin Frank Frost the northeast quarter (¼) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section seven (7), township twenty-five (25) range seven (7) east of the sixth principal meridian in Ne-1078 braska, to Mary Tyndall, and the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section seven (7), township twenty-five (25) range seven (7) east of the sixth principal meridian in Nebraska to Agnes Springer, all of whom are Omaha Indians which assignments were approved by the Secretary of the Interior of the United States and certificates accordingly issued to said Omaha Indians, who were at all times herein mentioned and now are citizens of the United States and whose claims to the above described premises and rights thereto were at all times junior and inferior to the claim of your complainants to the above described lands.

That under and by virtue of an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, who are entitled to allotments of lands under any law of Congress, or who claim to be unlawfully denied or excluded from any allotment or parcel of land to which they claim to be lawfully entitled by virtue of any act of Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend any action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States; and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising without their respective jurisdiction involving the rights of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty, and the said act further provides that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of lands should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment has been made and approved by him, which such act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th volume of the Statutes at Large on page 305, to which for 1079 greater certainty your orators beg leave to refer.

Your orators therefore show to your honors that they are without adequate remedy at law and without remedy in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity, and they therefore pray the aid of the court in the premises, and that the said defendants may appear and answer this bill of your complainants but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived.

Wherefore your orators show unto your honors that they are without remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity and they therefore pray the aid of the court in the premises, and that the said defendants may appear and answer this, your orators' bill, but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That it be ordered and decreed that your orators are entitled to have allotted to them the lands described more particularly in this, your orators' bill of complaint, and that the defendant, The United States of America, be ordered and required to make and issue to your orators the patent contemplated and provided by the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress and to recognize in all respects the rights of your orators to and upon the lands so now by them occupied and that their rights thereto under and by virtue of the laws of the United States and treaties be forever established and that your complainants may be fully recognized as members of said tribe of Omaha Indians and that all the benefits and privileges thereunto belonging may be granted to them and that the selections and pretended assignments of land for allotment to Mary Tyndall and Agnes Springer out of the premises selected and claimed by your complainants be ordered annulled, vacated and canceled and that your complainants may have such other and further relief as may be agreeable to equity and good conscience and so may it please your honors to grant unto your complainants the most gracious writ of subpœna to be 1080 issued under the seal of this court to be directed to the defendants herein and to The United States of America therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and to appear before this court then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand — and abide and to perform such orders and decrees therein as to this court shall seem meet.

1081 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 3rd day of October, 1902, an answer to amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said answer is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

ARTEMESIA FROST and MARY FROST and Benjamin F. Frost, by Artemesia Frost, Their Next Friend, Plaintiffs, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.	Doc. T, No. 462. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer to the United States of America to the amended bill of complaint of Artemesia Frost and Mary Frost and Benjamin Frost, by Artemesia Frost, their next friend, plaintiffs.

This defendant now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto itself all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections of the said complainants' said amended bill of complaint contained, and for answer thereto and unto so much and — parts thereof, as this defendant is advised is or are material or necessary for it to make answer unto this defendant for answer, says:

1. This defendant denies that complainants are Omaha Indians, and denies that complainants are or ever were members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, upon the contrary this defendant avers that the said complainants are white persons and citizens of the United States, and that their ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that their ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and this defendant denies that the ancestors of complainants ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the 1082 Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and denies that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe; and denies that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

This defendant for further answer avers that complainants claim to trace their lineage back to Michael Barada, who had intermarried with an Indian woman by name Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda; that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but this defendant is not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood or the blood of some other Indian tribe and therefore leaves the complainants to their proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife in the year 1811, a daughter by the name of Ma-garet Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of her father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Ma-garet Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with her parents until the year 1854, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

That the said Ma-garet Barada intermarried with one Thomas Sloan, the grandfather of complainants, and that said Thomas Sloan was a free born white man of Irish nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Ma-garet and her husband Thomas Sloan continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years until 1083 some time after the approved act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Thomas Sloan and his wife Ma-garet there was born a daughter named Artemesia Sloan (the complainant herein) and the said Artemesia Sloan was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis and was never on the Omaha reservation. That the said Artemesia Sloan so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States married a full blood white man named Leonard Frost and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said Leonard Frost and his wife Artemesia, a daughter named Mary Frost and a son named Benjamin Frost, also complainants herein; and the said complainants being such white persons and citizens of the United States, took the status of their father and continued to reside in the city of St. Louis and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when they came to the Omaha reservation with their parents with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under the said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. This defendant for further answer avers that complainants did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress of 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty only included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded complainants, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and 1084 they not living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provision of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and this defendant further avers that the said complainants were not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of complainants or their ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainants nor any of their ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. This defendant further answering says: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the 1085 district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters were complainants, and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, said Thomas L. Sloan made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls, for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Ma-garet Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedents or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including these complainants.

4. This defendant further answering, says: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Thomas L. Sloan and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation,
1086 came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent caused the claim of Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and on April 28, 1884, reported the facts thereon to the Interior Department, and said Department under date of May 9, 1884, ruled and determined that Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. This defendant further avers that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father

Michael Barada, to-wit, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said 1087 reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claim under similar state of facts, including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6th, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The 4th article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, 1088 and among them the Peters family came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

6. This defendant further avers that the said Ma-garet Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including Thomas L.
1089 Sloan, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force, and under date of October 17, 1890, the United States Indian agent made the following report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs regarding Margaret Sloan, Thomas Sloan that he did, "on the 24th day of October, 1890, give written notice to Thomas L. Sloan and Ma-garet Sloan to leave the Omaha reservation under instruction of office order of August 27, 1890.

I would further say in explanation that the Omaha Indians in council on 7th day of October, discussed this matter with the Sloans, and it was almost the unanimous opinion and wish that they be removed from the reservation the same as Peters and others. I am unable to find where the Sloans have any more right than the others mentioned and take them to be of "like class" as mentioned in yours of the 27th of August."

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which said recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Frank Peters, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Pe and which included Thomas L. Sloan as he was of that class.

1090 This defendant further avers that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1888, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

7. This defendant further avers that Ma-garet Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Ma-garet Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January, 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer and proofs were taken, and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska entered a decree against the com-

1091 plainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree dismissed the complainants' bill and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

8. This defendant further avers that afterward the said Ma-garet Sloan and Thomas Sloan endeavored to have themselves adopted into the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to have themselves recognized by the Interior Department as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to that end submitted to the department certain petitions purporting to be signed by certain members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that under date of September 6, 1894, the department ruled that the said Ma garet Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan, should not be admitted to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and accordingly so ordered, and in which order and opinion the department held as follows:

"Aside from the general proposition that the question of adopting the Sloans as members of the tribe is one in a measure separate and distinct from their alleged rights as Omaha Indians by blood, and that such alleged right is not necessarily a test for such adoption, there remains the right to admission by the free will and consent of the tribe, if fairly and properly obtained.

Upon their faces, the several petitions presented with your letter seems to be in proper form, and to express the desire of a majority of the members of the tribe that the persons in question shall be placed upon the rolls of the tribe, and be admitted to all the rights and privileges of other members thereof.

Besides the opposing petition hereinbefore referred to, the department is in receipt of recent information which shows that of the one hundred and fifty seven persons whose names appear on the six petitions presented with your letter, only seventy now favor 1092 the claimants; that eleven others have since assented to their adoption, making eighty-one in all now favorable; that twenty-four of the signatures thereon were not written by the parties whose names are given, nor was the use of their names authorized by them, that fifteen names were signed twice, and that the said petitions bear the names of nine boys and three women—neither of whom have any voice in such matters; that one of the nine members of the council purporting to have signed one of the petitions, did not sign nor authorize the use of his name and further, that there are about one hundred and eighteen male members of the tribe, of lawful age, who oppose the adoption of the Sloans.

Without expressing any opinion of the merits of the petitions in question, the facts presented seem to clearly establish the belief that it is the desire and wish of a majority of the members of the tribe, that the Sloans be not admitted to membership and it is so ordered.

In reference to that part of your report wherein you state that Thomas L. Sloan has held and improved a tract of land since 1881, or 1882, on the Omaha reservation, it would seem that he is doing so in defiance of any legal authority of occupation."

That after the above order and ruling of the department, the counsel for Ma-garet Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan applied to the department for reconsideration of the adoption case, and the department under date of November 17, 1896, re-affirmed this ruling and among other things therein said:

"It is not denied, nor has it ever been, that the Sloans, mother and son, are in part Omaha Indian blood. The tribe recognized them as such and made provision for them, with others, by the treary of 1830, and in the opinion of the department, and the Omahas themselves, their claims as such mixed bloods were extinguished by the lands given them under the terms of the tenth article of the treaty named. * * * The claims of Ma-garet and her son William E. were extinguished prior to the birth of Thomas L. It is no where alleged or claimed that the latter is the offspring of a mother 1093 of Indian blood, much more of one of Omaha blood. The presumption is, therefore, that his mother was a white woman.

The claims of Ma-garet and Thomas L. are based upon their birthright as Omaha Indians and upon their alleged adoption in recent years by the tribe.

The birthright claim of Ma-garet has been extinguished. Thomas L. never had such a claim. Neither of them have any claim by adoption, never having been regularly, fairly or properly adopted by the tribe, as was shown by department letter of September 6, 1894.

Notwithstanding that Mr. Breckenridge has advised the department by letter dated the 30th ultimo, of his withdrawal as attorney for the claimants, I have caused this review of the case to be made, and adhere to the opinion expressed in department letter of September 6, 1894, that the persons named have no valid, legal claims to membership with the Omaha tribe of Indians.

And defendant avers that the above ruling of the Department of the Interior established the fact that Ma-garet and her descendants, the plaintiffs herein, then were not and had not theretofore been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and the defendant avers that the said Ma-garet Sloan and her descendants the plaintiffs herein, are not and never have been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

9. This defendant for further answer says that Artemesia Frost took the status of her father Thomas Sloan, a full blood white man; was born in the city of St. Louis 1848, and took on and adopted the habits of civilized life among the white people in the city of St. Louis and continued to live with her parents in the city of St. Louis and on the Nemaha reservation until the year 1870, when she married Leonard L. Frost a white man.

That said Artemesia Frost received an allotment on the Nemaha reservation and continued to live thereon until about the 1094 year 1875 when she with her husband and family removed to the town of Highland, in the State of Kansas, where she continued to reside until the year 1893, when she and her children emoved to the Omaha reservation.

That said Artemesia Frost about the year 1893 claims to have selected for herself and her minor children Mary Frost and Benjamin Frost, the following lands: The S. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 9, township 25, range 7 east of the 6th P. M. in Nebraska, containing 80 acres. Also a certain adjoining tract of land containing 78 — and more particularly described as follows:

Commencing at a point at the N. E. corner of the S. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of section 9; running thence north 52 rods; thence west 240 rods; thence south 52 rods; thence east 240 rods to the place — beginning. And for her daughter, the plaintiff Mary Frost, the S. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 8, township 25, range 7. And for her said minor son the said Benjamin F. Frost; the north ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 7, township 25, range 7, containing 80 acres. And which said lands has been reserved from allotment pending the result of this litigation.

Except in this, to-wit, that Allotting Agent Rankin did find and ascertain that Mary Tyndall had the prior and better claim to and was entitled to have allotted to her the N. E. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of section 10, townsnip 25, range 7 east; and said allotting agent did further find upon investigation that Agnes Springer had a prior and better claim to, and was entitled to have allotted to her the N. W. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of section 7, township 25, range 7 east; and that the said allotting agent did make the said allotments of the lands above described to Mary Tyndall and Agnes Springer respectively, and these defendants admitted that said allotments were duly approved by the Secretary of the Interior of the United States, and that patents therefor have been issued to the said Mary Tyndall and Agnes Springer respectively.

1095 10. And this defendant says that if there is any other matter, cause, or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, is not true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant, and this defendant denies that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

And this defendant prays leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

Sol. for Defendants.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

ARTEMESIA FROST ET AL., Complainant-,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, CHARLES P. Mathewson, Defendants.
} Docket T, No. 462. Depositions.

Testimony taken in behalf of the complain-ts, by consent of the parties hereto, before William S. Heller, a stenographer and notary public, at the office of John L. Webster, Esq., 826 New York Life building, Omaha, Nebraska, on this 26th day of September, 1902, the complainant- being represented by Messrs. Thomas L. Sloan and Charles E. Clapp and the defendants being represented by John L. Webster, Esq.

THOMAS L. SLOAN, produced as a witness in behalf of the complainant-, and after being first duly sworn, testified as follows:—

Direct examination by Mr. CHARLES E. CLAPP:

Q. Mr. Sloan, where do you reside?
A. At Pender, Nebraska.
Q. And how old are you?
A. 39 years past.
Q. You may state whether or not you are, or at any time have been a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians?
A. I have been, and am now, I think.
Q. Where have you lived since your birth?
A. I was born in St. Louis and lived there until—I do not know when I first came up. My mother brought me up. Within 1097 my recollection I came to the half breed recerve in 1873 with my grandmother, and stayed there excepting the time when I was away back there and came up with her to the Omaha reservation in the spring of 1881, since which time my home has either been at Pender or on the Omaha reservation, excepting a short time when I was away at school.
Q. What occupation have you followed on the Omaha reservation?
A. I first started in at herding cattle, breaking prairie, chopping wood, hauling saw logs; was employed at the store; was clerk and went to school, and took up the study of law, and was admitted to the bar in the spring of 1891. For a period of four years since then I was clerking at the Omaha and Winnebago agency, and the rest of the time I have been in the practice.
Q. Do you know Artemesia Frost, the complainant, in docket T, number 462?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you known her?
A. Since 1873, since the spring of 1873.
Q. Where has she resided since you have known her?
A. She was at first residing on land allotted to her on the half breed tract in 1873, and moved from there to the Omaha reservation. I think she moved up in 1874, and remained up here a year, or a year and a half, and returned to the half breed reservation. In 1881 she and two of her children came up and lived with my grandmother and I. The second oldest boy was sent to school at the Omaha agency during the winter while I was over there.
Q. What if anything Mr. Sloan do you know about the allotments that are claimed by Thomas Barada and Mary Sailors in cases numbered 400 and 461, docket T?
1098 A. I know more particularly about Mary Sailors than I do about Tom Barada. I know that he is living on a part of the land selected by him, and has been set aside by the allotting agent, and that over that part upon which she lives there is no controversy.
Q. Do you know when the selection was made by him?
A. I know the fact that father made a selection for him in the summer of 1881. I was present at the time. He pointed out the land to me and I know the circumstances surrounding it. I was living on the reservation at that time and it was selected in the vicinity where I lived.
Q. In the Barada case do you know anything about the selection of the land in question by Antoine Barada for his son Thomas Barada?
A. I just stated I know about the land.
Q. What relation is Thomas Barada to Mary Sailors?
A. He is an uncle of Mary Sailors.
Q. In respect to the Sailors case, what do you know about the selection of that land?
A. I marked that land out in the summer of 1881. The first mark that was ever made on it.
Q. For whom?
A. For Mary Sailors under the direction of Mrs. Peters.
Q. Who was Mrs. Peters?
A. Her mother.

Cross-examination waived.
Witness excused.

1102 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 13th day of October, 1903, an assignment of errors was filed in said case, which said assignment is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

ARTEMESIA FROST, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.
} Docket T, No. 462. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in finding and determining that Artemesia Frost received an allotment of land in the Nemaha reservation and was for that reason debarred from claiming a further allotment upon the Omaha reservation.

Second. The court erred in construing the treaty between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians, made July 15, 1830, as meaning and intending that the taking of an allotment of land by a member of such tribe pursuant to article 10 of said treaty thereby extinguished the claim of such Indian to a further allotment of land or further allotments or benefits in the tribal property as a member of such tribe.

Third. The court erred in construing the treaty between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians, of July 15, 1830, as meaning and intending that half-breed members of the tribe 1103 who secured allotments of land in severalty in the Nemaha reservation under the terms of said treaty are not entitled to a second allotment under the act of 1882, although at the time of its passage they were residing on the reservation in the tribal relation.

Fourth. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Fifth. The court after construcing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Sixth. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Seventh. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Eighth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside -pon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the 1104 consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Ninth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Tenth. The court erred in holding and determining that Artemesia Frost and her children were not entitled to claim and have allotted to them the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: the south half of the northwest quarter of section nine (9), in township twenty-five (25), north, of range seven (7) east; also 78 acres adjoining described as follows: Commencing at a point at the northeast corner of the south half of the northwest quarter of section nine (9); running thence north fifty-two (52) rods; thence west two hundred and forty (240) rods; thence south fifty-two (52) rods; thence east two hundred and forty (240) rods to the place of beginning; the south half of the northeast quarter of section eight (8) in township twenty-five (25) north of range seven (7) east and the north half of the southeast quarter of section seven (7), in township twenty-five (25), north of range seven (7) east.

Eleventh. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Twelfth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

1105 Wherefore, complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

ARTEMESIA FROST, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant. } Docket T, No. 462. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives *him*self to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

1107 Wherefore complainants prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, and a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

In the Circuit Court of the United States within and for the District of Nebraska.

EDWARD KUHN, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant. } Complaint. No. 502, Docket "T."

To the honorable the judges of said court:

Edward Kuhn brings this his bill of complaint against the United States of America, and thereon your orator complains and says that the matter in dispute herein exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum or value of two thousand dollars, and arises under the Constitution and laws of the United States and under certain treaties made under their authority as hereinafter more specifically set forth.

Further your orator says that he is a member of what is or until recently was known as the Omaha tribe of Indians and designated in the various statutes of the United States as the Omahas and the treaties herein set forth. That he is of what is known as mixed blood and a lineal descendant of one Michael Barada who inter-married with one Taegleha Hacienda, an Indian woman of the said tribe. That your orator and his ancestors back to the said Michael Barada and his said wife, have continually maintained their domicile with the said tribe, and maintained tribal relation therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by said 1112 tribe, and been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of the said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

Further complaining your orator says that on the 16th day of March, 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians wherein and whereby the said tribe ceded to the United States certain lands situated in what is now the State of Nebraska, south of what has until recently been known as the Omaha reservation, and in consideration of the cession of the said land the United States agreed to pay and did pay unto the said tribe certain annuities for a certain period of years as set forth in said treaty in the words and figures following:

Art. 4. In the consideration and the payment for the country ceded and the relinquishment herein made the United States agree to pay the Omaha Indians, the several sums of money following:

1st. Forty thousand dollars per annum for a term of three years, commencing the first day of January, 1855.

2nd. Thirty thousand dollars per annum for a term of ten years next succeeding the three years.

3d. Twenty thousand dollars per annum for a term of fifteen years next succeeding the ten years.

4th. Ten thousand dollars per annum for a term of twelve years next succeeding the fifteen years.

All of which sums of money shall be paid to the Omahas or expended for their benefit under the direction of the President of the United States, who may from time to time determine at his discretion what proportion shall be expended and applied for their moral improvement and education.

1113 In addition to the foregoing agreements and covenants others are set forth in said treaty.

And your orator further says that among other things set forth, it was provided by art. 6, as follows: The President may from time to time at his discretion cause the whole of the portion of the land thereby reserved as he may think proper or of such land as may be selected in lieu thereof as provided in art. 1st to be surveyed into lots and to assign to the Indians of the said tribe as are willing to avail themselves of the privileges and who will locate upon the same as a permanent home if a single person over 21 years of age, one eighth of a section, to each family of two, one quarter of a section, to each family of three and not exceeding five, one half section, to each family of six and not exceeding ten, one section, and to each family of over ten in number one quarter section for each additional five members. And he may prescribe such rules and regulations as will insure to the family in case of the death of the head thereof, the possession and enjoyment of such permanent home and the improvements thereon. And the President may at any time at his discretion after such person or family has made a location on the land assigned for a permanent home issue a patent to such person or family of such assigned land conditioned that the land shall not be aliened or leased for a longer period than two years and shall be exempt from levy, sale or forfeiture.

And all the matters and things together with other matters and things more fully appear in the said treaty as published under the authority of the United States in the Statutes at Large vol. 10, p. 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer.

And your orator further says that on the 6th day of March 1114 1865 the said United States made and entered into a certain further treaty with the said tribe wherein and whereby the latter did cede to the United States a certain other tract of land north of what has been known as the Omaha reservation, for a consideration in said treaty named. Said treaty provided among other things that said tribe being desirous of promoting settled habits of industry and enterprise among themselves and of abolishing the tenure by which they then held their lands by assigning limited quantities thereof to the several members of the tribe, including their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with them, to be cultivated and used for their own individual benefit and use, it was therefore provided, agreed and stipulated that the remaining portion of their then reservation should be set apart for such purposes and that out of the same there should be assigned to each head of a family not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres of land, to each male member eighteen years of age and upwards, without family, not exceeding forty, and including in every case so far as practicable a reasonable proportion of timber. That the whole of said land assigned or unassigned should constitute and be known as the Omaha reservation, that said division and assignment of land in severalty should be made under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior and when approved by him should be final and conclusive, that certificates should be issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for the tract so assigned specifying the name of the individuals to whom they had been assigned respectively, and that they were for the exclusive use of themselves, their heirs and descendants, and that said tract should not be leased or other-
1115 wise disposed of except to the United States or other members of the tribe under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Interior should prescribe, and that they should be exempt from taxation, levy, sale or forfeiture, until otherwise provided for by the Congress, which said last mentioned treaty was published by the authority of the United States in vol. 14 page 667 of the Statutes at Large, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer.

And your orator further says that by act of Congress approved the 7th day of August, 1882, and which was duly approved and accepted by the Omaha tribe of Indians in May, 1883, entitled "An act to provide for the sale of a part of the reservation of the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska, and for other purposes," it was among other things provided that with the consent of said tribe expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should be authorized to cause to be surveyed and if necessary sold all that portion of the Omaha reservation lying west of a certain right of way thereupon granted by the said tribe to the Sioux City and Nebraska Railroad Company. That the proceeds of said sale, after paying expenses incident to carrying out of the provisions of said act, should be placed to the credit of the said tribe in the Treasury of the United States and should bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum, which income should be expended for the said Indians under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior. And the said act further provides that the said Secretary should be hereby authorized, either through the agent of the said tribe or such other person as he should designate, to allot the lands lying east of the said right of way granted the said railroad in severalty to the Indians of the said tribe.

1116 To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, and to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section, and that said allotments should be held and deemed in lieu of allotments provided for in the treaty of March 6th, 1865, provided that any Indian to whom any tract of land had been assigned and certificate issued and who was entitled to the same under the provisions of the said treaty if he had made valuable improvements thereon, and any Indian who being entitled to said assignment and said certificate under said treaty had settled and made valuable improvements upon the tract assigned to any Indian who had never improved or occupied said lands should have a preference right to select a tract upon which his improvements were situated for the allotment provided for by the said act and that all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each minor child. That upon the approval of the allotment as provided by the Secretary of the Interior he should cause patents to issue therefor, in the name of the allotees, which patents should be of the legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land that is allotted for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the Indian to whom such allotment should have been made, and in case of his decease of his heirs according to the laws of the State of Nebraska; and at the expiration of the said period the United States will convey the same by patent to the Indian or his said heirs in fee discharged of said trust and free of all charge and incumbrance and that the land

1117 should descend and be subject to partition according to the laws of the State of Nebraska. Said act was published by authority of the United States in vol. 22, in the Statutes at Large p. 341, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer.

And your orator further shows that his mother Celestine B. Kuhn was the daughter of Antoine Barada, who in turn was the son of Michael Barada and Taegleha Hacienda, who was as hereinbefore set forth an Indian woman of the said tribe; and your orator further shows that he has at all times since the year 1882, resided on the reservation, and that she attended the district schools and that the tuition therefor was paid out of an appropriation of money made out of the tribal funds of the said Omaha tribe, that in the year 1883 your orator took possession of a tract of land on the Omaha reservation as hereinafter described, having during the year marked and plowed the said tract, and has ever since taking possession of the said tract of land occupied and cultivated without objection on the part of the said tribe, and as such member of the said tribe under and by virtue of the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress herein above described and set forth occupied and has been occupying ever since the year 1887 the following described lands within and a part of the said reservation, situated in the county of Thurston, and State of Nebraska, and within the jurisdiction of this court, to-wit: S. ½ of S. E. ¼ of sec. 19, twp. 25 N. range 7 east, that such last described land is a part of the land described and referred to by the treaties and acts of Congress hereinabove set forth, and has been surveyed in accordance with the said treaties and acts of Congress; that your orator has placed lasting and valuable improvements upon the above described premises, and that no person or persons claim or did claim the same when first selected by your orator in accordance 1118 with the laws relating thereto and the notice received from the council of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and that it is occupied by your orator and that he is the only person who has occupied the said land under a claim of allotment, and that certificate of allotment or selection has been issued to no one, nor has allotment been made by the United States to any one, nor has patent issued therefor, and that the defendant The United States of America has not opposed the claims of your orator by reason of its having been selected or allotted to any one.

And your orator further shows that notwithstanding the facts herein above set forth and notwithstanding that he is within and under the laws entitled to an allotment of — acres as selected and above described, the defendant by and through its officers and agent refuses and neglects to make the allotment to which he is entitled, and notwithstanding he is now and has been unlawfully denied — to which he is and now claims to be entitled, by virtue of said treaties and acts of Congress. And in that behalf your orator shows that the defendant notwithstanding the selection and occupancy of the above described parcel of land by your orator refuses through the Department of the Interior to approve such selection of land so by him made although your orator has notified the defendant, through its proper officers and agents, that such selection was his right under the said treaties and acts of Congress. And the defendant notwithstanding such selection and notification refuses and has refused to cause the patent to issue for such allotment and selection in the name of your orator and heirs and denies that they have any right to any parcel of land upon what was the Omaha tribe of Indians' reservation and denies that he is an Omaha Indian or of Omaha blood and entitled to an allotment under the treaties and acts of Congress herein above referred to.

1119 And your orator further shows that in accordance with the laws of the United States of America, the defendant The United States of America has detailed and appointed to the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as agent of the United States of America over what is known as the Omaha reservation, as hereinbefore described, Charles P. Mathewson, who has been duly appointed by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate of the United States as agent for the Omaha and Winnebago tribe of Indians who is now in charge of the said lands of the reservation, including those in controversy and herein now claimed by your orator, and that the said Charles P. Mathewson is now the person by the laws of the United States designated to superintend and supervise and make allotment of said land to those members or former members of the Omaha tribe of Indians entitled to such allotment under the foregoing treaties and statutes. And that Charles P. Mathewson and the Secretary of the Interior of the United States, as representing the defendant refuse and neglect to make to your orator the allotment of land to which he is entitled and that notwithstanding her rights in the matter he is now and has been unlawfully denied the allotment to him of the parcel of land he now claims, and that defendant refuses to make unto him the allotment and refuses to issue to him the certificate and patent therefor to which he is entitled under the laws and treaties of the United States, notwithstanding the fact that under the said laws and treaties and the practice heretofore prevailing in the allotment of said lands as adopted and pursued by said defendant, it is the duty of the agent assigned to the said tribe, to issue to each member thereof, whether of mixed or of full blood, a certificate showing the location of the land selected by said Indian and that thereupon it becomes and is the duty of 1120 the Secretary of the Interior to issue to such members a patent for the land so selected under the laws hereinbefore set forth, and notwithstanding the fact that your orator has in all respects complied with the rules and regulations and requirements adopted and prescribed by the defendant, The United States of America, relating to the selection and allotment of lands.

And your orator further shows unto your honors that by the act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in part or in whole of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotments of land under any act of Congress, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action suit or proceeding, in relation to their right thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States, and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdictions involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty, the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any such claimant to an allotment of lands should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by the authority of the United States in vol. 28 of the Statutes at Large on page 305, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer, and as amended by act of Feb. 6th, 1901.

Plaintiff further states that the defendant The United States of America claims that under and by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, it was provided that the assignment be 1121 made in limited quantities to the individual members of the said tribe out of the land held by the said tribe in common, was confined to the members thereof of full blood, "including their half and mixed blood relatives, then residing with them."

And the defendant claims that the plaintiff and his ancestors were not residing on the reservation at the time and therefor- not entitled to land under the 4th art., of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Plaintiff admits that himself and his ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claims that such absence did not deprive him of the right of his residence on the reservation and the right of allotment under the treaty of March 6th 1865, or his rights of allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of the said treaty and the laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865 as certified to by the chiefs and head men of Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th, 1871 contained the names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe, who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule referred to, that under the provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, many half breed and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of making 1122 the schedule by the chiefs, the agent, the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and some of whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation at any time, but who at all times and at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865 and ever since had never resided on the reservation.

Plaintiff further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for under the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854 and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike. Plaintiff further states that the defendant claims that he or his ancestors have received an allotment of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, the 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of the said allotment under the policy of the Indian Office the plaintiff is not entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of the Omaha tribe of Indians; plaintiff admits that his ancestors received an allotment under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians that the quantity so assigned was one half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted nor given to him in consideration of the relinquishment of any right other than those to which he was entitled to on the Nemaha reservation.

That numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10 art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money which were 1123 accepted in consideration of the relinquishment to the United States of all of their rights and interests in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress section 6th, ch. 66 of the 3d session of the 35th Congress 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of allotments under the treaty of July 30, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the provisions of the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that this plaintiff has not in any manner assigned or relinquished his right of claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized this plaintiff, nor his ancestors, nor any of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this plaintiff or any member of this tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Plaintiff further states that at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, he was a minor and if the requirements as claimed as to residence at that time was necessary it was inapplicable to him by reason of that fact

Wherefore your orator shows to your honors that he is without remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity and he therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises and that the defendant may appear and answer this your orator's bill of complaint, but without oath (answer under oath being expressly waived); that it be ordered and 1124 decreed that your orator and his children are entitled to have allotted to them the lands described more particularly in this your orator's bill of complaint and that the defendant The United States of America be ordered and required to make and issue to your orator the patent contemplated and provided by the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress and to recognize in all respects the rights of your orator in and upon the lands so now by him occupied and that his rights and those of his children thereto under and by virtue of the said laws of the United States and treaties be forever established and that your orator and his children may have such other and further relief as may be agreeable to equity and good conscience.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orator the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court and to be directed to the United States of America therein and thereby commanding it on a certain day and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and perform and abide such order and decrees as to the court shall seem meet.

1125 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 21st day of September, 1901, answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to-wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

EDWARD KUHN, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.

Doc. "T," No. 502. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The Answer of The United States of America, Defendant, to the Amended Bill of Complaint of Edward Kuhn, Complainant.

This defendant now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto itself all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as this defendant is advised is or are material or necessary for it to make answer unto this defendant for answer, says:

1. This defendant denies that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and denies that complainant is or ever was a member of the

Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary, this defendant avers that the said complainant is a white man, and a citizen of the United States, and that his ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that his said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and this defendant denies that complainant or his ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the 1126 Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and denies that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant claims to trace his lineage back to Michael Barada, who intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but this defendant is not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leaves the complainant to his proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife in the year —, a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a free born white person, and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with his parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha tribe.

That the said Antoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vien, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife Josephine Vien continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years, until some time after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Stats at Large, 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

1127 That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a daughter named Celestine (the mother of this complainant) and the said Celestine was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis, and never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Celestine Barada, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a full blood white man named John Kuhn and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said John Kuhn and his wife Celestine, a son named Edward Kuhn, who is the complainant herein, and the said Edward Kuhn being such white person and citizen of the United States taking the status of his father continued to reside in the city of St. Louis and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when he came to the Omaha reservation with his parents, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.'

2. This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865 (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded complainant, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and he not 1128 then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882. (22 U. S. Statutes at Large p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and this defendant further avers that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or his ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of his ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

1129 3. This defendant further answering says: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters being of the same family with this plaintiff, and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "that the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedents or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names." and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant. That the said Antoine Barada was the grandfather of this complainant, and the said Celestine Kuhn and John Kuhn were the parents of this com-
1130 plainant, and Stella Kuhn and Ethel Kuhn Rutledge are sisters of this complainant.

4. This defendant further answering says: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Peters family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Peters family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of land on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a 1131 letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant is descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband, (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule and it is proper to conclude therefore that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

1132 If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not — all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, and the action of the department thereon.

1133 The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case. The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character and so has his wife.

Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relatives now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.]

1134 Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people were unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were born upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, of their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. This defendant further avers that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father, Michael Barada, to-wit: William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others including this plaintiff, persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians,
1135 and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington, was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We know that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8 and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

1136 This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

1137 If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect 1138 to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotment of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

1139 That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. This defendant further avers that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and complainant, failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such facts to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors, and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent, to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as she was of that class.

1140 This defendant further avers that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. This defendant further avers that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent,

Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which suits, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January, 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein, from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against 1141 the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. This defendant for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5 (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854 (10 U. S. Statutes at Large 332), a patent was issued to complainant's ancestor for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of the ancestor and his descendants including complainant, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians and to any further or other allotment of land.

10. This defendant further avers that the preference right to select lands for allotment under the act of Congress, August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) is confined by section 5, of said act to persons who had received or were entitled to receive an assignment and certificate of an allotment under the 4th article of the treaty with the Omahas concluding March 6, 1865, and Barada and Kuhn families had not received and were not entitled to receive an assignment and certificate for lands under said treaty, and by reason whereof, the said Barada and Kuhn families did not have and could not acquire any such interest in the lands described in the amended petition as would give them a preference over other Indians in the selection of land for allotment.

11. This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant did not select for allotment, and did not occupy or make any 1142 improvements on any of the lands described in the amended bill of complaint; and the defendant further avers that the complainant never lived upon the Omaha reservation until after the act of 1882, and never selected, improved, or cultivated any land whatsoever, upon the Omaha Indian reservation, and is not entitled to have or select any lands upon the Omaha Indian reservation for allotment.

12. This defendant for further answer admits that the United States allotting agent did reserve for the Kuhn family including this complainant, certain lands including the S. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 19, township 25, range 7, pending the result of this litigation, but that the reservation of lands for the Kuhn family was not and is not intended or to be construed as a recognition of the right of the complainant to have or select any part of said lands for allotment.

13. This defendant for further answer avers that the United States allotting agent in the course of his official duty and upon investigation did find that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and made an official report of his said finding to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and which said report and finding, that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation was approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and the Secretary of the Interior, and which said finding and judgment remains in full force and effect.

14. And this defendant says that if there is any other matter cause or thing in the said complainant's bill of complaint contained 1143 material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant, and this defendant denies that the complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

EDWARD KUHN, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendants.
} Docket "T," No. 502. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

1147 Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Edward Kuhn was not entitled to claim and have allotted to him the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit:

The east half of the northeast quarter of section nineteen (19) in township twenty-five (25) north of range seven (7) east.

1148 Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.
} Docket "T," No. 502. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November. 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives himself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an ap-

In the Circuit Court of the United States within and for the District of Nebraska.

ETHEL KUHN RUTLEDGE, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant. } No. 503, Docket "T." Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of said court:

Ethel Kuhn Rutledge brings this her bill of complaint against the United States of America, and thereupon your orator complains and says that the matter in dispute herein exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum or value of two thousand dollars, and arises under the Constitution and laws of the United States and under certain treaties made under their authority as hereinafter more specifically set forth.

Further your orator says that she is a member of what is or until recently was known as the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omahas in the various statutes of the United States, and the treaties hereinafter set forth. That she is of what is known as mixed blood and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada, who inter-married with one Taegleha Hacienda, an Indian woman of the said tribe. That your orator and her ancestors back to the said Michael Barada and his 1155 said wife, have continually maintained their domicile with the said tribe, and maintained tribal relations therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by the said tribe, and been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of the said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

Further complaining your orator says that on the 16th day of March, 1854 a certain treaty was entered into by and between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians wherein and whereby the said tribe ceded to the United States certain lands situated in what is now the State of Nebraska, south of what has recently been known as the Omaha reservation, and in consideration of the cession of the said land the United States agreed to pay and did pay unto the said tribe certain annuities for a certain period of years as set forth in the said treaty in the words and figures following:

Art. 4. In the consideration and payment for the country ceded and the relinquishment herein made the United States agree to pay the Omaha Indians, the several sums of money following:

1st. Forty thousand dollars per annum for a term of three years, commencing the first day of January, 1855.

2nd. Thirty thousand dollars per annum for a term of ten years succeeding the three years.

3rd. Twenty thousand dollars per annum for a term of fifteen years next succeeding the ten years.

4th. Ten thousand dollars per annum for a term of twelve years next succeeding the fifteen years.

All of which sums of money shall be paid to the said Omahas or expended for their benefit under the direction of the Presi-1156 dent of the United States, it was provided by art. 6, as follows: The President may from time to time at his discretion cause the whole of the portion of the land thereby reserved as he may think proper or of such land as may be selected in lieu thereof as provided in art. 1st, to be surveyed into lots and to be assigned to the Indians of said tribe as are willing to avail themselves of the privileges and who will locate upon the same as a permanent home, if a single person over 21 years of age, one eighth of a section, to each family of two one quarter of a section, to each family of three not exceeding five one half section, and to each family of six not exceeding ten, one section, and to each family over ten in number one quarter section for each additional five members.

And he may prescribe such rules and regulations as will insure to the family in case of the death of the head thereof the possession and enjoyment of such permanent home and the improvements thereon. And the President may at any time at his discretion after such person and family has made a selection and the land assigned for a permanent home issue a patent to such person or family of such assigned land conditioned that the land shall not be aliened or leased for a longer period than two years and shall be exempt from levy, sale or forfeiture.

And all the matters and the things together with other matters and things more fully appear in the said treaty as published under the authority of the United States in the Statutes at Large vol. 10, p. 1045 to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer.

And your orator further says that on the 6th day of March 1865, the said United States made and entered into a certain further treaty with the said tribe wherein and whereby the latter did 1157 cede to the United States a certain other tract of land north of what has been known as the Omaha reservation, for a consideration in said treaty named. Said treaty provided among other things that said tribe being desirous of promoting settled habits of industry and enterprise among themselves and of abolishing the tenure by which they then held their lands by assigning limited quantities thereof to the several members of the tribe, including their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with them, to be cultivated and used for their own individual use and benefit, it was therefore provided, agreed and stipulated that the remaining portion of their then reservation should be set apart for such purposes and that out of the same there should be assigned to each head of a family not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres, to each male member eighteen years of age, and upwards, without family, not exceeding forty acres, and including in every case so far as practicable, a reasonable proportion of timber. That the whole of said land, assigned or unassigned, should constitute and be known as the Omaha reservation, that said division and assignment of land in severalty should be made under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior and when approved by him should be final and conclusive, that certificates should be issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for the tract so assigned specifying the names of the individuals to whom they had been assigned respectively and that they were for the exclusive use of themselves, their heirs and descendants, and that said tract should not be leased or otherwise disposed of except to the United States or other members of the tribe under such rules and regulations as might be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, and that they should be exempt from taxation, levy, sale or forfeiture until otherwise provided for by the Congress which 1158 last mentioned treaty was published by the authority of the United States in vol. 14, of the Statutes at Large on page 667, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer.

And your orator further says that by act of Congress approved August 7th, 1882, and which was duly approved and adopted by the Omaha tribe of Indians in May, 1883, entitled "An act to provide for the sale of a part of the reservation of the Omaha tribe of Indians in the State of Nebraska," it was among other things provided that with the consent of the said tribe expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should be authorized to cause to be surveyed and if necessary sold, all that portion of the Omaha reservation lying west of a certain right of way thereupon granted by the said tribe through the said reservation to the Sioux City and Nebraska Railroad Company.' That the proceeds of said sale, after paying expenses incident to carrying out of the provisions of the said act, should be placed to the credit of the said tribe in the Treasury of the United States and should bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum which income should be expended for the said Indians under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior And the said act further provides that the said Secretary should be hereby authorized, either through the agent of the said tribe or such other person as he might designate, to allot the lands lying east of the right of way granted the said railroad in severalty to the said Indians of the said tribe.

To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, and to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section; and that said allotments should be deemed and held in lieu of allotments pro-1159 vided for in said treaty of March 6th, 1865, provided that any Indian to whom any tract of land has been assigned and certificate issued and who was entitled to the same under the provisions of the said treaty if he had made valuable improvements thereon, and any Indian who being entitled to said assignment and certificate under said treaty had settled and made valuable improvements upon the tract assigned to any Indian who had never improved or occupied said land should have a preference right to select a tract upon which his improvements were situated for the allotment provided for by the said act and that all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. That upon the approval of the allotment as provided for by the Secretary of the Interior he should cause patents to issue therefor in the name of the allottees, which patents should be of the legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land that is allotted for a period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the Indian to whom the allotment should have been made, and in case of his decease of his heirs according to the laws of the State of Nebraska; and at the expiration of the said period the United States will convey the same by patent to the said Indian or his said heirs in fee discharged of the said trust and free of all charge and incumbrance, and that the — should descend and be subject to partition in accordance with the laws of the State of Nebraska. Said act was published by the authority of the United States in vol. 22 of the Statutes at Large page 341, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer.

And your orator further shows that her mother was Celestine B. Kuhn, who in turn was the daughter of Antoine Barada, who 1160 in turn was the son of Michael Barada and Taegleha Hacienda, who was as hereinbefore set forth, an Omaha Indian woman, and member of the said tribe; and that your orator further shows that she has at all times since the year 1882 resided on the reservation, except that she is now temporarily absent therefrom with her husband; that she attended the district schools and that the tuition therefor was paid out of an appropriation of money made out of the tribal funds of the said Omaha tribe of Indians, that in the year 1883 your orator took possession of a tract of land on the Omaha reservation as hereinafter described, having during the year marked and plowed the said tract, and has ever since taking possession of the said tract of land occupied and cultivated it without objection on the part of the said tribe, and as such member of the said tribe under and by virtue of the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress hereinabove described and set forth occupied and has been occupying ever since the year 1887 the following described lands within and a part of the said reservation, situated in the county of Thurston, and State of Nebraska, and within the jurisdiction of this court, to-wit: N. ½ of S. E. ¼ sec. 19 twp. 25 N. range 7 east; that such last described land is a part of the land described and referred to by the treaties and acts of Congress hereinabove set forth, and has been surveyed in accordance with the said treaties and acts of Congress; that your orator has placed lasting and valuable improvements upon the above described premises, and that no person or persons claim or did claim the same when first selected by your orator in accordance with the laws relating thereto and the notice received from the counsel of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and that it is occupied by your orator and that she is the only person who has occupied the said land under a claim of allotment, and that certificate

1161 of allotment or selection has been issued to no one, nor has allotment been made by the United States to any one, nor has patent issued therefor, and that the defendant The United States of America has not opposed the claims of your orator to said land by reason of its having been selected or allotted to any person.

And your orator further shows that notwithstanding the facts hereinabove set forth and notwithstanding that she is within and under the laws entitled to an allotment of eighty acres as selected and above described, the defendant by and through its officers and agent refuses and neglects to make the allotment to which she is entitled, and notwithstanding she is now and has been unlawfully denied the allotment to which she is and claims to be lawfully entitled, by virtue of said treaties and acts of Congress. And in that behalf your orator shows that the defendant notwithstanding the selection and occupancy of the above described parcel of land by your orator, refuses through the Department of the Interior to approve such selection of land so made by her although your orator has notified the defendant, through its proper officers and agents, that such selection was her right under the said treaties and acts of Congress. And the defendant notwithstanding such selection and notification refuses and has refused to cause the patent to issue for such allotment and selection in the name of your orator and heirs and denies that they have any right to any parcel or tract of land upon what was the Omaha tribe of Indians reservation and denies that she is an Omaha Indian or of Omaha blood and entitled to an allotment under the treaties and acts of Congress hereinabove referred to.

And your orator further shows that in accordance with the laws of the United States of America, the defendant The United 1162 States of America has detailed and appointed to the Omaha tribe of Indians and as agent of the United States of America over what is known as the Omaha reservation, as hereinbefore described, Charles P. Mathewson, who has been duly appointed by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate of the United States as agent for the Omaha and Winnebago tribes of Indians who is now in charge of the said lands of the reservation, including those in controversy and now claimed by your orator and that the said Charles P. Mathewson is now the person by the laws of the United States to superintend and supervise and make allotments of said land to these members or former members of the Omaha tribe of Indians entitled to such allotment under the foregoing treaties and statutes. And that said Charles P. Mathewson and the Secretary of the Interior of the United States, as representing the defendant refuse and neglect to make to your orator the allotment of land to which she is entitled and that notwithstanding their rights in the premises she is now and has been unlawfully denied the allotment to her of the parcel of land which she now claims, and that the defendant refuses to make unto her the allotment and refuses to issue to her the certificate and paten theretor to which she is entitled under the laws and treaties of the United States, notwithstanding the fact that under the said laws and treaties and the practice heretofore prevailing in the allotment of said lands as adopted and pursued by said defendant, it is the duty of the agent assigned to the said tribe to issue to each member thereof, whether of mixed or of full blood, a certificate showing the location of the land selected by said Indian and that thereupon it becomes and is the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to issue to such members a patent for the lands so selected under the laws hereinbefore set forth, 1163 and notwithstanding the fact that your orator has in all respects complied with the requirements, rules and regulations adopted and prescribed by the defendant, The United States of America, relating to the selection and allotment of lands.

And your orator further shows unto your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotments of land under any act of Congress, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their right thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdictions involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any such claimant to an allotment of lands should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by the authority of the United States in vol. 28 of the Statutes at Large on page 305, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer, and as amended by act of Congress of Feb. 6th, 1901.

Plaintiff further states that the defendant The United States of America claims that under and by virtue of the 4th article of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, it was provided that the assignment — be made in limited quantities from the lands held by the 1164 said tribe in common to the individual members thereof, was confined to the members thereof of full blood "including their half and mixed blood relatives now residing with them," but the defendant claims that the plaintiff and her ancestors were not residing on the reservation at the time and therefor- not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Plaintiff admits that herself and her ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claims that such absence did not deprive her of the right of her residence on the reservation and the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865 or her rights to allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of the said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th 1865 as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December 1870, and submitted and approved by the Superintendent of Indian Affairs January 21st, 1871 and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th, 1871 contained the names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe, who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule referred to, that under the provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, many half breed and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865 nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of the ap-
1165 proval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent, the superintendant, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior and some of whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation at any time, but who at all times and at the time of making the treaty of March 6th 1865 and ever since had never resided on the reservation.

Plaintiff further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for under the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Plaintiff further states that the defendant claims that the plaintiff or her ancestors have received an allotment of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, the 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian office the plaintiff is not entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of the Omaha tribe of Indians; plaintiff admits that her ancestors received an allotment of land under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians that the quantity so assigned to her was one half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by her nor given to her in consideration of the relinquishment of any right other than those to which she was entitled to on the Nemaha reservation.

That numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 1166 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money — were accepted in consideration of the relinquishment to the United States of all of their rights and interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th ch. 66 of the third session of the 35th Congress 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments under the treaty of July 30th, 1830 have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March 1865 and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th 1882; that this plaintiff has not in any manner assigned or relinquished her right of claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized this plaintiff, nor her ancestors nor any of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this plaintiff or any member of this tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Plaintiff further states that at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, she was a minor and if the requirements as claimed by the defendant as to residence at that time was necessary it was inapplicable to her because of that fact.

Wherefore your orator shows to your honors that she is without remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity and she therefore prays the 1167 aid of the court in the premises and that the said defendant may appear and answer this your orator's bill but without oath (answer under oath being expressly waived). That it be ordered and decreed that your orator and her children are entitled to have allotted to them the lands described more particularly in this your orator's bill of complaint and that the defendant The United States of America be ordered and required to make the issue to your orator the patent contemplated and provided by the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress and to recognize in all respects the rights of your orator to and upon the lands so now by her occupied and that her rights and those of her children thereto under and by virtue of the said laws of the United States and treaties be forever established and that your orator and her children may have such other and further relief as may be agreeable to equity and good conscience.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orator the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court and to be directed to the United States of America therein and thereby commanding it on a certain day and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and to perform and abide such order and decree as to the court shall seem meet.

THOMAS L. SLOAN,
Solicitor for Complainant.

CHAS. E. CLAPP, Of Counsel.

Endorsed: Filed Oct. 9, 1899, Oscar B. Hillis, clerk, by R. C. Hoyt, deputy. Re-filed Jul-. 11, 1901, Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

1168 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 21st day of September, 1901 answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

ETHEL KUHN RUTLEDGE, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.	Doc. "T," No. 503. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The Answer of The United States of America, Defendant, to the Amended Bill of Complaint of Ethel Kuhn Rutledge, Complainant.

This defendant now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto itself all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as this defendant is advised is or are material or necessary for it to make answer unto this defendant for answer, says:

1. This defendant denies that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and denies that complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary, this defendant avers that the said complainant is a white woman, and a citizen of the United States, and that her ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that her said ancestors
1169 were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and this defendant denies that complainant or her ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and denies that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and denies that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant claims to trace her lineage back to Michael Barada, who intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but this defendant is not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leaves the complainant to her proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife in the year —, a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a free born white person, and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with his parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha tribe.

That the said Antoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vien, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife 1170 Josephine Vien continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years, until some time after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a daughter named Celestine (the mother of this complainant), and the said Celestine was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis, and — never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Celestine Barada, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a full blood white man named John Kuhn, and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said John Kuhn and his wife Celestine, a daughter named Ethel, who is the complainant herein, and the said Ethel, being such white person and citizen of the United States taking the status of her father continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when she came to the Omaha reservation with her parents, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the 1171 reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded complainant, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and he not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and this defendant further avers that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and ap-
1172 proved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or her ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of her ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. This defendant further answering says: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern,

William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, 1173 Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedants or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names" and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant: that the said Antoine Barada was the grandfather of this complainant, and the said Celestine B. Kuhn and John Kuhn were the parents of this complainant, and Edward Kuhn and Stella Kuhn are brother and sister of this complainant.

4. This defendant further answering says: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Peters family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Peters family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotments of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

1174 5. "The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celeste Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant is descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection- of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

1175 Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date of December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore, that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of

Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the In-
1176 dians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case.

The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omaha-.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

1177 Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to land to be "the members of the tribe including their half breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people were unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were born upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, of their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

1178 6. This defendant further avers that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father, Michael Barada, to-wit: William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others including this plaintiff, persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about the intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We know that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

1179 They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8 and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay there too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should to to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out 1180 on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by 1181 them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The — article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotment of their lands in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allot ments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha
1182 reservation, under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. This defendant further avers that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and complainant failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such facts to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

1183 On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders, and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent, to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as she was of that class.

This defendant further avers that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are — entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. This defendant further avers that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont,

1184 Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which suits, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein, from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. This defendant for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5 (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854 (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to complainant's ancestor for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of the ancestor and his descendants including complainant, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians and to any further or other allotment of land.

10. This defendant further avers that the preference right to select lands for allotment under the act of Congress, August 7, 1882 (12 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) is confined by section 5 of said act to persons who had received or were entitled to receive an assignment and certificate of an allotment under the 4th article of the 1185 treaty with the Omahas concluding March 6, 1865, and Barada and Kuhn families had not received and were not entitled to receive an assignment and certificate for lands under said treaty, and by reason whereof, the said Barada and Kuhn families did not have and could not acquire any such interest in the lands described in the amended petition as would give them a preference over other Indians in the selection of land for allotment.

11. This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant did not select for allotment, and did not occupy or make any improvements on any of the lands described in the amended bill of complaint; and the defendant further avers that the complainant never lived upon the Omaha reservation until after the act of 1882, and never selected improved, or cultivated any land whatsoever, upon the Omaha Indian reservation, and is not entitled to have or select any lands upon the Omaha Indian reservation for allotment.

12. This defendant for further answer admits that the United States allotting agent did reserve for the Kuhn family including this complainant, certain lands including the N. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 19, township 25, range 7, pending the result of this litigation, but that the reservation of land for the Kuhn family was not and is not intended or to be construed as a recognition of the right of the complainant to have or select any part of said lands for allotment.

13. This defendant for further answer avers that the United States allotting agent in the course of his official duty and upon investigation did find that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment
1186 of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and made an official report of his said finding to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and which said report and finding, that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation was approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and the Secretary of the Interior, and which said finding and judgment remains in full force and effect.

And this defendant says that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's bill of complaint contained material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant, and this defendant denies that the complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

ETHEL KUHN RUTLEDGE, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant. } Docket "T," No. 503. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

1190 Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Ethel Kuhn Rutledge was not entitled to claim and have allotted to her the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit:

The west half of the northeast quarter of section nineteen (19) in township twenty-five (25) north, of range seven (7) east.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendant and against the complainant.

1191 Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

ETHEL KUHN RUTLEDGE, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant. } Docket "T," No. 503. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives herself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, and

In the Circuit Court of the United States within and for the State of Nebraska.

CHARLES A. FROST, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.
} No. 504, Docket "T." Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of said court:

Charles A. Frost brings this his bill of complaint against the United States of America, and thereupon your orator complains and says that the matter in dispute herein exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum or value of two thousand dollars, and arises under the Constitution and laws of the United States and under certain treaties made under their authority as hereinafter more specifically set forth.

Further your orator says that he is a member of what is or until recently was known as the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omaha- in the various statutes of the United States and the treaties herein set forth. That he is of what is known as mixed blood and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada who inter-married with one Taegleha Hacienda an Indian woman of the said tribe. That your orator and his ancestors back to said Michael Barada and his said wife, have continually maintained their domicile with said tribe, and main-1198 tained tribal relations therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by said tribe, and been recognized by the United States of America, the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

Further complaining your orator says that on the 16th day of March, 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians wherein and whereby the said tribe ceded to the United States certain land situated in what is now the State of Nebraska, south of what has recently been known as the Omaha reservation, and in consideration of the cession of the said land the United States agreed to pay and did pay unto the said tribe certain annuities for a certain period of years as set forth in said treaty in the words and figures following:

Art. 4. In the consideration of and the payment for the country ceded and relinquishment herein made the United States agree to pay the Omaha Indians, the several sums of money following:

1st. Forty thousand dollars per annum for a term of three years, commencing the first day of January, 1855.

2nd. — for a term of ten years succeeding the three years.

3d. Twenty thousand dollars per annum for a term of fifteen years next succeeding the ten years.

4th. Ten thousand dollars per annum for a term of twelve years, next succeeding the fifteen years.

All of which several sums of money shall be paid to the Omahas or expended for their benefit under the direction of the President of the United States, who may from time to time determine at his discretion what proportion shall be applied to and be expended for their moral improvement and education.

1199 In addition to the foregoing covenants and agreements others are contained and set forth in said treaty.

And your orator further says that among other things in said treaty set forth, it was provided by art. 6, as follows: The President may from time to time at his discretion, cause the whole of the portion of the land thereby reserved as he may think proper or of such land as may be selected in lieu thereof as provided in art. 1st, to be surveyed into lots and to assign to the Indians of said tribe as are willing to avail themselves of the privileges and who will locate upon the same as a permanent home, if a single person over 21 years of age, one eighth of a section, to each family of two, one quarter of a section, to each family of three and not exceeding five, one half section, to each family of six and not exceeding ten, one section, and to each family over ten in number one quarter section for each additional five members. And he may prescribe such rules and regulations as will insure to the family in case of death of the head thereof, the possession and enjoyment of such permanent home and the improvement thereon. And the President may at any time at his discretion, after such person and family has made a selection — the land assigned for a permanent home — a patent to such person or family of such assigned land conditioned that the land shall not be aliened or leased for a longer period than two years and shall be exempt from levy, sale or forfeiture.

And all the matters and the things together with other matters and things more fully appear in the said treaty as published under the authority of the United States in the Statutes at Large vol. 10 p. 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

1200 And your orator further says that on the sixth day of March, 1865, the said United States made and entered into a certain further treaty with the said tribe wherein and whereby the latter did cede to the United States a certain other tract of land north of what has been known as the Omaha reservation, for a consideration in said treaty named. Said treaty provided among other things that said tribe being desirous of promoting settled habits of industry and enterprise among themselves and of abolishing the tenure by which they then held their lands by assigning limited quantities thereof to the several members of the tribe, including their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with them, to be cultivated and used for their own use and benefit, it was therefor- provided, agreed and stipulated that the remaining portion of their then reservation should be set apart for such purposes and that out of the same there should be assigned to each head of a family not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres of land, to each male member eighteen years of age and upwards, without family, not exceeding forty, and including in every case so far as practicable a reasonable proportion of timber. That the whole of said land assigned or unassigned, should constitute and be known as the Omaha reservation, that said division of land in severalty should be made under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior and when approved by him should be final and conclusive and that certificates should be issued by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for the tract so assigned specifying the name- of the individuals to whom they had been assigned respectively, and that they were for the exclusive use of themselves, their heirs and descendants, and that said tract should not be leased or other-1201 wise disposed of except to the United States or other members of the tribe under such rules and regulations as might be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, and that they should be exempt from taxation, levy, sale or forfeiture, until otherwise provided for by the Congress, which said last mentioned treaty was published by authority of the United States in vol. 14, of the Statutes at Large on page 667 to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

And your orator further says that by act of Congress approved the 7th day of August, 1882, which was duly approved and accepted by the Omaha tribe of Indians in May, 1883, entitled "An act to provide for the sale of a part of the reservation of the Omaha tribe of Indians in the State of Nebraska and for other purposes," it was among other things provided that with the consent of said tribe expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should be authorized to cause to be surveyed and if necessary sold all that portion of the Omaha reservation lying west of a certain right of way thereupon granted by the said tribe through the reservation to the Sioux City and Nebraska Railroad Company. That the proceeds of said sale, after paying expenses incident to carrying out of the provisions of said act, should be placed to the credit of the said tribe in the Treasury of the United States and should bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum which income should be expended for the said Indians under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior. And the said act further provides that the said Secretary should be authorized, either through the agent of the said tribe or such other person as he might designate, to allot the lands lying east of the said right of way granted the said railroad in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

1202 To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, and to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section, and that said

allotments should be deemed and held in lieu of allotments provided for in said treaty of March 6th, 1865, provided that any Indian to whom had been assigned a tract of land and certificate issued and who was entitled to the same under the provisions of said treaty if he had made valuable improvements thereon, and any Indian who being entitled to said assignment and certificate under said treaty had settled and made valuable improvements upon the tract assigned to any Indian who had never improved or occupied said lands should have a preference to select a tract upon which his improvements were situated for the allotment provided for by this act and that all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. That upon the approval of the allotment as provided by the Secretary of the Interior he should cause patents to issue therefor in the name- of the allo-tees, which patents should be of the legal effect and declare that the United States does and will hold the land that is allotted for the period of twenty-five years in trust for the sole use and benefit of the Indian to whom such allotment should have been made, and in case of his decease of his heirs according to the laws of the State of Nebraska; and at the expiration of the said period the United States will convey the same by patent to the said Indian or his said heirs in fee discharged of said trust and free of all charge and incumbrance, and that the land should descend and be subject to partition in accordance with 1203 the laws of the State of Nebraska. Said act was published by authority of the United States in vol. 22 of the Statutes at Large on page 341, to which for greater certainty your orator begs leave to refer.

And your orator further shows that his mother, Artemesia Frost, was recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and that she received an allotment on the Nemaha half breed tract and that she has lived on the present reservation and does live upon the said reservation at the present time. That his mother since the treaty of 1865 has been recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and has been enrolled upon the tribal roll and drawn annuity money for herself and some of her children and that she has the benefit of tribal property, the mill and other common property of the tribe.

That his mother was the daughter of Margaret Sloan who was also recognized as a member of the tribe who received the benefits of tribal property under the treaty of 1854 and the later treaty of March 6th, 1865, that your orator has selected the following described land for allotment of which he is now in possession, S. E. ¼ section 8, twp. 25, N. range 7 E. of the 6th P. M., in Nebraska; that such described property is a part of the land described and referred to in the treaties and acts of Congress herein above set out and has been surveyed in accordance with the treaties and acts of Congress; that your orator has placed valuable improvements upon the above described premises, and that no person or persons claim or did claim the same when first selected by your orator in accordance with the laws relating thereto and the notice received from the council of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and that it is occupied by your orator and that he is the only person who has occupied the said land under a claim for allotment, and that 1204 certificate of allotment or selection of said land has been issued to no one nor has allotment been made by the United States to any person whatever, nor has patent issued therefor, and that the defendant The United States of America has not opposed the claim of your orator to said land by reason of its having been selected or allotted to any person.

Your orator further has been recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe by the United States in admitting him as a pupil at the Omaha agency boarding school maintained for the exclusive use of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians and requiring of him strict attendance. That he has been sent by the U. S. Government to school at Hampton, Va., all expense of his attendance and transportation being paid by them.

And your orator further shows that notwithstanding the facts herein above set forth and notwithstanding that he is within and under the provisions of the law entitled to an allotment of eighty acres as selected and above described, the defendant by and through its officers and agent refuses and neglects to make the allotment to which he is entitled, and notwithstanding he is now and has been unlawfully denied the allotment to which he is and claims to be lawfully entitled by virtue of said treaties and acts of Congress. And in that behalf your orator shows that the defendant notwithstanding the selection and occupancy of the above described parcel of land by your orator, refuses through the Department of the Interior to approve such selection of land so made by him although your orator has notified the defendant, through its proper officers and agents, that such selection was his right under the said treaties and acts of Congress. And the defendant notwithstanding such selec-1205 tion and notification refuses and has refused to cause the patent to issue for such allotment and selection in the name of your orator and heirs and denies that they have any right to any parcel or tract of land upon what was the Omaha Indian reservation and denies that he is an Omaha Indian or of Omaha blood and entitled to an allotment of land under the treaties and acts of Congress herein above referred to.

And your orator further shows that in accordance with the laws of the United States of America, the defendant The United States of America has detailed and appointed to the said Omaha tribe of Indians, and as agent of the United States of America over what is known as the Omaha reservation, as hereinabove described Charles P. Mathewson, who has been duly appointed by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate of the United States as agent for the Omaha and Winnebago tribes of Indians who is now in charge of said lands of the reservation, including those in controversy including those herein now claimed by your orator and that the said Charles P. Mathewson is now the person designated by the laws of the United States to superintend and supervise and make allotment of said land to these members or former members of the Omaha tribe of Indians entitled to allotment under the foregoing treaties and statutes. And that said Charles P. Mathewson and the Secretary of the Interior of the United States. as representing the defendant refuse and neglect to make to your orator the allotment of the land to which he is entitled and that notwithstanding their rights in the premises they are now and have been unlawfully denied the allotment to them of the said parcel of land which he now claims, and that the defendant refuses to make unto him the allotment and refuses to issue to him certificate therefor to which he is entitled under the laws and treaties of the United States, not-1206 withstanding that under the laws and treaties and the practice heretofore prevailing in the allotment of said land as adopted and pursued by said defendant, it is the duty of the agent assigned to said tribe to issue to each member thereof, whether of mixed or of full blood, a certificate showing the location of land selected by said Indian and that thereupon it becomes and is the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to issue to such members a patent for the lands so selected under the laws hereinbefore set forth, and notwithstanding the fact that your orator has in all respects complied with the requirements, rules and regulations adopted and described by the defendant, The United States of America, relating to the selection and allotment of the said lands.

And your orator further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of lands under any act of Congress, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their right thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States, and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305, to which for greater certainty your orator begs 1207 to refer.

Plaintiff further states that the defendant The United States of America claims that under and by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, it was provided that the assignment

— be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood, "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them," and the defendant claims that the plaintiff and his ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Plaintiff admits that himself and his ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claim- that such absence did not deprive him of the right of his residence on the reservation and the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th 1865, or his rights to allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865 as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretaryof the Interior, January 26th, 1871 contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods relatives of the Omaha tribe, who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of 1208 making the schedule referred to that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breed and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th 1865, nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent — the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and some of whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation at any time, but at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since never resided on the reservation.

Plaintiff further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Plaintiff further states that the defendant claims that the plaintiff for his ancestors has received allotment of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, the 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian Office the plaintiff is not entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; plaintiff admits that his ancestors received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians that the quantity so assigned was one half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by her nor given to her in consid-1209 eration of the relinquishment of any other right than those to which she was entitled to on the Nemaha reservation.

That numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money — were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66 of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that this plaintiff has not in any manner assigned or relinquished his right of claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized this plaintiff, nor his ancestors, nor any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this plaintiff or any member of this tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Plaintiff further states that at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865 he was a minor and if the requirement as claimed by the defendant as to residence at that time was necessary it was inapplicable to him by reason of that fact.

1210 Wherefore your orator shows to your honors that he is without remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity and he therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises and that the said defendant may appear and answer this your orator's bill but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That it be ordered and decreed that your orator and his children are entitled to have allotted to them the lands described more particularly in this your orator's bill of complaint and that the defendant The United States of America be ordered and required to make the issue to your orator the patent contemplated and provided by the foregoing treaties and acts of Congress and to recognize in all respects the rights of your orator to and upon the lands so now by him occupied and that his rights and those of his children thereto under and by virtue of the laws of the said United States and treaties be forever established and that your orator and his children may have such other and further relief as may be agreeable to equity and good conscience.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orator the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court to be directed to the United States of America, therein and thereby commanding it on a certain day and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and abide and perform such order and decrees therein as to the court shall seem meet.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

CHARLES A. FROST, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.

Doc. "T," No. 504. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The Answer of The United States of America to the Amended Bill of Complaint of Charles A. Frost, Complainant.

This defendant now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto itself all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections of the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, and for answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as this defendant is advised is or are material or necessary for it to make answer unto this defendant for answer, says:

1. This defendant denies that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and denies that complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, upon the contrary this defendant avers that the said complainant is a white man and a citizen of the United States, and that his ancestors were white

1215 persons and citizens of the United States, and that his said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and this defendant denies that the ancestors of complainant ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and denies that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe; and denies that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

This defendant for further answer avers that Charles A. Frost, complainant, claims to trace his lineage back to Michael Barada who intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but this defendant is not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood or the blood of some other Indian tribe and therefore leaves the complainant to his proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife in the year 1811, a daughter by the name of Margaret Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of her father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Margaret Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with her parents until the year 1854, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

1216 That the said Margaret Barada intermarried with one Thomas Sloan, the grandfather of this complainant, and that said Thomas Sloan was a free born white man of Irish nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Margaret and her husband Thomas Sloan continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years until some time after the approved act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 341), hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Thomas Sloan and his wife Margaret there was born a daughter named Artemesia Sloan (the mother of this complainant) and the said Artemesia Sloan was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and lived in the city of St. Louis and was never on the Omaha reservation. That the said Artemesia Sloan so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a full blood white man named Leonard Frost, and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said Leonard Frost and his wife Artemesia, a son named Charles A. Frost, who is the complainant herein; and the said Charles A. Frost being such white person and citizen of the United States, took the status of his father and continued to reside in the city of St. Louis and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when he came to the Omaha reservation with his parents with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under the said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

1217 2. This defendant for further answer avers that complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress of 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865 (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty only included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded complainant, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and he not living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provision of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 342), provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865; and this defendant further avers that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha
1218 tribe of Indians, and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of complainant or his ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of his ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. This defendant further answering says: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherin Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters were complainants, and Robert H. Ashley, and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, said Thomas L. Sloan made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and fur-1219 ther certified to the court, "that the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedents or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including these complainants.

4. This defendant further answering, says: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Thomas L. Sloan and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher as United States allotting agent caused the claim of Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and on April 28, 1884, reported the facts thereon to the Interior Department, and said department, under date of May 9, 1884, ruled and determined that Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or re-
1220 ceive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. This defendant further avers that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit:—William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors, and others persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claim under similar state of facts, including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst. upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with 1221 lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6th, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The 4th article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and and among them the Peters family came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882 none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

1222 In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.
93—453

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

6. This defendant further avers that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including Thomas L. Sloan, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, 1223 William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force, and under date of October 17, 1890, the United States Indian agent made the following report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs regarding Margaret Sloan, Thomas Sloan that he did, "on the 24th day of October, 1890, give written notice to Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan to leave the Omaha reservation under instruction of office order of August 27, 1890.

I would further say in explanation that the Omaha Indians in council on 7th day of October, discussed this matter with the Sloans, and it was almost unanimous opinion and wish that they be removed from the reservation the same as Peters and others. I am unable to find where the Sloans have any more right than the others mentioned and take them to be of "like class" as mentioned in yours of the 27th of August."

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which said recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Frank Peters, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters, and which included Thomas L. Sloan as he was of that class.

1224 This defendant further avers that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are — entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1888, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

7. This defendant further avers that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, We-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January, 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken, and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the 1225 United States for the district of Nebraska entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree dismissed the complainants' bill and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

8. This defendant further avers that afterward the said Margaret Sloan and Thomas Sloan endeavored to have themselves adopted into the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to have themselves recognized by the Interior Department as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to that end submitted to the department certain petitions purporting to be signed by certain members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that under date of September 6, 1894 the department ruled that the said Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan should not be admitted to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and accordingly so ordered, and in which order and opinion the department held as follows:

"Aside from the general proposition that the question of adopting the Sloans as members of the tribe is one in a measure separate and distinct from their alleged rights as Omaha Indians by blood, and that such alleged right is not necessarily a test for such adoption, there remains the right to admission by the free will and consent of the tribe, if fairly and properly obtained.

Upon their faces, the several petitions presented with your letter seem to be in proper form, and to express the desire of a majority of the members of the tribe that the persons in question shall be placed upon the rolls of the tribe, and be admitted to all the rights and privileges of other members thereof.

1226 Besides the opposing petition hereinbefore referred to, the department is in receipt of recent information which shows that of the one hundred and fifty-seven persons whose names appear on the six petitions presented with your letter, only seventy now favor the claimants; that eleven others have since assented to their adoption, making eighty-one in all now favorable; that twenty-four of the signatures thereon were not written by the parties whose names are given, nor was the use of their names authorized by them, that fifteen names were signed twice, and that the said petitions bear the names of nine boys and three women—neither of whom have any voice in such matters; that one of the nine members of the council purporting to have signed one of the petitions, did not sign nor authorize the use of his name, and further that there are about one hundred and eighteen male members of the tribe, of lawful age, who oppose the adoption of the Sloans.

Without expressing any opinion of the merits of the petitions in question, the facts seem to clearly establish the belief that it is the desire and wish of a majority of the members of the tribe, that the Sloans be not admitted to membership and it is so ordered.

In reference to that part of your report wherein you state that Thomas L. Sloan has held and improved a tract of land since 1881 or 1882, on the Omaha reservation, it would seem that he is doing so in defiance of any legal authority of occupation."

That after the above order and ruling of the department, the counsel for Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan applied to the department for reconsideration of the adoption case, and the 1227 department under date of November 17, 1896, re-affirmed this ruling and among other things therein said:

"It is not denied, nor has it ever been, that the Sloans, mother and son, are of part Omaha Indian blood. The tribe recognized them as such and made provision for them, with others, by the treaty of 1830, and in the opinion of the department, and the Omahas themselves, their claim- as such mixed bloods were extinguished by the lands given them under the terms of the tenth article of the treaty named.

* * * * * * *

The claims of Margaret and her son William E. were extinguished prior to the birth of Thomas L. It is nowhere alleged or claimed that the latter is the offspring of a mother of Indian blood, much more of one of Omaha blood. The presumption is, therefore, that his mother was a white woman.

The claims of Margaret and Thomas L. are based upon their birthright as Omaha Indians and upon their alleged adoption in recent years by the tribe.

The birthright claim of Margaret has been extinguished. Thomas L. never had such claim. Neither of them have any claim by adoption, never having been regularly, fairly or properly adopted by the tribe, as was shown by department letter of September 6, 1894.

Notwithstanding that Mr. Breckenridge has advised the department by letter dated the 30th ultimo, of his withdrawal as attorney for the claimants, I have caused this review of the case to be made, and adhere to the opinion expressed in department letter of September 6, 1894, that the persons named have no valid, legal claims to membership with the Omaha tribe of Indians.

And defendant avers that the above ruling of the Department of the Interior established the fact that Margaret Sloan and her 1228 descendants, the plaintiffs herein, then were not and had not theretofore been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and the defendant avers that the said Margaret Sloan and her descendants the plaintiff- herein, are not and never have been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

9. This defendant for further answer avers that under art. 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5 (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854 (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) patents were issued to Margaret Sloan and Artemesia Frost for three hundred and twenty acres of land, each on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of Margaret Sloan and her descendants including complainant, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

This defendant further avers that Artemesia Frost, the mother of complainant, made application for an allotment of land and her pretended claim was reported to the Interior Department, and the Interior Department adjudged and determined on the 21st day of June, 1897, as follows:

"By her own admission, Mrs. Frost's birthright claim has been extinguished. To admit her present claim would be an injustice to those of the tribe who have never received allotments and who alone are entitled to participation in the division of the lands in the diminished reserve; would also be against public policy, and a violation of the rules and regulations of the department, which prohibit more than one allotment to an Indian for any reason whatever."

1229 10. This defendant further avers that the complainant never occupied or improved the S. E. ¼ of section 8, township 25, north range — E.; that the complainant was born in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and continued to live in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and has never lived upon the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not on the reservation at the time of the allotting of lands to the Omaha Indians, and was not on the Omaha reservation at the date of the commencement of this suit, and did not make a selection of the lands claimed.

This defendant further avers that Sarah F. McCreary, Philemon Frost, Charles A. Frost, Leonard Frost, Mary Frost and Frank Frost are all children of Artemesia Frost and Leonard Frost (husband and wife), and that the United States allotting agent consulted with Leonard Frost and Artemesia Frost the parents, and found it desireable that if lands were to be allotted to the Frost family, they should be adjoining lands. and such was the wish of Leonard Frost and wife, whereupon the United States allotting agent made reservation of lands for the Frost family, including the complainant, pending the result of this litigation in section 8 and 9, tp. 25, range 7, and which reservation has been made upon the surveyed maps in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs awaiting the final determination of this suit.

11. This defendant further avers that the United States allotting agent, appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections and make allotments of land, investigated, ascertained and found as a fact, that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of any of the lands claimed by her and reported his said findings to the Interior Department, and which said findings and report have been approved by the said department.

1230 12. And this defendant says that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant, and this defendant denies that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

And this defendant prays leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

CHARLES FROST, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.
} Docket "T," No. 504. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

1234 Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Charles Frost was not entitled to claim and have allotted to him the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The southeast quarter of section eight (8) in township twenty-five (25) north of range seven (7) east of the 6th P.M.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendant and against the complainant.

1235 Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

} Docket "T," No. 504. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives himself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

1241 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 30th day of April, 1901, amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

CELESTINE B. KUHN, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.

No. 505, Doc. "T."
Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of the said court:

Celestine B. Kuhn brings this, her bill of complaint against the United States of America, and thereupon your oratrix complains and states that she is a member of what is, or until recently was known as the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omahas in the various statutes of the United States, and in the treaties hereinafter set forth. That she is what is known as mixed blood and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada who intermarried with one Taegleha Hacienda, an Indian woman of the said tribe. That your oratrix and her ancestor back to said Michael Barada and his said wife, have continually maintained their domicile with the said tribe and maintained tribal relation therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by the said tribe, and has participated in the property and other rights of the said tribe and been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of the said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

1242 And further complaining your oratrix says that on the 16th day of March, A. D. 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof they received their present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including the ancestor of your oratrix. All of which matters and other things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

Your oratrix further says that on the 6th day of March A. D. 1865, another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large, vol. 14, page 667, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

And further showing your oratrix says that on the 7th day of August A. D. 1882, an act was approved that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation, either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe. To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one 1243 eighth of a section, to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section. That all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large, vol. 22, page 341, to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

Your oratrix further shows that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act in December, 1884 and at subsequent times since.

Your oratrix further shows that on the 3rd day of March, A. D. 1893 an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th, 1882, providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, expressed in open council, further allotments should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd, 1893, but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council, May, 1899, and immediately thereafter assignments for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instruction to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the land claimed. That said special agent did not follow his 1244 instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimant.

And your oratrix further shows that she is a daughter of Antoine Barada, who was the son of Michael Barada and Taegleha Hacienda, who was as herein before set forth an Indian woman and a member of said tribe. That ever since the year 1882 your oratrix has continuously resided upon the Omaha reservation. That your oratrix first selected land in the year 1882 and was upon the reservation at the time the Omahas consented to accept the act of 1882. Your oratrix had at that time selected land for herself as the head of a family and also selected lands for her children. And your oratrix set forth the lands thus selected in her original bill of complaint; that since the filing of said original bill of complaint John K. Rankin, allotting agent, has allotted certain of the lands selected by your oratrix and has set aside for your oratrix and her children certain other lands and your oratrix has relinquished her claim to the land allotted by the said John K. Rankin and has accepted the land set aside by said allotting agent for her and her children.

Your oratrix has therefore selected for herself as the head of a family 160 acres, to-wit: the N. E. ¼ of section 16, township 25 north, range 7 east. And your oratrix has selected lands for her minor children as follows: For Rule Kuhn the E. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of section 16, township 25 north, range 7 east. For John Kuhn the S. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 10, township 25 north, range 7 east. For Barbara Kuhn, the W. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of section 15, township 25 north, range 7 east. For Josephine Kuhn the N. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 10, township 25 north, range 7 east. For George 1245 Kuhn the W. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of section 16, township 25 north, range 7 east. For Margaret Kuhn the S. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 9 township 25 north, range 7 east. For Mary Ann Kuhn the S. E. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ & the N. E. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of section 9, township 25 north, range 7 east. All of said land being upon the Omaha reservation in the State of Nebraska.

Your oratrix further states she is a member of the tribe of Indians by blood and descent and in accordance with the laws and customs of the said Omaha tribe of Indians. That although the allotting agent, John K. Rankin, has set aside the above described lands for your oratrix and her children an allotment thereto has been refused by the Department of the Interior.

And your oratrix further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly
1246 certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th volume of the Statutes at Large on page 305, which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

Your oratrix further states that the defendant, The United States of America, claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, it was provided that the assignment to be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood, "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them;" and the defendant claims that your oratrix and her ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your oratrix admits that she and her ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claims that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation nor the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor the rights of allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and 1247 the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26, 1871, contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of the making the schedule referred to; that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of the approval of the schedule by the chiefs the agent, the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation but who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since resided away from the reservation.

Your oratrix further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art., of said treaty had been already provided for by the treaty of March 6th, 1854, and which right of selection an- assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your oratrix further states that the defendant, The United States, claims that the complainant or her ancestor has received allotments of lands under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th 1830, and 10th art., thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under 1248 the policy of the Indian Office neither the complainant nor her ancestor are entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians. Your oratrix admits that her ancestor received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed of the Omaha tribe of Indians, that the quantity so assigned was one half of the amount provided by said treaty, and that the said allotment was not accepted by her nor given to her in consideration of the relinquishment of any rights other than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

That numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money which was accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66, of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your oratrix has not in any manner assigned or relinquished her right or claim to the benefit under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians, neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized this complainant or her ancestor or any 1249 member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant or any member of her tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your oratrix shows to your honors that she is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity, and she therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises, and that said defendant, The United States of America, may answer your oratrix' bill without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived.

That the land set apart by the allotting agent, John K. Rankin, for your oratrix and her children and duly selected by your oratrix for herself and her children be ordered and decreed to be the allotments of your oratrix and her children respectively, and that they each and all of them be entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your oratrix the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court directed to The United States of America therein and thereby commanding it on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet, and for such other and further relief as may be just and equitable.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

CELESTINE B. KUHN, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.
} Docket "T," No. 505. Depositions.

Testimony taken in behalf of the complainant, by consent of the parties hereto, before William S. Heller, a stenographer and notary public, at Pender, in the State of Nebraska, on this the 22nd day of August, 1902, the complainant being represented by Thomas L. Sloan, Esq., and the defendant being represented by John L. Webster, Esq.

E. A. WILTSE, a witness produced in behalf of the complainant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. State your name?
A. E. A. Wiltse.
Q. Are you one of the school directors of this school district?
A. Not at the present time.
Q. Have you been in times past?
A. I have been for the past six years.

1251 Q. Was it a part of your duties to make the collection of funds allowed by the United States on contract for the education of Indian children for this district?
A. It was.
Q. Did you during the years that you were collecting such moneys collect for the attendance of the Kuhn children?
A. We have for several years, part of the time we failed, for the reasons of negligence on our own part.
Q. Did you collect such moneys for the education of the Mitchell Monette children?
A. I am confident that we did a part of the time. I do not think that they have attended all of the time. We have collected rent or tuition from them I am sure.
Q. Did you so collect for the children of Hiram Chase?
A. We have.
Q. And for the Hanicka children?
A. If my memory is correct we have at different times.
Q. In regard to these payments were they all paid under the same contract in the same manner?
A. They were.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Do you know anything about this of your own personal knowledge or are you speaking from the general impression as to what was done?

A. We made a contract with the Government each year in the fall of the year. This contract, after being approved by them, the teacher in each of the departments makes out a list of the 1252 names of the children that attend school for which we may draw the tuition. That list we sent to the department claiming tuition under the contract which has been made.

Q. With whom did you make this contract?

A. We make it with the Indian commissioner.

Q. Is it in writing?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Well, then whatever you did will appear from the records in the Indian Department.

A. I should suppose so.

Q. The contract would appear there, and the direction for the payment would appear there?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Have you any copy of any of those contracts?

A. The present secretary of the school board would have them, or should have.

Q. They are not in your possession?

A. Not at the present time.

Q. Would your school board make a report of the names of the children that were attending the school which were charged for under these Government contracts?

A. They would.

Q. And for the time for which they attended school?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You have not copies of any of those reports in your possession?

A. I have not, for I am not secretary. They are kept in the records of the director, when I was director, I turned them over when I ended my term of office.

1253 Q. Who would have the possession of the copies of the reports at this time?

A. Mr. J. M. Curry is director at the present time. I think he has all the records.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

CELESTINE B. KUHN, Plaintiff,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.
} Doc. "T," No. 505. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The Answer of The United States of America, Defendant, to the Amended Bill of Complaint of Celestine B. Kuhn, Plaintiff.

This defendant now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto itself all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for its answer thereto, and unto so much and parts thereof as this defendant is advised is or are material or necessary for it to make answer unto this defendant for answer says:

1. This defendant denies that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and denies that the complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary, this defendant avers that the said complainant is a white woman, and a citizen of the United States, and that her ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that her said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; and this defendant denies that complainant or her ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe 1255 of Indians of Nebraska, and denies that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and denies that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant claims to trace her lineage back to Michael Barada, who had intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality, and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but this defendant is not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leaves the complainant to her proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife in the year —, a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with his parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

That the said Antoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vien, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen, of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife Josephine Vien, continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two 1256 years, until some time after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a daughter named Celestine (the complainant herein) who intermarried with John Kuhn; and the said Celestine B. Kuhn was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis, and never was on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Celestine B. Kuhn so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States taking the status of her father, continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when she came to the Omaha reservation with her parents, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under the said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865 (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded complain-
1257 ant, being only one-sixteenth Indian blood, and she not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5 of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and this defendant further avers that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or hïs ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of his ancestors were 1258 entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. This defendant further answering says: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedants or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names" and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant.

1259 4. This defendant further answering says: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341), the said Peters family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Peters family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotments of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestine Kuhn (the complainant) a sister of Mrs. Peters and 1260 a member of the Barada family.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selections of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date of December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celeste Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore, that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

1261 If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not — all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians.

Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, the sister of complainant and the action of the department thereon.

1262 The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case. The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

1263 Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voices of the council and the people were unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were born upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, of their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. This defendant further avers that notwithstanding the rulings of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father, Michael Barada, to-wit:—William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters,
1264 Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others including this plaintiff, persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation.

He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We know that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8 and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and 1265 said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years and the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

1266 We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted land on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the 1267 Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The — article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotment of their lands in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, 1268 you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584--Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. This defendant further avers that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and complainant, failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such facts to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters William Barada, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, repeated his recommendation of Octo-1269 ber 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent, to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as she was of that class.

This defendant further avers that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are — entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. This defendant further avers that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made de-1270 fendants and in which suits, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein, from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. These defendants for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5 (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854 (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to complainant's ancestor for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of the ancestor and his descendants, including complainant, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians and to any further or other allotment of land.

10. This defendant further avers that the preference right to select lands for allotment under the act of Congress, August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) is confined by section 5 of said act to persons who had received or were entitled to receive an assignment and certificate of an allotment under the 4th article of the 1271 treaty with the Omahas concluding March 6, 1865, and Barada and Kuhn families had not received and were not entitled to receive an assignment and certificate for lands under said treaty, and by reason whereof, the said Barada and Kuhn families did not have and could not acquire any such interest in the lands described in the amended petition as would give them a preference over other Indians in the selection of land for allotment.

11. And this defendant for further answer says that the complainant was not and is not the head of a family, and is not entitled to claim by way of allotment, the 160 acres of land described in the amended bill of complaint, but her right to allotment, if any she had, would be limited under the law to 80 acres of land.

12. This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant did not select for allotment, and did not occupy or make any improvements on any of the lands described in the amended bill of complaint; and the defendant further avers that the complainant never lived upon the Omaha reservation until after the act of 1893, and never selected, improved, or cultivated any land whatsoever, upon the Omaha Indian reservation, and is not entitled to have or select any lands upon the Omaha Indian reservation for allotment.

13. This defendant for further answer admits that the United States allotting agent did reserve for the complainant and other members of the Kuhn family, pending the result of this litigation, a quantity of land in section- 9, 10, 15 and 16, township 25, range 7 east, and which reservation includes all the land described in the amended bill of complaint, except the following which are 1272 not included within said reservation, to-wit: The S. E. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ of section 10; the N. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 10; the S. E. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ of section 9, township 25, range 7 and all which last above described lands are included within the lands reserved by the United States allotting agent for the members of the Monette family, and which said reservation for the Monette family including the lands above so described are so entered upon the records in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

But that the reservation of lands for the Kuhn family was not and is not intended or to be construed as a recognition of right of the complainant to have or select any part of said lands for allotment to the complainant, or in behalf of herself or her said children.

14. This defendant for further answer avers that John Kuhn, the husband of the complainant, is a free born full blooded white man and citizen of the United States, and that said marriage took place in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, in the year 1873, and that the said John Kuhn was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and that the children of the complainant took the status of their father and were and are white persons, and citizens of the United States, and was not and never have been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and are not entitled to a selection of lands either in their own right or by the complainant in their behalf.

15. And this defendant says that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant, and this de-

1273 fendant denies that the complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

The Replication of Celestine B. Kuhn, Plaintiff, to the Answer of United States of America, Defendant.

This replicant, saving and reserving to herself all and all manner of advantages of exception which may be had and taken to the manifold errors, uncertainties and insufficiencies of the answer, of the defendant, for replication thereunto, saith that she doth and will aver, maintain and prove her said bill to be true, certain and sufficient in the law to be answered unto by the said defendant, and that the answer of the said defendant is very uncertain, evasive and insufficient in the law to be replied unto by this replicant; without that, that any other matter or thing in the said answer contained, material or effectual in the law to be replied unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently replied unto, confessed or avoided, traversed or denied, is true; all which matters and things this replicant is ready to aver, maintain and prove, as this honorable court shall direct, and humbly prays as in and by her said bill she hath already prayed.

1276 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 13th day of October, 1903, assignment- of errors, were filed in said case which said assignment- of errors are in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

CELESTINE B. KUHN, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant. } Docket "T," No. 505. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in finding and determining that Celestine B. Kuhn received an allotment of land in the Nemaha reservation and was for that reason debarred from claiming a further allotment upon the Omaha reservation.

Second. The court erred in construing the treaty between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians, made July 15, 1830, as meaning and intending that the taking of an allotment of land by a member of such tribe pursuant to article 10 of said treaty thereby extinguished the claim of such Indian to a further allotment of land or further allotments or benefits in the tribal property as a member of such tribe.

Third. The court erred in construing the treaty between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians, of July 15, 1830, as meaning and intending that half-breed members of the tribe
1277 who secured allotments of land in severalty in the Nemaha reservation under the terms of said treaty are not entitled to a second allotment under the act of 1882, although at the time of its passage they were residing on the reservation in the tribal relation.

Fourth. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Fifth. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Sixth. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Seventh. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Eighth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

1278 Ninth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Tenth. The court erred in holding and determining that Celestine B. Kuhn and her children were not entitled to claim and have allotted to them the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: the north half of section sixteen (16); the east half of the north east quarter of section seventeen (17); the southwest quarter of section twenty-four (24) the south half of the northwest quarter of section twenty-four (24); and the south half of the south west quarter of section nine (9) all in township twenty-five (25) north, of range seven (7) east of the 6th P. M.

Eleventh. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Twelfth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore, complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

CELESTINE B. KUHN, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant. } Docket "T," No. 505. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives herself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an appeal
1280 in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

1284 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 30th day of April, 1901, an amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

STELLA KUHN, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.	No. 506, Doc. T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of the said court:

Stella Kuhn brings this, her bill of complaint, against the United States of America, and thereupon your oratrix complains and states that she is a member of what is, or until recently was known as the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omahas in the various statutes of the United States, and in the treaties herein set forth. That she is of what is known as mixed blood and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada who intermarried with one Taegleha Haceinda, an Indian woman of the said tribe.

That your oratrix and her ancestor back to said Michael Barada and his said wife have conitnually maintained their domicile with the said tribe and maintained tribal relation- therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by the said tribe, and has participated in the property and other rights of the said tribe and been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as a member of the said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

And further complaining your oratrix says that on the 16th day of March A. D. 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and 1285 between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof they received their present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including the ancestor of your oratrix.

All of which matters and other things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

Your oratrix further says that on the 6th day of March A. D. 1865, another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large, vol. 14, page 667, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

And further showing your oratrix says that on the 7th day of August A. D. 1882, an act was approved — that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe. To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section. That all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large, vol. 22, 1286 page 341, to which for greater certainty your oratrix refers.

Your oratrix further shows that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act in December, 1884, and at subsequent times since.

Your oratrix further shows that on the 3rd day of March A. D. 1893 an act of Congress was passed amedning or extending the act of August 7th, 1882, providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, expressed in open council, further allotments should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March, 1893, but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council, May 1899, and immediately thereafter assignments for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instruction to the said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the land claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimant.

And your oratrix further shows that she is a daughter of Celestine B. Kuhn who is a daughter of Antoine Barada, who was the son of Michael Barada and Taegleha Hacieneda, who was as herein before set forth an Indian woman and a member of said tribe. That ever since the year 1882 your oratrix has continuously resided upon the Omaha reservation. That your oratrix first selected land in the year 1882 and was upon the reservation at the time the Omahas consented to accept the act of 1882.

1287 And your oratrix in her original bill of complaint sets forth the lands thus selected; that since the filing of said original bill of complaint John K. Rankin, allotting agent, has allotted the lands selected by your oratrix and has set aside for your oratrix certain other lands and your oratrix has relinquished her claim to the land allotted by said John K. Rankin and has accepted the land set aside by said allotting agent for her.

Your oratrix has therefore selected for herself the east ½ of the N. W. ¼ of section 15, township 25 north, range 7 east, said land being upon the Omaha reservation in the State of Nebraska.

Your oratrix further states she is a member of the tribe of Indians by blood and descent and in accordance with the laws and customs of the said Omaha tribe of Indians. That although the allotting agent, John K. Rankin, has set aside the above described lands for your oratrix an allotment thereto has been refused by the Department of the Interior.

And your oratrix further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdictions involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when prop-

1288 erly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th volume of the Statutes at Large on page 305, which act has been amended by reënactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901 to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

Your oratrix further states that the defendant, The United States of America, claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, it was provided that the assignment to be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them;" and the defendant claims that your oratrix and her ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your oratrix admits that she and her ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claims that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation nor of the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th 1865, nor the rights of allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, contained names of numerous half and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe who were 1289 not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of the making the schedule referred to; that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breed and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of the approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent, — the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation but who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since resided away from the reservation.

Your oratrix further states that the defendant, The United States, claims that the complainant or her ancestor has received allotments of lands under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art. thereof, and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian office neither the complainant nor her ancestor are entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians. Your oratrix admits that her ancestor received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed of the Omaha tribe of Indians, that the quantity so assigned was one half of the amount provided by said treaty, and that the said allotment was not accepted by her nor given to her in consideration of the relinquishment of any rights other than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

The numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 1290 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money which was accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66, of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th 1882; that your oratrix has not in any manner assigned or relinquished her right or claim to the benefit under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians, neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized this complainant or her ancestor or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant or any member of her tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your oratrix shows to your honors that she is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity, and she therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises, and that said defendant, The United States of America, may answer your oratrix' bill without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived.

That the land set apart by the allotting agent, John K. Rankin, for your oratrix and duly selected by her be ordered and decreed to be the allotment of your oratrix, and that she be entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

1291 And so may it please your honors to grant unto your oratrix the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court direct- to the United States of America therein and thereby commanding it on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet, and for such other and further relief as may be just and equitable.

Endorsed: Filed Apr. 30 1901 Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

1292 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 21st day of September, 1902, an answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in the words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

STELLA KUHN, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.	Doc. T, No. 506. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The Answer of The United States of America, Defendant, to the Amended Bill of Complaint of Stella Kuhn, Complainant.

This defendant now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto itself all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as this defendant is advised is or are material or necessary for it to make answer unto this defendant for answer, says:

1. This defendant denies that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and denies that complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary, this defendant avers that the said complainant is a white woman, and a citizen of the United States, and that her ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that her said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and this defendant denies that complainant or her ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and denies that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe; and denies that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the 1293 United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant claims to trace her lineage back to Michael Barada who intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but this defendant is not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leaves the complainant to her proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife in the year —, a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a free born white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with his parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha tribe.

That the said Antoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vieu, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife Josephine Vieu continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years until some time after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, 341), hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a daughter named Celestine (the mother of this 1294 complainant) and the said Celestine was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis, and never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Celestine Barada, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a full blood white man named John Kuhn, and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said John Kuhn and his wife Celestine, a daughter named Stella Kuhn, who is the complainant herein, and the said Stella Kuhn being such white person and citizen of the United States taking the status of her father continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when she came to the Omaha reservation with her parents with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress of 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded complainant, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and he not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882. (22 U. S. Statutes at Large p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby 1295 limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and this defendant further avers that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or her ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of her ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. This defendant further answering says: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being 1296 members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should to to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "that the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Ma-garet Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedents or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names." and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including these complainants. That the said Antoine Barada was the grandfather of this complainant, and the said

Celestine B. Kuhn and John Kuhn were the parents of this complainant, and Edward Kuhn and Ethel Kuhn Rutledge are brother and sister of this complainant.

4. This defendant further answering, says: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Peters family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came 1297 from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Peters family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher as United States allotting agent caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. "The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celeste Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant is descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the 1298 Omahas relates to the treatyof March —, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date — December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and 1299 receive an allotment. Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs Euphrasia Peters, and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case. The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at 1300 the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people were unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but mem-
1301 bers of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were born upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, of their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. This defendant further avers that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others including this plaintiff, persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about the intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We know that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case
1302 was sent to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8, and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our un-lotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are 1303 poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha 1304 reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half — mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotment of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

1305 Very respectfully,

(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. This defendant further avers that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and complainant, failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such facts to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors, and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders, and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Walter 1306 Peters, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as she was of that class.

This defendant further avers that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

9. This defendant further avers that Ma-garet Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which suits said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken, and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the 1307 United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. This defendant for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to complainant's ancestor for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of the ancestor and his descendants including complainant, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians and to any further or other allotment of land.

10. This defendant further avers that the preference right to select lands for allotment under the act of Congress, August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) is confined by section 5, of said act to persons who had received or were entitled to receive an assignment and certificate of an allotment under the 4th article of the treaty with the Omahas concluding March 6, 1865, and Barada and Kuhn families had not received and were not entitled to receive an assignment and certificate for lands under said treaty, and by reason whereof, the said Barada and Kuhn families did not have and could not acquire any such interest in the lands described in the amended petition as would give them a preference over other Indians in the selection of land for allotment.

11. This defendant for further answer avers that the complainant did not select for allotment, and did not occupy or make any improvements on any of the lands described in the amended
1308 bill of complaint; and the defendant further avers that the complainant never lived upon the Omaha reservation until after the act of 1882, and never selected, improved, or cultivated any land whatsoever, upon the Omaha Indian reservation, and is not entitled to have or select any lands upon the Omaha Indian reservation for allotment.

12. This defendant for further answer admits that the United States allotting agent did reserve for the Kuhn family including this complainant, certain lands including the E. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of section 15, township 25, range 7, pending the result of this litigation, but that the reservation of lands for the Kuhn family was not and is not intended or to be construed as a recognition of the right of the complainant to have or select any part of said lands for allotment.

13. This defendant for further answer avers that the United States allotting agent in the course of his official duty and upon investigation did find that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and made an official report of his said finding to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and which said report and finding, that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation was approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and the Secretary of the Interior, and which said finding and judgment remains in full force and effect.

14. And this defendant says that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's bill of complaint contained material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or be*half* of this defendant, and this defendant denies that the complainant is en-1309 titled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

STELLA KUHN, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.

Docket "T," No. 506. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

1313 Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Stella Kuhn was not entitled to claim and have allotted to her the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The west half of the northwest quarter of section fifteen (15) in township twenty-five (25) north of range seven (7) east of the 6th P. M.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendant and against the complainant.

1314 Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives herself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

1320 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 19th day of April 1901, amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill of complaint is in words and figures following, to-wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

PHILEMON H. FROST, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Frank Robinson, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.

No. 507, Doc. T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of said court:

Philemon H. Frost brings this his bill of complaint against the defendants, and says that he is a member of what is or until recently was known as the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omahas in the various statutes of the United States, and the treaties herein set forth.

That he is of what is known as mixed blood, and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada or Michael Berda as he was some times designated, who intermarried with one Taegleha Hacienda, an Indian woman of the full blood and a member of said tribe. That your orator and his ancestors back to said Michael Barada and his said wife have continually maintained their domicile with said tribe, and have maintained tribal relations therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by said tribe, and have participated in the property and other rights of said tribe, and have been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as members of said tribe and are entitled to all its rights and privileges.

1321 Further complaining your orator says that on the 16th day of March, A. D. 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof it received its present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including the ancestors of your orator. All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

And your orato further shows that on the 6th day of March, A. D. 1865, another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large, vol. 14, page 667, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

And further showing your orator says that on the 7th day of August, A. D. 1882 an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, and to each other person
1322 under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section. That all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large vol. 22, page 341, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

Your orator further shows that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act in December 1884 and at subsequent times since.

Your orator further states that he is a member of the Omaha tribe by blood and descent, by recognition as such by both the tribal and governmental authorities, and according to the customs, rules and regulations of the Omaha tribe of Indians. That such relationship and membership has never been terminated. That his mother, Artemesia Frost was recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and that she received an allotment on the Nemaha half breed tract, and that she has lived on the present reservation and does live upon said reservation at the present time. That his said mother since the treaty of 1865 has been recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and has been enrolled upon the tribal roll and has drawn annuity money for herself and some of her children, and has had the benefits of tribal property, the mill and other common property of the tribe. That Artemesia Frost was the daughter of Margaret Sloan, who was also recognized as a member of the tribe and received the benefits of the tribal property under the treaty of 1854, and the later treaty of March 6th, 1865. That your orator received a payment of annuity in 1875 and was on the rolls at that time.

That your orator has selected the following described land for allotment of which he is now in possession. The S. ½ of 1323 N. E. ¼ of section 34, township 25 north, range 8 east of the 6th P. M. in Nebraska; that such described property is a part of the land described and referred to in the treaties and acts of Congress herein above set out and has been surveyed in accordance with the treaties and acts of Congress; that your orator has placed valuable improvements upon the above described premises, that no person or persons claim or did claim the same when first selected by your orator in accordance with the laws relating thereto and the notice received from the council of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and that it is occupied by your orator and he is the only person who has occupied said land under a claim for allotment. That application for the allotment of said land has been refused your orator by the Department of the Interior.

Your orator further says that on the 3rd day of March, A. D. 1893 an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th, 1882, providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council further allotment should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd, 1893, but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899, and immediately thereafter assignments for allotments were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land in controversy 1324 without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimants.

To Frank Robinson, a minor, whose next friend is Charles Robinson, the S. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 34, township 25 north, range 8, east on the State of Nebraska.

That a trust patent therefor naming the United States as trustee of date April 11th, 1900, has been issued to Frank Robinson. No rights were acquired by said trust patent but owing to the fact the assignment was made during the pendency of this suit makes Fred Robinson a necessary party defendant.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land and to place in possession the allot-ee or lessee, and that he threatens to place into possession either the allot-ee hereinbefore named or his lessee to the great and irreparable damage of the complainants who are now in possession. That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson his claim of authority over the land in controversy and his threats that he will remove your orator from the land makes him a necessary party to this suit.

And your orator further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress, or who claims to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance 1325 of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305 which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

Your orator further states that the defendant The United States of America claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, the assignment to be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood, "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them." The said defendant claims that your orator and his ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your orator admits that he and his ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claims that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation and the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, or their rights of allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said 1326 treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agents on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th, 1871, contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule referred to that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865 nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent, — the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman who never resided on the reservation, but at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since has resided away from the reservation.

Your orator further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your orator further states that the defendant, The United States, claims that the complainant or his ancestors have received 1327 allotment of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian office your orator is not entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your orator admits that his ancestor received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, that the quantity so assigned was one half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by his ancestor nor given to his ancestor in consideration of the relinquishment of any other right than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

Numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money, which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiencies in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66 of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your orator has not in any manner assigned or relinquished his right or claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized 1328 this complainant or his ancestors or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant nor any member of this tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your orator shows to your honors that he is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity and he therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises and that said defendants, The United States of America, Frank Robinson, a minor, by his next friend, Charles Robinson and Charles P. Mathewson may answer your orator's bill but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That it be ordered and decreed that the patent issued to Frank Robinson is null and void and that the selection as made by your orator is his allotment and prior and superior to the claim of Frank Robinson and that your orator and his heirs be decreed entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your orator further prays for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants Charles P. Mathewson and Frank Robinson enjoining and restraining each of them, their agents and employees from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein described and that at the termination of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orator the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court directed to the United States of America, Frank Robinson, minor, by his next friend Charles Robinson and Charles P. Mathewson therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to 1329 be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

THOMAS L. SLOAN,
Solicitor for Complainant.

1330 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit.—on the 13th day of July, 1901, an answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

PHILEMON H. FROST, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Frank Robinson, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.

Doc. T, No. 507. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The Answer of The United States of America, Frank Robinson, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants, to the Amended Bill of Complaint of Philemon H. Frost, Complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto and unto so much and parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or — material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer say:

1. These defendants deny that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and deny that the complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary, these defendants aver that the said complainant is a white man, and a citizen of the United States, and that his ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that his said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and these defendants deny that the complainant
1331 or his ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and deny that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant claims to trace his lineage back to Michael Barada, who intermarried with an Indian woman by the name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality, and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but these defendants are not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leaves the complainant to her proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife in the year 1811, a daughter by the name of Margaret Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of her father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Margaret Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with her parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

That the said Margaret Barada intermarried with one Thomas Sloan, a free born white man of Irish nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Thomas Sloan and his wife Margaret Sloan, continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years, until some time after the approval — act of Congress of 1332 August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Thomas Sloan and his wife Margaret there was born a daughter named Artemesia (the mother of this complainant) and the said Artemesia was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis, and was never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Artemesia Sloan so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a white man named Leonard Frost, a free born white man and a citizen of the United State. There was born to the said Leonard Frost and his wife Artemesia, a son who is the complainant herein, and the complainant being such white person and citizen of the United States, took the status of his father and continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, who came to the Omaha reservation about 1900 with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under the said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865 (14 U. S. — at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded complain-
1333 ant, being only one-sixteenth Indian blood, and he not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or his ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of her ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

1334 3. These defendants further answering say: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontanelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedants or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant. That the said Thomas Sloan was the grandfather of this complainant, and the said Artemesia Sloan was the mother of this complainant, and the Peters family and descendants of Michael Barada and uncles and aunts of complainant.

1335 4. These defendants further answering say: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Sloan family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Sloan family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Sloan family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Sloan family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Sloan family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to the Sloan and Peters families being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by the department in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant descended.

1336 "It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore, that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it 1337 appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, (a relative) of complainant and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case.

The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

Antoine married a French woman and his children were 1338 born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for the members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their 1339 best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were born upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. Thse defendants further aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit: William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation.

He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were 1340 provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told.

We know that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8 and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off. We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years and that the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 1341 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Sloan family from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Ne-
1342 braska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted land on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The — article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotment of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

1343 In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. These defendants further aver that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and — failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such facts to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters William Barada, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

1344 On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent, to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as he was of that class.

These defendants further aver that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontanelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, 1345 Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein, from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. This defendant further avers that afterwards the said Sloan family endeavored to have themselves adopted into the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to have themselves recognized by the Interior Department as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to that end submitted to the department certain petitions purporting to be signed by certain members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that under date of September 6, 1894, the department ruled that the said Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan should not be admitted to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and accordingly so ordered, and in which order and opinion the department held as follows: "Aside from the general proposition that the question of adopting the Sloans as members of the tribe is one in a measure separate and distince from their alleged rights as Omaha Indians by blood, and that such alleged right is not necessarily a test for such adoption, there remains the right to admission by the free will 1346 and consent of the tribe, if fairly and properly obtained.

Upon their faces, the several petitions presented with your letter seem to be in proper form, and to express the desire of a majority of the members of the tribe that the persons in question shall be placed upon the rolls of the tribe, and be admitted to all the rights and privileges of other members thereof.

Besides the opposing petition hereinbefore referred to, the department is in receipt of recent information which shows that of the one hundred and fifty-seven persons whose names appear on the six petitions presented with your letter, only seventy now favor the claimants; that eleven others have since assented to their adoption making eighty-one in all now favorable; that twenty-four of the signatures thereon were not written by the parties whose names are given, nor was the use of their names authorized by them, that fifteen names were signed twice, and that the said petitions bear the names of nine boys and three women—neither of whom have any voice in such matter-; that one of the nine members of the council purporting to have signed one of the petitions, did not sign nor authorize the use of his name, and further that there are about one hundred and eighteen male members of the tribe, of lawful age, who oppose the adoption of the Sloans.

Without expressing any opinion of the merits of the petitions in question, the facts presented seem to clearly establish the belief that it is the desire and wish of a majority of the members of the tribe that the Sloans be not admitted to membership and it is so ordered.

In reference to that part of your report wherein you state that Thomas L. Sloan has held and improved a tract of land since 1881 or 1882, on the Omaha reservation, it would seem that he is doing so in defiance of any legal authority of occupation."

1347 That after the above order and ruling of the department, the counsel for Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan applied to the department for reconsideration of the adoption case, and the department under date of November 17, 1896, re-affirmed this ruling and among other things therein said:

"It is not denied, nor has it ever been, that the Sloans, mother and son, are of part Omaha Indian blood. The tribe recognized them as such and made provisions for them, with others, by the treaty of 1830, and in the opinion of the department, and the Omahas themselves, their claim- as such mixed bloods were extinguished by the lands given them under the terms of the tenth article of the treaty named.

* * * * * * *

The claims of Margaret and her son William E. were extinguished prior to the birth of Thomas L. It is nowhere alleged or claimed that the latter is the offspring of a mother of Indian blood, much more of one of Omaha blood. The presumption is, therefore, that his mother was a white woman.

The claims of Margaret and Thomas L. are based upon their birth-right as Omaha Indians and upon their alleged adoption in recent years by the tribe.

The birthright claim of Margaret has been extinguished.

Thomas L. never had such a claim. Neither of them have any claim by adoption, never having been regularly, fairly or properly adopted by the tribe, as was shown by department letter of September 6, 1894.

Notwithstanding that Mr. Breckenridge has advised the department by letter dated the 30th ultimo, of his withdrawal as attorney for the claimants, I have caused this review of the case to be made, and adhere to the opinion expressed in department letter of 1348 September 6, 1894, that the persons named have no valid, legal claims to membership with the Omaha tribe of Indians."

And defendant avers that the above ruling of the Department of the Interior established the fact that Margaret Sloan and her descendants, the plaintiff herein, then were not and had not theretofore been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and the defendant- avers that the said Margaret Sloan and her descendants the plaintiff herein, are not and never have been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

10. These defendants for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854 (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to Margaret Sloan for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of Margaret Sloan and her descendants including complainant, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

These defendants further aver that Artemesia Frost, the mother of complainant, made application for an allotment of land, and her pretended claim was reported to the Interior Department, and the Interior Department adjudged and determined on the 21st day of June, 1897, as follows:

"By her own admission, Mrs. Frost's birthright claim has been extinguished. To admit her present claim would be an injustice to those of the tribe who have never received allotments, and who alone are entitled to participation in the division of the lands in the diminished reserve; would also be against public policy, and a violation of the rules and regulations of the department, which prohibit more than one allotment to an Indian for any reason 1349 whatever."

11. These defendan's further aver that the complainant never occupied or improved the S. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 34, tp. 25, range 8; that the complainant was born in Richardson county, in the State of Nebraska, and continued to live in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and has never lived upon the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not on the reservation at the time of the allotting of lands to the Omaha Indians, and was not on the Omaha reservation at the date of the commencement of this suit, and did not make a selection of the lands claimed.

These defendants further aver that Sarah F. McCreary, Philomen Frost, Charles A. Frost, Leonard Frost, Mary Frost and Frank Frost are all children of Artemesia Frost and Leonard Frost (husband and wife), and that the United States allotting agent consulted with Leonard Frost and Artemesia Frost, the parents, and found it desirable that if lands were to be allotted to the Frost family, they should be adjoining lands, and such was the wish of Leonard Frost and wife, whereupon the United States allotting agent made reservation of lands for the Frost family, including the complainant, pending the result of this litigation in section- 8 and 9, tp. 25, range 7, and which reservation has been made upon the surveyed maps in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs awaiting the final determination of this suit.

These defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent, appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections and make allotments of land, investigated, ascertained and found as a fact, that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of any of the lands claimed by her and reported his said findings to the Interior Department, and which said findings and report have been approved by the said department.

That the said United States allotting agent did find upon 1350 investigation that Frank Robinson made claim to the S. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 34, tp. 25, range 8, and the said allotting agent did make an allotment of said land to the said Frank Robisson, and thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, that said Frank Robinson was entitled to an allotment of the land last above described, and which said allotment was subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indians Affairs, and by the Secretary of the Interior, and the patent therefore issued to the said Frank Robinson under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotment was made, and said patent issued in the regular and due course of business

These defendants further aver that the complainant did not have any prior or superior or vested right to the land so patented to the said Frank Robinson, and that the allotment to him and the said patent to him were made in all respects in conformity to law.

12. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defendants, and these defendants deny that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded. And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

W. S. SUMMERS,
United States Attorney.

Endorsed: Filed Jul- 13 1901 Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

1351 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 3rd day of September, 1902, a stipulation was filed in said case, which said stipulation is in words and figures following, to-wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

PHILEMON H. FROST, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Frank Robinson, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	Docket T, No. 507. Stipulation of Facts as to Occupancy.

It is hereby stipulated that the following named persons will testify in behalf of the defendants, to the facts set down after their names respectively, and it is hereby further stipulated and agreed that said statements may be received in evidence with like force and effect, as if the deposition of the respective parties to the said facts had been formerly taken.

Richard Robinson, whose Indian name is Mahwatha, will testify that he is a relative of Frank Robinson, a minor, (Frank Robinson being the son of a nephew of the said witness) and that he, Richard Robinson is a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and of the full blood.

He will further testify that in the year 1890 he consulted Thomas McCauley about making a selection of land for Frank Robinson, and that the said McCauley who was then familiar with the land and the location thereof, advised the said Richard Robinson to select the south half of the north-east quarter of section 34, township 25, range 8, east; that thereupon Richard Robinson, in the year 1890, went upon the said land accompanied by his wife, and then and there made a selection of the said land and plowed around it. That the witness thinks that Ashley was the Indian agent at that time.

1352 That during the administration of Mr. Mercer as Indian agent Woodhull made claim to the same land, and then Woodhull claimed that he had plowed around a part of the same land before the witness had made the selection, and that a hearing was had before Indian Agent Mercer between Robinson and Woodhull, and as a result of the said hearing before Indian Agent Mercer, said agent, Mercer, decided that Robinson had the better claim to the land, and that Mercer, the Indian agent then made an entry in the tract book of the said land in favor of Robinson.

The witness admits that Woodhull had plowed around a part of the said land before the date when he, Richard Robinson had made the selection in 1890.

Richard Robinson will further testify that after the hearing before Indian Agent Mercer above referred to, and right after Mercer had made the decision in favor of Robinson, that one John Wickersham and his family built a little house on the land in controversy, and lived there for a time. That Wickersham and his family continued to occupy the house for about two years, intending at that time to make claim to the land on the supposition that he would be entitled to more land than he was eventually found entitled to have, and at the end of the said two years moved away from the land.

It is agreed that the Wickersham referred to is the same Wickersham whose testimony has been taken in the above entitled cause in behalf of the complainants.

William F. Springer will testify that he is a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and was acting as interpreter for Allotting Agent Rankin during the time while Rankin was making the allotments under the act of 1893.

That Richard Robinson came to see Rankin two or three 1353 times during the time while Rankin was making allotments in the locality where the above described lands are situated, claiming the said lands for Frank Robinson. That at said time there was no controversy over the said land, and the said Rankin was controlled by the entry upon the tract book, and the claim of the said Richard Robinson, and made the allotment to the said Frank Robinson.

The witness Springer will further testify that in the year 1890, Henry Fontenelle had about 1800 acres of land enclosed for pasture land, and which adjoined the land in controversy on the west. The lands so enclosed for pasture purposes by the said Henry Fontenelle are tribal land, and are held under an arrangement with the tribe, or by the consent of the tribe, and that the rent therefor was paid by the said Henry Fontenelle to the tribe, and the tribe appointed their own agents for the collection of the land, and among the agents so appointed for collecting the rents were the said Richard Robinson, Spafford Woodhull and one Amos Walker.

PHILEMON H. FROST, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Frank Robinson, a Minor, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.
} Docket T, No. 507. Depositions.

Testimony taken in behalf of the complainants, by consent of the parties hereto, before William S. Heller, a stenographer and notary public, at Pender, in the State of Nebraska, on this the 22nd day of August, 1902, the complainant being represented by Thomas L. Sloan, Esq., and the defendants being represented by John L. Webster, Esq.

JOHN M. WICKERSHAM, a witness produced on behalf of the complainant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. State your name?
A. John M. Wickersham.
Q. Do you know the lands described as the south half of the north-east quarter of section 34, township 25, north of range 8, east?
A. Yes, sir, I do.
Q. Was you ever upon this land?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When did you first select the land?
A. Might I have the privilege of referring to a book?
Q. Yes, sir.

1355 A. It has been quite a little while. I have been gone three years and I have it in a book. I think I have it in this book. I moved upon this land in the spring of 1898.
Q. Had you selected or marked that in any way previous to that time?
A. Nothing more than herding cattle there a few years previous. I moved on it in 1893. It was three years prior to that that we handled cattle there and made a selection at the time but we did not mark it at the time, but we had a cattle corral on it and such as that. We did not plow around it at the time.
Q. That would be in 1895, would it, that you had your corrals on it?
A. I believe it was 1894, or 1895. I have most forgotten the exact year.

Q. For whom did you claim it at that time?
A. The first claim we made would be for my wife under the old law.
Q. You expected at that time to get additional allotments?
A. Yes, sir, under the old law.
Q. What land did you expect to get at that time?
A. We expected to get 120.
Q. That included all of this described land?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. State whether any marks of any kind were upon it at the time you selected it?
A. There was not.
Q. You may state what you put upon it, and how long you occupied it?
A. We occupied it and farmed it for two years, and caused it to be; we lived upon it one year ourselves, and caused it to be 1356 a second. We broke some land, built a fence and enclosed about four or five acres; built one fence including about an acre—board fence; built a small house and a barn, a small shed barn.
Q. What was the value of those improvements when you left there?
A. About $300.00; the valuation would be about $300.
Q. To whom did you give up possession of the premises?
A. Mr. T. L. Sloan.
Q. For whom, if you know?
A. In behalf of, I think Mrs. Frost at the time.
Q. Did anybody ever occupy it or claim it other than yourself up to the time that you left?
A. No, sir; at the time I lived here I had a white man taking care of the place.
Q. Who was he?
A. Mr. Clark Ray, and he had his brother-in-law on the place residing there.
Q. Was your wife a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What degree of Omaha Indian blood is she?
A. One half.
Q. Has she an allotment of land?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. How many children have you?
A. We have five.
Q. Have you any Indian blood in you?
A. No, sir.
Q. Are your children borne upon the tribal rolls?
A. They are all on the rolls.
Q. They have all allotments of land?
1357 A. No, sir; just one.
Q. Why not?

A. Because the act of Congress passed a law at the time that specified up to a certain date.

Q. The first one of them was born in time to receive an allotment before that date was fixed?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where were you living the last two years?

A. Oklahoma.

Q. Is your family with you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how does your family receive their annuities?

A. Through the mail, at our post office address by getting two witnesses to that effect, wherein we return the blank; we return the number for the check, and the check is forwarded to us upon receipt.

Cross-examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. How old are you?

A. 40 years.

Q. When were you married?

A. In 1890.

Q. On the Omaha Indian reservation?

A. I was married in Iowa.

Q. You were married in Iowa?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You was married twelve years ago?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you first go on the reservation?

A. In 1886, in April.

Q. Did your wife live on the reservation before her marriage?

1358 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know how long she had been living on the reservation?

A. Off and on ever since her birth, except when she went to school; she was born on the reservation.

Q. She was a member of the Omaha Indian tribe?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. She was from her birth up a member of the tribe?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was at the time of your marriage to her?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In 1898 you first moved on the land in section 34, township 25, range 8?

A. No, sir; I was on the land before that. I was handling cattle.

Q. My question is, you first moved on it then?

A. Yes, sir to stay right there and make it my home in 1898, but we were living near that within a few feet of it. We had a house before, I and Fontenelle in partnership, and our corrals was over on the place; then I made the selection then for my wife at the time, but afterwards under the old law we found land up here and took this in preference to that and moved on it.

Q. So when you moved on the land in 1898 you did it expecting to claim it for your own family?

A. Yes, sir, for one of the children, for Henry.

Q. When did you abandon the land?

A. In the spring of 1901.

Q. When did you lease it to Thomas L. Sloan?

A. In 1899 I made arrangements with Mr. Sloan that he could have the land before I left the place, but I did not give possession of it for the simple reason I made an arrangement with these 1359 other parties to keep it until the first of the year, and I could not arrange with them until their time was out.

Q. What was the arrangement you made with Thomas L. Sloan in 1901?

A. I turned the land over to him for him to select it and take papers out for a party in this case, and as I understand it with one of the Frosts. I did not stop to take down the particulars, but that is my recollection at the time.

Q. What did he give you for your release of it, for your agreement to release it?

A. $50.00, and if they got the land he would do better, if they got the land.

Q. Did he tell you how much better he would do if they got the land?

A. About $200 better. In 1898 I moved there and took possession of the place, and I occupied it two years. Then I abandoned it to him.

Q. That would be in 1900?

A. Yes, sir. I was to let him have it after the first of the year so as to not conflict with the deal I had with the parties on the place. That is correct. I have the dates and everything. I happened to be lucky to have this book in my pocket.

Re-direct examination.

Questions by Mr. T. L. SLOAN:

Q. You say your wife is a member of the Omaha tribe?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know her parents?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who are they?

A. George Lieb and Mary Lieb.

Q. Which is Indian?

1360 A. Her mother.

PHILEMON H. FROST, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA and FRANK Robinson, Defendants.

Docket "T," No. 507.
Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

1364 Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Philemon H. Frost was not entitled to claim and have allotted to him the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit:

The south half of the northeast quarter of section thirty-four (34) in township twenty-five (25) north of range eight (8) east of the 6th P. M.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendant- and against the complainant.

1365 Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

PHILEMON H. FROST, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA and FRANK Robinson, Defendants.	Docket "T," No. 507. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives himself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an appeal
1367 in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.

1371 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 19th day of April 1901 amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

LEONARD L. FROST, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Leon C. Fontenelle, a Minor; Mahashahane Hallowell, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	No. 508, Doc. T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of said court:

Leonard L. Frost brings this his bill of complaint against the defendants, and says he is a member of what is or until recently was known as the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska, being the tribe of Indians designated as the Omahas in the various statutes of the United States, and the treaties herein set forth.

That he is of what is known as mixed blood and is a lineal descendant from one Michael Barada or Michael Berda, as he was sometimes designated, who intermarried with one Taegleha Hacienda, an Indian woman of the full blood and a member of said tribe. That your orator and his ancestors back to said Michael Barada and his said wife have continually maintained their domicile with said tribe, and have maintained tribal relations therewith so long and so far as any tribal relations have been maintained by said tribe, and have participated in the property and other rights of said tribe and have been recognized by the said tribe and the members thereof as members of said tribe and are entitled to all its rights and privileges.

Further complaining your orator says that on the 16th day 1372 of March A. D. 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof it received its present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including the ancestors of your orator. All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

And your orator further shows that on the 6th day of March, A. D. 1865, another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large, vol. 14, page 667, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

And further showing your orator says that on the 7th day of August, A. D. 1882, an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one eighth of a section, to each orphan child one eighth of a section, and to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section. That 1373 allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which said matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large vol. 22, page 341, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

Your orator further shows that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provision of said act in December, 1884, and at subsequent times since.

Your orator further states that he is a member of the Omaha tribe by blood and descent, by recognition as such by both the tribal and governmental authorities, and according to the customs, rules and regulations of the Omaha tribe of Indians. That such relationship and membership has never been terminated. That his mother, Artemesia Frost, was recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and that she received an allotment on the Nemaha half breed tract, and that she has lived on the present reservation and does live upon said reservation at the present time. That his mother since the treaty of 1865 has been recognized as a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians and has been enrolled upon the tribal roll and has drawn annuity money for herself and some of her children, and has had the benefits of tribal property, the mill and other common property of the tribe. That Artemesia Frost was the daughter of Margaret Sloan, who was also recognized as a member of the tribe and received the benefits of the tribal property under the treaty of 1854, and the later treaty of March 6th, 1865.

That your orator has selected the following described land for allotment, of which he is now in possession, to-wit: Lots 5 and 6 and the S. E. ¼ of the N. W. ¼ all of section 12, township 25 north, 1374 range 6 east of the 6th P. M. in Nebraska; that such described property is a part of the land described and referred to in the treaties and acts of Congress hereinabove set out and has been surveyed in accordance with the treaties and acts of Congress; that your orator has placed valuable improvements upon the above described premises, that no person or persons claim or did claim the same when first selected by your orator in accordance with the laws relating thereto and the notice received from the council of the Omaha tribe of Indians and that it is occupied by your orator and he is the only person who has occupied said land under a claim for allotment. That application for the allotment of said land has been refused your orator by the Department of the Interior.

Your orator further says that on the 3rd day of March, A. D. 1893, an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th, 1882, providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council further allotments should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd, 1893, but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899, and immediately thereafter assignments for allotments were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land in controversy without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimant.

1375 To Leon C. Fontenelle, a minor, whose next friend is Eugene Fontenelle has been assigned lots 5 and 6 in section 12 township 25 north range 6 east and to Mahashahane Hallowell the S. E. ¼ of the N. W. ¼ section 12 township 25 north range 6 east.

That trust patents therefor naming the United States as trustee of date April 11th, 1900, have been issued to Leon C. Fontenelle and Mahashahane Hallowell respectively. No rights were acquired by said trust patents but owing to the fact the assignments were made during the pendency of this suit makes Leon C. Fontenelle and Mahashahane Hallowell necessary parties defendant.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land and to place in possession the allottee or lessee, and that he threatens to place into possession either the allottees hereinbefore named or their lessees to the great and irreparable damage of the complainant who is now in possession. That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson his claim of authority over the land in controversy and his threats that he will remove your orator from the land makes him a necessary party to this suit.

And your orator further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress, or who claims to be so entitled under any allotment act or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the 1376 said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305, which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

Your orator further states that the defendant The United States of America, claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, the assignment to be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood, "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them." The said defendant claims that your orator and his ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your orator admits that he and his ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claims that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation and the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, or their rights to allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United 1377 States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th, 1871, contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule referred to that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent,

— the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman who never resided on the reservation, but at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since has resided away from the reservation.

Your orator further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your orator further states that the defendant, The United 1378 States, claims that the complainant or his ancestors have received allotment of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art. thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian office your orator is not entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your orator admits that his ancestor received an allotment of land under the provisions of 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, that the quantity so assigned was one half the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by his ancestor nor given to his ancestor in consideration of the relinquishment of any other rights than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

Numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th 1830, sums of money, which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiencies in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th, clt. 66, of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your orator has not in any manner assigned or relinquished their right of claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians, neither 1379 has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor the enactment of any law authorized this complainant or his ancestors or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant nor any member of this tribe has been accepted or approved of by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your orator shows to your honors that he is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity and he therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises and that said defendants, The United States of America, Leon C. Fontenelle, a minor, by his next friend, Eugene Fontenelle and Mahashahane Hallowell may answer your orator's bill but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived.

That it be ordered and decreed that the patents issued to Leon C. Fontenelle and Mahashahane Hallowell are null and void and that the selection as made by your orator is his allotment and prior and superior to the claims of the said Leon C. Fontenelle and Mahashahane Hollowell, and that your orator and his heirs be decreed entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your orator further prays for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants Charles P. Mathewson, Leon C. Fontenelle and Mahashahane Hallowell, enjoining and restraining each of them, their agents and employés from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein described and that at the termination of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your ora-1380 tor the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court directed to the United States of America, Leon C. Fontenelle, minor, by his next friend Eugene Fontenelle and Mahashahane Hallowell, therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

1381 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 13th day of July, 1901, an answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to-wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

LEONARD L. FROST, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Leon C. Fontenelle, a Minor; Mahashahane Hallowell, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.

Doc. T, No. 508. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, Leon C. Fontenelle, a minor; Mahashahane Hallowell, and Charles P. Mathewson, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Leonard L. Frost, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer say:

1. These defendants deny that the complainant is an Omaha Indian and deny that the complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary these defendants aver that the said complainant is a white man, and a citizen of the United States, and that his ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that his said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and these defendants deny that the 1382 complainant or his ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and deny that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant claims to trace his lineage back to Michael Barada, who intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but these defendants are not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leave the complainant to her proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife, in the year 1811, a daughter by the name of Margaret Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of her father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Margaret Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with her parents until the year 1883, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

That the said Margaret Barada intermarried with one Thomas Sloan, a free born white man of Irish nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Thomas Sloan and his wife Margaret Sloan continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two 1383 years, until some time after the approval — act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Stats. at Large, 341), hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Thomas Sloan and his wife Margaret there was born a daughter named Artemesia (the mother of this complainant) and the said Artemesia was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis, and was never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882. That the said Artemesia Sloan, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a white man named Leonard Frost, a free born white man and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said Leonard Frost and his wife Artemesia, a son who is the complainant herein, and the said complainant being such white person and citizen of the United States took the status of his father and continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, who came to the Omaha reservation about 1900 with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under the said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing 1384 with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded complainant, being only one sixteenth Indian blood, and he not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit:—March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or his ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department, became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of her ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

1385 3. These defendants further answering say: That in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff, and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontanelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "that the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan,

Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedents or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant. That the said Thomas Sloan was the grandfather of this complainant, and the said Artemesia Sloan was the mother of this complainant, and the Peters family and descendants of Michael Barada and uncles and 1386 aunts of complainant.

4. These defendants further answering say: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Sloan family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Sloan family did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Sloan family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Sloan family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Sloan family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to the Sloan and Peters families, being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by the department in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a latter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, 1387 in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas, relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned 'to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date — December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore, that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having — in no manner identified with the tribe since that 1388 time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters (a relative of complainant) and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case.

The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas.

1389 Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis.

Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here.

Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war.

He has excellent credentials as to character and so has his wife.

Article 4, of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed-bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation.

1390 The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation, and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. These defendants further aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father, Michael Barada, to-wit: William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington, was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal land.

There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation.
1391 He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under rules of this treaty, we were told.

We know that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to your treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since. Last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8, and broke 40 acres.

We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off.

We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years, and that the land patented to the tribes, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take 1392 the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land.

These intruders have selected come of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888, make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Sloan family from the said reservation, and afterwards on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotment of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relation- residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, 1394 or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

7. These defendants further aver that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors, and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not 1395 do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent, to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as she was of that class.

These defendants further aver that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district
1396 of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontanelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein, from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken, and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. This defendant- further avers that afterward the said Sloan family endeavored to have themselves adopted into the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to have themselves recognized by the Interior Department as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to that end submitted to the department certain petitions purporting to be signed by certain members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that under date of September 6, 1894, the department ruled that the said Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan, should not be admitted to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and accordingly so ordered, and in which order and opinion the department held as follows:

"Aside from the general proposition that the question of adopting the Sloans as members of the tribe is one in a measure separate and distinct from their alleged rights as Omaha Indians by blood,
1397 and that such alleged right is not necessarily a test for such adoption, there remains the right to admission by the free will and consent of the tribe, if fairly and properly obtained.

Upon their faces, the several petitions presented with your letter seem to be in proper form, and to express the desire of a majority of the members of the tribe that the persons in question shall be placed upon the rolls of the tribe, and be admitted to all the rights and privileges of other members thereof.

Besides the opposing petition hereinbefore referred to, the department is in receipt of recent information which shows that of the one hundred and fifty seven persons whose names appear on the six petitions presented with your letter, only seventy now favor the claimants; that eleven others have since assented to their adoption making eighty-one in all now favorable; that twenty-four of the signatures thereon were not written by the parties whose names are given, nor was the use of their names authorized by them, that fifteen names were signed twice, and that the said petitions bear the names of nine boys and three women—neither of whom have any voice in such matter; that one of the nine members of the council purporting to have signed one of the petitions, did not sign nor authorize the use of his name, and further, that there are about one hundred and eighteen male members of the tribe, of lawful age, who oppose the adoption of the Sloans.

Without expressing any opinion of the merits of the petitions in question, the facts presented seem to clearly establish the belief that it is the desire and wish of a majority of the members of the tribe that the Sloans be not admitted to membership and it is so ordered.

In reference to that part of your report wherein you state that 1398 Thomas L. Sloan has held and improved a tract of land since 1881 or 1882, on the Omaha reservation, it would seem that he is doing so in defiance of any legal authority of occupation."

That after the above order and ruling of the department, the counsel for Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan applied to the department for reconsideration of the adoption case, and the department under date of November 17, 1896, re-affirmed this ruling and among other things therein said:

"It is not denied, nor has it ever been, that the Sloans, mother and son, are of part Omaha Indian blood. The tribe recognized them as such and made provisions for them, with others, by the treaty of 1830, and in the opinion of the department, and the Omahas themselves, their claims as such mixed bloods were extinguished by the lands given them under the terms of the tenth article of the treaty named. * * *

The claims of Margaret and her son William E. were extinguished prior to the birth of Thomas L. It is nowhere alleged or claimed that the latter is the offspring of a mother of Indian blood, much more of one of Omaha blood. The presumption is, therefore, that his mother was a white woman.

The claims of Margaret and Thomas L. are based upon their birth-right as Omaha Indians and upon their alleged adoption in recent years by the tribe.

The birth right claim of Margaret has been extinguished.

Thomas L. never had such claim. Neither of them have any claim by adoption, never having been regularly, fairly or properly adopted by the tribe, as was shown by department letter of September 6, 1894.

Notwithstanding that Mr. Breckenridge has advised the department by letter dated the 30th ultimo, of his withdrawal as attorney for the claimants, I have caused this review of the case 1399 to be made, and adhere to the opinion expressed in department letter of September 6, 1894, that the persons named have no valid, legal claims to membership with the Omaha tribe of Indians."

And defendant- avers that the above ruling of the Department of the Interior established the fact that Margaret Sloan and her descendants the plaintiff herein, then were not and had not theretofore been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and the defendant-avers that the said Margaret Sloan and her descendants, the plaintiff herein, are not and never have been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

10. These defendants for further answer avers that under article 10 of the treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to Margaret Sloan for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of Margaret Sloan and her descendants including complainant, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

These defendants further aver that Artemesia Frost, the mother of complainant, made application for an allotment of land, and her pretended claim was reported to the Interior Department, and the Interior Department adjudged and determined on the 21st day of June, 1897 as follows:

"By her own admission, Mrs. Frost's birthright claim has been extinguished. To admit her present claim would be an injustice to those of the tribe who have never received allotments, and who alone are entitled to participation in the division of the lands 1400 in the diminished reserve; would also be against public policy, and a violation of the rules and regulations of the department, which prohibit more than one allotment to an Indian for any reason whatever."

11. These defendants further aver that the complainant never occupied or improved lots 5 and 6 and the S. E. ¼ of the N. W. ¼ all of section 12, township 25, north range E.; that the complainant was born in Richardson county, in the State of Nebraska, and continued to live in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and has never lived upon the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not on the reservation at the time of the allotting of lands to the Omaha Indians, and was not on the Omaha reservation at the date of the commencement of this suit, and did not make a selection of the lands claimed.

These defendants further aver that Sarah F. McCreary, Philomen Frost, Charles A. Frost, Leonard Frost, Mary Frost and Frank Frost are all children of Artemesia Frost and Leonard Frost, (husband and wife) and that the United States allotting agent consulted with Leonard Frost and Artemesia Frost, the parents, and found it desirable that if lands were to be allotted to the Frost family, the should be adjoining lands, and such was the wish of Leonard Frost and wife, whereupon the United States allotting agent made reservation of lands for the Frost family, including the complainant, pending the result of this litigation in section 8 and 9, tp. 25, range 7, and which reservation has been made upon the surveyed maps in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs awaiting the final determination of this suit.

These defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent, appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections and make allotments of land, investigated, ascertained and found as a fact that the complainant was not entitled 1401 to an allotment of any of the lands claimed by her and reported his said findings to the Interior Department, and which said findings and report have been approved by the said department.

That the said United States allotting agent did find upon investigation that Leon C. Fontenelle made claim to lots 5 and 6, and Me-ma-she-ha-ne Hollowell made claim to the S. ½ of the N. W. ¼ all of section 12, township 25, range 6, and the said allotting agent did make an allotment of the said lands to the said Leon C. Fontenelle and the said Me-ma-she-ha-ne Hollowell, and thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, that the said Fontenelle and the said Hallowell were entitled to an allotment of lands last above described respectively, and which said allotments were subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and by the Secretary of the Interior, and patents therefore were issued to the said Fontenelle and the said Hallowell under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotments were made, and said patents issued in the regular and due course of business.

These defendants further aver that the complainant did not have any prior or superior or vested right to the land so patented to the said Fontenelle and to the said Hallowell, and that the allotments to them and the said patents were made in all respects in conformity to law.

12. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defendants, and these defendants deny that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

1402 And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

LEONARD FROST, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, LEON C. Fontenelle, Mahashahahane Hallowell, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	Docket T, No. 508. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously hold- that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

1411 Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Leonard Frost was not entitled to claim and have allotted to them the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: Lots five (5) and six (6) and the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section twelve (12) in township twenty-five (25) north of range six (6) east of the 6th P. M.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

LEONARD FROST, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, LEON C. Fontenelle, Mahashahane Hallowell, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	Docket T. No. 508. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives himself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated may be sent to said court.

1417 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 28th day of May 1901, amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MAGGIE E. ROCKWELL, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, John McCauley, Poncansan Lyon, Hoodata Lyon, Fannie Springer, and Philip Blackbird, Minors, by Their Next Friend, Nedawe Walker, and Chas. P. Mathewson, Defendants.	Amended Bill of Complaint. Doc. T, No. 509.

To the honorable the judges of said court:

Maggie E. Rockwell, brings this her bill of complaint and states that the claims made by her arise under various acts of Congress and treaties made by and between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians. That she is a claimant for an allotment of land for herself and children and that under and by virtue of an act of Congress approved February 6th, 1901, jurisdiction is conferred upon this court of claims made by Indians or persons of Indian descent for allotment under any law or treaty.

That your oratrix is a daughter of one Euphrasia Peters who in turn was a daughter of Antoine Barada, he being a son of Michael Barada, a white man, and Tagleha Haceinda, an Indian woman of the full blood, and a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians. That each of the ancestors of your oratrix as named were members of the Omaha tribe of Indians and duly recognized as such by the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians. That both Antoine Barada and Euphrasia Peters received allotments of land on the 1418 Nemaha half breed reservation as Omaha Indians. That your oratrix is a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians by blood and descent, by the customs and rules and regulations of the said Omaha tribe of Indians and that neither your oratrix or her ancestors relinquished or terminated their membership with said tribe. That your oratrix has made a selection of land for allotment which has been refused her and her children.

Further complaining your oratrix states that under and by virtue of the treaty of March 16th 1854, the present reservation was set apart, including the lands claimed by your oratrix, and that Euphrasia Peters and Antoine Barada were recognized and participated in the annuities under its provisions which matters and things more fully and at large appear in the U. S. Statutes at Large, vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your oratrix begs to refer.

And your oratrix further states that on the 6th day of March 1865 another variety was entered into between the same parties in which there was a provision for allotment which with other matters and things more fully and at large appear in the Statutes at Large vol. 14, page 667 to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

Further complaining your oratrix states that on the 7th day of Aug. 1882 an act of Congress was approved providing allotments for the Omaha Indians and under which allotments have been made. And that said act was amended by an act approved March 3rd, 1893 under — allotments which have also been made. That the matter of selection in such cases were left to the Indians to select for themselves and the heads of families for their minor children. That your oratrix selected for herself the S. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 17, and N. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 20, as the head of a family, and for her minor children as follows, the S. ½ of the 1419 S. W. ¼ of section 17, for Walter Rockwell and for Rena Rockwell the N. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of section 20, all in township 25 north and range 7 east of the 6th P. M., in the State of Nebraska. That the selections when made were uncultivated, unoccupied and unclaimed lands. That your oratrix had the land marked by plowing around it and planting thereon seed and small trees. That she was prevented from occupying the land by its being leased to speculators. That her children are both living and were of the ages of 18 and 17 years at the time of filing of this action.

Further complaining, your oratrix states that during the spring of 1900 the act of Congress approved March 3d, 1893 was accepted by the consent of the Omaha Indians and immediately thereafter allotments were made under its provi ions. That the allotments therein provided that the allotments should be made from the residue of lands after fulfilling the rights and claims for allotments under the original act of Aug. 7th, 1882.

That the selection of your oratrix for herself is under the provisions of the original act, as are forty acres selected for each of her children, and that they are superior to allotments since made to other persons. That during the past year and since the commencement of this action allotments have been made to other claimants of the land herein described under the provisions of the act approved March 3rd, 1893, and that although the allotting agent was instructed to respect the selections of those who had cases pending in court where they were the first to select the land for allotment. That wholly disregarding his instructions the allotting agent allotted the land of your oratrix and of her children to other parties as follows: The S. W. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ and the S. E. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ to Poncansan Lyon; the S. E. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ of section 17 to 1420 Hoodate Lyon, who are minors, and whose father and next of friend is Nathan Lyon; the N. W. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ of section 20 to Fanny Springer, who is a minor, and whose father and next friend is John Springer; the N. E. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ of section 20 to Nadawe Walker; the S. E. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ of section 17 to John McCauley whose father and next friend is Theodore McCauley; and the N. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of section 20, all in township 25 N., and range 7 east of the 6th P. M., in Nebraska to Phillip Blackbird who is a minor and whose father and next friend is James Blackbird. That all of said lands are leased to speculators who have sub-let it to farmers under the direction of Charles P. Mathewson. That he collects the rents from the land and disburses it to the allottees named, and that he refuses to recognize the rights or claims of your oratrix and her children. That because of his acts and the claims of the allottees since the commencement of this action they have become necessary parties to this suit.

That the defendants claim that the rights of your oratrix and her ancestors were terminated by allotments made to them under the provision of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, and because they were not living upon the reservation March 6th, 1865. Your oratrix states the fact to be that such was not the intention of the treaty nor of the Indians nor the officials who at the time were carrying the provisions of said treaties into effect. That allotments were to persons against whom every objection could be made as is made against her. That the provisions of the act of Congress of 1859 3rd session of 35th Congress section 6, chapter 66 clearly shows that the relinquishment on receiving benefits from the half breed tract extended only to claims on the Nemeha reservation.

Wherefore your oratrix shows to your honors that she 1421 is without a remedy in the premises unless relieved by this court of equity and she therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises, and that the defendants, The United States, Charles P. Mathewson, John McCauley, Poncansan and Hoodate Lyon, minors, by their father and next friend Nathan Lyon, Philip Blackbird by his father and next friend James Blackbird, and Fanny Springer minor by her friend and father, John Springer, and Nedawe Walker, may answer the complaint of your oratrix, but not under oath, answer under oath being hereby waived. That it be ordered and decreed that the patents issued to Poncasan Lyon, Hoodate Lyon, John McCauley, Phillip Blackbird, and Nedawe Walter are null and void and that selections as by your oratrix for herself and for her children are prior and superior to all other claims. That the complainant recover from the defendants judgment for the reasonable value of the premises for the time that — have wrongfully withheld.

And may it please your honors to grant to your oratrix the most gracious writ of subpœna to issue under the seal of the court directed to John Springer next friend of Fanny Springer, Theodore McCauley next friend of John McCauley, Nathan Lyon next friend of Poncansan Lyon and Hoodate Lyon, James Blackbird next friend of Phillip Blackbird and Nedawe Walker, Charles P. Mathewson, commanding them on a certain day and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and abide by and perform such order and decree as to the court shall seem meet.

1422 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 21st day of September, 1901, an answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MAGGIE E. ROCKWELL, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, John McCauley, Poncansan Lyon, Hoodate Lyon, Fanny Springer, and Phillip Blackbird, Minors, by Their Next Friend, Nedawe Walker, and Chas. P. Mathewson, Defendants.

Doc. T, No. 509. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, John McCauley, Poncansan Lyon, Hoodate Lyon, Fanny Springer, and Phillip Blackbird, minors, by their next friend, Nedawe Walker, and Charles P. Mathewson, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Maggie E. Rockwell, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto himself respectively all benefits and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for him to make answer unto these defendants for his joint and several answer say:

1. These defendants deny that the complainant is an Indian and deny that complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska. Upon the contrary, these defendants aver that the said complainant is a 1423 white woman, and citizen of the United States, and that her ancestors were white persons and citizens of the United States, and that her said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and these defendants deny that complainant or her ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and deny that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States, as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer avers that the complainant claims to trace her lineage back to Michael Barada, who had intermarried with an Indian woman by the name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but these defendants are not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood, or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leaves the complainant to her proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife in the year —, a son by the name of Antoine Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of his father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Antoine Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with his parents until the year 1885, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

1421 That the said Antoine Barada intermarried with one Josephine Vien, a free born white woman of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Antoine and his wife Josephine Vien continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years until some time after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Stats. at Large 341) hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Antoine Barada and his wife Josephine there was born a daughter named Euphrasia (the mother of this complainant) and the said Euphrasia was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of her father and became and was a white woman and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis and was never on the Omaha reservation until after the act of Congress of August 7 1882. That the said Euphrasia Barada, so being a white woman and a citizen of the United States, married a white man named Fulton Peters, a white man of German nationality, and a citizen of the United States. There was born to the said Fulton Peters and his wife Euphrasia, a daughter named Maggie, who is the complainant herein, and the said Maggie, being such white person and citizen of the United States taking the status of her father continued to reside in the city of St. Louis, and in Richardson county, Nebraska, until after the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, when she came to the Omaha reservation with her parents, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

1425 2. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large 667), the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded Maggie E. Rockwell, being only one-sixteenth Indian blood, and she not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865; and these defendants further aver that the said complainant was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the direction of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians and transmitted and 1426 submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the complainant or her ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the complainant nor any of her ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. These defendants further answering say; that in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to, wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters and Walter Peters, being of the same family with this plaintiff; and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, they made claim that he had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, "That the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan,
William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan,
1427 Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Narada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors or any of the immediate antecedants or descendants of said parties, so far as I know their names," and which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including this complainant. That the said Antoine Barada was the grandfather of this complainant, and the said Euphrasia Peters and Fulton Peters were the parents of this complainant, and Josephine Peters and Frank Peters and Mary Sailors were brothers and sisters of complainant.

These defendants further answering say: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 341) the said Peters family and other half breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Peters family did then and there make application to Alice C.

Fletcher, the United States special allotting agent for lands to be allotted to them in severalty on the Omaha Indian reservation, and that Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of the Peters family to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and said department ruled and determined that the Peters family were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

1428 5. The Indians of the reservation manifested the most determined opposition to their being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent charged with the work of allotting lands for decision as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

As showing the position taken by this office in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is quoted from a letter addressed to the special agent on September 13, 1883, in the case of Celestia Kuhn, a sister of Mrs. Peters and a member of the Barada family, from which complainant is descended.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo.; and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865 (14 Stats. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.

I find in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selections of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

1429 Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestia Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore, that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having been in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not — all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

1430 In order that the department may further understand the views entertained by this office relative to the mixed blood Omahas not admitted to the reservation by consent of the tribe, and not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of March 6, 1865, we refer to the case of Mrs. Euphrasia Peters, the mother of complainant, and the action of the department thereon.

The last mentioned case was reported to the department by Miss Fletcher, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case. The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas. Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared in St. Louis. Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man, by whom she had several children.

All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged.

After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882, at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here. Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war. He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4 of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia
1431 Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilman incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for the members of the tribe living there.

This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation. The Omahas cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that the decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. These defendants further aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and others descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit: William Barada, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others including this plaintiff, persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against 1432 the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department, to-wit:

"OMAHA AGENCY, NEBRASKA, March 19, 1888.

Hon. Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: Our interview with you in Washington was so short, we could not tell you all about intruders on our tribal lands. There is a man named Frank Peters, who although he has Indian blood in him, is not entitled to land on our reservation. He belongs to one of the mixed blood families who were provided with land by us on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by us in our treaty of 1865, from taking land on this reservation.

Our land was allotted and patented to us under the rules of this treaty, we were told. We know that this Peters family tried to take land when our reservation was allotted to us four years ago; that they had a chance to state their case; that the tribe told their side; that the case was sent on to Washington; that it was decided according to our treaty and the Peters family had to go away.

They have been threatening to come back ever since; last year Frank Peters came back, selected land in township 24, range 8 and broke 40 acres. We told him to stop and go away. He laughed at us and said that he would not go until the Government came and took him off. We have asked to have him sent away, but nothing has been done.

This winter other members of the family and their relations have come up and they say if Frank Peters stays, they will break land and stay here too. We have asked people who know the law, what we should do to save our land.

1433 We were told to tell you all about the case, and that you will get the courts to take the intruders off our land.

The law under which our land is allotted says; that the Government will hold the land safe for us twenty-five years and that the land patented to the tribe, shall be held just as safe as our individual land.

If this man Peters or any other person, is permitted to settle on tribal land, and the Government does not, by its law, take the man away, we cannot feel sure that our own lands will be kept safe, for the promise is the same for our individual and tribal land. The law says that our children born during the 25 years, shall have their allotments on the tribal land. These intruders have selected some of the best of our unallotted lands.

Some of the tribe did not listen to good advice when our reservation was allotted.

They thought they could not live away from the timber out on prairie; but they see their mistake now. Their farms are poor and they want to take land for their young children out on the prairie and farm there; but these intruders are keeping us off of the good land.

We respectfully ask that you take action to remove all intruders from our tribal land.

Frank Peters will soon put in his crop, and we do not want him to be allowed to do so.

If this man is permitted to stay, a hundred others will make the same claim and we will be defrauded of our property."

And the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did under date of November 14, 1888 make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterwards

1434 on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claims under similar state of facts, including the said complainant from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The — article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the 1435 allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none bit members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority and contrary, to the wishes of the Omaha Indians you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the O naha Indian reservation.

7. These defendants further aver, that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada Luke Sailors and complainant, failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto, were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Com-
1436 missioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including complainant, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon complainant, Walter Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Frank Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force.

On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Frank Peters, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included complainant as she was of that class.

These defendants further aver that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families, belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1437 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

8. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-oga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

9. These defendants for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830 (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a 1438 patent was issued to complainant's ancestor for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of the ancestor and his descendants including complainant, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants, to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians and to any further or other allotment of land.

10. These defendants further aver that the preference right to select lands for allotment under the act of Congress August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large 342) is confined by section 5, of said act to persons who had received or were entitled to receive an assignment and certificate of an allotment under the 4th article of the treaty with the Omahas concluding March 6, 1865, and Barada and Peters families had not received and were not entitled to receive an assignment and certificate for lands under said treaty and by reason whereof, the said Barada and Peters families did not have and could not acquire any such interest in the lands described in the amended petition as would give them a preference over other Indians in the selection of land for allotment.

11. And these defendants for further answer say, that the complainant was not and is not the head of a family, and is not entitled to claim by way of allotment, the 160 acres of land described in the amended bill of complaint, but her right to allotment, if any she had, would be limited under the law to 80 acres of land.

12. These defendants for further answer aver, that the complainant did not select for allotment, and did not occupy or make any improvements on any of the lands described in the amended bill of complaint and the defendants further aver that the complaint never lived upon the Omaha reservation until after the act of 1893, and never selected, improved or cultivated any land whatsoever, upon the Omaha Indian reservation and is not entitled to have or 1439 select any lands upon the Omaha Indian reservation for allotment.

13. These defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections and to make allotments of land, investigated, ascertained, and found as a fact that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of any of the lands claimed by her, for herself or her said children, and reported his said findings to the Interior Department, and which said findings and report have been approved by the Interior Department.

That said United States allotting agent did find upon investigation that claims for allotment of the lands in the complainant's amended bill of complaint described, has been made by other persons, and selections of said lands for allotment had been made in behalf of other persons as follows, to-wit: John McCauley the W. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 17; Poncansan Lyon the S. W. ¼ of the S. E. ¼ and the S. E. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ of section 17; Hoodata Lyon the E. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 17; Fannie Springer the W. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 20; Philip Blackbird the N. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of section 20; Nedawe Walker the N. E. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ of section 20 all in township 25, range 7 east. And the said United States allotting agent did find and ascertain that said parties respectively had a superior right to and claim for allotment of said lands respectively; and the said United States allotting agent did make to said parties respectively an allotment of said lands, and thereafter his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs; that the said parties were entitled to the land allotted to them as above described and which said allotments was subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and by the Secretary of the In-1440 terior, and patents therefor had been issued to the said allottees under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotments were made and said patents issued in the regular and due course of business.

And these defendants further aver that the complainant herein did not have any prior or superior or vested right to the lands so patented, and that the said allotments were made and the said patents were issued in conformity to law in all respects.

14. These defendants for further answer aver that Edward Rockwell, the husband of the complainant, is a free born, full blood white man and a citizen of the United States, that said marriage took place at Verdon in Richardson county, State of Nebraska; and that the said Edward Rockwell, and his wife Maggie have ever since continued to live together as husband and wife, and have never lived on the Omaha reservation, but have at all times kept up the habits of civilized life and continued to live in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, until about 10 years ago when they removed to the State of Iowa where they have ever since continued to live; and that said Edward Rockwell was not and is not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and that the children of the complainant took the status of their father and were and are white persons and citizens of the United States, and were not and never have been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to selections either in their own right, or by the complainant in their own behalf.

And these defendants further aver that the pretended claim and selections of lands in the name of the complainant was not done and made by the co nplainant, but by Thomas L. Sloan in his 1441 own interest and without knowledge of or authority from the complainant.

15. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained, material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defendants, and these defendants deny that the complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complainant demanded.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such times, erroneously hold- that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

1448 Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Maggie E. Rockwell and her children was not entitled to claim and have allotted to them the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The south half of the southeast quarter of section seventeen (17); the north half of the northeast quarter of section twenty (20); the south half of the south west quarter of section seventeen (17) and the north half of the northwest quarter of section twenty (20), all in township twenty-five (25) north of range seven (7) east of the 6th P. M.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives herself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors com-

1454 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 10 day of May, 1901, amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said amended bill of complaint is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MITCHELL MONETTE, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, George Fields, Joseph Fields, Minors, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.

No. 574, Doc. T.
Amended Bill of Complaint.

To the honorable the judges of the United States circuit court for the district of Nebraska:

Your orator brings this his bill of complaint and says that he is of what is known as a mixed blood of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and is a lineal descendant of Lata-da-we-, who was an Indian woman of the full blood and a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians. That Lata-da-we intermarried with one Francis Bono and that they maintained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe and maintained their domicile upon the Omaha reservation and maintained tribal relations there with so long and so far as any tribal relation- have been maintained by said tribe, and Lata-da-we participated in the property and other rights of said tribe, and has been recognized by said tribe and the members thereof as a member of said tribe and entitled to all its rights and privileges.

Further complaining your orator says that on the 16th day of March, A. D., 1854 a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America
1455 wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain lands in lieu whereof it received its present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual members of the tribe including Lata-da-we and her children. All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States — at Large vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

And your orator further shows that on the 6th day of March A. D., 1865, another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large vol. 14, page 667, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

And further showing your orator says that on the 7th day of August A. D., 1882, an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation either through the agent of said tribe or such other persons as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one-quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age one-eight- of a section to each orphan child one-eighth of a section, and to each other person under eighteen years of age one sixteenth of a section. That all allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large vol. 22, 1456 page 431, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

Your orator further says that the said tribe gave their consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act in December 1884, and at subsequent times since.

Your orator further says that on the 3rd day of March A. D. 1893, an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th, 1882 providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council further allotment should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3rd, 1893 but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

That consent of the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899 and immediately thereafter assignments for allotments were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs; that the instructions of said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed; that said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimants.

And your orator further shows that his mother, Mary Monette was the child of Francis Bono and Lata-da-we, who was as hereinabove set forth, an Omaha Indian woman and a member of said tribe. That Mary Monette lived among the Omaha Indians a number of years prior to her death and was recognized by them as one of their own blood. That she removed to the present reservation upon receipt of a letter from the special allotting agent
1457 in which she was notified that the tribal council had requested that she, Mary Monette, and her family be allotted land with other members of the tribe, which notice was sent to her through a special messenger but was not received until after the work of allotting the lands had been completed. That as soon as the notice was received Mary Monette and her family removed to the Omaha reservation and selected land; that your orator Mitchell Monette, selected for himself as the head of a family 160 acres of land described as follows:

The west ¼ of the N. W. ¼ of sec. 13, and the E. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 14, and for his oldest son Earl Monette, the E. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 13, and for his son Victor A. Monette the S. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 24, all in township 25 N. range 6 east of the 6th P. M. in Nebraska. Your orator has been refused an allotment by the Interior Department.

That the said described land is a part of the lands referred to in the treaties and act of Congress hereinabove referred to. That no person or persons claimed the land when first selected and marked for your orator in accordance with the laws relating thereto. That your orator is in possession of said lands and has made valuable improvements thereon. That your orator is a member of said Omaha tribe of Indians by blood and descent and also in accordance with the custom, rules and regulations of said tribe and said relationship and membership has never been terminated. That under provisions of the act of Congress of March 3rd, 1893, new and additional allotments of land have been made to members of the Omaha tribe and during the pendency of this suit assignments of the land have been made to the following named persons:

To George Fields, allottel under the act of Aug. 7th, 1882, the S. E. ¼ of N. E. ¼ of section 24, township 25, N. range 6 east, 1458 and to Joseph Fields S. W. ¼ of N. E. ¼ of section 24, township 25 north, range 6, east. Both the said George Fields and the said Joseph Fields are minor sons of Josiah Fields. That no rights were acquired by these parties to said lands assigned to them but owing to such assignments and alleged claim thereunder they are necessary parties to the suit.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold allotments of land to place in possession the allottee or lessee, and that he threatens to place into possession either the allottees hereinbefore named or the lessees to the great and irreparable damage of the complainant who is now in possession. That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson, his claim of authority over the land in controversy and his threats that he will remove your orator from the land make him a necessary party to this suit.

And your orator further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, who are entitled to allotments of land under any act of Congress, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress, may commence, prosecute or defend an action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction involving the right of any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty. The said act further provided that a 1459 judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305, which act has been amended by re-enactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

Your orator further states that the defendant The United States of America claims that by virtue of the 4th art., of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, the assignment to be made in limited quantities from the lands held by the said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members thereof of full blood "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them." The defendant The United States, claims that your orator and his ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time and therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882. Your orator admits that he and his ancestors were temporarily absent from the reservation at the time, but claims that such absence did not deprive them of the right of residence on the reservation and the rights of allotment under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, or their rights to allotment under the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

That it was not so considered by the tribe nor the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art., of the treaty of March 6th, 1460 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and headmen of the tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December, 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1870, and approved by the Secreyary of the Interior January 26th, 1871, contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the reservation at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the schedule referred to that under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882, many half breeds and mixed blood relatives of the Omaha tribe received allotments under the provisions of the act of August 7th, 1882 who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870 nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agents, — the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose names did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation, but who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and ever since resided away from the reservation.

Your orator further states that no new rights were acquired under the treaty of March, 1865, but that the assignment provided for in the 4th art., of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your orator further states that the defendant, The United States, claims that the complainant or his ancestors have received allotments of land under and by virtue of a treaty of July 15th, 1461 1830, and 10th art., thereof and by the acceptance of said allotments under the policy of the Indian Office your orator is not entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your orator admits that his ancestor received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art. of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, that the quantity so assigned was one-half of the amount provided by said treaty and that the said allotment was not accepted by his ancestor nor given to his ancestor in consideration of the relinquishment of any other right- than those to which she was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

Numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art., of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money, which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provision of the act of Congress section 6th, ch. 66 of the third session of the 33rd Congress 1859. That most of the half breeds who received allotments on the Nemaha reservation and those who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your orator has not in any manner assigned or relinquished his right or claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians — has the United States by the executive department of the Government or by the enactment of any law authorized your orator or his ancestors, or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant or any member of this tribe has been accepted or approved of by 1462 the United States or by any of its officers.

Wherefore your orator shows to your honors that he is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity, and he therefore prays the aid of the court in the premises and that said defendants, The United States of America, George Fields, Joseph Fields, by their next friend, Josiah Fields, and Charles P. Mathewson may answer your orator's bill but without oath, answer under oath being expressly waived. That the patents issued to George Fields and Joseph Fields be ordered and decreed null and void, and that the selections as made by your orator for himself or his sons be decreed the allotment of your orator and his sons respectively and superior to the pretended claim of George Fields and Joseph Fields, and that your orator and his sons and their heirs be decreed entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your orator further prays for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants George Fields, Joseph Fields and Charles P. Mathewson enjoining and restraining each of them, their agents and employés from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein described and that at the termination of this suit that said injunction be made perpetual and for such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orator the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court directed to the United States of America, George Fields, Joseph Fields, by their next friend, Josiah Fields, and Charles P.
1463 Mathewson therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited, personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

THOMAS L. SLOAN,
Solicitor for Complainant.

Endorsed: Filed May 10 1901 Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

1464 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit:—on the 21st day of September 1901, an answer was filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to-wit:—

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MITCHELL MONETTE, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, George Fields, Joseph Fields, Minors, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.	No. 574, Doc. T. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, George Fields, Joseph Fields, minors, and Charles P. Mathewson, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of Mitchell Monette, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves respectively all benefit and advantages of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections in the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, for their joint and several answer thereto, and unto so much and — parts thereof as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for them to make answer unto these defendants for their joint and several answer say:

1. These defendants deny that Mary Monette, the mother of the complainant is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and deny that the complainant or his ancestors ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and deny that they were recognized by the United States as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

1465 These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant claim to be a descendant of Mary Monette, and that the said Mary Monette was the daughter of Latadawe, who had intermarried with one Francis Bono, and the defendant- avers that the said Francis Bono was a free born white man and a citizen of the United States, and that the said Mary Monette (née Bono) took the status of her father, and thereby became and was a white person and citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; and that the said Mary Monette lived with her parents in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and in that vicinity, but not on the Omaha reservation up until the year — when she intermarried with one —— Monette, who was a free born white man and citizen of the United States.

That there was born of the said —— Monette and his wife Mary Monette, the following children; Mitchell Monette, David Monette, Jennie M. Arnold, née Monette, Cassie M. Karch, née Monette, and which children, in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian affairs, took the status of their father, and thereby became and were white persons and citizens of the United States and were not and never became members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; and that the said parents together with their said children, continued to live in Richardson county, State of Nebraska, and in that vicinity until after the approval of the act of Congress, August 7, 1882; and that the said Mary Monette came to the Omaha reservation about the year 1892, with the hope and expectation of obtaining an allotment of land under said act as hereinafter more particularly set forth.

2. These defendants for further answer aver that the com-
1466 plainant and his ancestors, did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reservation at the time of the treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress — 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865, (14 U. S. Statutes at Large, 667) the assignment of lands in severalty included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded the Monette family, being only mixed Indian blood, and not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said Monette family was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians, co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections of land, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and transmitted and submitted to 1467 the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of the Monette family or their ancestors, and which said schedule when so approved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither the Monette family the complainant nor any of his ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. These defendants further answering say, that after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Stats. at Large p. 341) the said Monette family and other half-breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands; and these defendants deny that the tribal council of the Omaha Indians ever requested that lands be allotted to the Monette family; and deny that the Monette family were requested by letter or otherwise, from the United States allotting agent, to come to the reservation, but to the contrary aver that the first allotment of lands under the act of 1882, was completed in the year 1884; and that the Monette family did not come to the vicinity of the Omaha reservation until the year 1892.

That the Omaha Indians on the said reservation manifested the most determined opposition to the Monette family, and other mixed blood Indians of that class, being allowed to participate in the distribution of the land, and from time to time individual cases were reported to the department by the special agent, charged with the work of allotting the lands for decision, as to the right of the parties to receive allotment.

1468 4. As showing the position taken by the Interior Department in deciding the cases of the absentee mixed bloods, the following is taken from the ruling of the department dated September 13, 1883, relating to Celestine B. Kuhn, a member of the Barada family, the members of which family are similarly situated to the complainant herein, and have like suits pending, claiming the right to allotments of lands.

"It appears that the applicant is one of 7 living children of Antoine Barada, an Omaha half-breed; that she was born of a white mother, French, in St. Louis, Mo., and has lived all her life away from the Omahas, until last spring when she appeared on the reservation with her husband (a white man) and children, with a view to securing, if possible, allotments of land.

The law under which allotments are being made to the Omahas relates to the treaty of March 6, 1865, (14 Statutes. 667) which should be taken as a guide in determining as to who are entitled to allotments.

'The treaty provides that lands in severalty shall be assigned to members of the tribe including their half or mixed blood relatives now residing with them.'

I find, in the files of this office a schedule, duly certified by the chiefs of the Omaha tribes, showing the names of those who were entitled to selection of land in severalty under the treaty aforesaid, and a description of their respective selections.

Said schedule was duly certified by the agent of the tribe under date of December 30, 1870, approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, and having been submitted to the department by this office January 26, 1871.

1469 Neither the name of Antoine Barada (the father) nor that of the applicant Celestine Kuhn (formerly Barada) appears on said schedule, and it is proper to conclude therefore that they were not recognized as members of the tribe, or half or mixed blood relatives residing with them.

If the applicant were not entitled to an allotment then, and it is clear that she was not deemed to be, she certainly is not entitled now, having — in no manner identified with the tribe since that time, living apart from them until a very recent period, when it appears she went upon the reservation simply to claim a share of the tribal lands.

It would be absurd to contend that the treaty or more recent act of Congress under which the allotments are being made was intended as a general invitation to all persons, everywhere, who by hook or crook might be able to prove the existence of a drop or more of Omaha blood in their veins, to come forward and receive an allotment.

Manifestly such was not the intention, for it is not at all likely that there would be land enough in the entire reservation to go around that way.

Besides the recent action of the Indians in forbidding Mrs. Kuhn and others to remain on the reservation, shows that they would never have consented to any such disposition of their lands, and it is plain from the language of the act that it was not the purpose of Congress to do anything contrary to the wishes of the Indians. Your decision in the case is approved, and Mrs. Kuhn and family should be notified to remove from the reservation."

H. PRICE,
Commissioner.

1470 The department also made like ruling in the case of Euphrasia Peters, another of the mixed blood claimants of like class. The last mentioned case was reported to the department by A. C. Fletcher, special U. S. Indian agent, under date of July 28, 1883, as a test case. The case was stated as follows:

"Euphrasia Peters is the oldest of seven children of Antoine Barada, a half-breed Omaha, who has lived all his life apart from the Omahas. Antoine married a French woman and his children were born and reared at St. Louis. Euphrasia some 25 years ago married Mr. Peters, a white man by whom she had several children. All of the Barada family took land in the half-breed Nemaha reserve. Mrs. Peters' portion has dwindled to eighty acres and this is now mortgaged. After the passage of the bill approved August 7, 1882 at the instance of her sister Mrs. Provost, Mrs. Peters came up to the Omaha reserve to establish her relationship and claim land here. Mr. Peters is a carpenter, and did service in St. Louis and on the Mississippi river for the Government during the war. He has excellent credentials as to character, and so has his wife.

Article 4 of the treaty of 1865, defines those entitled to lands to be "the members of the tribe including their half-breed or mixed blood relations now residing with them."

This article, therefore, excludes all of the class of Euphrasia Peters from sharing in the present division of the land; moreover, the Indians through their councilmen incline to insist upon a strict construction of this article 4.

Since my arrival, a full council has been held on the subject of admitting these mixed bloods from Nemaha and elsewhere, at which Mrs. Peters and her sister were present, and the voice of the council and the people was unanimous that mixed bloods be not allowed to take land under the present act.

1471 It was urged that there would not be land enough for all the new comers, and for members of the tribe living there. This objection is a serious one, and I know it to be well taken by many persons' field observation. The Omaha- cannot afford to give these outsiders of their best lands."

Miss Fletcher subsequently decided that Mrs. Euphrasia Peters was not entitled to an allotment on the Omaha reservation and by letter of August 9, 1883, she was advised that her decision was approved by the department.

From the foregoing it will be observed that under the construction placed upon the act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe and their half or mixed blood relatives residing with them at the date of their treaty of 1865, whose names were born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendant-, and such others as may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

6. These defendants for further answer aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, many half-breed and mixed blood Indians insisted in coming and remaining on the lands of the reservation, and as a result thereof, the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians caused a petition to be prepared and transmitted to the Interior Department under date of March 19, 1888, in which they protested against the absentee half and mixed blood Indians coming upon the reservation and claiming the right to an allotment of lands, and requested the Interior Department to take action to remove all intruders from the lands of the reservation.

1472 That the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting on the said petition and protest, did, under date of November 14, 1888, make his report to the Secretary of the Interior and requested authority to remove said mixed blood claimants from the said reservation, and that afterward on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior directed the removal of the said mixed blood claimants from the said reservation, and which said order and judgment is as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation; that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6th 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871. Submitted by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 1473 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe, a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relations residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are born- upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants, and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

112—453

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha Indian reservation.

6. These defendants for further answer avers that under article 10, of the treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Statutes at Large, 1474 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to complainant's ancestor for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so called Nemaha reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of the ancestor and his descendants including complainant, were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

7. These defendants further aver that the preference right to select lands for allotment under the act of Congress, August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 342) is confined by section (5) of said act to persons who had received or were entitled to receive an assignment and certificate of an allotment under the 4th article of the treaty with the Omahas concluding March 6, 1865, and Monette family had not received and were not entitled to receive an assignment and certificate for lands under said treaty, and by reason whereof, the said Monette family did not have and could not acquire any such interest in the lands described in the amended petition as would give them a preference over other Indians in the selection of land for allotment.

8. And these defendants for further answer say, that the complainant was not and is not the head of a family, and is not entitled to claim by way of allotment, the 160 acres of land described in the amended bill of complaint, but her right to allotment, if any she had, would be limited under the law to 80 acres of land.

9. These defendants for further answer aver that the complainant never lived upon the Omaha reservation until after the act of 1893, and never selected, improved, or cultivated any land what-1475 soever, upon the Omaha Indian reservation, and is not entitled to have or select any lands upon the Omaha Indian reservation for allotment.

10. That the said allotting agent did find upon investigation that the said complainant did not and never had selected, occupied or improved the E. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 13, for his son Earl A. Monette; and these defendants aver that the N. E. ¼ of said section 13, had been allotted in 1883 to Me-man-she-hane, and the said United States allotting agent further found that the said complainant had never selected, occupied or improved the S. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of said section 24, in township 25, range 6, east for his son Victor A. Monette, and the said United States allotting agert further found that the said S. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of said section 24, had been claimed for allotment by Joseph Fields, and George Fields, and the said United States allotting agent did make an allotment of the said last above described land to the said Joseph Fields and George Fields, and thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of said allotment above described and which said allotment was subsequently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and by the Secretary of the Interior and patents therefor had been issued to the said allottees, under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotments were made and said patents issued in the regular and due course of business.

These defendants further aver that the complainant herein did not have any prior or separate or vested right to the lands so patented to the said allottees respectively, and that the said allotments to them, and the said patents to them, were made in all respects in conformity to law.

These defendants further aver that the land at present occupied by the complainant is in the N. W. ¼ of section 13, township 25, range 6 east, and which land has been reserved for the claimant pending this litigation, and as a part of the land described in 1476 the next paragraph of this answer.

11. And these defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent reserved for the Monette family, pending this litigation and subject to the result thereof, the following land, to-wit: The N. E. ¼ of section 13, township 25, north of range 6 east; the E. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of section 14, township 25, north of range — east; the S. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 12, township 25, north of range 6 east; the S. E. ¼ of section 10; the N. E. ¼ of section 15, the N. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of section 14, the N. W. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ of section 11, the E. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of section 10, the N. W. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ of section 10, and the S. W. ¼ of the N. W. ¼ of section 10, and the S. E. ¼ of the N. W. ¼ of section 10, and the S. E. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ of section 9, all in township 25, north of range 5 east, and which said reservation has been noted upon the maps in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

12. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause, or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, — is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defendants, and these defendants deny that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complaint demanded.

1482 In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

MITCHELL MONETTE, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Defendant.
} Docket T, No. 574. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Second. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously hold- that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Third. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Fourth. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

1483 Fifth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

Sixth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Seventh. The court erred in holding and determining that Mitchell Monette and his children were not entitled to claim and have allotted to them the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The east half of the northeast quarter of section fourteen (14); the northwest quarter of section thirteen (13), and the south half of the northeast quarter of section twenty-four (24), all in township twenty-five (25), north of range six (6) east of the sixth principal meridian.

Eighth. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Ninth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of complainant.

Wherefore complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

JOHN M. SLOAN, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Charles P. Mathewson, Megratahe Grant, John Grant, Charles Grant, and Harry Baxter, Defendants.	No. 579, Doc. T. Amended Bill of Complaint.

Comes now the complainant and shows to the honorable court, as follows:

That your orator is a son of Margaret Sloan, deceased, who during her lifetime was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians in the State of Nebraska. That said Margaret Sloan was the daughter of Michael Barada, or Michael Berda as he was sometimes designated, a white man, and Taegleha Hacienda, an Indian woman of the full blood and a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians. That your orator and said Margaret Sloan and her parents maintained their domicile with said Omaha tribe and were fully recognized as members of said tribe by the United States of America and the members of said tribe and was admitted to and participated in the benefits as other members of said tribe.

Further complaining, your orator says that on the 16th day of March A. D. 1854, a certain treaty was entered into by and between the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States of America wherein and whereby the tribe ceded to the United States certain land in lieu whereof they received their present reservation and certain sums of money paid pro rata to the individual mem-1490 bers of the tribe including Margaret Sloan and your orator.

All of which matters by said treaty provided and other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in United States Statutes at Large vol. 10, page 1043, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

And your orator further shows that on the 6th day of March, A. D. 1865, another treaty was entered into between said parties wherein was a provision for the assignment of the lands of the present reservation in severalty to the Indians of said tribe including their half and mixed blood relatives then residing with them, which with other matters and things more fully appear in said treaty as published in the United States Statutes at Large vol. 14, page 667, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

And further showing your orator says that on the 7th day of August A. D. 1882, an act was approved providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council the Secretary of the Interior should allot certain lands of the Omaha reservation either through the agent of said tribe or such other person as he might designate in severalty to the Indians of said tribe.

To each head of a family one quarter of a section, to each person over eighteen years of age, one eight of a section, to each orphan child one-eight of a section, and to each other person under eighteen years of age one-sixteenth of a section. That allotments should be selected by the Indians, heads of families selecting for their minor children and the agent selecting for each orphan child. All of which matters and things with other matters more fully appear in said act as set forth in the Statutes at Large vol. 22, page 341, to which for greater certainty your orator refers.

1491 Your orator further shows that the said tribe gave its consent to the operation of said act of Congress and that allotments were made under the provisions of said act of December, 1884, and at subsequent times since.

That your orator is occupying and farming the N. ½ of N. W. ¼ of section 35, township 25 N. range 7 east of the 6th P. M. in Nebraska, and the N. E. ¼ of N. E. ¼ and the N. E. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ of section 34 township 25 N. range 7 east of the 6th P. M. in Nebraska. That such selection was made as the head of a family and amounted to one hundred and sixty acres, that the land at the time of its selection was raw, unbroken, unimproved and unclaimed land.

Your orator further states that he is a member of the Omaha tribe by blood and descent, by recognition as such by both the tribal and governmental authorities, and according to the customs, rules and regulations of the Omaha tribe of Indians. That such relationship and membership has never been terminated. That application for the allotment of said land has been refused your orator by the Department of the Interior.

That he was further recognized as a member of the tribe by the payment to him of annuity money.

Your orator further states that on the 3rd day of March A. D., 1893, an act of Congress was passed amending or extending the act of August 7th, 1882, providing that with the consent of the Omaha tribe of Indians expressed in open council further allotments should be made from the residue lands of the Omaha reservation. That the rights and claims under the act of 1882 were not superceded by the act of March 3d, 1893 but increased allotments were provided from the residue after fulfilling the provisions of the act of 1882.

1492 That consent by the Omaha tribe was given in open council May 1899, and immediately thereafter assignments for allotment were made by a special agent under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. That the instructions to said special agent directed that he should respect the selections made by the parties who had cases pending in court where such selections were the first made to the lands claimed. That said special agent did not follow his instructions but assigned a part of the land without investigation as to the priority of claim and without notice to the claimants. That the N. W. ¼ of N. W. ¼ of section 35 was assigned to John Grant and the N. E. ¼ of N. W. ¼ of section 35 assigned to Megratahe Grant, N. E. ¼ of N. E. ¼ of section 34 to Charles Grant, and the N. E. ¼ of S. W. ¼ section 34 to Harry Baxter. That trust patents therefor naming the United States as trustee have been issued in the names of the parties dated April 11th, 1900.

That said John Grant and Harry Baxter received an allotment under the act of August 7th, 1882 and the present allotment is additional. That because of the rights or title acquired by these parties to the land in controversy since the filing of this cause they have become necessary parties.

That Charles P. Mathewson is the duly appointed and qualified Indian agent for the Omaha reservation, and as such is charged with the duty under the direction of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make leases for the Indians who hold the allotments of land and to place in possession the allottee or lessee, and that he threatens to place into possession either the allottees hereinbefore named or their lessees to the great and irreparable damage of the complainant who is now in possession. That because of the position of said Charles P. Mathewson his claim of authority over the land in controversy and his threats that he will remove 1493 your orator from the land, make him a necessary party to this suit.

And your orator further shows to your honors that by an act of Congress approved the 15th day of August, 1894, it was provided that all persons who are in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent who are entitled to allotment of land under any act of Congress, or who claim to be so entitled under any allotment act, or any grant made by Congress may commence, prosecute or defend any action, suit or proceeding in relation to their rights thereto in the proper circuit court of the United States and that the said act of Congress proceeded to give circuit courts jurisdiction to take cognizance of any action, suit or proceeding arising within their respective jurisdiction- involving the right to any person in whole or in part of Indian blood or descent, to any allotment of land under any law or treaty and the said act further provided that a judgment or decree of any such court in favor of any claimant to an allotment of land should have the same effect when properly certified to the Secretary of the Interior as if such allotment had been allowed and approved by him; which said act of Congress was published by authority of the United States in the 28th vol. of the Statutes at Large on page 305, which act has been amended by reënactment duly approved by the President of the United States, February 6th, 1901, to which for greater certainty your orator begs to refer.

Your orator further states that the defendant, The United States of America, claims that by virtue of the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, it was provided that the assignment — be made in limited quantities from the lands held by said tribe in common to the individual members thereof was confined to the members 1494 thereof of full blood "including their half breed and mixed blood relatives now residing with them," and the defendant claims that your orator and his ancestors were not residing on the reservation at that time — therefore not entitled to land under the 4th art. of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your orator states the fact to be that he was on the reservation at the date of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but had he been absent therefrom it would not have deprived him of his right to allotment. That it was so considered by the tribe and the officers of the United States who were appointed to carry the provisions of said treaty and laws into effect; that the schedule of allotments or assignments made under the 4th art., of the treaty of March 6th, 1865, as certified to by the chiefs and head men of the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States Indian agent on the 30th day of December 1870, and submitted and approved by the superintendent of Indian affairs, January 21st, 1871, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior January 26th, 1871, contained names of numerous half and mixed bloods, relatives of the Omaha tribe who were not residing on the Omaha reservation at the time of making the treaty of March 6th, 1865, nor at the time of making the selections in the year 1870, nor at the time of approval of the schedule by the chiefs, the agent, — the superintendent, nor at the time of the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and whose name did not appear on the schedule just referred to. Allotments were made to one woman and her family who never resided on the reservation, and who at all times and at the time of the treaty of March 6th, 1865 and ever since resided away from the reservation.

1495 Your orator further states that no new rights — acquired under the treaty of March 6th, 1865, but that the assignments provided for in the 4th art. of said treaty had already been provided for by the treaty of March 16th, 1854, and which right of selection and assignment was granted to all members of the tribe alike.

Your orator further states that the defendant, The United States, claims that the complainant or his ancestor have received allotments of land under and by virtue of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, and 10th art., thereof and by the acceptance of said allotment under the policy of the Indian Office neither the complainant nor Margaret Sloan, his ancestor, are entitled to a second allotment or further participation in the tribal rights of said Omaha tribe of Indians; your orator admits that he and his mother received an allotment of land under the provisions of the 10th art., of the treaty of July 15th, 1830, as a half breed member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, that the quantity so assigned was one-half the amount provided by said treaty, and that the said allotment was not accepted by him nor given him in consideration of the relinquishment of any right than those to which he was entitled on the Nemaha reservation.

Numerous mixed blood members of the Omaha tribe of Indians received in lieu of allotments provided for under the 10th art. of the treaty of July 30th, 1830, sums of money which were accepted in consideration of a relinquishment to the United States of all of their interest in and to the deficiency in the half breed reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress, section 6th, ch. 66, of the third session of the 35th Congress, 1859. That most of the 1496 half breeds who received money in lieu of said allotments of land under the treaty of July 15th, 1830, have received assignments of land on the present reservation under the 4th art. of the act of the 6th of March, 1865, and the subsequent act of Congress of August 7th, 1882; that your orator has not in any manner assigned or relinquished his right or claim to the benefits under the various laws and treaties granted to the Omaha tribe of Indians, neither has the United States by the executive department of the Government nor by the enactment of any law authorized this complainant or his ancestor, or any member of the Omaha tribe of Indians to sever their tribal relations. That no relinquishment of such tribal rights by this complainant or any member of this tribe has been accepted or approved by the United States or any of its officers.

Wherefore your orator shows to your honors that he is without a remedy at law and remediless in the premises unless relieved by your honors in this court of equity, and they therefore pray- the aid of the court in the premises and that said defendants, The United States of America, Megratahe Grant, John Grant, Charles Grant, minor, by his next friend Megratahe Grant, Harry Baxter — and are null and void and that the selection by John W. Sloan is prior and superior to their claim and is his allotment, and that he and his heirs are entitled to the full use and benefit thereof under and in accordance with the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882.

Your orator further prays for a preliminary order of injunction against the defendants Charles P. Mathewson, Megratahe Grant, John Grant, Charles Grant and Harry Baxter enjoining and restraining each of them, their agents and employés from in any manner interfering with the possession of the land herein 1497 described and that at the termination of this suit the said injunction be made perpetual and such further and other relief as may seem just and proper.

And so may it please your honors to grant unto your orator the most gracious writ of subpœna to be issued under the seal of this court directed to The United States of America, Megreteha Grant and Harry Baxter therein and thereby commanding them on a day certain and under a certain penalty therein to be limited personally to be and appear before this court, then and there to answer all and singular the premises and to stand to and abide and perform such order and decree therein as to the court shall seem meet.

THOMAS L. SLOAN,
Solicitor for Complainant.

CHARLES E. CLAPP, Of Counsel.

Endorsed: Filed May 10 1901 Geo. H. Thummel, clerk.

1498 Thereupon afterwards, to-wit: on the 21st day of September, 1901, "answer to amended bill of complaint was filed in said case, which said answer is in words and figures following, to-wit:

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JOHN M. SLOAN, Complainant, vs. THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Charles P. Mathewson, Megratahe Grant, John Grant, Charles Grant, and Harry Baxter, Defendants.	Doc. T, No. 579. Answer to Amended Bill of Complaint.

The answer of The United States of America, Charles P. Mathewson, Megratahe Grant, John Grant, Charles Grant, and Harry Baxter, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of John M. Sloan, complainant.

These defendants now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto itself all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties and other imperfections of the said complainant's said amended bill of complaint contained, and for answer thereto and unto so much and — parts thereof, as these defendants are advised is or are material or necessary for it to make answer unto these defendants for answer, say:

1. These defendants deny that John M. Sloan is an Omaha Indian and deny that John M. Sloan is or ever was a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, upon the contrary, these defendants aver that the said John M. Sloan is a white man and a citizen of the United States, and that his ancestors were white per-

1499 sons and citizens of the United States, and that his said ancestors were not Indians and were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska; and these defendants deny that the ancestors of John M. Sloan ever maintained or sustained tribal relations with the Omaha tribe of Indians of Nebraska, and deny that they ever participated in the benefits and other rights of the said tribe, and deny that they were recognized by the said tribe or by the United States as members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

These defendants for further answer aver that John M. Sloan complainant, claims to trace his lineage back to Michael Barada, who had intermarried with an Indian woman by name of Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, that the said Michael Barada was a free born white man of French nationality and a citizen of the United States, and his wife was an Indian woman, but these defendants are not advised whether she was of Omaha Indian blood or the blood of some other Indian tribe, and therefore leaves the complainant to his proof in that regard.

That there was born to the said Michael Barada and his wife in the year 1811, a daughter by the name of Margaret Barada, who in law and in accordance with the rulings of the Interior Department in its government and control of Indian tribes, took the status of her father and thereby became and was a white person and a citizen of the United States, and was not and never became a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the said Margaret Barada lived in the city of St. Louis with her parents until the year 1854, and was there educated among white persons and was taught to speak the French and English language-, but never learned to speak and did not speak the language of the Omaha Indian tribe.

That the said Margaret Barada intermarried with one Thomas Sloan, the grandfather of this complainant, and that said 1500 Thomas Sloan was a free born white man of Irish nationality and a citizen of the United States, and that said Margaret and her husband Thomas Sloan continued to reside in the city of St. Louis or in Richardson county, Nebraska, with the exception of about two years until some time after the approval act of Congress of August 7, 1882 (22 U. S. Statutes at Large, 341), hereinafter more particularly referred to.

That to the said Thomas Sloan and his wife Margaret, there was born a son named John M. Sloan, this complainant, and the said John M. Sloan was of but one-fourth Indian blood, but under the law and under the rulings of the Interior Department relating to such matters, took the status of his father and became and was a white man and a citizen of the United States, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and lived in the city of St. Louis, and was never on the Omaha reservation. That the said John M. Sloan, so being a white man and a citizen of the United States, was born in the city of St. Louis and married a white woman; that said John M. Sloan from the time of his birth 1840, until the year 1859, lived with his parents in the city of St. Louis, and thereafter moved to the so called Nemaha reservation where he and his mother received patents for lands under the act of July 31, 1854, section 5 (4) (10 U. S. Stats. 332) to carry into effect article 10, treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Statutes 328–330), that thereafter about the year 1880, the said John M. Sloan removed to the State of Colorado where he has ever since resided, and his home is at the town of Aspen, State of Colorado, where he is engaged in business, and has never resided upon the Omaha Indian reservation or upon the lands in his petition described.

2. These defendants for further answer aver that John M. Sloan did not live with the Omaha tribe of Indians on the reserva-1501 tion at the time of treaty of 1865, or the approval of the act of Congress of 1882; that by the terms of article 4, of the treaty of 1865 (14 U. S. Statutes at Large 667) the assignment of lands in severalty only included their half or mixed blood relatives then residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians, and which by these terms excluded John M. Sloan, being only one-fourth Indian blood, and he not then living with the Omaha tribe of Indians; that the provisions of section 5, of the act of Congress approved August 7, 1882 (22 U.S. Statutes at Large, p. 342) provided only for allotments of lands in lieu of the allotments or assignments provided for in the fourth article of the treaty of March 6, 1865, and therein and thereby limited allotments to the half or mixed blood relatives who were residing with the Omaha tribe of Indians when the said treaty was made, to-wit: March 6, 1865, and it was not and is not the the purpose and intent of section 5, of the act of 1882, to permit allotments to half or mixed blood relatives who were not residing with the tribe at the date of the treaty of 1865, and these defendants further aver that the said John M. Sloan was not residing on the Omaha Indian reservation, and was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians at the date of the treaty of 1865, or at the time when the said act of Congress of 1882 was approved.

That pursuant to article 4, of the treaty of 1865, the Omaha tribe of Indians co-operating with and under the directions of the Interior Department, prepared a schedule showing the land selected in severalty, and giving the names of the persons entitled to allotments and selections, and which schedule was duly certified to by the chiefs of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and by the Indian agent of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and transmitted and submitted to the Interior Department on or about December 30, 1870, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, January 26, 1871, and which said schedule did not contain the names of Thomas Sloan or his ancestors, and which said schedule when so ap-1502 proved by the Interior Department became and was a judgment by the Interior Department, that neither John M. Sloan nor any of his ancestors were entitled to allotments or selections of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation.

3. These defendants further answering say; that in a suit lately pending in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Nebraska, and hereinafter more particularly referred to wherein Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Mary Sailors,

Frank Peters and Walter Peters were complainants, and Robert H. Ashley and Henry Fontenelle and others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians were respondents, said complainants made claim that they had received annuity money. It was agreed between the parties that the officer taking the testimony in said suit, should go to the Omaha Indian agency and examine the annuity pay rolls in the office of Robert H. Ashley, United States agent at Winnebago, and report to the court under his certificate whether the names of the said complainants in said suit were or were not upon the said annuity pay rolls, and that he certified to the court that he had examined the annuity pay rolls for August 1st, 1880, December 13, 1880, September 2, 1884, February 26, 1886, and June 22, 1887, December 3, 1887, February 27, 1889, February 28, 1891, March 9, 1891, March 28, 1891, the same being all the pay rolls then to be found in said office, and further certified to the court, " that the said pay rolls before described did not contain any of the following names, Thomas L. Sloan, Margaret Sloan, William Sloan, Artemesia Sloan, Thomas Sloan, John Sloan, Katherine Whippern, William Barada, Antoine Barada, Euphrasia Barada Peters, Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Sailors, or any of the immediate antecedents or descendants of said parties, as far as I know 1503 their names." And which said report is a matter of record in this court, and binding upon the parties thereto, including these complainants.

4. These defendants further answering say: That after the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, (22 U. S. Statutes at Large p. 341) the said Thomas L. Sloan and other half breed and mixed blood Indians becoming advised that an allotment of land to Indians in severalty was about to be made on the Omaha Indian reservation, came from various and unknown parts to the said reservation, with the hope and expectation of obtaining allotments of lands, and that the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, did then and there make application to Alice C. Fletcher, as United States allotting agent, caused the claim of Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors to be investigated, and being of the opinion as the result of said investigation that Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and were not entitled to allotment of lands upon the said reservation, and on April 28, 1884, reported the facts thereon to the Interior Department, and said department under date of May 9, 1884, ruled and determined that Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors were not members of the Omaha tribe of Indians and were not entitled to have or receive allotments of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, and which judgment and finding still remains in full force and effect.

5. These defendants further aver that notwithstanding the ruling of the Department of the Interior above set forth, the said Thomas L. Sloan and his ancestors, and other descendants of his father Michael Barada, to-wit, William Barada, Mary Sailors, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Luke Sailors and others persisted in remaining intruders upon the Omaha reservation against the protest of the members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and as a result thereof, the Omaha tribe of Indians, caused a petition to be prepared and trans-1504 mitted to the Interior Department, and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs acting upon the said petition and protest, did, under date of November 14, 1888 make his report of the status of said claims, to the Secretary of the Interior, and requested authority to remove said persons including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said reservation, and afterward on the 5th day of December, 1888, the Secretary of the Interior, directed the removal of Frank Peters, and others making claim under similar state of facts, including the said Thomas L. Sloan from the said Omaha reservation, and which said order and judgment of the Secretary of the Interior is as follows, to-wit:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, December 5, 1888.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

SIR: I have considered your report of the 14th, inst., upon a petition filed by the Indians of the Omaha reservation in Nebraska, relative to one Frank Peters whom the petitioners claim belongs to one of the mixed blood families, who were provided with lands by them on the Nemaha reservation, and who were excluded by them in their treaty of 1865, from taking land on the Omaha reservation, and who now have settled contrary to their wishes on their unallotted lands on the Omaha reservation.

It is stated in your report that the said Frank Peters though a mixed blood Omaha, is not adopted by the tribe of the Omaha reservation, that he was not residing with the Omahas when the treaty of March 6th 1865 (14 Statutes 668) was made. (The 4th article of which extended the benefits conferred thereby in respect to allotments to such only of their half or mixed blood relatives as were residing with them at the date of the treaty. That his name is not borne upon the duly certified roll of 1871, submitted 1505 by the Omaha council which is represented to contain the names of all Indians or mixed bloods entitled to lands on the Omaha reservation which was approved by the department January 26, 1871. That upon the passage of the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stats. 341) providing for the sale of a portion of the Omaha reservation, and the allotments of their lands, in severalty to the members of the tribe a number of mixed bloods from the old Nemaha reservation, and among them the Peters family, came to the Omaha reservation in the hope of securing allotments under the new law, and that this was denied them.

Your office holding that under the said act of August 7, 1882, none but members of the tribe, and their half or mixed blood relation- residing with them at the date of the treaty of 1865, whose names are borne upon the duly certified census roll of 1871, or their descendants and such others who may have been lawfully admitted into the tribe, would be entitled to receive allotments of land thereunder.

In view of these statements and your finding that the said Frank Peters is not entitled to allotments of land on the Omaha reservation under treaty of March 6, 1865, and provisions of the act of Congress of August 7th, 1882, and is upon the reservation without authority, and contrary to the wishes of the Omaha Indians, you are hereby authorized to remove him, and any other persons who may be thereon under a similar state of facts, from the Omaha reservation.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) WM. F. VILAS, Secretary.

5584—Indian division 88.

That pursuant to said order the Indian agent served notice upon the said intruders to remove from the Omaha reservation.

1506 6. These defendants further aver that the said Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters failed and neglected to remove from the reservation pursuant to said order and notice. The facts relating thereto were reported by the United States Indian agent to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, whereupon under date of August 27, 1890, the Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, ordered and directed Robert H. Ashley, United States Indian agent, that he require Mr. Frank Peters and others of a like class including Thomas L. Sloan, to remove from the Omaha reservation, and upon their failure so to remove, said Indian agent was to report such fact to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and thereupon the said Indian agent served written notice upon Thomas L. Sloan, Frank Peters, William Barada, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters, to leave the said reservation, and that they informed said agent that they would not do so until compelled to do so by process of law or force, and under date of October 17, 1890, the United States Indian agent made the following report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs regarding Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan that he did, "on the 24th day of October, 1890, give written notice to Thomas L. Sloan and Margaret Sloan to leave the Omaha reservation, under instruction of office order of August 27, 1890.

I would further say in explanation that the Omaha Indians in council on the 7th day of October, discussed this matter with the Sloans, and it was almost the unanimous opinion and wish that they be removed from the reservation the same as Peters and others. I am unable to find where the Sloans have any more right than the others mentioned, and take them to be of "like class" as mentioned in yours of the 27th of August."

1507 On January 12, 1891, upon the earnest request of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians then in the city of Washington, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs repeated his recommendation of October 2nd, for military aid to eject said intruders and which recommendation requested that the Hon. Secretary of War to cause the commander of the military post nearest to reservation upon the request of the United States Indian agent to furnish military aid, to remove from the land of said reservation, said Frank Peters, Luke Sailors and Walter Peters, and such others as were intruders thereon under facts similar to that existing in the case of Frank Peters and which included Thomas L. Sloan, as he was of that class.

These defendants further aver that on January 13, 1891, Hon. T. J. Morgan, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, issued a letter of instruction to Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, at the request and solicitation of a delegation of the Omaha tribe of Indians, directing him that William Barada, Thomas L. Sloan, Mrs. Fulton Peters, Frank Peters, Walter Peters and Mrs. Sailors and their families belong to a class of trespassers on the Omaha reservation, and are not entitled to lands or benefits under the act of August 7, 1882, and should not be enrolled by him or allowed to share in the payment of annuities.

7. These defendants further aver that Margaret Sloan, Thomas L. Sloan, William Barada, Margaret Sloan, Frank Peters and Walter Peters becoming advised that they should not be enrolled nor receive annuities, and becoming advised that it was the purpose and intention of the department to have them forcibly removed from the reservation as intruders and trespassers thereon, filed a bill in equity in the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, wherein Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent, Henry 1508 Fontenelle, Wa-gae-pa, otherwise known as Ezra Fremont, Wa-han-ga, John Springer, Nebraska, and twelve hundred others being members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, were made defendants and in which said suit, said complainants claim to be members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to be entitled to allotments of land, and to receive annuities, and upon the filing of said bill on the 30th of January 1891, obtained a writ of injunction enjoining Robert H. Ashley, U. S. Indian agent from forcibly removing the complainants therein from the Omaha reservation; that in said case the defendants in said suit filed answer, and proofs were taken and subsequently in the spring of 1893, the said circuit court of the United States, for the district of Nebraska, entered a decree against the complainants in said suit, and in favor of the defendants therein, and which said judgment and decree was not appealed from, but remained in full force and effect.

These defendants further aver that afterward the said Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan endeavored to have themselves adopted into the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to have themselves recognized by the Interior Department as membars of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to that end submitted to the department certain petitions purporting to be signed by certain members of the Omaha tribe of Indians; that under date of September 6, 1894, the department ruled that the said Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan, should not be admitted to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and accordingly so ordered, and in which order and opinion the department held as follows:

"Aside from the general proposition that the question of adopting the Sloans as members of the tribe is one in a measure separate and distinct from their alleged rights as Omaha Indians by blood, and that such alleged right is not necessarily a test for such 1509 adoption, there remains the right to admission by the free will and consent of the tribe, if fairly and properly obtained.

Upon their faces, the several petitions presented with your letter seem to be in proper form, and to express the desire of a majority of the members of the tribe that the persons in question shall be placed upon the rolls of the tribe, and be admitted to all the rights and privileges of other members thereof.

Besides the opposing petition hereinbefore referred to, the department is in receipt of recent information which shows that of the one hundred and fifty-seven persons whose names appear on the six petitions presented with your letter, only seventy now favor the claimants; that eleven others have since assented to their adoption making eighty-one in all now favorable; that twenty-four of the signatures thereon were not written by the parties whose names are given, nor was the use of their names authorized by them, that fifteen names were signed twice, and that the said petitions bear the names of nine boys and three women—neither of whom have any voice in such matters; that one of the nine members of the council purporting to have signed one of the petitions, did not sign nor authorize the use of his name, and further, that there are about one hundred and eighteen male members of the tribe, of lawful age, who oppose the adoption of the Sloans.

Without expressing any opinion of the merits of the petition in question, the facts presented seem to clearly establish the belief that it is the desire and wish of a majority of the members of the tribe that the Sloans be not admitted to membership and it is so ordered.

1510 In reference to that part of your report wherein you state that Thomas L. Sloan has held and improved a tract of land since 1881 or 1882, on the Omaha reservation, it would seem that he is doing so in defiance of any legal authority of occupation."

That after the above order and ruling of the department, the counsel for Margaret Sloan and Thomas L. Sloan applied to the department for reconsideration of the adoption case, and the department under date of November 17, 1896, re-affirmed this ruling and among other things therein said:

"It is not denied, nor has it ever been, that the Sloans, mother and son, are of part Omaha Indian blood. The tribe recognized them as such and made provisions for them, with others, by the treaty of 1830, and in the opinion of the department, and the Omahas themselves, their claim- as such mixed bloods were extinguished by the lands given them under the terms of the tenth article of the treaty named.

* * * * * * *

The claims of Margaret and her son William E., were extinguished prior to the birth of Thomas L. It is nowhere alleged or claimed that the latter is the offspring of a mother of Indian blood, much more of one of Omaha blood. The presumption is, therefore, that his mother was a white woman.

The claim- of Margaret and Thomas L. are based upon their birthright as Omaha Indians and upon their alleged adoption in recent years by the tribe.

The birthright claim of Margaret has been extinguished. Thomas L. never had such a claim. Neither of them have any claim by adoption, never having been regularly, fairly or properly adopted by the tribe, as was shown by department letter of September 6, 1894.

1511 Notwithstanding that Mr. Breckenridge has advised the department by letter dated the 30th ultimo, of his withdrawal as attorney fro the claimants, I have caused this review of the case to be made, and adhere to the opinion expressed in department letter of September 6, 1894, that the persons named have no valid, legal claims to membership with the Omaha tribe of Indians."

And defendants aver that the above ruling of the Department of the Interior established the fact that Margaret Sloan and her descendants, the plaintiff- herein, then were not and had not theretofore been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians, and the defendants aver that the said Margaret Sloan and her descendants the plaintiff- herein, are not and never have been members of the Omaha tribe of Indians.

9. These defendants for further answer aver that there were and are other descendants of the said Michael Barada and his wife, Tuningletha or Taegleha Hacienda, to-wit: a son Antoine who took the status of his father as a white man and American citizen, and said Antoine Barada married Josephine Vien a white woman of French nationality, and an American citizen and from which last marriage there was born children by name, William Barada, Julia Barada and Euphrasia Barada; that the said Julia Barada first intermarried with one Barnaby, and afterwards to one Meyers, her second husband, and afterwards to William Provo, her third husband, and to whom children were born; and the said Euphrasia Barada intermarried with Fulton Peters a free born white man of German nationality, and an American citizen, and from which marriage there were born children, Frank Peters, Walter Peters, Mary Peters and which said Mary Peters afterward intermarried with Lot Sailors, and while said persons have all been insist-

1512 ent upon the right to an allotment of lands on the Omaha Indian reservation, the Omaha tribe of Indians and the United States has persistently denied the right of each and all of them, including the said Thomas L. Sloan, to an allotment of land on the Omaha Indian reservation, and has likewise denied that they are Indians, and have likewise denied that they are members of the Omaha Indian tribe.

10. And these defendants particularly aver that John M. Sloan, a son of Margaret Sloan and Thomas Sloan, never lived upon the Omaha reservation. Upon the contrary aver that the said John M. Sloan is an engineer by trade, and is living at the town of Aspen, in the State of Colorado, and so has been for more than 20 years last past, and is there engaged in business among and with white persons having fully adopted the habits of civilized life, and never was upon or ever occupied any part of the Omaha reservation, and never in any manner affiliated with the tribe of Indians, and have never been adopted by the said tribe or recognized as a member thereof.

11. These defendants for further answer aver, that under article 10 of the treaty of July 15, 1830, (7 U. S. Statutes at Large 328–330) and under the provisions of section 5, (4) of an act of Congress approved July 31, 1854, (10 U. S. Statutes at Large, 332) a patent was issued to Margsret Sloan for three hundred and twenty acres of land on the so-called Nehama reservation, and by the terms of which treaty of 1830, and the said act of Congress of 1854, the rights of Margaret Sloan and her descendants including John M. Sloan were exhausted and extinguished as claimants to membership in the Omaha tribe of Indians, and to any further or other allotment of land.

12. These defendants for further answer deny that the complainant was the head of a family, and deny that the complainant is entitled to an allotment of 160 acres of land as the head of a 1513 family; and avers that the complainant at the date of the approval of the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, being the act under which complainant claims the right to an allotment of land was then a single person; that the complainant was such single person at the date of the amendatory act of 1893, and as such single person would not be entitled to have in any event more than 80 acres of land.

These defendants further aver that the complainant never occupied or improved the N. ½ — the N. W. ¼ of section 35, or the N. E. ¼ of N. E. ¼ of section 34, or the N. E. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ of section 34, township 25, range 7; that he did not make a selection of the lands claimed and that if any selection ever was made of said lands in his name or in his behalf, the same was so made by Thomas L. Sloan.

These defendants further aver that the United States allotting agent appointed by the Interior Department to investigate selections and make allotments of land, investigated, ascertained, and found as a fact that the complainant was not entitled to an allotment of any of the lands claimed by him and reported his said findings to the Interior Department, and which said findings having been approved by the said department.

That the said United States allotting agent did find upon investigation that John Grant and Megratahe Grant made claim to and had a prior claim to the N. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of section 35, and that Charles Grant made claim to and had a superior claim to the N. E. ¼ of N. E. ¼ of section 34; and that said United States allotting agent thereafter made his official report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs; that the said Megratahe Grant and John Grant and Charles Grant were entitled to the lands allotted to them respectively as above described, and which said allotments were subse-1514 quently approved by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and patents therefor were issued to the said Grants under date of April 11, 1900, and which said allotments were made and the said patents issued in the regular and due course of business.

These defendants further aver that the complainant herein did not have any prior or superior or vested right to the land so patented to the said Grants, and that the said allotments and the said patents to the said Grants were made in all respects in conformity to law.

13. And these defendants say that if there is any other matter, cause or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained material or necessary for these defendants to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered or denied, is not true to the knowledge or belief of these defendants, and these defendants deny that the said complainant is entitled to the relief or any part thereof in the said complainant demanded. And these defendants pray leave to be dismissed with their reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JOHN M. SLOAN, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Charles P. Mathewson, Magratahe Grant, John Grant, Charles Grant, and Harry Baxter Defendants.

Docket "T," No. 579. Stipulation of Evidence.

It is hereby stipulated that the following named persons will testify in behalf of the defendants, to the facts set down after their names respectively, and it is further stipulated and agreed that said statements may be received in evidence with like force and effect, as if the deposition- of the respective parties to the said facts had been formerly taken.

Harry Baxter will testify that he is the person to whom has been allotted the north-east quarter of the southwest quarter of section 34, township 25, range 7. That he is a member of the Omaha Indian tribe, and a full blood Omaha Indian, and is 25 years of age. That his father and mother are both dead, and that he was informed by his brother, Washington Baxter that he, Washington Baxter had made a selection of land for him, and that his brother Washington Baxter is also dead, having died about the year 1894. That his said brother, Washington Baxter told this witness that he had selected land for him, and that the land so selected was close by the selection of William F. Springer.

1516 The witness will further testify that he reported the above facts to Allotting Agent John Rankin while the said Rankin was making the allotments under the act of 1893.

William F. Springer will testify that he is the same William F. Springer who was the interpreter for Allotting Agent Rankin and that he is a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians; and the said Springer will further testify that he remembers that Harry Baxter appeared before the said Rankin, allotting agent, and made known to said Rankin that his father was dead, and that his brother, Washington Baxter had selected for Harry Baxter some land near my (this witness,) own allotment. That the allotment of this witness is the south half of the southwest quarter of section 26, in township 25, range 7, and that the allotment made to Harry Baxter is in an adjoining section about one-half mile distant from the allotment of this witness.

The said Springer will further testify that the said Rankin at said time examined the tract book, and there found a memorandum showing that the land in controversy, the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 34, township 25, range 7 had been set down as selected for the said Harry Baxter.

The said Springer will further testify that at the time said allotment was made to the said Harry Baxter, that there were no improvements on said land allotted to him, Harry Baxter, and that no other person made any claim to the said land.

The said Springer will further testify that in the making of the allotments it frequently occurred that some of the younger Indians had not made any particular selection of lands, and that it 1517 became necessary for the allotting agent in making the allotments to select unoccupied lands for such members of the tribe, so that all might receive allotments; and in such cases the allotting agent would allot some portion of the unoccupied lands to such children, and that in making said allotments if there was found any evidence that the child, or the parents of the child, had made selections, that such selections were allotted; but where no selections had been made that the allotment was made upon some unoccupied land.

The said Springer will further testify that the said Rankin would also consult the tract book at the agency, and if he there found a notation that any particular land had been selected for a particular Indian that he would follow out the said record if there were no conflicting claims presented which contradicted the entry on the tract book, and that it is the recollection of this witness that the land allotted to Harry Baxter was so entered on the tract book.

The said witness will further testify that the said Rankin allotted all of the unallotted lands then on the reservation excepting about 1800 acres of rough land lying up and down the Missouri river, excepting such land as has been reserved for the mixed blood claimants.

And said Springer will further testify that there are some members of the Omaha tribe of Indians to whom allotments were not made, and the reason they were not made at the time was that said Indians did not wish to accept allotments on the remaining lands along the Missouri river, for the reason that the lands were very rough and not desirable, and preferred to wait to find the 1518 result of these litigations, hoping that thereby they might be enabled to receive allotments upon some of the lands which have been reserved for these mixed blood claimants.

Q. You say he?

A. I mean Frank Grant; he had the description of the land on paper, and I think that also, that description corresponded with the description on the tract book, and there was no other claimants to the land.

A. It was Frank Grant, the father of John Grant, and the husband of Megratahe Grant.

Testimony taken in behalf of the complainant, by consent of the parties hereto, before William S. Heller, a stenographer and notary public, at the office of John L. Webster, Esq., 826 New York Life building, Omaha, Nebraska, on this 26th day of September, 1902, the complainant being represented by Messrs. Thomas L Sloan and Charles E. Clapp and the defendants by John L. Webster, Esq.

THOMAS L. SLOAN, called as a witness in behalf of the complainant, and after being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

During the summer of 1891 Malissa Sloan, the wife of John M. Sloan came to the Omaha reservation to make a selection of land on his behalf; that she had with her a power of attorney, a general power of attorney from John M. Sloan, authorizing her to look after his business generally, and that I made the selection, or assisted her in making the selection of the land now in litigation and that later Mr. Clapp and I made a contract with her to prosecute his suit.

That at the time of making the selection it was not marked 1525 either by plowing or otherwise excepting surveying stakes; that John M. Sloan was a son of Margaret Sloan. That he was first married about the year 1872 that he had a child born by the name of Gertrude Sloan; that she was still living in the year 1889 which was the last time I heard of her; I do not know where she is at this time. I think she was born in 1874.

Cross examination.

Questions by Mr. JOHN L. WEBSTER:

Q. Was this child Gertrude living with her father at Aspen, Colorado?
A. Is she now?
Q. Was she during the time you knew her?
A. No she was not.
Q. Where was she born?
A. She was born on the Nemaha half breed reservation.
Q. Did she come with her father to Aspen?
A. I do not know that she did.
Q. John M. Sloan's wife went with him to Aspen, Colorado?
A. That was his second wife; this last woman that went with him to Aspen was his second wife, and they had a child at that time which has since died.
Q. Malissa Sloan is his present wife?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And she lives at Aspen, Colorado?
A. No sir, she lives at Falls City, Nebraska.
Q. She does not live with her husband?
A. He has been in Alaska, up in the mines for three or four years past, the last we heard of him he had his hand frozen and had to have it amputated.
Q. Did she live with him in Aspen, Colorado while he lived there?
1526 A. Yes sir.
Q. How long since you have had any communication with John M. Sloan?
A. Directly I have not had anything; the last communication I had was in 1895.
Q. Where is the power of attorney that you say that his wife had?
A. She kept the possession of it herself.
Q. You have not got possession of it?
A. No sir.

Mr. WEBSTER: The defendants move to strike out — the general statement of the witness that part thereof wherein he undertakes to recite the contents or character of that power of attorney, as incompetent.

In the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska.

JOHN M. SLOAN, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Harry Baxter, Charles Grant, John Grant, Megretaha Grant, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.
} Docket "T," No. 579. Assignment of Errors.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and assigns the following errors in the record and proceedings in said cause as follows:

First. The court erred in finding and determining that John M. Sloan, received an allotment of land in the Nemaha reservation and was for that reason debarred from claiming a further allotment upon the Omaha reservation.

Second. The court erred in construing the treaty between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians, made July 15, 1830, as meaning and intending that the taking of an allotment of land by a member of such tribe pursuant to article 10 of said treaty thereby extinguished the claim of such Indian to a further allotment of land or further allotments or benefits in the tribal property as a member of such tribe.

Third. The court erred in construing the treaty between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians, of July 15, 1830, as meaning and intending that half-breed members of the tribe 1529 who secured allotments of land in severalty in the Nemaha reservation under the terms of said treaty are not entitled to a second allotment under the act of 1882, although at the time of its passage they were residing on the reservation in the tribal relation.

Fourth. The court erred in construing the treaty made between the Government of the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians on March 6, 1865, as excluding from allotments of land thereafter to be made and from participation in the division of the property belonging to said Omaha tribe of Indians, all Omaha Indians not then residing upon the reservation and with said tribe.

Fifth. The court after construing the treaty of March 6, 1865, as not excluding from allotments of land those persons who were not on the reservation at such time, erroneously holds that such persons are deprived of their tribal rights, if they were not bona fide residents on the Omaha reservation on August 7, 1882, the date of the passage of said act.

Sixth. The court erred in holding that the complainant was not a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians under the various treaties between the United States of America and the said Omaha tribe.

Seventh. The court erred in construing and declaring that the act of Congress of August 7, 1882, referred only to Omaha Indians then residing upon the reservation of said tribe with the members thereof.

Eighth. The court erred in holding that a person of mixed blood who did not reside upon the Omaha reservation at the date of the passage of the act of August 7, 1882, but who did reside thereon afterward and prior to the time when the tribe gave the consent required to render the act effective, is deprived of his allotment of land thereon and his benefits in his tribal property.

1530 Ninth. The court erred in assuming that the residence of a member of the Omaha tribe of Indians off of the reservation terminated his right to an allotment of land or right to participate in the common tribal property.

Tenth. The court erred in holding and determining that John M. Sloan was not entitled to claim and have allotted to him the land described in plaintiff's bill of complaint, to-wit: The north half of the northwest quarter of section thirty-five (35) in township twenty-five (25) north of range seven (7) east, and the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter, and the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section thirty-four (34) in township twenty-five (25) north of range seven (7) east of the 6th P. M.

Eleventh. The court erred in that the court by its judgment and decree in said cause found upon the merits of the case for the defendants and against the complainant.

Twelfth. The court erred in that the injunction granted in said cause was dissolved and the suit dismissed at costs of the complainant.

Wherefore, complainant prays that said decree be reversed and that complainant be restored to all things lost by reason thereof.

JOHN M. SLOAN, Complainant,
vs.
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Harry Baxter, Charles Grant, John Grant, Megratahe Grant, and Charles P. Mathewson, Defendants.

Docket "T," No. 579. Petition for Appeal.

Comes now the complainant in the above entitled cause and shows to the court that the final judgment and decree heretofore rendered in the above entitled cause on the 8th day of November, 1902, does, as complainant alleges, grievous injury to this complainant, and complainant conceives himself to be aggrieved and prejudiced by the various orders and rules of the court in said cause and alleges divers grievous and prejudicial errors of the court in and to the making of its findings, judgments and decree in said cause.

Complainant further shows to the court that in said case the construction of various treaties made between the United States and the Omaha tribe of Indians is drawn in question. That an assignment of errors setting forth and specifying the several errors complained of has been duly filed in said cause in the manner provided by law.

Wherefore complainant prays for the allowance of an 1532 appeal in said cause to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that a transcript of the record and proceedings, duly authenticated, may be sent to said court.
